POWERS AGREE TO LET TURKEY RETURN TO EUROPE

Six Army Men Killed When Bombing Plane Falls at Mineola

ACCIDENT OCCURS IN FLYING CIRCUS HELD AT NIGHT

Heaviest Machine at Mitchell Field Goes Into Nose Dive and Bursts Into Flames Upon Striking Ground Following War Maneuvers.

OFFICER AND FIVE MEN OCCUPIED PLANE

After Attacks on Theoretical Fortifications, Planes at Long Island Field Began Stunt Flying Before Thousands of People.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Through the misty air over Mitchell Field tonight a giant army bombing plane crashed to earth, killing the six men who manned it. The accident came at the close of the night maneuvers of the reserve corps' officers of the Second Corps Area, who have been in training at the field for several days.

The Dead.

First Lieut. Raymond E. Davis of the regular army was the pilot and with him were five enlisted men. They were: First Sergt. Thomas W. Benfield, 1280 West Seventy-second street, Chicago; Corp. David H. Stiton, 210 West Thirty-fourth street, New York; Private First Class Eddie Kane, Private Henry J. Nichols, Carr Hill, Tex., and Private Irving M. Whitney, Ashburnham, Mass.

Earlier in the evening the planes had been aloft to bomb out theoretical fortifications built by the officers in training. After these had been demolished with dynamite bombs the planes came down, but went up again to stage a flying circus for the crowd of more than 25,000 spectators who circled the field. Motion pictures were being made of the planes as they wheeled through the mists revealed by the flares of the enormous searchlights used to pick them from the ground. The plane piloted by Lieut. Davis was a Martin bomber with a 75-foot wing spread, driven by two Liberty motors. It was the last to take off and one of the passengers ran over to a group of photographers with the words:

"Well, boys, we'll give you some good picture stuff this time."

Then he ran back to his seat and the plane was off. Its position could be marked only by the red and green flying lights which it carried, for none of the searchlights had picked it up.

Steadily it climbed until it was about 500 feet in the air. Then the two flying lights seemed to falter, then turn to a steep downward glide. They never straightened out to indicate that Lieut. Davis had control of the plane and about 75 feet outside the southern boundary of the field they disappeared into the ground.

A flash of light and a crash announced the tragedy to the horror stricken spectators who had watched the dive. They made a rush for the south end of the field to be met by uniformed guards with automatic pistols who kept them off.

Three Bodies Pulled Out.

The road running from Farmingdale to Hempstead is only a few feet from where the plane crashed. Driving along it in an automobile was A. [illegible] of Amityville. He saw the dive and the explosion with its burst of flame from the fired gasoline tank and ran to the plane. He succeeded in pulling out three bodies before the flames became too fierce.

Maj. Walter R. Weaver, commanding officer of Mitchell Feld, was called to the field at once. On his arrival

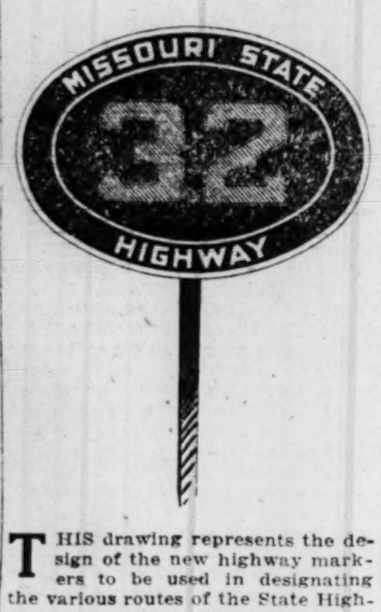
DESIGN FOR NEW HIGHWAY MARKERS



THIS drawing represents the design of the new highway markers to be used in designating the various routes of the State Highway system, as soon as constructed. The sign will be a cast-iron oval, eight and one-half inches by 12 and one-half inches, painted white with raised letters and figures in black. The oval will be mounted on two-inch angle irons driven into the ground so that the sign will be three and one-half feet above the surface. These angle irons were manufactured for use in barb wire entanglements in the recent war, but were not used and are part of unused war material allocated to the States for road-building purposes.

GERMANY IN ADVANCED BIRTH CONTROL STAND

Death Penalty and Penitentiary Sentences to Be Abolished and Divorce Made Easy.

By Cable to the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1922, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—Forthcoming changes in the laws of Germany will abolish the death sentence and sentences to the penitentiary and will make divorce easy. A certain surgical operation which has been regarded as criminal will no longer be punished. The workers will have their own courts in which the juries will be composed of their fellow workers.

So Minister of Justice Radbrush has announced before the Socialist conference at Augsburg. Herr Radbrush said the new laws will remove all distinction between penitentiary and jail offenses, which is a distinction between a felon and a minor criminal. Radbrush also said that as birth control is in keeping with modern ideas it is useless to punish a common practice as a crime.

The new laws are being prepared to be submitted at the coming session of the Reichstag, where little opposition to them is anticipated. The laws have been worked out in conjunction with the Austrian Minister of Justice so both countries will have the same criminal jurisprudence. The general tendency of all the laws is against severe punishment. This tendency has been very noticeable in the criminal courts where light sentences have been the rule. The law will be stiffened against only one crime; there will be a special clause punishing drug vendors more severely.

Germany will become the refuge of political offenders, as the new laws will forbid extradition for political offenses. Divorce, which is difficult in Germany now, will become easy with the same standard for men and women. Illegitimate children will have the same standing under the new laws as those born in wedlock. There will be special code for the juvenile courts.

When these reforms were announced at the united Socialist convention they were received with prolonged applause.

FARMER WHO BEAT HORSE SENTENCED TO TEN LASHES

By the Associated Press.

ZION, Ill., Sept. 23.—Arrested for beating his horse until the blood ran down the animal's sides, Clarence C. Ellis, a farmer, was sentenced to receive 10 lashes with his own whip today. The sentence was carried out by Theodore Becker, Chief of Police, after which the man was set free.

WIDOW OF SLAIN RECTOR GIVES OUT FIRST STATEMENT

Mrs. Edward Hall Describes Her Movements During Period in Which Murders Took Place.

TELLS OF TELEPHONE CALL TO CLERGYMAN

Went to Church in Early Morning to Look for Husband When He Failed to Return, She Says.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Edward W. Hall, widow of the rector of St. John the Evangelist Episcopal Church, New Brunswick, N. J., who was found slain with Mrs. James Mills, the sexton's wife, on the night of Sept. 14, gave out a signed statement today detailing her movements from the day before her husband disappeared to the time she learned he and Mrs. Mills had been shot to death.

The issuing of the statement followed a visit to the court house, where Mrs. Hall was questioned for more than two hours by the prosecuting authorities of Middlesex and Somerset counties. When Mrs. Hall emerged after the inquisition, she was trembling and had to be supported down the steps.

Statement Chronological.

Mrs. Hall's statement was chronological and was the first public statement she has made since the bodies of the minister and singer were found. Included in it was an expression of confidence in her husband. It ran:

"Wednesday, Sept. 13. For the past three years Mr. Hall and I have taken Mrs. Eleanor Mills and Mrs. Addison Clarke on a picnic in appreciation for all the work they have done for the church. This year we went to Lake Hopatcong, the picnic comprising Mr. Hall and myself, Mr. Hall's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Mills and Mrs. Addison Clarke. We reached home about 9 o'clock in the evening.

"Thursday, Sept. 14.—In the morning I took out the Dodge car. In the afternoon Mr. Hall took the Dodge car and went to make an address before the Parent-Teacher Association at the school at Berdine's Corners, leaving home in time to arrive there at 3:30. He came back between 4 and 4:30, gathered flowers to take to a sick parishioner at St. Peter's Hospital and in company with his little niece went out again, returning shortly after 6. He had family supper with me, my brother, William, and our little niece.

Tells of Telephone Call.

"Mr. Hall was preparing to go out about 7, when the telephone rang. He answered from the extension upstairs as he happened to be there. I did not hear the conversation.

"Mr. Hall went out about 7:30, telling me that he was going to the Mills house to explain something that Mr. Mills did not quite understand in the doctor's bill.

"Mr. Hall was always early in coming home. Naturally, I was very much worried when he did not come in. About 2:30 my anxiety became so great that I roused my brother, William, and he went down to the church, thinking it possible that Mr. Hall had stopped there for business, as he frequently did, and had fallen asleep in his study.

"The church was locked and dark. I then went around by the Mills house, thinking someone had been taken ill and that my husband had remained to give assistance, as he had stated that he was going there about the bill. The house was dark and I came directly home with my brother, William.

Telephoned to Police.

"Friday, Sept. 15, about 7 a. m., I telephoned the police to learn if any accident had been reported. They had nothing to report. I took the Dodge car and started down town, thinking I might hear some news. In front of the church I saw

U. S. DIRIGIBLE C-2 COMPLETES FLIGHT ACROSS CONTINENT

Final Landing of Big Army Ship Made at 6:58 P. M. Yesterday, at Ross Field, Arcadia, Cal.

START WAS FROM VIRGINIA, SEPT. 14

No Serious Mishap on Entire Trip; Last Leg of Journey, From Yuma, Covered 250 Miles.

By the Associated Press.

ROSS FIELD, ARCADIA, Cal., Sept. 23.—The army dirigible C-2 completed its transcontinental flight today, arriving here at 6:58 p. m. The C-2 left Langley Field, Newport News, Va., Sept. 14, and made the trip without serious mishap. No attempt was made to establish any record for speed or endurance.

The last leg of the trip was made from Yuma, Ariz., 250 miles distant. The C-2 arrived at Yuma more than an hour behind its schedule, due to motor trouble.

The dirigible left Yuma at 2 p. m.

Longest Leg of Flight Was From Scott Field to San Antonio.

The C-2 started its 3000-mile trip across the continent from Langley Field, near Newport News, Va., at 12:25 a. m., Sept. 14. The first stop was at Akron, O., at 11:25 a. m. The ship then proceeded to Dayton, O., arriving at Wright Field at 1:45 p. m., Sept. 15, and from there flew to Scott Field, near Belleville, where it arrived at 9:35 p. m. the same day.

The dirigible flew over St. Louis a week ago yesterday, and shortly after 9 o'clock that night, taking advantage of a favorable wind, started on the longest leg of the trip, to San Antonio, Tex., more than 700 miles, reaching there Sunday morning. On the trip to San Antonio the C 2 narrowly missed striking a high peak in the Ozarks.

The air cruiser left San Antonio Thursday morning and arrived at El Paso, Tex., 10 hours later. The next leg was to Nogales, Ariz., and after arrival there the commander, Maj. H. A. Strauss, said that leg had been the hardest part of the long journey, the high altitude making flying difficult. A delay was caused at Nogales by minor damage to the landing gear in a take-off Friday afternoon.

SKY IS LIMIT ON SPENDING IN FALL SENATE ELECTIONS

Congress Failed to Re-Enact Corrupt Practices Act, Knocked Out by Court in Newberry Case.

MEASURE ALLOWED TO DIE IN THE HOUSE

Senate Passed Bill Intended to Remedy Situation, but Lower Chamber Failed to Take Action.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
No. 20 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Members of Congress awakened to the fact today that failure on the part of the Republican majority to reenact the Federal corrupt practices act leaves the approaching elections without any legal restrictions as to the expenditure of campaign funds for the election of United States Senators. The blue sky is the limit.

Final efforts to re-enact the law failed in the House where the bill introduced by Representative Andrews of Nebraska was allowed to die a peaceful death.

The situation is described by members still in Washington as a "national scandal," putting a premium on "Newberryism" on a national scale and an evidence of "an abject failure on the part of the Republican majority to safeguard elections."

Daugherty's Opinion.

The Supreme Court decision in the Newberry case, which declared the Federal corrupt practices act illegal because it applied to elections by legislatures rather than by direct vote of the people, sounded the first knell of the act. This was followed by the opinion of Attorney-General Daugherty, containeu in a letter to Representative Lucs of Massachusetts, written Nov. 15, 1921. In this letter Attorney-General Daugherty said:

"As United States Senators are not now elected by legislatures of the states as contemplated in the act, it is my opinion that this fact in connection with the holding in the Newberry decision makes it unnecessary for a candidate for United States Senator to file any statement whatever in connection with his nomination and election."

Remedy Sought.

Members of the Senate under the leadership of Borah of Idaho and Pomerene of Ohio sought to have the situation remedied by adoption either of a joint resolution based on the right of the Senate and House to determine its own ownership, limiting expenditures; or by re-enactment of the laws which would meet the objections of the Supreme Court.

The question was referred to a subcommittee on privileges and elections, headed by Senator Spencer, Republican, of Missouri. Spencer for weeks excused his failure to call a meeting of the committee because of absenteeism and finally departed for Europe, leaving the matter in the hands of Senator Pomerene who finally obtained a meeting at which three members of the sub-committee appeared.

It was decided to recommend the Pomerene bill re-enacting the corrupt practices act, making it apply to elections by direct vote of the people. In view of the fact that the primaries were passed, no attempt was made to make it retroactive.

The Senate passed the Pomerene bill, but when the measure came to the House, Representative Andrews' bill was substituted, which had practically the same provisions. Both measures limited expenditures of Senators to $10.000 and those of House members to $5000.

There were many expressions in favor of the legislation but no voting strength among the Republican majority. The result is that the Newberry case, which has become an issue in practically every state, has resulted in removing the lid altogether, so far as the election of Senators is concerned.

LLOYD GEORGE EMPHASIZES BRITISH INTENTION TO KEEP DARDANELLES STRAITS OPEN

Premier Gives Out Statement Re-Affirming Great Britain's Position in Near East Situation—Avoids Criticism of Allies.

By JAMES M. TUOHY,
A Special Correspondent of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1922, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Sept. 23. — Premier Lloyd George today made another statement to the press reaffirming the British position in regard to the Dardanelles. It was evident from the tone of his remarks that he believed affairs in Paris had reached such a pass that a statement from him was imperative.

Contrasted with the belligerent statement of last Saturday, his declaration today was cautious and restrained in manner, although the matter was couched in decided terms.

His vital point was that Great Britain intended to remain in Chanak and maintain control of the straits until they were handed over to the League of Nations. Chanak, he said, was a powder mine; its evacuation would be the spark that would mean an explosion throughout the Balkans.

Balkan War Feared.

He considered it impracticable to check the Turks once they were in the neutral zone, and felt that if they were allowed to enter Constantinople and Thrace at this time it would start a Balkan war.

The Premier emphasized that England's position was the same as that held in 1918, when the Turks were defeated, implying, though he did not say so, that this was no longer true of France and Italy. He was careful to dissociate Britain from special sympathy either with the Greeks or Turks, reiterating that British policy was concerned only with preserving neutrality of the straits.

Lloyd George avoided saying anything directly in criticism of the other allies, though his whole statement was, in effect, an implied criticism of them.

Those who heard him carried away the very definite impression that the crisis was not over, but had merely entered a new phase. They gathered the French and Italian plea for withdrawal to the European shore of the Dardanelles had been turned down and that so far as the British Government was concerned, the Turks could pass only by force of arms.

It is believed here the British already have some sort of plan worked out for the league to take over guardianship of the straits. In well-informed quarters it is suggested that a neutral zone, which it is expected will be again set up at the Turkish peace conference, should be under the control of a Governor and staff appointed by the league. The Governor would be empower to call upon the countries most concerned to furnish troops for a permanent garrison.

Policy Toward League.

The Government's advocacy of league supervision indicates that Lloyd George favors giving the league an increasingly important part in the administration of international relations. The Government, however, is strongly opposed to the league as a mediator between the allies and Turks at this time. It is held that this is no new war or threat of war, but a violation by the Turks of the 1918 armistice, and therefore a matter to be handled by the allies alone.

When the inner history of how the Turks received the arms and supplies with which they defeated the Greeks comes to be written, it will make a romantic story of political intrigue and daring smuggling, for all munitions had to be smuggled through the Greek naval lines.

The Turks had a four-fold source of supply. After the armistice there remained a certain amount of German-made munitions in Asia Minor which the allies were unable to confiscate or destroy. This enabled the Turkish nationalists under Kemal to begin a new war.

Then as hostilities progressed, it is believed they were assisted by the soviet government with allied supplies captured from Wrangel and Deniken after these two White Russian Generals were defeated.

Donation From French.

The next large donation came from the French. Under the now defunct treaty of Sevres, the French were given a mandate over the Province of Cilicia in Asia Minor, ostensibly to protect the interests of Armenians and other Christian minorities.

But the French, after more or less continual fighting with the Turks, withdrew their army from this territory. Under the agreement made later between Kemal and Franklin Bouillon, the French handed over to the Turks all the large munition and supply dumps in Cilicia.

From then on, it is understood, private French munition concerns also began—on the quiet—to supply the Kemalists. Finally the latter established a regular purchasing commission in Paris which seemed to enjoy large credit with French firms.

Very soon the Italians, too, entered the field. In the last Turkish offensive against the Greeks, it is reliably reported that the victors were using numbers of Italian airplanes, French 75s and armored cars of both British and French manufacture.

Some British Supplies.

Even the British do not deny that a small amount of British-made supplies went to the Turks. About a year ago British manufacturers discovered the deals their French and Italian competitors were making with the Turks. They approached their own Government for permission to engage in such business also. London took up the matter with Paris and Rome, with the result that an agreement was reached between the three powers. Their nationals were to be permitted to sell munitions to both Greeks and Turks, but the Governments themselves were not to furnish supplies to either side.

It is said, however, that British firms did little business with the Turks. All sales had to be made on credit, a considerable risk as British firms did not have the semi-official guarantees the French and Italians are supposed to have received fom their Governments.

Lloyd George said in part:

"Our action has been dictated by two supreme considerations. One is our anxiety as to the freedom of the seas between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea. That is the first and primary consideration in directing our actions. What happened in the late war has demonstrated clearly to the British Empire how vital the freedom of those various seas is to the security of the Empire, to the protection of our commerce and to humanity in its broadest aspects.

"The second object we had in making any preparation was to prevent the exceptionally horrible war from spreading into Europe.

Points to Massacres.

"I am not going to apportion the blame between the Greeks and the Turks. The time has not come for that, and it is not necessary that we do so in order to explain or to defend our policy. I merely deal with the fact that one of the greatest commercial cities in the world has been practically devastated and there have been massacres which in their horror are almost without example, even in that area.

"If any army which could not be restrained by its chiefs from perpetrating those outrages were permitted to cross into Europe, to occupy Constantinople, where you have a population of hundreds of thousands of Armenians and Greeks, and some thousands of European nationals, we have every reason to fear that there would be a repetition of those horrible incidents. If it spread into Thrace, where there is so much inflammable material, rivalries of Turks, Greeks, Hungarians and Serbians, these is no knowing what might happen. You might have a conflagration which would spread with a fury which could not easily be extinguished or arrested."

FIGHTING BETWEEN SOVIET AND WHITE FORCES IN RUSSIA

Clash Occurs at Town North of Vladivostok—Bombardment by Airplanes.

By the Associated Press.

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 23.—Fighting between the Soviet forces and troops of the White, or Vladivostok anti-Soviet Government, began today near Spassk, a town about 100 miles north of Vladivostok on the Usuri railroad near Lake Hank. Soviet airplanes bombed Spassk.

ALLIES AGREE TO ALL THE NATIONALIST PEACE TERMS

Turkish Claims to Eastern Thrace, Including Adrianople, Approved—Invitation Sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha for a Peace Conference to Be Held at Venice.

REGARDED AS FRENCH DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

Complete Freedom of Dardanelles, Sea of Marmora and Bosporus, Preferably Under League of Nations, Provided.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 23.—There is an apparent disposition on the part of the Kemalists to accept Great Britain's new terms regarding Thrace and other disputed points. They are not willing, however, to suspend hostilities during the peace conference.

The Kemalists insist, said Hamid Bey, the Nationalist representative here, on the right to enter Thrace immediately in order to liberate the oppressed Turks.

"All we seek," he added, "is to maintain small forces in Thrace for psychological effect upon the Mohammedan world and to preserve order."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The return of Turkey to Europe was assured tonight when Great Britain, France and Italy at the final session of the allied conference unanimously agreed to concede all the Nationalist peace terms. The Turkish claims to Eastern Thrace to the Maritza River and including the ancient Turkish capital of Adrianople were approved as peace terms that can be supported by France, Great Britain and Italy in a joint invitation sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader to a peace conference to be held at Venice soon.

The Kemalists must agree in return not to enter the present neutral zone along the Straits, nor make any crossing elsewhere, and must accept complete freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, preferably under the League of Nations.

Immediate Meeting Urged.

The invitation which was cabled tonight by M. Poincare to Kemal Pasha personally urges an immediate meeting of the allied and Turkish and Greek Generals at Mudania to formulate terms of an armistice pending the conference. It is regarded as virtually certain that Kemal will accept the conditions. A reply is expected from Smyrna in a day or two.

Turkey is promised the support of the three allies for admission to the League of Nations and also withdrawal of the allied troops from Constantinople as soon as peace becomes effective.

Considered French Victory.

The allied decision came as a surprise, for as late as noon, British officials declared that Great Britain would not approve any of the Turkish claims in advance of the peace conference. The change in this policy came after an exchange of messages between Lord Curzon and Premier Lloyd George and several telephone conversations which delayed the final session from two o'clock to five.

Although the British tonight in-

152 ADDITIONAL INDICTMENTS IN RIOT AT HERRIN

State Administration and Public Officials Censured for Not Taking Action to Prevent Disorders.

TOTAL NOW 214 AND 44 ARE FOR MURDER

Report Declares Atrocities Were Beyond Description; Lewis' Telegram Given as One Cause of Riot.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., Sept. 23.—The special grand jury investigating the 22 killings at the Lester strip mine, June 21 and 22, today returned 152 additional indictments, bringing the total to 214, and censured the "State administration," Adjutant General Black of Illinois, Sheriff Melvin Thaxton of Williamson (this) County, and "local police."

The jury after making its report, recessed until Oct. 23. It returned a total of 44 indictments for murder, 58 for conspiracy to commit murder, 58 for rioting and 54 for assault to murder.

The report declared the "state administration undoubtedly realized the acute situation at Herrin," and asserted the "adjutant general's office and the sheriff alternated in passing responsibility, with neither taking decisive action to prevent disorders and protect property."

"The atrocities and cruelties of the murders," the report emphasized, "are beyond the power of words to describe. A mob is always cowardly, but the savagery of this mob in its relentless brutality is almost unbelievable. The indignities heaped upon the dead did not end until their bodies were interred in unknown graves."

Telegram From Lewis Cited.

The report stated a telegram from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was one of the causes of the riot. The telegram was to State Senator William Sneed, a district president of the miners' union, and declared the union men "are justified in treating this crowd as an outlaw organization and in viewing its members in the same light as they do any other common strike breakers." This telegram was posted at various places, the report declared, and shortly thereafter the strip mine was attacked, after hardware stores had been rifled for fire arms and weapons. "The weapons were either taken by force or upon a verbal assurance that the local would pay for them," the report amplified.

Among those indicted today were Hugh Willis, district board member of the Illinois Mine Workers, who was charged with murder and assault to commit murder, and Will Davis, secretary of subdistrict No. 10 of the miners' union, who was charged with murder.

The report, read by T. P. Russell, grand jury clerk, directed attention to the fact that Sheriff Thaxton is a member of the miners' union, and also is a candidate for County Treasurer and that "either because of loyalty to the union or from fear of injuring his candidacy, the Sheriff would make no demand for troops, nor did he take adequate measures to preserve the peace." The Sheriff, the report stated, could not have been unaware that an attack on the strip mine was being contemplated.

Arraignment Expected Monday.

Arraignment of those indicted by the special grand jury is expected to take place in Circuit Court Monday, when the September term of the court is scheduled to begin. It was considered probable tonight that attorneys of the defendants would file a motion to quash the indictments. In that event Judge Hartwell announced he would in all probability overrule the motion and fix the date for the hearing of a motion asking that the men held on murder charges be permitted to give bond. Owing to the crowded docket it was announced by Judge Hartwell this evening, another Judge might be called into Williamson County to help clear the heavy docket, but he made it clear he would preside over the first trial growing out of these indictments.

Sheriff Thaxton, in commenting on the grand jury's censure of his conduct as county official denied he was a member of the miners' union. He asserted he had not held a membership card of the union during the past 10 years, beyond that he would not discuss the grand jury report.

Among those indicted today were Hugh Willis, district board member of the Illinois Mine Workers, and Will Davis, secretary of subdistrict No. 10 of the Miners' Union. Willis is charged with murder and assault to commit murder and Davis is charged with murder.

Besides Willis and Davis, the other five indicted for murder are Enos Yates, James Taylor, Will Davis, Alex Ray and Charles Thomas.

Those indicted for assault to commit murder are Hugh Willis, David William, Ed. William, Rolla Craven, V. O. Price, Lew Corbin, Charles Hamock, Gerald Bernard, Moody Fox, Al Stivers, McKinley Beasley, Herbert Stokes and Cline Gent.

None of these, officials said, have been indicted before.

Text of Grand Jury Report in Herrin Inquiry

By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., Sept. 23.—The special grand jury investigating the Herrin massacre made the following report in open court today before Judge D. T. Hartwell:

We, the special grand jury of Williamson County empaneled to make an investigation of the crimes committed in and about the strip mine near and in Herrin on Wednesday and Thursday of June 21 and 22, 1922, and heedful of the instructions given by your honor to make a thorough investigation of the facts and circumstances in view of fixing the responsibilities for the killing of some 24 persons and wounding of many others, beg to report that we have examined approximately 300 witnesses, and from their testimony learned these conditions:

About the middle of June this year, after suspension of the coal industry as the result of a strike of the United Mine Workers of America, the Southern Illinois Coal Co. decided to operate a strip mine owned by it and located about midway between Marion and Herrin. The miners' union apparently raised no objections to the uncovering of the coal by the use of steam shovels, but when the coal company began to ship coal there was bitter resentment on the part of the union miners.

The coal company aggravated this resentment by employing armed guards and closing for the public use certain established highways traversing the mine property and treating as trespassers citizens attempting to use the accustomed highway. The flaunting of arms in a community devoted almost exclusively to mining was conducive to strife, it was a challenge and certain to be accepted, and for four or five days preceding the tragedy it was known to the authorities that a conflict was inevitable.

The Request for Troops.

The State administration undoubtedly realized the acute situation by sending to Williamson County Col. Hunter of the Adjutant-General's staff. This representative of the State Government testified that he recognized upon his arrival in Marion the imminence of a conflict and immediately asked the Adjutant-General to send State troops to protect the property and conserve the peace. This request Col. Hunter renewed several times before the actual conflict and was invariably asked by the Adjutant-General of Illinois if the Sheriff of Williamson County had asked for the troops. The Adjutant-General denied his authority to order them into Williamson County except upon the Sheriff's request, which as Your Honor knows, is not the law.

Melvin Thaxton, the Sheriff of Williamson County, is the holder of a card in the miners' union and a candidate for County Treasurer the forthcoming election. Either because of loyalty to the union or from fear of injuring his candidacy, the Sheriff would make no demand for troops nor did he take adequate measures to preserve the peace.

From the evidence heard the attack of June 21st upon the men employed at the strip mine was the result of a conspiracy which had been several days in the perfecting, the object of which was the closing of the strip mine. Sheriff Thaxton could not have been unaware of the development of this plan.

On Monday, June 19, State Senator W. A. Sneed, district president of the United Mine Workers of this district, received from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, a telegram reading as follows:

"William Sneed, president subdistrict 10, district 12, United Mine Workers of America, Herrin, Ill.—Your wire 18 steam shovel men's union was suspended from affiliation with American Federation of Labor some years ago. It was also ordered suspended from the mining department of the American Federation of Labor at the Atlantic City convention. We now find that this outlaw organization is permitting its members to act as strike breakers at numerous strip pits in Ohio. This organization is furnishing steam shovel engineers to work under armed guards with strike breakers. It is not true that any form of agreement exists by and between this organization and the mining department or any other branch of the American Federation of Labor permitting them to work under such circumstances. We have through representatives officially taken this question up with the officers of the Steam Shovelmen's Union and have failed to secure any satisfaction. Representatives of our organization are justified in treating this crowd as an outlaw organization and in viewing its members in the same light as they do any other common strike breaker. (Signed) John L. Lewis."

A copy of this telegram was posted and read in various places. Following the publication of the telegram from President Lewis preparations for an attack upon the mine were made. The hardware stores in all the cities of Williamson County were searched for firearms. The weapons were either taken by force or upon a verbal assurance that the local would pay for them.

Affiliated With a Union.

The men working at the strip mine were evidently ignorant of being strike breakers. The men operating the steam shovel were affiliated with a union, even though unrecognized by the American Federation of Labor. The guards were told they were to protect the valuable machinery and did not awaken to the real danger until noon time of June 21, when bullets began to fly into the mine in such volume as to compel them to take refuge in the office and later to seek safety under the steel railroad cars on the strip mine property. Superintendent McDowell telephoned a number of times to Col. Hunter for protection and was invariably informed by the latter that the Sheriff could not be found. Finally Col. Hunter suggested a flag of truce, which, while displayed by the mine defenders, caused no abatement of the fire.

In the evening of June 21, upon the return to Marion of Sheriff Thaxton a conference was held between the Sheriff, Col. Hunter and officers of the miners' union, at which it was stated that the officers of the coal company were willing to discontinue the operation of the strip mine, and the union officials were willing that the workmen employed therein should be permitted to depart in safety. The substance of this agreement had been transmitted over the telephone to Superintendent McDowell at the strip mine.

Firing in Heavy Volume.

Nevertheless, at the break of day the following morning firing began in a heavy volume from close proximity, the attacking party having crept up under cover of darkness. They were sufficiently close to permit of a parley and after a time a spokesman for the strip mine workmen asked to speak to the leader. A long range conversation was held and it was agreed by a spokesman for the attacking party that safe conduct would be accorded the men if they laid down their arms and would march out with hands up. This was done, and, from behind the earth embankment created by the steam shovel operations came a great number of armed men, and more from the surrounding hills until the 47 men surrendering were surrounded by many hundreds of men, mostly armed.

The captive men were marched down the road toward Herrin in double file. After they had marched about one mile Superintendent McDowell, being crippled and unable to keep up with the procession, was taken aside by members of the mob and shot to death. The remainder of the captives were marched on the public road and were stopped at the powerhouse of the interurban railroad, about three miles from Herrin. Here a change in leadship took place, and the man who had guaranteed the safety of the men who had surrendered was deposed and another leader installed.

March Into the Woods.

The new commander ordered the captive men to march into the woods adjacent to and beyond the power house. Here the new leader directed that only those in the crowd who had guns should follow into the woods and those who were unarmed should remain without. The surrendered men were then marched some 200 yards back of the power house to the vicinity of a barbed wire fence where they were told they would be given a chance to run for their lives under fire.

The firing began immediately and 13 of the 47 nonunion men were killed and most of the others severely wounded. The mob pursued those who had escaped and two were hung to trees, six were tied together with a rope about their necks and marched through the streets of Herrin to an adjacent cemetery where they were shot by the mob and the throats of three were cut. One of the six survived.

The atrocities and cruelties of the murderers are beyond the power of words to describe. A mob is always cowardly, but the savagery of this mob in its relentless brutality is almost unbelievable. The indignities heaped upon the dead did not end until their bodies were interred in unknown graves.

On the first day of the attack upon the mine two union miners were killed by the answering fire from the men in the strip mine and another so seriously injured as to die subsequently from his wounds. It has been difficult for this grand jury to determine who fired the shots from the strip mine which caused the deaths of the union miners. When asked to present evidence to the grand jury which would tend to fix responsibility, counsel for the miners' union announced they would lend no aid to the grand jury.

The grand jury has made no attempt to determine the equities between the operators and the miners in the strike controversy. It has had but the sole thought of bringing to the bar of justice the persons who committed the crimes which have brought such universal criticism upon the people of Williamson County without discrimination. We feel keenly the horror of the tragedy. We protest, however, against the intimation that all the people of Williamson County are lawless and un-American.

The development of the mining industry in Williamson County and the surrounding counties has tremendously increased the population within the last decade. All of the adjoining counties contributed their quota of marauders and the entire shame of the inhuman murders should not rest upon Williamson County alone. It is true the electorate of the county is responsible for those of its supine, weak and cowardly officials who permitted the disorders to grow from desultory rioting into a hideous massacre. Those evils can be corrected by the great majority of the population who believe in law and order asserting themselves and longer refusing to be intimidated by a disorderly minority.

The grand jury, while not denying the right of private property and its lawful uses, cannot help but feel that the Southern Illinois Coal Co., of which L. J. Lester is president, while, perhaps, within its legal rights, was either woefully ignorant of the danger of its operations or blindly determined to risk strife and conflict if profits could be made. It was foolhardy to attempt to operate a nonunion mine in the very heart of the miners' union in view of existing conditions.

Firearms Easily Obtained.

The Adjutant General's office and the Sheriff alternated in passing responsibility, with neither taking decisive action to prevent disorders and protect property. The ease with which firearms were obtained causes the grand jury to believe that legislation should be enacted to regulate or prohibit the manufacture or indiscriminate sale of firearms. We condemn the laxity of the local police in the various cities wherein stores were looted for firearms without interference by them. We commend the State's attorney of Williamson County, Delos Duty, for his courage and fidelity to his oath of office and we express our gratitude to the Attorney-General of Illinois and his efficient assistants whose aid has greatly facilitated the tremendous task confronting the grand jury. The grand jury is deeply grateful to the many representative law-abiding citizens of Williamson County for the assistance and encouragement given in its effort to enforce the law fearlessly and impartially.

In the conclusion of this partial report the grand jury begs leave to state that it has indicted some 42 persons for murder, 58 for conspiracy to commit murder, 58 for rioting, 54 for assault to murder and your jury asks leave for a recess of 30 days for the purpose of then completing its labors. Respectfully submitted,

JOHN STEWART, foreman.

MESOPOTAMIAN REVOLT REPORTED BY OFFICIAL RUSSIAN SOVIET ORGAN

By Cable to the New York World and Post Dispatch.

MOSCOW, Sept. 23.

UNDER the caption "The East Is Waking," the Izvestia, the official soviet organ, today publishes the announcement that a revolution has broken out in Mesopotamia. Advices from Baku state there have arrived in Persia two leaders of the revolution—Sheik Seid Mohammed and an Arab, Sheik Mohammed—who have issued a fiery appeal to the Moslem world to rise against England. A "night of weeping" is being staged throughout Mesopotamia to stir up the Arabs.

At the same time Persian leaders have been demanding that England cut down the size of her standing army in the revolting territory.

RIGA, Sept. 23.—It is reported on apparently good authority that the soviet Russian council, for labor and defense has been ordered to prepare the maximum quantity of rolling stock available for the transportation of troops and munitions. A portion of the freight cars intended for the Petrograd, Reval and Riga trade had already been diverted, it is declared.

POWERS AGREE TO PERMIT TURKEY TO RETURN TO EUROPE

sist that their chief demand, mainly freedom of the Straits is embodied in the conditions, it is generally conceded that this unanimous decision marks a reversal of policy on the part of Great Britain and is considered here a victory for French diplomacy. M. Poincare expressed the belief that the Near East crisis is over.

It is assumed that the British troops will remain at Chanak pending the conference. A broad neutral zone will divide Eastern Thrace from Greece and Bulgaria in the treaty terms, which will be decided at the conference. Both Jugo-Slavia and Rumania insisted upon this provision before they consented to the return of Turkey to Europe, although it is not mentioned in the note. It is thought probable that the Turkish military forces, provided for in Thrase and Adrianople were very limited and that the strictest guarantees will be exacted for the Greek minorities.

The probability of a Turkish attack on the British position at Chanak was given as the reason why the joint note was cabled immediately after the conference tonight.

Desire to Avoid War.

The last minute abandonment by Great Britain of her position was due, it is believed to a desire to avoid war, which many British officials regarded as likely. Pressure from British labor, which was united against hostilities in the Near East, is also thought to have played no small part in the decision.

While agreeing virtually to all the Turkish claims, Lord Curzon insisted upon preservation of the neutral zones on the Asiatic side of the straits. The previous contention of Great Britain that allied troops should continue to occupy Gallipoli is not mentioned in the note, but it is probable that a small allied force will remain there temporarily.

The Greek forces are to retire from Eastern Thrace and Adrianople to a line to be fixed by the allied Generals in agreement with the Greek and Turkish military authorities. The meeting to arrange an armistice is expected to be held at Mudania within a few days.

Complete Agreement Reached.

Complete agreement by M. Poincare, Lord Curzon and Count Sforza was reached after a three and a half hour session.

The phraseology of that part of the note regarding Thrace is commented upon, as it sets forth that the three governments "view with favor the desire of Turkey to recover Thrace," but support to this end is conditioned on the Angora Government's promise not to send troops into the neutral zones pending the peace conference.

BLOOD TEST FOR ALIENS PROVIDED FOR IN BILL

Representative Johnson Suggests Immigration Law for Exclusion of Undesirables.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
No. 20 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Application of the modern blood test to aliens applying for admission to the United States is proposed in a suggested new immigration law that will be pressed in the next Congress by Chairman Johnson, Republican, Washington, of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

The blood test, he believes, will exclude those aliens afflicted with diseases otherwise not readily detected.

Johnson said he would also limit all immigration to persons eligible for citizenship "once and for all time disposing of difficulties which have arisen by reason of the heavy colonization on our Pacific Slope of unassimilable alien races."

"The policy of denying United States citizenship to the yellow and brown peoples, he said, "is applauded by students and thinkers both here and abroad, who appreciate the fact that because physical assimilation of Oriental peoples is impossible their incorporation into the body politic is impracticable and unwise.

"Our failure to bar the Japanese has resulted in the development of alien colonies in our Pacific Coast states, the residents of these colonies being entirely under the protection of a foreign Government and amenable in only slight degree to American influence.

"The jingo element, both here and in Japan, may make a loud outcry, but the statesmanship of the entire world, including that of Japan, will recognize that in pursuit of this policy the United States will be clearly within rights universally applied in international law."

Johnson wants to reduce the percentage of admissibles to two or even to one and one-half per cent. He would give to such countries as Australia, New Zealand and South Africa base quotas, say of 600 each or double what they are now.

He would strengthen also the illiteracy test by providing authority for exclusion of the mentally inferior and emotionally unstable class.

He proposes to treat immediate families as units admitting the husband, wife or children of citizens of the United States and aliens permanently domiciled here.

"This," Johnson said, "will eliminate nine-tenths of the appalling distress cases at our principal ports by uniting families which might otherwise, because of exhaustion of quotas, become separated."

REVOLT SAID TO BE PLANNED IN THRACE

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 23.—A Kemalist insurrection is being organized in Thrace, according to the Messagero, in order to attack the allies in Constantinople in the rear while the Kemalist army from Asia Minor is advancing, thus taking the allies between two fires. Fears are expressed, says the newspaper, that Smyrna's fate will also be Constantinople's.

Reports from Leibach, adds the newspaper, confirms the restlessness of the Balkan countries and assert that the reorganization of the Serbian army is proceeding secretly so that it will be in readiness to intervene in Thrace.

DR. SAWYER'S REMOVAL SOUGHT

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Demand for the removal of Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer from the post of chief co-ordinator of the Federal Hospitalization Board was made today in a resolution unanimously adopted by the convention of the New York State Department of the American Legion. The resolution charged Dr. Sawyer "has shown himself by speech and action to be temperamentally unfitted for the position."

DIVORCEES' REMARRIAGE FORBIDDEN BY CHURCH

Episcopal Convention's Action, Deputy Says, Blocks Aspirations of Rev. Grant.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 23.—After making it unlawful for divorced persons who are members of the Episcopal Church to remarry, whether by an Episcopal clergyman, the civil courts or by a clergyman of any other church; approving the ordination of Congregational clergymen by Episcopal Bishops while allowing the ministers to continue in the Congregational Church; declining to enter in full the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, although making a nearer approach to the Federal Council and after defeating four different measures to give women a legal standing in the councils of the church, the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church which has been in session here since Sept. 6, adjourned today to meet in 1925 in New Orleans.

The amendment to the canon of marriage and divorce which was passed late last evening had been previously passed by the House of Bishops so that it is in effect at once.

"Stops Grant's Aspiration."

"That puts a stop to the aspirations of the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant to marry a divorcee," said one of the deputies, who expressed pleasure at the passage of the law.

Concerning the use of fermented wine the Bishops declined to act, but referred the resolution presented by the diocese of Los Angeles asking permission to use the "fruit of the vine" to a commission to report at the next general convention. The Bishop who presented the findings of the House of Bishops on the subject being asked as to its significance replied: "Oh, it is simply passing the buck."

Robert H. Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., secretary of the World Conference on Faith and Order, deplored also the failure of the legislation in behalf of women. "There are women in the church of the finest type, educated and deeply religious, who want a larger share in the big [illegible] of the church. We have lost some and we will lose more of these women by our conservatism." Gardner was the deputy who introduced the first resolution in favor of admitting women to the House of Deputies ever introduced at a general convention. This was in 1916.

The pastoral letter was read by the Right Rev. Charles Fiske, Bishop coadjutor of central New York. The Right Rev. William Cabell Brown, Bishop of Virginia and chairman of the House of Bishops, officiated, and the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle acted in his capacity as presiding Bishop of the church. Some of the utterances of the pastoral letter follows:

Pastoral Letter on Social Life.

"It is the absence of a right motive that brings anxious thought to men who are troubled by the manners and morals of social life today. We have little sympathy with critics who adopt a censorious attitude towards youth,always complaining and generally condemning. Freedom of behavior and carelessness of speech may mean, and often does mean, not lack of courtesy or consideration but dislike of convention, the desire to be natural and human. They may mean, and sometimes do mean, readiness, willingness and determination to level social distinctions and forego social privilege, a larger freedom in social habits and a real democracy of thought and activity. What the more thoughtful fear, however, is that for most people there is no motive behind the crudity and even vulgarity of social life. Is it not, rather, merely careless, heedless, aimless and indifferent? A new generation may well cast away outworn conventions if only there be high purpose as well as high spirit in the revolt.

"Service is the lesson which many of the members of this church have special opportunity to apply in industrial life. Were great corporations to realize that they are and must be primarily corporations for public service rather than for private profit it would be easier to reply to agitators who threaten their peace and prosperity.

"And labor—the unions will be as cordially hated as the most unpopular of industrial trusts if they neglect the call to serve while insisting on the right to have efficiency in production, honesty in labor, better work as well as better wages—this must be the program if industrial justice is also demanded."

Mrs. Joseph McCaffrey, a sister of Mrs. Poulin; her husband and John Anderson, a fellow clerk of Poulin, were the witnesses examined today. The McCaffreys testified that Poulin passed the days on which his wife was in Chicago on fishing trips and the evenings at the home of Mrs. McCaffrey's parents, the testimony being offered as an alibi to offset the testimony of Mrs. Tiernan. Anderson told of automobile parties in which Poulin and Mrs. Tiernan, Miss Leah Hankey and himself made to Elkhart and other points, denying that there was any wrong doing on these trips and admitting that Prof. Tiernan was at home taking care of the children.

STORM GATHERING ON CLEMENCEAU'S TRIP

Plan Attacked on Ground He No Longer Can Interpret French Public Opinion.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—A political storm is gathering against former Premier Clemenceau to prevent him from going to the United States, as he is planning to do this fall, on the ground his countrymen have lost confidence in him and that he cannot now interpret French public opinion to a nation friendly to France.

Newspapers representing several parties today published attacks upon him, based upon the recent accusations of Marshal Franchet D'Esperey, that Clemenceau stopped the Marshal's offensive in Southeastern Europe in the Fall of 1918, and that Clemenceau took away from him the supreme command of the allied armies in the Near East and transferred it to the English.

The present Near Eastern developments are closely related to these charges against Clemenceau, whose opponents are preparing to bring up in Parliament next month the various political accusations directed at him.

BALL FORMED IN STOMACH OF TOOTHPICK - CHEWING BARBER

Surgeons Remove Ball of Wood Pulp and Hair 7½ Inches in Circumference.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 23.—Galen B. George, 51 years old, of 416½ East Fifteenth street, told surgeons at the General Hospital today he had been a barber 35 years and was in the habit of chewing toothpicks. The surgeons said they believed this was the solution of the puzzle which confronted them Thursday after a ball of wood pulp and hair had been removed from George's stomach in an operation. The ball was seven and one-half inches in circumference.

The surgeons said George probably swallowed bits of hair while working as a barber and this had combined with wood from toothpicks to form an accumulation of foreign substance in the stomach. Surgeons said George will recover.

HUGHES RETURNS TO U. S. FROM BRAZIL

Secretary of State Was in Constant Communication Regarding Near East.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Secretary of State Hughes returned aboard the battleship Maryland today from Rio de Janeiro, where he attended the opening of the Brazilian Centennial Exposition, and a few hours after disembarking boarded a train for Washington.

He declined to discuss the situation in the Near East. It was learned, however, that on the voyage from Rio he was in constant communication with the State Department, keeping abreast with developments abroad. When not occupied with this work he was engrossed in the perusal of books on international affairs.

He said the trip had greatly benefited him and that he had enjoyed every bit of it, but would be glad to get back to his desk. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hughes. They were met by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes Jr., and a number of naval officers.

Two Storms Encountered.

On the voyage from Rio the Maryland weathered two severe storms, but made the trip in 10 days, 17 hours and 22 minutes, breaking the record of 10 days and 22 hours made by the American Legion. Secretary and Mrs. Hughes, according to Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who also was aboard the Maryland, are admirable sailors. During several hours of a hurricane off Bermuda they stood on the bridge, watching the storm.

Secretary and Mrs. Hughes found a great deal of amusement in the pets the Maryland's crew gathered in Brazil.

"In fact," said Admiral Jones, "we have a menagerie aboard. There are something like 45 monkeys of all shapes and breeds, about 50 parrots and a like number of canaries, parakeets and love birds, not to mention the flock of goats."

COAL PRICE ACTION PUT UP TO STATES

Federal Distributor Says Local Committees Must Deal With Situations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The major responsibility for the price at which coal is sold to consumers by the wholesalers or retailers within the States must rest with the State authorities, Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer declared tonight in a telegram to the Governors of the various States.

The Federal Government, he informs the Governors, can exert its influence on distribution and restrain extortion only so far as concerns coal that may be transported from one State to another.

"It has," he said, "no jurisdiction as to coal produced and sold within the State of its production; retail or wholesale margins or handling coal within these States. Responsibility as to these features must rest with the State authorities and if profiteering in coal is to be prevented, except as to coal that may be moved across State lines at extortionate prices, the proper remedy must be applied by the State authorities."

Upon the Federal authorities, he explained, falls the duty of determing in which part of the country there is a shortage of coal, where coal production is to be distributed, the prices usually charged for such coal and whether current prices, considering the costs of production and distribution are just and reasonable and what consumers should receive priority in transportation.

LIQUOR FOUND IN RAID ON MARK GUMBERTS' ROADHOUSE

But Proprietor Produces Permit Authorizing Its Transportation to Place in County.

A raid on the roadhouse conducted by Mark Gumberts, former proprietor of "Fauna Flora," at Manchester and Collier roads, St. Louis County, west of North and South road, last night, organized by representatives of Attorney-General Barrett who ar investigating charges of election fraud, gambling, bootlegging and other evils in the county, resulted in the finding of a quantity of liquor, but Gumberts produced a permit which authorized him to transport the liquor to this place, and it was not confiscated.

The raid was undertaken on information that the resort, which has become popular with St. Louisans who have gone there to dance, was equipped for dice rolling and other gambling games, that liquor could be obtained there and that it was planned to shut the place down after a "blowout" tonight, during the period of the county grand jury investigation.

The raiders found a large, new, wooden building, on the door of which was the sign, "Slub open; ring bell." In the main room they found no one, but Gumberts, which led them to the conclusion that there had been a "leak" of their plans. A small quantity of liquid, supposed to be whisky, found behind a bar was confiscated. Gumberts sent out circular letters announcing the opening of the place three weeks ago.

97 1-2 PER CENT RECORD WINS HORSE-DRAWN PLOWING TITLE

By the Associated Press.

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 23.—William J. Thomas of Big Rock, Ill., won the horse-drawn plowing championship today in the annual contest at Big Rock. Thomas was hard pushed by Charles Hagermann and Thomas Quantock, of Wheatland, Ill. Quantock won at Wheatland this year and Hagermann captured the event last year.

Thomas' mark was 97½ per cent. The judges, in two hours' inspection of the field plowed, found it almost impossible to discover a deviation in the line or depth of a furrow. The tractor contest was won by Harry Smith of Sugar Grove.

MOVE TO PREVENT EXAMINATION OF BALLOTS OPPOSED

Attorney - General's Office Will Fight Application for Writ to Keep County Records From Jury.

STATE SUPREME COURT ASKED FOR RULING

Judge Wurdeman Instructed to Take No Action Pending Study of Case by Judiciary at Capital.

The office of Attorney-General Barrett will oppose the application for a writ of prohibition to keep the ballots and other record of 11 St. Louis County precincts from the county grand jury, which is investigating charges of wholesale fraud in the primary election of Aug. 1 on the ground that language of the Governor's message calling the first special session of the Legislature last year was broad enough to cover the matter under contention.

The application was filed with the Supreme Court of Missouri at Jefferson City yesterday, alleging that the ballot boxes of the primary could not be opened under section 5403 of the Revised Statutes, as enacted by last year's first extra session of the Legislature, because the subject of the statute was not covered in Gov. Hyde's call.

The Governor's call, which, under the law, specified subjects to be considered by the session, embodied the phrase, "legislation governing primaries and the election of officials."

The statute, which replaced an original section of the same number, follows:

"The legal custodian of the ballots or ballot boxes may be summoned before the grand jury or before any court of record of the State and compelled to open the ballot boxes and disclose the ballots in investigation and trial; provided that ballots cast in an election shall in no way be used or any information disclosed that would tend toward showing who voted any ballot; but ballots cast in any primary election may be so used."

Judge Not to Act.

The application has not been granted yet and a decision as to whether the Supreme Court will take jurisdiction may not come for several days. This will be considered by the court in banc. Meanwhile, Circuit Judge Wurdeman has been instructed in a telegram from the Supreme Court to take no action in the controversy.

SIX ARMY MEN KILLED WHEN BOMBER CRASHES TO EARTH

he went over the accident and its probable cause and issued a statement.

"The plane was engaged in maneuvers and a problem with the searchlights," the Major said. "When the airplane appeared to approach the ground at rather a steep angle and crash it was beyond control and there was no light shining on the plane nor had there been or several minutes prior.

"This is all exactly like a number of other accidents in that the direct causes will never be known. The plane had been inspected previous to the flight and was practically new."

Bomb May Have Exploded.

Witnesses who saw the accident incline to the belief that one of the bombs used in the maneuvers had remained in the fusilage of the big bomber and exploded when she made her second trip aloft. Several are ready to say that they saw a flash on the ill-fated ship before the dive began.

Lieut. Davis was attached to Langley Field at Hampton, Va., and was a skilled pilot. He was a member of the 104th Observation Squadron in France with the American Expeditionary Force and has at least one German plane to his credit, the officers at Mitchell Field say. He was 28 and unmarried. In September, 1918, during the latter days of the war, he was shot down by machine gun fire as he was crossing the German lines in returning from a night bombing raid to points inside Germany and interned until the armistice.

Seldom has an aerial accident at night happened in such a thoroughly illuminated setting and before such a huge crowd of spectators.

Four Huge Searchlights Used.

The field and the skies were lighted by four searchlights of 1,500,000,000 candle power each, the most powerful in the army.

Around the space of the 300-acre flying and landing fields, spectators in automobiles and on foot were banked solidly. The maneuvers had received a vast amount of publicity and trains and automobiles loaded with sightseers had been running to the field since early in the afternoon.

The flying circus was staged largely to satisfy the curiosity of the spectators and to give the many motion picture camera men an opportunity to obtain pictures of more interest than any which could be taken when the planes were flying at great heights in the actual war maneuvers.

The Martin bomber is the largest type of heavier-than-air machine used in the Government flying service. The seven-ton twin-engined bomber was produced during the war and since then has figured prominently in the development of the army air service. It was the heaviest plane at Mitchell Field.

Men familiar with aircraft said that they believed both motors were wide open when the big plane struck the ground.

Pigeons Deprived of Homes In Scottish Rite Cathedral

Boards Now Exclude Nearly a Thousand Birds From Nesting Place of More Than Half Century.

Homeless homing pigeons flutter about Scottish Rites Cathedral, Seventeenth and Locust streets, beating their wings against the boards that have closed up their homes, in its tower and attic, which has been a haven for pigeons since 1870, shortly after the structure was completed. Friday night, for the first time in those 52 years, the hundreds of pigeons sought perches in nearby buildings, or on ledges outside the cathedral.

Custodian Lee Jackson put the boards in place Friday in the east tower, and in the big window in the rear of the building. The west tower still is partly open, so that some pigeons can reach their nests in there. This tower is inaccessible from the inside, but may be boarded up later.

The pigeons, numbering nearly a thousand, were welcome to their homes in the tower and attic, Jackson said, until they presumed too much on his hospitality. They entered open windows and sought perches in the auditorium, upon the pipes of the organ, and on the lighting fixtures. Many never found their way out again, he said, and starved inside the cathedral.

So crowded were they in the towers that many young were trampled to death. Many broken eggs were found when workmen went into the tower Friday to board it up, indicating that the flock was becoming so numerous that the chances for young to survive were few. Most of the pigeons for this reason, are old, Jackson said, and probably will stay near their homes until cold weather takes its toll.

The building was used by the congregation of the Second Presbyterian Church until 1900, when it became the property of the Scottish Rites Cathedral Association. It was built in 1868.

'BUY AS LITTLE COAL AS POSSIBLE,' FORD URGES

Detroit Auto Manufacturer Declares Prices Will Go Much Lower.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 23.—Henry Ford, in a newspaper interview today, advised the people of the country to "buy as little coal as possible now," declaring, "coal prices are tumbling."

Ford granted the interview shortly after his return from Southern Ohio, where he arranged for an uninterrupted movement of coal to his Detroit industries.

"Tell the people of the whole world if you can," Ford said to his interviewer, "that if they would have money they should not buy coal in any great amount now. Tell them to buy only enough to get along with, for coal prices are tumbling and they will go much lower."

Ford, in company with his son, Edsel, president of the Ford Motor Co., spent three days along the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, the manufacturer's property, and saw hundreds of thousands of tons of coal moving northward, he said.

"There is enough coal above ground to run the country for a long time," Ford said. "The high prices were made because the supply was held back from the market. We bought 500 cars of coal in Toledo for $5 a ton. That, of course, includes the freight rate from the mines to Toledo.

"At Cincinnati, Edsel arranged for a 60-day supply of coal for approximately $3 a ton at the mines. And that is $1 a ton less than what the brokers paid for it. The brokers have held their coal so long that their profits have been wiped out and now they must unload at any price."

TWO MARINE FLYERS KILLED WHEN PLANE GOES INTO TAILSPIN

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—Lieut. Patton and Lieut. Hansen, both of the United States Marine Corps, Quantico, Va., were killed instantly this afternoon at Logan Field when their machine went into a tail spin and dropped about 500 feet.

The officers, who flew here this morning from Quantico, just had taken off as principals in a balloon sniping contest at the aerial exhibition at Logan Field, in conjunction with the Third Corps area aeronautical convention here.

Lieut. Patton was pilot and Lieut. Hansen was in the gunner's cockpit, firing toy balloons at an army dirigible, when their plane went into a tail spin. About 10,000 persons witnessed the accident.

Lieut. Davis, of Danville, Ill., Was Held as Prisoner in War.

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., Sept. 23.—First Lieut. Raymond E. Davis, who with five others, was killed tonight when his bombing plane crashed at Mineola, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Davis, of Danville, and served with the American forces in France. Four months before the armistice his plane fell behind the German lines and he was held as a prisoner until the close of the war.

WOODWARD PLAYERS, AT GARRICK, MAKE DEBUT

Large Audience Finds 75-Cent Stock Attractive, in "Polly With a Past."

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

THE vicinity of Sixth and Chestnut streets, in former days a center of the city's theatrical life, took on something of its old activity last night when the Woodward Players, a stock company, made their St. Louis bow at the Garrick, a playhouse which for some years has been devoted to burlesque and the cinema. The troupe, which plans an indeterminate stay here, is under the management of O. D. Woodward, who has a record of 1100 weeks of stock direction in Spokane, Denver and Kansas City.

For its introduction, the company undertook "Polly With a Past," by George Middleton and Guy Bolton, which has been seen here in a Belasco production, with Miss Ina Claire as star. The purpose is to present each week a comedy which in more or less recent years has been an outstanding success. The second offering, beginning next Sunday afternoon, will be Cosmo Hamilton's "Scandal."

Judging by the initial performance, this troupe is remarkably free from most of the faults expected in stock. The preparation had been so thorough that there was scarcely a hitch. The settings were neat, bright and fresh. The costuming was handsome. The principal actors proved by no means amateurs, but players of experienced routine, and in at least two instances of talent. The admission prices range from 75 to 25 cents.

Polly Shannon Fakes a "Past."

A large audience followed with frequent outbursts of applause and laughter the familiar story of Polly Shannon, a preacher's daughter from East Gilead, O., who, to earn money for vocal study in Paris, pretends a lurid past as an international siren. This for the purpose of advancing Rex Van Zile in the affections of Miss Myrtle Davis, who has a mania for rescuing fallen men. Of course, Rex finally discovers that Polly is his love, and all ends well save for the puritanical Myrtle.

Pretty Miss Hazel Whitmore, the company's leading woman, left little to regret in the absence of Miss Claire, and John Warner, the leading man, who formerly played opposite Miss Grace George, was deftly helpless in the mamma's-pet role of Rex. Other parts were competently played by Edward Schilling, Sherold Page, Francesca Rotoli, Laura Lovett, Erville Alderson, Jane Stuart, Christie Compton, A. S. Byron, Maurice Franklyn and Henry Ward.

Detracting from the general pleasure of the evening were interminable waits for scene shifting, and permission given by the management to barkers who hawked candy in the aisles after the first act. With such offenses removed, and a maintenance of the standards established in the first performance, the Woodward Players should be a popular and successful acquisition.

PRESIDENT WANTS TEETH IN RAILROAD LABOR LEGISLATION

Will Recommend Transportation Act Revision to Next Session of Congress — Cummins Is Preparing Bill.

SEEKS TO OUTLAW UTILITIES STRIKES

Plan, in Effect, Is Compulsory Arbitration — New Senate Candidates Are Pledged to Seek Repeal of Act.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—President Harding has decided to recommend to the next session of Congress, whether it meets in special session in November or the regular session in December, a complete revision of the Railroad Transportation Act, putting teeth into the labor features of the law.

Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce and one of the co-authors of the present transportation act, at a final conference with the President on this subject today, told the Post-Dispatch he is already at work preparing the bill, which will be introduced at the opening of the next session.

The decision to attempt revision of the transportation act is the outgrowth of the strike, which demonstrated the futility of the Labor Board decisions, both as they applied to the railroads and to the employes.

Compulsory Arbitration, in Effect.

Senator Cummins, who has been conferring frequently with the President since the railroad strike started, will attempt to re-enact the law as it originally left the Senate and before it was amended by the House, where the teeth were extracted from the antistrike clause. The law, as it passed the Senate, made the decisions of the Labor Board binding, and, in effect, was compulsory arbitration.

Any effort to change the present law will open the entire subject and it is expected that, before the new measure emerges from Congress the present transportation act will have been entirely rewritten. New candidates for the Senate, like Powell of Nebraska, Frazier of North Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa, are pledged to seek a repeal of the entire act, although not pledged to any specific program in place of the present law. Senator Cummins said today that it is his intention to write into the new law the principle of the living wage. Details of this plan are not complete, but it proposes to enable the Labor Board to establish what constitutes a living wage upon which fair wages will be predicated.

"Once this principle is established," Senator Cummins said, "it seems logical that strikes which take the form of conspiracies to interfere with interstate commerce and transportation generally, in order to coerce employers, should be made unlawful.

Would Outlaw Strikes.

"It seems clear to me that some form of arbitration should take the place of the present system and that, in the case of public utilities at least, the possibility of strikes should be made legally impossible."

Another change which Senator Cummins proposes to write into the law will be a clause compelling the consolidation of railroad systems within a reasonable time. The Iowa Senator believes this essential to a successful working out of any transportation scheme.

Even in the event that Congress is called in special session, there is no likelihood that the present personnel of Congress will pass on the proposel changes in the law. This will be the task of the new Congress and the announced intention of introducing a bill to make strikes illegal is bound to force the question into the approaching congressional campaigns.

Senator Cummins said today that he expects the Senate will act favorably on the proposed changes in the act, although he would offer no predictions as to what the House will do.

NEW INJUNCTION IS GRANTED AGAINST STRIKING SHOPMEN

Writ Seen as One of Most Significant for Law and Order Ever Read Into Record.

EXACT FORM TO BE ARGUED TOMORROW

Unions' Counsel to Appeal at Once; Expected to Prohibit Same Things as Previous Order Did.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Holding the railway shopmen's strike a conspiracy in restraint of trade, in interference of interstate commerce and carriage of the mails because "where minds meet together on such a purpose a conspiracy exists without even a word being spoken," Judge James H. Wilkerson, in United States District Court, today sustained the Government's plea for a country-wide temporary injunction against striking railroad crafts.

The decision was hailed by Attorney-General Daugherty and Assistant Attorney-General McLaughlin, who presented the Government's case against the shopmen, as one of the most significant for law and order ever read into the records of the judiciary. Donald R. Richberg, of counsel for the shopmen, said he would take an appeal at once.

Argue Exact Form Tomorrow.

While the decision was interpreted as holding, in effect, that the strikers were accountable for acts of violence, whether these acts were committed by the strikers or not, its exact form will be argued before Judge Wilkerson Monday, pending which he continued in effect the present stringent restraining order. The restraining order prohibited the shopmen, and the injunction is expected to prohibit them, from:

Interfering with operation, repairs and employment on the roads.

Conspiring to interfere.

Loitering or trespassing on railroad property.

Attempting to induce road employes to quit or to prevent persons from seeking employment with the roads.

Picketing.

Harming employes or would-be employes, or visiting their homes.

Hindering transportation.

Encouraging or directing employes (union members or others) to stop work, or others to refrain from seeking work.

Issuing instructions or public statements which might have the above effect.

Using union funds for purposes to be enjoined as above.

Statement by Unions' Counsel.

In a statement tonight Richberg said:

"The decision, as I interpret it, means that the unions will be liable for any unlawful act committed in connection with a union strike, regardless of who commits it. Since the unions would be held responsible for these acts, they could not call a strike without eventually having all their leaders in jail."

Richberg said the unions had been held liable according to the decision under the Sherman anti-trust act, but he declared the Clayton act did not so hold. He said that in a great national union there were bound to be some radicals, and when a strike occurs there is bound to be some violence committed by enemies of the union in order to place it in bad repute. According to the Government, he said, daily acts of violence had averaged 85 for each 1,500,000 men affected by the strike.

He said an appeal would be taken regardless of the technical form the temporary injunction to be issued Monday takes, and asserted his intention of summoning B. M. Jewell, shop crafts leaders and other strikers' officials in an effort to prove the shop crafts organization had no connection with any unlawful acts.

M. Felton, head of the Western Division of the Association of Railway Executives said that, while he had not read the decision carefully as yet, he believed it to be "quite right and just." Other railroad executives refused to comment on the decision, declaring it to be a matter between the Government and the shop crafts organization, in which the railroads were not directly concerned.

Judge Wilkerson's Statement.

In his statement after citing numerous Supreme Court decisions, Judge Wilkerson said, in part:

"None of the defendants in this case have answered the bill. Two have filed motions to dismiss and have presented affidavits which leave a large number of averments of the bill unchallenged on the record. The fact that the defendants have been acting in combination is not denied. On the contrary, the defendants themselves have produced evidence of the closest association and co-operation on the part of the defendant organizations. That the officers of the unions gave directions concerning the strike from the outset is likewise admitted. The only material question really in dispute on the record is the responsibility in law of the defendants for the large number of unlawful acts shown to have been committed, the most of them by unknown parties.

"Notwithstanding the warnings against acts of violence set out in the instructions of June 27, 1922, there began, throughout the country a series of depredations which rapidly developed in some portions, into a veritable reign of terror. Railroad bridges were dynamited, spikes removed from rails, obstructions were placed upon railway tracks, bombs were exploded on tracks and in railroad yards and hurled at moving trains. Notwithstanding the admonitions of the leaders of the combination to use peaceful methods only, the real situation at most of the places where the strike was in progress was that employes were insulted, assaulted and otherwise intimidated. The word of the 'peaceful' picket spoken in the vicinity of the shop was emphasized in the darkness of night by the club and pistol of the 'unknown party.'

"Sabotage on Large Scale."

"Regardless of the instructions that no injury must be inflicted upon property, there was sabotage on a large scale. Engines, cars and equipment tampered with and innumerable acts of malicious mischief committed which endangered the lives of both passengers and those operating trains.

"These unlawful acts are shown to have been on such a large scale and in point of time and places connected with the admitted conduct of the strike that it is impossible on the record here to view them in any other light than as done in furtherance of a common purpose and as part of a common plan.

"This record does not permit the conclusion that those who are at the head of this combination did not actually know that these things were being done, and that they were the direct result of the methods by which the strike was being conducted. And if they did not actually know they were charged with such knowledge.

"Yet, with knowledge of this intolerable situation, nationwide in its scope, the leaders of this combination reepatedly sent out to the members of their organizations bulletins and communications urging the men to greater activities.

"These defendants will not be permitted upon the record here to deny responsibility for these unlawful acts. They will not be permitted to continue acts which, even though they may be peaceable and lawful in themselves, it has been demonstrated are only part of a program of unlawful conduct and are done for the accomplishment of an unlawful purpose.

Purpose of the Suit.

"The record in this case shows that the so-called peaceable and lawful acts are so interwoven with the whole plan of intimidation and obstruction that to go through the formality of enjoining the commission of assaults and other acts of violence and leave the defendants free to pursue the open and ostensibly peaceful part of their program would be an idle ceremony.

"It must be remembered that this suit was brought for the benefit of the public. Restraint of trade may not be adopted as a weapon in industrial warfare. The Court must act upon the case now before it can give its aid to the removal of the obstructions to commerce which are found to exist.

"It has been suggested by the defendants that as the strike has been settled on some of the railroads, there is no need for the injunction or at least for one of the breadth sought by the Government. The right to relief is to be determined by the status existing at the time of the filing of the bill. Rights do not ebb and flow. If they are invaded a recourse to courts of justice is rendered necessary, and it is no defense of the invasion of rights that since the institution of the suit the invasion has ceased."

LIVING CHILD BURIED BY UNWED MOTHER IN UPPER SILESIA

Woman Follows Ancient German Superstition of Heathen Times Which Holds Act No Crime.

Special Cable to the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1922.)

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—Following an ancient German superstition, descended from heathen times, a living child was buried near Oppeln, Upper Silesia, a few days ago. This superstition holds it no crime to do away with a child born out of wedlock, provided it is buried by moonlight in a cemetery. But the shadow of a cross, thrown by the moon, must fall over the body of the infant as it is lowered alive into its grave.

Appollonia Poser, an unlettered woman of Oppeln, found herself burdened with a six-weeks-old child, whose father had disappeared. The woman carried out this ancient rite of burial. She will be tried.

SOCIALISTS CHOOSE EMBLEM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23.—W. L. Garver of Springfield, secretary of the State committee of the Socialist party in Missouri, today notified the Secretary of State's office that Socialists have chosen as their emblem to go at the head of their ballots at the November election a medallion design. In this design, which, of course, is circular, appears an outline map of the Western Hemisphere with clasped hands across it, and with the words around the edge of the circle, "Socialist Party Workers of the World Unite."

The Republican party has chosen the elephant as its emblem. The Democratic party has made no selection yet.

He had been treated for heart disease for several years. He was said to have been a justice of the peace at Springfield, Mo., several years ago.

LARGE STILL RAIDED IN MONROE COUNTY, ILL.

Dry Agents From Chicago and East St. Louis Arrest Saloon Keeper and Bartender.

Prohibition enforcement officers from the Chicago and East St. Louis offices, under the direction of Chief Enforcement Officer Charles F. Short of East St. Louis, yesterday raided, near Renault, in Monroe County, one of the largest liquor plants encountered in this district since prohibition became effective. Short led the raiding party, which consisted of two men from East St. Louis and six picked men from Charles A. Gregory's office in Chicago.

Labor-Saving Machinery.

The plant had labor-saving machinery, hydraulic pumps, gasoline engines, and was on the bank of a creek with connections with a deep pool of clear water. The plant, in a frame shed 20 by 30 feet, with a large auxiliary tent in which were 60 barrels of mash, ready to be distilled, was nestled in a wooded place on a farm, one mile east of Renault, and was almost inaccessible to those not familiar with the circuitous route of ingress, and almost as secluded from public view.

The enforcement officers say that the still was owned and operated by J. E. Dashner, proprietor of a saloon at Renault, and that it had a capacity of 150 gallons of liquor a day.

Liquor in Saloon.

The officers say they found a quantity of liquor in Dashner's saloon, and across the street, where Dashner lives, they found a truck in which was 250 gallons of moonshine whisky. Dashner and his bartender, Arens Schults, were arrested, and were released on bond.

The still was photographed and then dismantled by Short and his men and taken to East St. Louis, with samples of liquor found in the saloon, the home and at the distillery. The rest was emptied into the street. The 60 barrels of mash in the tent, and 20 barrels of mash in the frame building, were destroyed.

Short and his men arrived in Renault about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. They surrounded the Dashner residence and then aroused the occupants. After the officers searched Dashner's home, the saloon and outbuildings, they had him show them where the liquor was made. They say he led them to the plant in the woods.

WEDDING OF FORMER KAISER TENTATIVELY FIXED FOR NOV. 5

Fiancee Will Marry Into Family That She Was Brought Up to Hate.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The wedding of the ex-Kaiser to Princess Herminie of Reuss has been tentatively fixed for Nov. 5, according to an announcement in well-informed quarters today. The ceremony will follow the procedure prescribed by the Dutch civil law, since the Weimar Constitution nullified the laws of the house of Hohenzollerns.

Public lists have been opened in the shops at Potsdam for signatures of congratulation to the former Emperor.

(Copyright, 1922.)

GREIZ, Germany, Sept. 23.—Princess Herminie von Schoenaich-Carolath, the ex-Kaiser's fiancee, is to marry into the family she was brought up to hate above all others.

Here at Greiz, the ancestral seat of the Reuss Principality, it is told how Prince Henry XXII of Reuss, Herminie's father, hated his Emperor so much he refused to permit any celebration of the Kaiser's birthday in Reuss. No flags could be displayed or other honors shown on any Hohenzollern fete day.

Wilhelm, who loved to be shown much obeisance by his subjects, was always greatly annoyed by the hostility shown him in the Reuss principality.

MAN ARRESTED ON DRUG CHARGE FREED ON BOND

Max H. Gordon, Wounded by Gangsters, Suspectedo f Alliance With Narcotic Ring.

Max H. Gordon, of 9 Benton place, who was shot by gangsters the night of Sept. 2, at Locust boulevard and Jefferson avenue and who was arrested, while convalescing at the Jewish Hospital on a Federal warrant charging violation of the Harrison Narcotic Act in the possession of drugs, has been released from custody on bond of $5000, but is still at the hospital. Since his arrest detectives have kept constant guard over him, but his release on bond removes them.

Gordon is suspected of being connected with a New York organization that has been conducting an extensive traffic in the illegal sale of morphine, cocaine, heroin and opium throughout the United States and part of Canada, with St. Louis as distributing base for the Middle West.

Youth Struck by Auto.

John Dolis, 18 years old, of 4648 Rosa avenue, a bank clerk, suffered a fracture of the lower left leg at 11:30 o'clock last night when he was struck by an automobile operated by Howard Ruth of 6903 South Broadway, at Thirteenth and Pestalozzi streets. He was taken to the city hospital by Ruth. Dolis was crossing the street in company of two young women. One of his companions paused at the approach of Ruth's car to let it pass and Dolis and the other young woman crossed in front of it, one of the rear wheels catching his foot.

WIDOW OF SLAIN RECTOR GIVES OUT FIRST STATEMENT

Mr. Mills. I stopped and asked him if Mr. Hall had been to his house on the preceding evening. Mr. Mills said he had not seen him and, as far as he knew, Mr. Hall had not been there. He added that his wife had also been missing.

"I came home and telephoned to Mr. Hall's sisters. I met them at the train around noon. I consulted with my sisters-in-law and telephoned Mr. Florance, who said the authorities ought to know and that he himself would go to the police. The rest of the day I remained at home.

Saturday, Sept. 16—I telephoned a member of my family living next door, who came over at once. I telephoned Mr. Florance to ask for news.

"About the middle of the morning a Home News reporter telephoned me asking if Mr. Hall was at home, and being told not, requested his address and the date of his return. I asked him why they requested this, and he said they feared something had happened to Mr. Hall. I shut off the telephone and called for Mr. Florance, repeating the conversation to him.

"Had No Enemies."

"About 1:30 a member of the family came to my home to break the news to me, telling me that my fear of an accident was verified. She informed me that Mr. Hall had been shot.

"Mr. Hall had no private enemies. I can form no conjecture as to the motive for the deed or the perpetrators. Our life together has been absolutely happy and sympathetic. My confidence in him is boundless and unshaken."

Mr. Florence is Mrs. Hall's lawyer. The Home News is a New Brunswick newspaper.

It was noon when she reached the court house She was questioned by Assistant Prosecutor Toolan of Middlesex County, which New Brunswick is on the edge of, and Prosecutor A. M. Beekman of Somerset County, where the bodies were found.

When Mrs. Hall came out of the courthouse she trembled all over and could hardly walk, having difficulty in placing her feet as she took each step. She was almost lifted back into the car.

Beekman was asked what had been learned from the questioning of Mrs. Hall and he said, "The development could be measured only in inches." As to a possible arrest, he said: "Not for a while."

Mills, husband of the slain woman, also was examined today.

Watch May Be Clew.

The watch usually worn by Mr. Hall may yet furnish a clew to the killing. The watch was not on the rector's body when it was found, and it was established today that he was wearing it at 6 o'clock on the evening of the double murder. Mrs. Hall called attention to the fact that the watch was missing. That is the only thing that supports a suggestion of robbery behind the murder.

The last persons to see Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills before they were slain probably were Mrs. Leo Harkins of New Brunswick and Mrs. Henry Blust, a neighbor.

Mrs. Harkins knew both. She formerly sang in the choir.

Mrs. Harkins and Mrs. Blust had gone for a walk, Mrs. Harkins having her baby in a carriage.

"We had walked only a short distance when we heard someone behind us," Mrs. Harkins said. "I looked around and saw it was Mrs. Mills. I told her as she came near me that I would turn the carriage so that she wouldn't have to step to the street.

"She appeared to be in a dreadful hurry. Clutched under her arm was a small bundle. It might have been a package of letters. It was a package, the outer wrapping of which was yellow paper. She stepped to one side, smiled and continued on her way.

Tells of Meeting Rector.

"She soon left us behind. When we reached the vocational school someone was showing a party through the schoolrooms. The lights were turned on and I could see the two clocks. The hands on both clocks were identically the same. They pointed to 8. We continued for a short stroll beyond the schoolhouse and decided to turn around.

"As we drew near the end of the car line, a man approached us in the road. As he came near I saw it was Mr. Hall.

"He did not recognize me. His hands were in his pockets and he appeared to be worried. As he approached us, he kept looking around as though some one might be following him. After he passed us, he continued to look around. That was the last I saw of him."

Dr. Cronk gave a detailed statement concerning his examination of Mrs. Mills' body today, pointing out that he saw it soon after it was found. Dr. Cronk claims Dr. Long's autopsy was incomplete.

"In my opinion," said Dr. Cronk, "the shooting was done from a rise of ground, perhaps from a tree or some elevated point; or perhaps Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were sitting down when they were shot. It is possible in this connection, of course, that the bodies were brought there after the shooting, but consideration must be given to the fact that several shells—more than three—were found by the bodies.

"I believe Mr. Hall was shot first and Mrs. Mills afterward. He was shot from some distance away, but the bullets fired at her were, I am sure, fired from a range of no more than six feet."

Dr. Cronk reiterated his previously expressed opinion that while only one bullet had been fired at Mr. Hall, three had been fired at Mrs. Mills, striking her above the nose, in the upper lip and in the right cheek. None of these bullets has been recovered, he said, because Mr. Mills' skull was not lifted in the autopsy.

"I was impressed," continued Dr. Cronk, "by the evident indication that the shooting was committed by some one familiar with firearms. The three shots fired at Mrs. Mills were almost perfect hits."

Dr. Long's Version.

Dr. Long stood by the autopsy he had made. He did not lift the skull to probe for bullets he said, "simply because only one bullet struck Mrs. Mills and that one went completely through her head."

The authorities were unwavering in the conviction that a woman had a hand, at least indirectly, in the slaying and was prompted by jealousy. So far as was known, Mills had not revealed who told him about his wife and Mr. Hall being over-friendly. Members of the church choir were asked about reports of critics among members of the church as to Mrs. Mills' association with Mr. Hall.

Miss Jessie Jamieson, a member of the choir, said: "I did observe the friendship between Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. I knew and liked both Mr. and Mrs. Hall."

Miss Jamieson said Mr. Hall called on her at her home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on the day he was murdered and took her some flowers. She was ill.

Choir Singer's Opinion.

Mrs. Irving T. Jordan, who has been for 10 years a member of the choir, said that while she and other members of the choir had observed Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were often together, she had never held suspicions concerning their friendship. They were thrown together, she believes, because he was a devout preacher and she was interested in church activities.

Mr. Hall was always at the church Friday evenings, Mrs. Jordan said, when the choir met, and invariably on those evenings, Mrs. Mills was one of the last to go home after the practice hour.

Ralph V. M. Gorsline, a member of the church vestry, made the frank admission that gossip concerning the friendship between Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills had reached such a point a year ago that the rector was warned. Mr. Gorsline insisted, however, that he had never noticed anything improper in the relations between the two.

CASE OF FOUR IN NALTY SHOOTING GOES TO THE JURY

Deliberation Started at 4:30 Yesterday Afternoon and Court Attaches Predict No Verdict Before Today.

The case of a woman and three men charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff Patrick J. Nalty in Granite City shortly after midnight on July 22 went to the jury in the Circuit Court of Madison County at Edwardsville at 4:30 yesterday afternoon.

The jury had not agreed upon a verdict when the members retired about 11 o'clock last night. Deliberations will be resumed this morning.

State's Attorney Joseph P. Streuber, in his closing argument yesterday afternoon, asked for death by hanging for John J. Bauer, also known as George T. Ayers, and George O'Malley, two of the defendants. They are the two who admitted that they were present at the time of the shooting.

Expect Death for Two.

"We expect nothing short of a verdict of death for these two defendants," Streuber said, "and is the evidence does not warrant finding the other two guilty of murder they should be found not guilty and not sentenced on a lesser charge."

Lyle Watkins and Mrs. Bernice Traynor are the other defendants. The three men are St. Louis police characters and the woman's husband, James Traynor, also a police character, is now in jail in Edwardsville.

Mrs. Traynor, who previous to her marriage, lived at Carrollton, Ill., cried almost continuously during the last 30 minutes of the State's Attorney's closing argument. The other defendants displayed no emotion at any time during the trial.

James M. Bandy, former State's Attorney of Madison County, chief counsel for the defense, has indicated repeatedly during the trial that an appeal will be taken if the sentence is severe.

Negro Baptists of Nation to Meet.

The forty-second annual session of the negro national Baptist convention will be held in St. Louis, Dec. 6-11, at the Coliseum. The women's division will have its meetings in Central Baptist Church. A new president will be elected, to succeed the Rev. Dr. E. C. Morris of Little Rock, Ark., who died Sept. 5 after holding that office 28 consecutive years.

St. Louis Is Dead!

"NO PLACE TO GO"

That's what some ladies and gentlemen said while dining at the hotel. Then someone said, "Say, let's all go to the Gayety Theater." They came! They saw! And they were conquered! They told the manager of the Gayety that they were thrilled and surprised with the wonderful show at the Gayety. This same party has left season reservations for six seats for every week at the Gayety!

If you believe in having a jolly good time and want to make a hit with your dear ones, "get up a party" this week for the Gayety. Doors open at 7:30 at nights! Autos at 10:40. Popular prices. Seeing is believing!

LAST DITCH FIGHT FOR PROHIBITION IN NEW CONSTITUTION

Dr. Black Announces He Will Insist on Having Roll Call Vote on Matter at Convention.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23.—A last-ditch fight to write the terms of the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution into that of Missouri will be made on the floor of the Constitutional Convention.

Dr. W. H. Black, of Marshall, one of the delegates at large to that body, has told the Post-Dispatch correspondent he intends also to make a strong fight for a provision prohibiting the Legislature from preventing the reading of the Bible in public schools.

Dr. Black, who is a clergyman, President of the Missouri Valley College, at Marshall, and who was president of the New Constitution Association of Missouri, is mainly interested in prohibition, however.

He made a vigorous but unsuccessful effort to get the committee on Preamble, Boundaries, Bill of Rights and Distribution of Powers to incorporate the dry sided with those hostile to prohibition in defeating the proposal. Some of them said they believed that Missouri is wet, due to the effect of the heavy concentration of votes in the larger cities, and feared that the entire Constitution would be defeated if it went before the people with prohibition in it.

Even on Bible Issue.

So prohibition was killed in committee, and the report of the Bill of Rights Committee contains no mention of it. Dr. Black's other proposition, about the reading of the Bible, divided the committee equally, four to four, so that matter was returned to the convention without recommendation.

Dr. Black said that he had received nearly a hundred communications regarding his announced intentions on prohibition, none of which he had sought, and some of them from organizations with large membership. One letter was from the executive committee of the Jasper County W. C. T. U., which has about 1400 members. Letters from congregations and from organizations of ministers have been frequent.

The Rev. W. C. Shupp, of St. Louis, Superintendent in Missouri of the Anti-Saloon League, is opposed to his plan, Dr. Black said, and so is Mrs. Nellie Burger, of Springfield, state head of the W. C. T. U.

Dr. Black said he considered Shupp's stand unfortunate for Shupp, but that he intended to fight on.

Thinks They May Fear Roll Call.

"I intend to have a vote on prohibition in this convention where there will be a roll call," he said, with the afterthought observation that possibly such a roll call was the thing from which members may be shrinking when they urge him not to go further with his intentions.

"Missouri is dry, in my opinion, and I think the good people of this state can put over the Constitution just as well as they did prohibition."

The prohibition issue will come up whenever the report of the Bill of Rights Committee is taken up in committee of the whole, which may be at any time.

EDWARDSVILLE ARTISTS GIVE RADIO PROGRAM

Commendatory Reports From K S D Listeners-In Keep Studio Telephone Busy.

A group of Edwardsville, Ill., artists presented the K S D radio program last evening and received many compliments from listeners-in, both near and distant. These commendatory reports came in over the telephone, keeping the telephone in the studio reception room busy all evening.

Those participating in the program were Mrs. W. T. Baird, [illegible]; Dr. C. W. Baird, tenor; Mrs. [illegible] Howe, violiniste; Dr. Elmer Schwarz, violoncellist, and [illegible] C. O. Nash, pianiste, and a [illegible] pogram was given. One of the most interesting numbers was the [illegible] played by the trio of instruments, violin, 'cello and piano. Selections by this group were the "Serenade" of Adolph Foerster and an arrangement of the Samson and Delilah aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," by Saint-Saens.

Last evening's concert was unusually short, but was so much enjoyed that numerous telephone calls were received after it ended requesting that additional numbers be presented.

The schedule of Monday night includes a song recital by Chester F. Merton, St. Louis tenor, and two addresses. One of these will be delivered by Garfield D. Merner, who has just returned home after an 18 months' tour through Europe. He will discuss the present aspect of war-torn Europe as it impresses the traveler who is not making a study of political, financial or social conditions. In the second address, which will be by Dr. F. C. Ameiss, the food value of honey in the treatment of diseases will be discussed.

Don't Wish for Better Health —Have It

If you can sleep soundly, perfectly relaxed, you will gain in strength and energy. But to sleep well, you must choose a bedspring that is absolutely comfortable. The average bedspring sags and fails to support the hollows of the body. One must continually twist and turn to avoid cramping the muscles. Sleep on such a spring is restless.

Contrast such misery with a quiet night's sleep on a Rome De Luxe Bedspring. This spring is scientifically designed so sagging is impossible. GIANTS DOWN CARDS, 7-5; MACKS BEAT BROWNS, 6-5

Victory of McGraw's Men Almost Clinches Pennant for New York

Now Six Full Games Ahead of Pittsburg and Club Appears to Have Lead Impossible to Overcome.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Faced by the Cardinals, the Giants today just about made sure of the 1922 pennant when they trimmed the Rickeymen, 7-5, after a real battle. This game, in itself, was a big help to the McGrawmen, but the greater aid came from the Robins, who in Brooklyn trounced the Pirates twice in a single afternoon, thereby disposing of any fluttering flag-hopes the Buccaneers may have possessed.

Roger Hornsby made history when, in the sixth inning, he caught hold of one of John Scott's curves and sent it hurtling into the right field stands. This homer was the Texan's fortieth of the current campaign, and gave him the leadership of the major league slugging brigade.

The Cards broke into the lead with a run in the first. They should have had more. Blades, Smith and Hornsby singled and filled the bases. Faced with a glorious chance, Bottomly watched a third strike go by and Blades counted the lone run. Then Stock forced Smith at third. The Giants countered with two in the second, an error contributing largely. Young singled and Kelly hopped to Hornsby, who threw to Toporcer for the force-out, but "Specs" dropped the ball. Stengel laid out a bunt, filling the bases. Snyder fanned, but Young scored when Scott forced Stengel,/ Kelly counting on Bancroft's single.

Stengel hit a homer to right in the four and gave the Giants a two-run lead, but the Cards crept up when Hornsby smashed his long one in the sixth.

Blades' Score Ties It.

The count was tied in the eighth when Scott temporarily lost control. He walked Blades to start and Smith sacrificed him to second. Hornsby also was passed. Bottomly had fanned twice and rolled out once, but this time he shot a single to left and Blades scored.

With the score tied the Giants came in for their half and won the battle, putting the decision apparently beyond peradventure of doubt. Once again an error helped them. Young singled and Kelly bunted. Bottomly had the ball in good time to force Young at second, but threw badly. Stengel's fourth straight safety was a bunt which jammed the bases. Snyder's single rode Young home. Scott rolled out, but Kelly tallied, after which Haines cut loose with a wild pitch and Stengel scored. Doak came in and stopped any further scoring.

Great Catch Aids Giants.

A remarkable running catch saved the Giants in the ninth. Toporcer began the Cardinal rally with a single to center. Ainsmith fanned but Jack Fournier, batting for Doak, doubled to left and Toporcer scored. Fournier went to third unmolested and scored when Blades hit to left. Smith then hit a tremendous blow to right center. Young, running at top speed, stuck up his glove and made an unconscious capture. Hornsby ended the game with a roller to Bancroft.

Had the Cards' two errors not been committed, the Giants would have been beaten. It would have mattered little to them if they had, as the Robins had "done their duty nobly" in Brooklyn. The Rickeymen are now one-half game ahead of the Reds and only one and one-half games behind the Pirates in second place.

Sherdel may work in tomorrow's game, while Ryan is most likely to toil for New York.

By Irwin M. Howe,
Official Statistician of the American League.

In making a comparison of the outfielders of the Yankees and Giants, it being practically certain that the two New York clubs will again fight it out in the world's series, not only are the weekly averages of the players compared, but their work against star pitchers of other clubs analyzed.

On season's records alone, it is found that McGraw's quartet of outfielders—Meusel, Stengel, Young and Cunningham—has outbatted Huggins' trio, composed of Ruth, Bob Meusel and Witt, .334 to .315. However, this does not mean that the Giant meadowmen are better than those of the Yankees.

There is little doubt but that any manager in the big leagues would take Babe Ruth in preference to any of the Giants' quartet. Ruth is there with the "big punch," and while he is batting only .319, it must be remembered that Ruth was late in starting and for many, many weeks was far under the .300 mark.

But to make a more thorough analysis of the players for world's series use, a composite pitching staff from the different teams of the American and National leagues has been selected and the work of the individuals against these men show. The American League hurlers selected are Vangilder, Rommel, Pillette, Robertson, Mogridge and Oldham, while those of the National are Grimes, Haines, Couch, Pfeffer, Morrison, Meadows, Cooper, Rixey and Sherdel.

Sherdel Has Stopped Meusel.

As far as the Giants' meadowmen is concerned their work against southpaws will have little bearing as the Yankees, if they win, have no left-hander, and are one of the few major teams to ever win a pennant.

Nevertheless, the figures bring to light some interesting details. It shows that Emil Meusel has fairly "murdered" Cooper, and Rixey, but has been stopped by Sherdel, while Young, on the other hand, has been stopped "dead" by Cooper and Rixey, but has pounded out seven safeties in 15 attempts against the Cardinals' slowball expert.

The figures against the right-handers show that Meusel, Young and Stengel have had far more success against Grimes, Couch and Morrison than against Haines and Pfeffer of the Cardinals. Young and Stengel have not made a safety against Pfeffer. The Giants' meadowmen have hit only .257 against the right-handers, and .331 against the trio of left-handers.

As concerns the American League trio, it is found that "Babe" Ruth has made only one hit in 10 trips to the plate against Mogridge and Oldham, while Witt has failed to make a single safety in 14 attempts against the pair. On the other hand, Meusel, who hits right-handed, has made five hits in 12 tries, an average of .417. That gives the trio an average of only .167 against the southpaws.

Right-Handers Easy for Ruth.

Against the right-handers, Ruth has batted far better than his outfield mates. He has a mark of .389 against Vangilder, Rommel, Robertson and Pillette. Witt has an average of .270 and Meusel only .235. Robertson and Pillette have been easy for Ruth, while Rommel has held him to one safety in five tries. The trio have swatted .287 against the trio.

In fielding there is little difference. Emil and Bob Meusel, brothers, who will oppose each other in the world's series if the New York clubs finally win, are both good fielders, although Bob has a stronger arm, owning one of the best in the majors. He probably covers a bit more territory than his brother.

In fielding alone, Young has it on Ruth, but it can be predicted that if these rivals meet again, Ruth will have the better of the argument.

Because of Ruth's great strength and the improvement shown by Bob Meusel, the Yankees may be considered much stronger in the outfield.

Hornsby Hits Fortieth Home-Run and Leads Williams, Ruth, et al

In hitting the ball over the right field wall in the sixth inning of yesterday's game at the Polo Grounds, Rogers Hornsby became the first major league player who has hit 40 home runs this season.

The drive gave him the lead in the home run hitting race. Kenny Williams of the Browns is one behind him with 39 and Babe Ruth, last year's champion, has a total of 35. Clarence Walker of Connie Mack's Athletics, is second to Williams in the American League with 36 home run drives.

These four men have a grand total of 150 home runs.

BRAVES AND CUBS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The Braves divided a double-header with the Cubs today, winning the opener, 8 to 4, while Chicago took the second, 3 to 1. A four-run rally in the seventh started by an error by Grimes decided the first game. Chicago, after being helpless for eight rounds in the second got to Frank Miller for three hits and as many runs in the last chapter. Stueland relieved Jones in time to get credit for the victory. Pruett Strikes Out 3 Men With Bases Full; Harris Stops Fohlmen

Early Bombardment of Vangilder Gives Athletics Big Lead—Sisler Makes One Hit in Five Times Up.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Fine relief pitching by Bryan "Slim" Harris and three double plays at critical moments gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 6-5 victory over the Browns yesterday afternoon. As New York continued its winning streak by coming from behind to trim the Indians again, the margin between the Fohlmen and first place was increased to four and a half games.

Elam Vangilder started to do the pitching for the Browns and in three innings he was pounded for six hits and four runs. Harris was in trouble several times, but when his defense faltered he usually had enough stuff in reserve to check threatening Brownie attacks. Pruett and Wright aso worked on the hill, each giving away to a pinch hitter.

There were a few bright lines for the St. Louis fans, but in the main it was just another ball game. There was no grief over the defeat and not a razzberry for the town boys or the visitors. Whatever concern there was manifested itself when Sisler went to bat five times and made only one hit. He cannot continue at that pace and hold his lead over Ty Cobb.

Pruett Fans 3 in a Row.

Then there was a few minutes of concerted cheering when Hubert Pruett filled the bases with nobody out and then struck out the side. And Oswald it was considerable side, as the batters were Cy Perkins, Clarence "Tilly" Walker and Hauser. That was the afternoon's brightest moment for the spectators.

McGowan started the game with a double to center and before he could brush the dust off his uniform he had to race home on Perkins' single to center. Walker then scratched a single past Gerber, sending Perkins to third. Hauser struck out, but Miller sent a sacrifice fly to Tobin, scoring Perkins.

Vangilder retired the Mackmen in order in the second, but in the third after one was out Perkins sinbled to center, Walker singled to left and Hauser lined a double to left, scoring Perkins and Walker.

After Vangilder had singled in the third Durst was sent in to run for him and Pruett took up the pitching burden. Dykes, the first batter to face Shucks sent a single to right. Scheer bunted and both runners were safe when Collins threw over McManus' head. Jake recovered the ball and made a poor throw to first and Dykes went to third. Welch batted for Naylor and singled to left, scoring Dykes and McGowan's safe bunt filled the bases.

The Fadeaway at Work.

Thereupon Pruett struck his stride and the Mackmen could not strike anything but air for the rest of the inning. Perkins shook his head as a third strike curved over the plate with such a sudden break that he had no chance to swing at it. Walker took a swing at each strike, but he was as helpless swinging as Perkins had been with his bat on his shoulder.

Hauser saw the discomfiture of Perkins and Walker and made up his mind to have his swings. But that's all he got. Pruett's fadeaway was working in perfect order and the three sluggers did not get a good foul.

Connie Mack Orders Series of Bunts Trying to Find Pruett's Weakness

Miller opened the next inning with a bunt. Connie Mack evidently decided that it was of no avail to swing hard at Pruett's curves and ordered a different style of attack. Miller stole second and went to third on Galloway's roller to Gerber. Mack then ordered the squeeze play and it worked perfectly, Dykes bunting and going out, Pruett to McManus, Miller scoring. With the bases empty and two out Scheer again shifted to a swinging attack and struck out for his pains. In the sixth Harris and McGowan put down slow rollers to Pruett and Perkins fouled to Sisler.

Wright Finishes Game.

Pruett retired after pitching the seventh. Walker opened that inning with a double to left, but after being sacrificed to third he stayed there while Miller fouled to Collins and Galloway grounded to Ellerbe.

The Mackmen succeeded in scoring two runs on Pruett, but the one was due to errors and the other was produced before he had warmed up sufficiently to strike his best pitching stride. Wright finished the game and prevented further scoring.

Those six runs, however, were sufficient, in the face of Harris' fine pitching and the double plays which aided him.

How the Browns Scored.

The Fohlmen scored one in the first on Ellerbe's walk, an infield out and Williams' single to center. Another came in the fourth when Vangilder, Tobin, Sisler and Williams singled. Unfortunate base running prevented the Browns from scoring more in this frame, though the chances taken were justifiable at the time.

The third St. Louis run developed in the eighth on an error by Galloway and Jacobson's double.

McGowan almost spoiled Harris' party in the ninth. Collins started

Defeat for the Browns or Victory for Yanks Will Settle Race Today

EITHER a defeat for the Browns or a victory for the Yankees today will clinch the American League pennant for New York. The Browns have only four games remaining on their schedule so that if they were to win all of them and the Yanks suffered defeat in all five of their remaining contests, the best the Browns could gain would be a tie for first place, as the Yankees, by winning yesterday while the Browns lost, increased their lead to four and a half games.

The Browns play the Athletics today and then finish the season with three games with the Chicago White Sox. New York plays in Cleveland today and then finishes with three games at Boston and one at Washington.

Kammann Defeats Fred Josties for Triple A Honors

DOUBLES 4 P. M.

Millicent Endicott - Alvin Schwarz, vs. Etta Roever-Karl Kammann, for Municipal Mixed Doubles Championship.

Both contests will take place on Court No. 13. Admission free.

By Davison Obear.

The men's singles event of the Triple A Club tennis championship came to a close yesterday afternoon when the final round was played. Karl Kammann defeated Fred O. Josties for the title in a hard fought contest which went the limit of five sets. The final score was 5-7, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5.

Kammann and Josties battled for two hours and 21 minutes on court No. 2 at Triple A before a decision was reached. The match was one of the hardest fought in the history of the tournament. Josties had the title almost in his grasp in the last set when he led Kammann at 5 to . in games and 40-30 in the fifth set. He netted the next point and Kammann won three games and the set.

Veterans Are Passing.

The defeat of Josties by Kammann yesterday indicates the passing of leadership of two players who have reigned supreme in local tennis for the past eight years. Wray Brown and Kammann have succeeded Ted Drewes and Josties as ranking players this season. While Kammann has not played Drewes this year he has defeated Elmer Schwarz and Ted Heuerman and is certain to be ranked third and possibly second as Drewes has played in only two events.

In the match yesterday there were a number of close games. Of the 51 games played only 5 were won at love. Kammann started the first set by winning four games to Josties' one one. Josties overcame a lead of 5 to 3 however and won the first set. The second was easier and he lost only two games.

Kammann Wins Uphill Fight.

Kammann saved himself by winning the third set. He took the lead at the start and kept it although Josties trailed but one game behind toward the end. After a 10-minute rest the new Triple A champion took the court and by some brilliant playing captured the fourth set. With the score three-all Kammann forged ahead, winning three straight games.

The last set was very exciting and for the first eight games it looked like Josties would have no trouble annexing the title. He ran the score up to 5 to 3. Kammann fought hard at this stage and by steady playing, aided by Josties' errors, brought the set to deuce. The eleventh game went to deuce, but Kammann won it and the next taking the set at 7-5.

PRUETT STRIKES OUT 3 MEN WITH BASES FULL; HARRIS HALTS FOHLMEN

the inning by watching a third strike. Garber beat out a bunt and scored when Chick Shorten, batting for Wright, doubled to right center. Tobin tried to bunt, but popped a foul to Perkins and the 6000 spectators started a rush for the exits when Ellerbe sent an easy fly to McGowan. But the centerfielder dropped it and Shorten scored.

Sisler Fans to End Game.

That put the Browns within one run of a tie and brought up Sisler with the tying run on first. Perkins looked to Mack for aid when Harris pitched two balls to Sisler, but Mack refused to remove "Slim." His confidence was justified when Sisler swung and missed a high one outside for a third strike.

In the second inning, with McManus on second and Collins on first, Gerber popped to Scheer and McManus was doubled off second.

Again in the fourth McManus was on second and Collins on first when Gerber came to bat. This time Walker came in for a fine catch of a short fly and his throw to Scheer completed another double play, as McManus was near the plate when the catch was made.

Harris was saved by another double play in the sixth. Williams opened that inning with a single to center and stopped at second on Jacobson's single to right. Williams advanced while McManus was forcing Jake at second and Collins hit into a double play, Dykes to Scheer to Hauser.

Mack's infield looked better yesterday than it has this season. But it is a young combination and, therefore, inclined to play ragged baseball at times. However, if [illegible] can keep it together it may be the foundation of another championship aggregation.

The final of the series will be played this afternoon and it should be [illegible] attraction. Ed Rommel, [illegible] second to Sisler among the most valuable players in the league, is due to pitch for the Mackmen. He will face Urban Shocker [illegible]

CAR BUILDERS PLAY WHITE ROSES TODAY

Today, at Mount Vernon, Ill., the Car Builders and the White Rose Club of Belleville will start a three-game series for the title of champions of the Trolley League. The league schedule this year was split into two sections. The White Roses captured the first half of the season, one full game ahead of the Car Builders, while the latter came through in the last half by the same margin.

Both teams are well fortified for this series and the fans at Mount Vernon and at Belleville will be given first-class baseball when the two factions take the field to fight for the semipro pennant.

Managers Reichert of the White Rose team will use Hi Jasper today against the home team with White on the receiving end. Boss Elders has not decided who will get the appointment for the Car Builders.

MISSES ENDICOTT AND ROEVER WIN NET TITLE

The women's doubles tennis tournament for the city championship came to a close yesterday afternoon. In the final on the courts in Forest Park near the Jefferson Memorial, Etta Roever and Millicent Endicott won the title by defeating Mrs. J. V. Allison and Angelica Henske in straight sets, 6—0, 6—4.

In a semi-final round match in the women's singles Millicent Endicott defeated Lottie Hagemeyer in a close contest. The first set required 10 games while the second set was not so close. Miss Endicott won by a score of 6—4, 6—2. She will meet Etta Roever for the title this afternoon.

Eastcott Defeats Argentine Four In Special Match

American Polo Team, Playing From Scratch, Wins, 8 to 7.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—Eastcott, the Anglo-American polo four, won an exciting extra period match from Argentine, the English and American champions, by the score of 8 goals to 7.

Both teams started from the flat. Eastcott led until the eighth period, when the Argentine tied the Anglo-Americans by making three goals.

In the final period Argentine narrowly missed scoring and then Eastcott drove down the field and Hurndall scored the winning goal after a scrimmage in one minute and 15 seconds of play.

Argentine consented to the special match, but had to use a number of local ponies because some of their own were being shipped to Long Island for next week's Meadowbrooke tournament. The two-goal handicap held by Eastcott in the Philadelphia tournament was waived and both teams started from the flat.

Dodgers Ruin Pirates' Chances

Brooklyn Aids Giants by Defeating Pittsburg in Two Games.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Brooklyn helped the Giants pennantward today by taking both games of a double-header from Pittsburg, 9 to 5 and 5 to 1. The batting of Tom and Bert Griffith was a big factor in the Dodgers' victories. Tom's double and homer figured in scoring six of Brooklyn's runs in the first game, while Bert's double and triple started the Dodgers' scoring in the fourth and eighth innings of the second contest. Glazner was driven out of the box in the first game and Cooper was hit hard in the second, while Ruether and Decatur twirled steadily for the home team. The clubs will play another double-header tomorrow. Score:

Central Eleven Defeats Alumni In Opening Game

Jim Lincoln, Anzalone, Yorger and Other Former Stars Beaten 33 to 6.

Central High School opened its 1922 football season with a victory over the Red and Black Alumni, yesterday by defeating the old grads by a 33 to 6 score.

The Alumni presented a team of former stars, including Jim Lincoln, Oris Poupeney, Tony Anzalone and Jim Yorger. The school eleven completely outplayed the old stars and, because of superior condition, rolled up a large point total until Coach Walker substituted players in the second and fourth quarters.

Central scored twice in the opening period when Larry Fanning twice carried the ball over, after a series of forward passes. The Alumni pushed a score over in the second quarter on a pass from Lincoln to Anzalone.

A fumbled punt resulted in the third touchdown for Central and another was added when Kittlaus snared a long pass. In the last session Kittlaus took the ball through the Alumni line for a final point.

Walker Selects First Team.

Coach Walker was well pleased with the showing of his team. He used approximately 30 men in the contest. The coach selected regulars for a majority of positions, this year, and is now centering his instructions on the favored few.

Kittlous, Hebberger and Kessler, all of the last year squad, are the likely selections for the backfield jobs. Larry Fanning has distanced all quarterback rivals. Goeckel, Kutterer and Goldberg have the inner track on the wings and will be supported by Schultz and Capt. Leneisch at the tackles. Seymour and Slaice are favored for the guards and Miller for the pivot.

Soldan 23, Ranken 0.

Coach Jimmie Cook of Soldan High School looked over his 1922 football entry in action for the first time, Saturday morning, when the eleven met and defeated Ranken, 23 to 0, and expressed himself as well pleased with the initial workout. Cook has a large number of big and heavy boys, but the large majority are entirely devoid of prior football instruction.

Fiske at center and Teddy Eichler at quarterback made a very smooth working combination. Capt. Meston, Walsh, Hill and Sarazen performed well in the backfield and would have rolled up a higher point total had not the coach called for a kicking game in the second half. Cook had the men booting whenever the 25-yard mark was reached.

Butts and Henselman at the guards and Helser and Freinberg at tackle held the Ranken rushers on all line plays and have favorably impressed the coach. Meyer and Lipman, two big rangy lads, are the best looking men aspiring for the wing positions.

Coach Cook is being assisted by Coach White of the basketball team.

Indians' Defense Weak, Yanks Win

Sherrod Smith and Uhle Pitch Good Ball but Lose, 7 to 6.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Poor support back of Sherrod Smith, former Brooklyn pitcher, who hurled his first game for Cleveland today, and Uhle, who succeeded him, enabled the Yankees to take the second game of the series, 7 to 6. Successive home runs by Summa and Gardner figured in a four-run rally by Cleveland in the fifth when Sam Jones was driven from the box. Hoyt, who relieved Jones, was found for successive doubles by Wood and McInnis, the first two men to face him, but after that inning he pitched good ball, holding the Indians scoreless in the seventh when they filled the bases with no one out. Manager Speaker went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth, but fanned. Score:

Wray's Column

Battle of the Check Books.

ALMOST beyond possibility of accident intervening, two New York teams, built up on the bought-and-paid-for plan, will for the second successive year contest for world's baseball honors—not to mention some four or five thousand "seeds" per each individual player participating.

The success of these two teams, both the obvious result of large sums of money spent on purchases of experienced talent, is an embarrassing contradiction of the allegations of those club owners who have held that pennant winners are built, not bought. We would all like to think that intelligent selection and training of raw material can successfully combat the building by bank-book theory.

But pigs is pigs and facts is facts.

It is plain that the two New York clubs have accomplished all they desired by the expenditure of money in larger quantities than their rivals could afford.

Connie Mack Tried.

BY way of contrast we may point to the Fabian policy of that human filament, Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy, who answers to the baseball call of Connie Mack. Connie tried the building plan. He estimated three years as the time limit he would require to reproduce the $100,000 infield and its concomitants of pitching and outfielding without heavy money investment.

Since Cornelius made the declaration after breaking down his world's champions it has been eight seasons. It is true that the Athletics are at last out of the cellar; but they are only one position removed and that is due to the acquisition of a single star, Rommel, and not to the development of a team.

New York, where they MUST have contending teams at all hazards, is an object lesson to the ambitious club owner seeking a pennant. The thought is: Purchase is quicker than development.

Something Out of Nothing.

CLUB owners have many arguments against the purchase system of building. They point to the fact that the Cubs, which cost Charles Murphy and Charles Taft only $105,000 for players, franchise and all, won four pennants. They can cite the Philadelphia National wrecks, that won a flag, and the Cincinnati Patmorans that won a tainted world's title, as object lessons. They may even cite the case of the Browns, assembled at small cost, but still a strong pennant factor this year.

But these are the exceptions. In modern days the money can round up the developed talent better and faster than formerly, and today the big purse is better than the big stick.

It Appears to Be "In."

LOOKING over the world's series prospects, a lot of time and space will be wasted in considering the chances of the respective clubs. As it now stands, the Yankees are quoted at 3 to 5 against. In other words, whether the Giants or the Pirates win the National League race, you will have to put up $5 to win $3 of the bookmaker's money, if you want to bet on the Yankees to win the world's series.

The situation is this: The Giants and Yanks can hardly lose their respective league championships; and the Yankees are a 5-to- 3 chance odds on to win from the Giants, owing to pitching superiority.

The Yankees have five "ace" pitchers. Any one of them, the worst perhaps, is better than the best of the Giants' hurlers, who have had to be relieved continually in game after game. The Yankees have been coming strong, the Giants have been wavering. The American League seems better this year than the National.

Further than this arguments are futile.

The Greatest Ever?

BASEBALL fans, considering the selection of Sisler as the greatest player of the year, are pleased that such a modest young man has won high position. But some of the old-timers who hark back to the days of Ty Cobb's prime are wondering if Sisler is justly entitled to the honor of being considered the greatest player of ALL time.

That's a hard nut to crack. And yet there are facts upon which to found an opinion. Ty Cobb at his best was a more formidable man than Sisler, on attack. At his zenith he had a higher batting average, stole more bases and achieved a higher extra base total than Sisler, although it appeared that up to the time of his injury Sisler would surpass Cobb in these particulars this year.

On defense Cobb never had an infield post as did Sisler, so that perhaps their total effectiveness might be balanced by this. But if you leave it to the old-timer he will tell you that Cobb was the greatest attacking force that ever lived. For Tyrus to get on base was on many occasions, the signal for disorganization of the enemy defense and of the opposing pitcher's morale.

In his prime, when pitchers were pitchers, when umps did not throw in a new ball for almost every batter, Cobb led the world in hitting and almost doubled Sisler's 1922 record for stealing bases.

If the old guard of Managers like McGraw, Jennings, Duffy and others were offered their choice of Cobb or Sisler, presuming both to be in their prime, the selection would probably depend on whether the manager making the choice needed an outfielder or a first baseman.

Cobb has been in the major league game a long time. That he is still able to shoulder the cares of management and run Sisler a good race for first honors is sufficient testimony as to what he was in his prime.

Think This Over.

AND this brings us to a point that will come up at the next meeting of the American League Trophy Committee. It is this: Whether, when the bronze and marble monument to the famous ball players of their day is erected at Potomac Park with the indorsement of Congress, it would be advisable to make the honors retroactive. That is, to have the committee select the players of past seasons since the beginning of the American League who dominated their organization for the respective years in which they stood out.

The idea is that the permanent record of the monument should not omit such wonderful players of their time as Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Napoleon Lajoie and others.

It is a good thought. A monument to great baseball players without the name of one of the greatest players of the century—Ty Cobb—would not truly reflect baseball history.

Voting for Sisler.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to inquire how the 59 points were cast for Sisler. It can't be figured, without having the key. By all the records Sisler should have counted 64 points—in other words, eight committee men were expected to vote for him first. They dnd not. The mystery remains as to what player was chosen by one committeeman as better than Sisler.

The rules permit a wide latitude of selection. The conditions of the choice call for the naming of the player "most valuable to his team." A player on a tail-end team might mean more to his club than Sisler did to the Browns.

Spend the afternoon hunting such a man, if you having nothing to do.

MOBILE RALLIES, TIES SCORE IN NINTH; GAME HALTED BY DARKNESS

MONROE PARK, MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 23.—Fort Worth and Mobile battled till darkness in the Dixie series here today. The score was tied by Mobile in the ninth, the game ending 6 to 6 in the tenth inning. Hard hitting on both sides featured the contest. Wachtel and Henry, who started the game, were both taken out.

Mobile came back after being seemingly defeated when First Baseman Huhn drove the ball over the right field fence, scoring Mullen ahead of him. Mobile had made two runs in this inning before Huhn's timely drive occurred.

In the eighth Fort Worth forged ahead by scoring two runs, but Mobile came back in the ninth after two men were out. Baker singled to center and Schulte, who was sent in to bat for Fluton, was walked. D. Williams then scored Baker with a single against the right field fence. Cueto then ended the inning by popping out to third.

The two teams will meet tomorrow afternoon.

WHITE SOX POUND JOHNSON AND WIN 8-3

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Chicago pounded the etVeran Walter Johnson hard today and easily defeated Washington, 8 to 3. Hooper, Sheely, Mostil and Schalk led the attack for the locals, Schalk having a perfect day at bat with four hits, while Hooper and Sheely each poled a brace of doubles and Mostil smashed out a double and a homer. Gorham Leverette pitcher in fine form and did not have to exert himself. Chicago's victory coupled with Detroit's defeat by Boston, placed the locals one-half game out of third place. Score:

Four Mound City 'Pro' Teams Will Seek U. S. Title

Champion Scullins, Millers, De Andreis and Vesper Buicks Enter Competition.

With the Eastern office handling the details of schedule-making for both the East and the West in the United States Football Association championship series this season, a new honor has fallen to the lot of Winton E. Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer League. Barker has been named Western Commissioner.

This new office means that Barker will have supervision of the referees and delegates in all contests played in the Western division. It will be up to him to name the officials to handle the games, and also to select U. S. F. A. representatives, as soon as the drawings have been made at the New York office.

This was done to get competent officials for the battles for the highest honor in soccer, at present held by the Scullins of this city.

The St. Louis League will again enter its four teams in the competition. In fact, the managers of the local professional elevens sent their entries East during the past week. The entries for the national competition close today. It is expected that more elevens than ever will take part. Last season more than 100 teams fought for the championship finally won by the Scullins.

Four League Teams Seek Cup.

The Scullins will defend their championship this season, while the other professional elevens to compete in the battles will be the Ben Millers, De Andreis and Vesper-Buicks, formerly St. Louis Screw Co. Tate Brady, Pete Ratican, Willie Foley and Harry McCarthy will again manage the St. Louis teams.

At a meeting held the past week, it was decided to open the St. Louis League season Oct. 15, with the games again being played at High School Field.

The same referees—Phil Kavanaugh and Paul McSweeney—will be in charge of the contests. In addition, Bill Bascom and "Butch" Ammons have been appointed as linesmen.

Todd Eleven Disbands.

The Todd Shipyard eleven, which last season lost the national championship to the Scullins in the final played here, will not be entered in the competition this year. The concern will not be represented by an eleven. Then John Drysdale, manager of the outfit, has been indefinitely expelled from soccer, because of the charges he made in regards to the final played here in March.

Drysdale's expulsion was finally voted upon by the national commission of the U. S. F. A. at a meeting held in Pittsburg, some time ago. At this meeting, Thomas W. Cahill was named as secretary of the organization for the coming year.

F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is the new sponsor for Harry McCarthy's team. He is but a recent convert to soccer. He saw his first game last spring when he stood in the rain at High School Field and watched the Scullins triumph over the Todds of Brooklyn in a match for the national championship.

Billy Foley, manager of the De Andreis Club, has signified that he will change the name of his club also. A ruling made by the national executive body several months ago prohibits any team from using the name of a fraternal or religious lodge or council unless all the members of the team are members of that lodge or council. This law, Foley states, will force him to abandon the name De Andreis, the name of a council in the Knights of Columbus.

Foley has not yet closed negotiations for the change of the name of his team.

Barker yesterday was the recipient of a gold medal presented to him by the United States Football Association in recognition of his work as chairman of the Western Division last season. He has been named commissioner of the Missouri district for the coming season. In this capacity he will supervise the handling of all national challenge cup games in Missouri, Southern and Central Illinois. He will appoint referees, linesmen and delegates.

PITTSBURG ELEVEN TO FACE STANFORD DEC. 30; WARNER COACH OF BOTH

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Two football teams, each coached by Glenn Warner, the noted gridiron mentor, will get into action against each other when Stanford and Pittsburg play Dec. 30.

Warner is head coach at Pittsburg and advisory coach at Stanford. According to present plans he will come to the Palo Alto institution when his Pittsburg contract expires in 1925. At present Andy Kerr, who learned his football under Warner, has charge of the Stanford team.

WESTERN M. A. CADETS DEFEAT GRANITE CITY, SCORING 6 TOUCHDOWNS

Western Military Academy's football team scored an easy victory over the Granite City High School football team, yesterday afternoon, on the grounds of the W. M. A. Cadets at Alton, score, 40 to 0.

The cadets scored six touchdowns and four goals after touchdown, missing two attempts at goal from scrimmage, following touchdowns.

Under the new rules the Cadets had the option of trying to score on one play in any manner they saw fit. Although the kicks failed, the Cadets four times scored the additional point after touchdown, twice by forward passes over the line, twice by end runs.

We Take It From Yesterday's Race That the Mad Hatter Was Hardly Up to Derby Form

Mad Hatter Sulks And Runs Last in Aqueduct Feature

Odds-on Favorite Pins Ears Back and Quits — Prince James Scores Fifth Straight Victory.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Prince James, carrying the orange and green cross-sashes of Charles H. [illegible], galloped to easy victory in the Aqueduct handicap of $10.000 with Mad Hatter, winner of the Jockey Club gold cup a week ago and a hot favorite at odds-on, a bad last in a field of six, at the Aqueduct track, today.

One of the largest crowds of the season cheered, as crowds will when horses battle through the stretch. But it was a half-hearted cheer from the shock of seeing one of the really great horses of the American turf trailing up far back of the leaders and completely out of contention.

Prince James, a four-year-old, son of King James, was in the handicap under 105 pounds, and did not lack for followers in view of the fact that he had won four straight races at Aqueduct and Saratoga Springs. He will have a bigger following the next time he goes to the post, as his race was truly impressive.

Comes From Rear to Win.

Last of the field rounding the first turn, he gradually improved his position in the run up the back stretch when Bon Homme was sailing along several lengths in front. He caught the latter turning for home, and in less time than it takes to tell it opened up a gap and came away to win easily by four lengths.

The real battle developed for the place, and the Quincy stable's Captain Alcock, winner of the Suburban Handicap last June, beat R. T. Wilson's Sedgefield in a whipping, driving finish by a margin so narrow that only the judges could decide between them.

Prince James not only won, but established a new track record for the mile and five-sixteenths by running the distance in 2.11. The old mark was 2.11 4-5, set by Harry Payne Whitney's Damask in winning the same race a year ago, under 108 pounds.

Mad Hatter Sulked, Sande Says.

Mad Hatter sulked. Earle Sande, who had the mount, is authority for the statement. On being bumped and carried out round the last turn, he pinned back his ears and refused to extend himself further. When hopelessly beaten in the last furlong the boy eased him up.

No doubt Mad Hatter was still feeling the effects of his two-mile race the week before and when he could not have things his own way expressed his irritation by giving up where he usually can be counted on to run his strongest.'

Sedgefield closed a big gap to reach a contending position and looked for a time as if he would earn the place. Callahan saved every inch of ground possible in the run through the stretch by coming through on the rail but Capt Alcock was just a bit stronger in the closing strides. Bon Homme stopped badly after going a mile, while Devastation ran as if he were beginning to stale off.

After the finish the stewards sent for Ensor and Joe Mooney and for a time it looked as if Capt Alcock would be disqualified on charge that Mooney had used his whip unfairly rounding the first turn. Mooney went around that first turn whipping to hold his position with Capt Alcock and denied using it on any horse but his own. Ensor, who rode Bon Homme, told the stewards that it had not hampered or bothered him and so the race was confirmed.

Pikers to Start Serious Training

Baldy Thumser and Al Schnaus Report — School Opens Thursday.

The Piker football squad, which has been practicing twice daily for the past ten days, will begin intensive scrimmage work this week. Although the entire squad is not expected to assemble before the opening of school Thursday, all of the veterans have reported.

Baldy Thumser and Al Schnaus reported yesterday. Both were in good condition as a result of regular exercise during the summer. Coach Rider has announced his intention to use this pair as reguair wing men, in which case the Pikers will have a pair of ends second to none in the Valley.

The squad has made noticeable progress during the past week. Most of the practice sessions have been devoted to running, kicking and handling the ball, together with daily discussions of football tactics and signal drill. Coach Rider, as usual, has been directing the workouts, with Coach Applegran drilling the line and Coach Davis the backfield candidates.

The Pikers' first game is less than two weeks off, the contest being with the Rolla Miners at Francis Field, Oct. 7. This game is usually regarded by the Red and Green as a preseason practice game, the season's first real struggle coming here the following Saturday when the Kansas Aggies outfit calls. The Aggies last year gave the Pikers a severe trimming of the season, winning 21 to 0, and the Pikers are working hard to avenge the defeat. The Aggie game is expected to indicate the Piker chances for a successful gridiron year.

The "Touch" Plays Important Part in Sport

Municipal Teams Play Final Game Of Series Today

Hezels and Prendergast Nines Split Even in Double-Header Last Week.

The third and final contest of the series between the Hezels and Prendergasts to decide the Municipal Baseball Association championship, will be played at Fairground No. 1 this afternoon. A preliminary contest between the Perpetual Help and Grace teams to decide the junior championship will start at 1 o'clock.

The Prendergasts will be crippled for today's battle because of the absence of two stars, Catcher Paddy Albrecht, who is out with an injured thumb, and "Whitey" Weitkamp, first sacker, who has a bad hip. McBride and Harris will probably replace them in the batting order today.

An admission of 25 cents will be chargedq to today's double-header. The junior game will be stopped at 3 o'clock to permit the start of the championship battle.

Tilden and Other Champions in Athletics Employ the "Touch"

This Must Be There Naturally and Cannot Be Drilled Into Individual by Training—Gans Had It Devoloped Perfectly—Weissmuller and Paddock Examples.

By Robert Edgren.

(Copyright, 1922.)

I never saw a finer example of the "touch" in sports than Big Bill Tilden gave recently in the first of the Davis cup matches at Forest Hills.

Big Bill's mastery of every twist with his racquet was amazing, even after watching him in other cup matches for years.

At the slightest turn of Tilden's wrist the ball flew like a bullet. He couldn't have driven it harder with a full-arm sweep. It reminded me of Maurice McLoughlin when the Comet used to break a racquet every little while with his terrific forearm drives. But Tilden did it with a wrist twist in which his arm moved hardly at all and his hand moved only a few inches, like that of old Bob Fitzsimmons in his famous "six-inch knockouts."

Once Tilden shot the ball near Patterson's feet like a streak of light. Patterson reached for it. A smack—and Patterson's racquet flew out of his hand and went whirling through the air 20 feet away. Patterson stood looking at his hand, which had been wrenched open.

Tilden "just played tennis" with the Australian until he was ready to finish it. Then those bullet-like wrist drives, perfectly placed and unreachable, left Patterson so helplessly anchored through the last set that it looked as if he was giving it up and waiting to be counted out. But that wasn't Patterson's trouble. It was simply useless to reach for a ball that had passed before his eye registered its flight.

Did Same Thing to Shimizu.

Tilden did the same thing once to Shimizu, the Japanese contender. Shimizu was two sets to the good, and within a stroke of winning the third set and the match. Then Tilden suddenly turned loose his magical tennis touch and won three sets and the match, without giving Shimizu a single chance to score.

The Japanese used all his speed and skill, but he might as well have been sitting on the court in a rocking chair with a soup spoon in one hand instead of a racquet.

Champions in other branches of sport almost always have the "touch" that places them in a clas above contenders who are merely strong or quick or skillful. It's something that can't be drilled into an athlete by training. It has to be there naturally. Training can only develop it a little.

With a fighter it puts the K. O. into a blow at the instant of landing.

Stanley Ketchel, years ago, astonished the Northwest by knocking out about 40 more or less skillful fighters, when he was only a cowboy with a natural love for fighting that made him leave the range and live in a Montana town where bouts were held.

He never had a boxing lesson, but he was a master boxer from the start because the "touch' was born in him. Later I saw him knock out clever Jack O'Brien in New York. The skill learned in 10 years boxing with champions couldn't save O'Brien from Ketchel's blows.

Kid McCoy Had the Touch.

Ketchel was born with a knack of timing and placing punches, just as a musician is born with an ear for harmony and an artist with an eye for color.

If Tom Sharkey had been gifted with Ketchel's "touch" no man living could ever have beaten him. He won a lot of fights by sheer aggressive slugging, hardly knowing where his blows would land. When he fought Kid McCoy—a genius with a "touch" at the end of each arm that gave him amazing hitting power for a slightly built man—Sharkey was knocked down twice so cleanly that his feet flew up and he struck on his shoulder blades. He only beat McCoy by wearing him out and roughing him. With McCoy's "touch"—his instinct for hitting—Sharkey could have beaten Jeffries.

Fitzsimmons had the 'touch." He fought the way Tilden plays tennis, waiting, studying his man, tiring his man, and then timing hits that were irresistible knockout blows. I asked Fitz once how he knocked out Sharkey, Ruhlin and other tougn men so easily with body blows. Fitz thought it over a minute and said:

"I see the way they breathe and time the punch to get there when their breath is out."

Timing a punch to land when an opponent has just expelled his breath is a rather neat operation, and no boxer without "the touch" could do it.

Johnny Kilbane used to have "the touch." He may have it still. Kilbane was a fast boxer. He liked to dance around other fighters and tap them neatly without knocking them out. He liked to make them look foolish. And he could do it with but the slightest risk, because his sense of timing was perfect. But when he wanted to win with a knockout, he could time a knockout punch as easily as a tap.

Gans Also Had the "Touch."

Joe Gans had "the touch" for fighting developed more perfectly than any other fighter in his class. He stood close, moved only a few inches with head and body, blocked blows and drove in perfectly timed counters.

Ed Flanagan, a musician, took up golf. As long as he tried to follow the orthodox style of handling clubs he couldn't drive a ball over 150 yards. One day, disgusted and ready to give up trying to become a golfer, he had an insporation.

"I'll set it to music," he said. Flanagan began singing and swinging his driver in time to the music, forgetting that he was trying to hit a ball. Within a week he was driving 250 yards, and he's been doing that or better ever since. He applied his natural "touch" to golf.

Johnny Weismuller has a natural "touch" applied to his swimming strokes. He has broken all swimming records easily. He has a naturally timed kick they call an "eight beat" kick. He arches his back, making his body a sort of an equaplane—or hydroplane.

The multiple kick is delivered, not on the surface, but just beneath the surface, where there is no suction or loss of propelling power through massed air bubbles and broken water.

His chest rides the water like the hull of a hydroplane, reducing what boat racing men call "skin friction" to a minimum and lifting him several inches. At the same time his shoulders are higher out of water and his arms freer through the strokes than the shoulders and arms of other swimmers, which again eliminates friction and resistance. His head is so high above water that he doesn't need a half turn to breathe, but turns only an inch or two, which cuts out more effort and friction and water resistance. His arms and legs "time" perfectly. It is his natural "touch" for swimming. Some people call it a "knack." It's more than that. It's the same feeling for time and rhythm and ease that makes a great boxer or runner.

Paddock Runs to Rhythm.

Last time I saw Charlie Paddock run I asked him how he was able to suddenly increase his speed for the final rush and leap at the tape. He had just run 175 yards in 17 seconds flat, making a world's record for the distance and seeming to almost double his speed in the last few strides.

"How can you move your legs any faster than they're going?" I wanted to know.

"It isn't that," said Paddock. "If I tried to move my legs faster, I'd probably break my stride and get so tangled up that I'd go flat on my face. The slightest break at that speed is fatal. It just seems to me that when I'm running, everything is going to music—arms, legs and everything keeipnk perfect time. When I must have more speed the rhythm speeds up. I'm not conscious of moving my legs or arms faster. It's the rhythm—the beat—the music that quickens."

That's the touch that makes Paddock a great world's champion. The strongest, most agile legs in the world wouldn't do him a bit of good if he didn't have that streak of rhythm running through him.

It may be that a large part of "the touch" that goes for skill in sports is only setting action to music. I'd like to hear from John McCormack on that. He's a bug on athletics.

Molesworth, Former Birmingham Boss, To Manage Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.

CARLTON MOLESWORTH, who managed the Birmingham team in the Southern Association from 1910 to 1921, and who in that time finished outside the first division only once, today signed a contract to manage the Columbus baseball team of the American Association next season. He succeeds Clarence W. Rowland, former manager of the White Sox. Molesworth has been scouting for the Pittsburg Pirates this season.

Billikens to Try Out Many Players Against Teachers

First Game of Season at St. Louis University Looked Upon as Practice Event.

The selection of 11 men who will start play for the Blue and White of St. Louis University in the opening game of this season's football campaign next Saturday, has been deferred by Head Coach O'Rourke. A large number of the players will be used during the contest—that is as much as the Billiken coach would say. The opposing team will be the Cape Girardeau Normal eleven.

At the present time there is a strong probability that the ends will be manned by Tommy Kelly and Avis. "Dutch" Harlow is suffering from a bad ankle and may not enter the game. Schmitt, Schwartz and Krug are the leading choices for the tackle berths Saturday. "Tubby" Quirk is not in the best of condition and an old injury to his leg has suffered a relapse.

McCarthy and Kalkman will start at the guards; but as in the other positions the coach contemplates frequent changes. There is an abundance of line material on the squad and O'Rourke is eager to see some of the newcomers in action.

Eggler to Call Signals.

Three backfield combinations will be tried out. The best two will include McKenzie and McConachie, at halfback, with Klausner at fullback. The bulky backs such as Quigley and Hannegan, will be used, Saturday, if the down-State teachers surrise the locals and hold the Billiken machine. Hannegan hurt his shoulder yesterday, although the injury is not regarded as serious.

Selvin Gerraghty will play at the pivot position and Capt. Eggler will guide the team and call signals. The kicking and passing will be handled by Klausner who has shown good ability in practice sessions.

The Saturday game will be played at the St. Louis University Campus, Oakland and King's highway. The Notre Dame contest is at South Bend, Ind. The remaining games on the Blue and White schedule will be staged at Sportsman's Park.

KINSEY BROTHERS WILL PLAY EXHIBITION AT TRIPLE A TOMORROW

Robert and Howard Kinsey, the crack California tennis players, will arrive in St. Louis tonight from New York where they took part in the East vs. West matches. The Kinseys will play an exhibition at Triple A tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

The Triple A Tennis Committee announced last night that the Kinseys would be seen in action if there was no rain at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. If the clay courts are not in condition due to previous rain the exhibition will take place on the new "wet weather" courts east of the club house. The surface of these courts is of roofing material.

Johnston Defeats Bill Tilden in East-West Match

Californian Touches Pinnacle of His Game to Beat Champion, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, 6-0.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The amazing victory of William M. Johnston over William T. Tilden II overshadowed all else in the lawn tennis battles of the East and West at Forest Hills today.

From his side of the net the California lifted his speed until the long legs of Big Bill failed to catch up with the ball. Little Bill touched the pinnacle of his game as he beat the man who had defeated him a week ago at Philadelphia. The score was 6—3, 4—6, 8—6, 6—0.

So far as the intersectional series on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club was concerned, the twelfth meeting of the West and East ended in a tie. The East carried off three victories, by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, and Vincent Richards in the singles and by Tilden and Richards in doubles. The players of the Pacific Coast scored in the singles, Johnston, Robert Kinsey and Howard Kinsey accounting for the tallies.

The match in the doubles between R. Norris Williams II and Watson M. Washburn, the Davis Cup veterans, and the Kinsey brothers of Californian came to an abrupt and unsatisfactory ending at the fourth set. The latter were compelled to leave the court to catch their train for the homeward journey. They had played ably and well in a battle filled with thrilling rallies, in which Williams, with his cross court volleys and timely overhanders, was equal to any two of the men on the courts. The score at the time the match stopped, with the Eastern pair leading, was 6—1, 9—7, 9—11, 5-all. Samuel Hardy, the referee, with the consent of the players, agreed to eliminate the contest from the score in the intersectional series.

In the two victories which the East tallied Mrs. Mallory defeated Miss Mary K. Browne at 6—3, 6—8, and Richards, in an engagement that was shortened to three sets because of the gathering twilight, outplayed Willis E. Davis by a score of 4—6, 6—3, 7—5.

The East won the intersectional series played on the Pacific Coast earlier in the year, three matches to two, and in the nine-team contests prior to the one just finished has won five times to four for the West. Total matches for the series played since 1915 shows 34 victories for the East and 29 for the West.

MARATHON AND GRID GAME ON PROGRAM AT FERGUSON SATURDAY

A marathon run and football game between the high school teams of Ferguson and Univeristy City will be among the feature events of the good roads celebration to be held in Ferguson, Saturday, Oct. 14. The celebration will be in connection with the completion of Florissant road as a concrete highway through Ferguson for a distance of about a mile and a half. The rebuilding of the road cost $70,000.

tI was announced by William Donovan, chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration, that the J. C. Harris Lumber Co. of Ferguson had offered a silver loving cup for the school winning the marathon. It is planned to have school children from all county towns take part in the celebration.

The affair will open with a decorated automobile parade into St. Louis. The afternoon program will be devoted to athletic events, while in the evening a vaudeville program and a boxing match is planned. All entertainment will be free.

SURVEY OF ST. LOUIS CUSTODIAL INSTITUTIONS PROVES DOCTORS AND PSYCHIATRISTS CAN DO MORE THAN POLICE IN HANDLING THE CITY'S DELINQUENTS

Examination of Inmates Reveals That Large Percentage Are Repeated Offenders and That as Many as 75 Per Cent Suffer From Physical or Mental Diseases Which Explains Misconduct.

Chief Recommendation of Committee Is Program of Crime Prevention Based on Establishment of Psychiatric Clinics to Identify and Correct Disorders, Preventing Repeated Handling of Cases.

Striking Percentage of Repeated Offenders Among Those Examined

"THE striking percentage of recidivism (repeated offenses) among the inmates of the city's custodial institutions is proof of the breaking down of the security furnished society against criminals.

"We cannot go on multiplying social organizations, institutions, hospitals and court machinery for handling over and over and over again, apparently unimprovable cases. The day is approaching when we will feel ourselves justified in taking stock of results obtained by such institutions and in seriously turning our face towards a program of prevention.

"It is our opinion that the most important need facing our courts, delinquent institutions, social agencies and public schools is a psychiatric clinic to study the relation of the offender's physical, mental and social condition to the crime and to recommend how these conditions may be bettered and thus diminish the incentive to crime, particularly in early youth."

—From a report of a group of physicians on their survey of the inmates of the city's custodial institutions.

A SURVEY of inmates of city custodial institutions made by a group of physicians to determine their physical and mental condition and its relation to their crime is in the hands of Director of Public Welfare Cun[illegible]

The chief disclosure is that a very large percentage of the men, women and children in all the institutions have been repeated offenders, that as many as 75 per cent are sufferers from physical or mental diseases or defects and that these disease or defects in a large measure explain the original and repeated offenses against society.

The chief recommendation is a program of crime prevention based upon the permanent establishment of a psychiatric clinic in connection with all city courts to detect and correct these diseases and defects in children and thus check inclination to careers of crime, and in cases of adults, to furnish the trial judge with a knowledge of the criminal and his handicaps as well as the crime, that he may determine what disposition of the offender will best permanently protect society.

In this connection, it is recommended that the present system of petty fines be abolished and purely punitive penal sentences be modified to institutional and medical care, vocational training, or probation, whichever seems to suit the need of the offender.

Diseases and Dependency

It further is pointed out that public dependency originates largely in physical and mental diseases and defects and that a psychiatric clinic would help largely to reduce this dependency in the [illegible]

Other specific recommendations are:

That the problem of delinquent children be turned over to a new division of the Department of Public Welfare, to be known as the Division of Delinquency and Dependency and that it be given authority over Bellefontaine Farm for Boys, the new similar institution to be established for delinquent girls and the Board of Children's Guardians.

The removal of the workhouse from its present location and the construction, on ample acreage in the country, of a modern agricultural and industrial prison.

An indeterminate sentence for prisoners sent to the workhouse.

An adequate probation department for the Municipal Court to undertake the supervision of minor offenders, who may safely be handled out in the community.

A modern parole system, with well-trained, adequately paid parole officers.

Special provision by the State for institutional care of feeble-minded and insane [illegible]

"The city sanitarium should not be handicapped by any such problems," the report states. "There are at present between 12,000 and 14,000 feeble-minded persons in the State, for whom the State provides only one institution, having a capacity of 4500."

Groups Covered by the Survey.

The survey covered the inmates of the city jail, the city workhouse, the city infirmary and Bellefontaine Farm, a group of women passing from city courts into the venereal clinic and 167 children referred from juvenile court to the demonstration psychiatric or child guidance clinic, the first of its kind in the country, established several months ago by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Dr. V. V. Anderson of New York, director of the clinic, was director of the survey. The chairman of the committee was Dr. M. A. Bliss, president of the Missouri Society for Mental Hygiene, and the detail was done by the trained staff of the clinic, consisting of three psychiatrists, three psychologists and 10 psychiatric social investigators, and by psychiatrists from the city sanitarium and physicians from the city hospital and dispensary. The survey was the [illegible]" of the institutions. No individual was singled out.

In the city jail 142 prisoners were examined medically, psychologically, by the psychiatrists and, where possible, for their social history. Of these [illegible] were men and 15 women; 80 were white and [illegible] were negroes; 9 per cent were foreign-born and 64 per cent were American born of American-born parents; approximately 65 per cent were under 30 years.

In the workhouse, 178 prisoners were similarly examined. Ninety-nine were white and 79 negroes; 164 were men and 14 women; only seven were foreign born; 65 per cent were under 30 years. "This is important to emphasize," the report states. "Two of every three prisoners are young people in the prime of life. This certainly points to educational and industrial institutions rather than old-time prisons for pure custodial treatment."

63 Per Cent Untrained Persons.

The examination of these 320 men and women disclosed the following:

Sixty-three per cent were untrained persons, showing no especial equipment along industrial or vocational lines. "Those interested in reforming criminals must consider this point," the report declares. "Penal institutions should be equipped to train men." It is pointed out that the inability of the men to compete with their fellows in life very probably was a contributory cause in their infraction of law.

Seventy-three per cent were repeated offenders, persons who had been locked up time and again and then turned out to be locked up again. Some had been arrested as many as 100 times

Approximately 72 per cent were suffering from nervous and mental abnormalities, such as feeble-mindedness, psychopathic personality, epilepsy or mental diseases, "which," the report states, "we believe to be important factors in their criminal conduct."

"Psycopathic personality" is defined as characterizing the individual who is "unstable, neurotic, poorly balanced, weak-willed, with marked character defects and personality handicaps, but often of good intelligence—the most difficult problem in handling criminals."

Approximately 65 per cent of the prisoners showed physical disorders or physical disease and defect, which required medical attention.

Showing in Intelligence Test.

A very general statement that "all criminals are weak-minded" was not supported by the study. The men in the jail and workhouse were given the "army alpha" test for measuring intelligence. The results for the white prisoners compared with the showing of Missouri men in the war draft follow:

Intelligence Grade.	Missouri U. S. Army Draft.	City Jail.	City Workhouse.
A	3.7 per cent	1.3 per cent	3.3 per cent
B	7.5 " "	11.7 " "	13.2 " "
C	15.9 " "	14.3 " "	19.8 " "
C	26.3 " "	51.9 " "	30.8 " "
C	24.4 " "	16.9 " "	14.3 " "
D	19.4 " "	1.3 " "	8.8 " "
E	2.8 " "	2.6 " "	8.8 " "
Superior,	11.2 " "	13.0 " "	16.5 " "
Average,	66.6 " "	83.1 " "	64.9 " "
Inferior,	22.2 " "	3.8 " "	17.6 " "

Commenting upon the findings for these institutions, the report states: "These facts point very definitely to the conclusion that we are dealing with persons whose careers have not shown normal social adjustment. The fact that the great majority never got beyond the fifth grade in school; the great frequency with which we found irregularity of employment, odd jobs and no work at all, extending over years; the high percentage of repeated offenders, and the length of years over which their delinquencies have extended, all point to the conclusion that our group here is a very selected one—a group of human derelicts, whose present offenses are but links in the chain of a lifelong career of failure and social maladjustment, much of which could have been prevented."

Recommendations for Betterment.

Recommendations for the betterment of the institutions are:

The obviously ill are attended to, but many minor but important, medical conditions are not receiving attention. The importance of systematic examination and routine treatment of all inmates has not been stressed as it should be.

Both institutions are superior to the run of the country.

The inmates should be studied to determine industrial aptitudes to be the basis of determining what work should be found for them to do.

The City Superintendent of Schools should map out an educational program of the workhouse and supply teachers.

Among the general conclusions from the study of the adult criminals and delinquents is the following:

"The most discouraging fact brought out by the survey is the following:

"The most discouraging fact brought out by the survey is the great frequency of repeated offenders passing through the jail and workhouse. If more than two out of every three persons sentenced to our correctional institutions, and it appears that almost every other one of the 28,000 persons passing through the police courts each year is a repeated offender, then we have failed to accomplish what we set out to accomplish in these cases—the prevention of crime; nor have we protected society from them if they return to the same criminal conduct they exhibited before their arrest.

"We endeavor to wreak vengeance on certain persons for committing offenses and, in order to accomplish this, we lock them up behind steel bars, but make no effort to find out the actual causes of their criminal conduct. We concern ourselves with the deed of the criminal and overlook his needs. The fact is crime is not on the decrease and our own country has the unenviable reputation of leading the civilized world in this condition.

"The municipal court cannot handle these complex human problems without the aid that modern medical science, psychiatry, psychology and social case work is prepared to offer. A psychiatric clinic would meet these needs and St. Louis should fall in line with other progressive cities."

Only 17 of 149 Children Normal.

Of 149 children examined at Bellefontaine Farm, only 17 were found to be free from physical defects, or diseases or physical disorders. They were boys ranging from 9 to 17 years; 88 were white and 61 were negroes. Seventy-eight per cent had been previously arrested and 40 per cent had served previous sentences. Approximately 86 per cent showed a psychiatric condition. "Early recognition of these conditions, with suitable treatment and training may save many a child from shipwreck in later life," the report states.

Two hundred boys and girls, ranging from 8 to 18 years were examined in the House of Detention. In only 23 children was there absence of mental conditions regarded as important for consideration in the solution of the problem these children offered to juvenile court. Four out of every five exhibited a physical condition that warranted medical attention.

The record of 167 cases passing into the demonstration child guidance clinic, established temporarily, shows that approximately 11 per cent were feeble-minded or on the borderline; 34 per cent were subnormal in mentality, 1.8 per cent showed actual mental disease and 24 per cent were handicapped by a psychopathic personality. Only 14 of the children were free of physical disease or defect.

Correction in "Complexes."

Though the child guidance clinic attached experimentally to juvenile court has been in existence only five months, too short a period for a statement of results accomplished, some individual cases indicate progress in correction of "complexes" that have been spurs to unruly or unusual behavior.

William, 17 years old, since childhood had been in ill-health. As he grew older he developed what amounted to a mania for running the streets and for constant attendance at picture shows. He was impossible to quiet, driven to constant roving, during which he stole frequently from home and from stores. This indicates a purely physical correction.

He came into the clinic where, at once, an endocrine disturbance, or conditions of the ductless glands having a very definite, tangible effect upon physical well-being and mental health, was discovered. Measures were taken to correct this condition. As his physical disorder has been corrected, his traits of character have changed. He has become progressively quieter and docile and bids fair to return to normalty.

Rose, 17, has been a ward of the juvenile court since she was 14 years old. She has been ac-

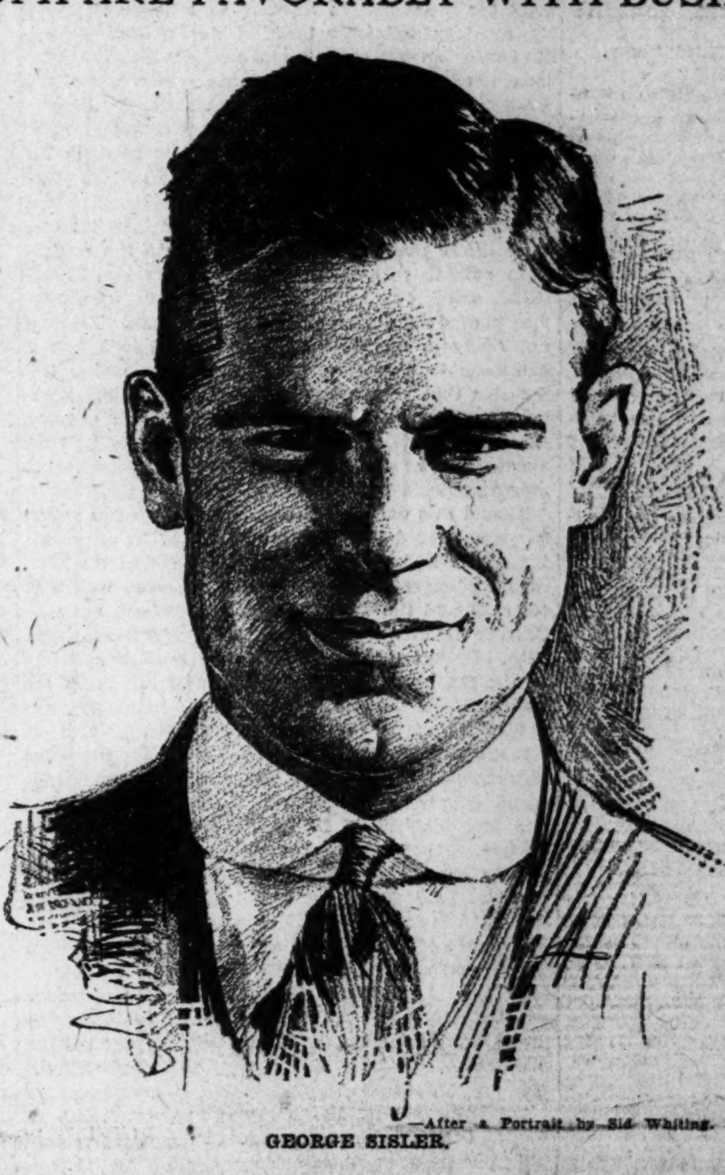
"MAJOR LEAGUERS COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH BUSINESS MEN"

Browns' Famous First Baseman, Who Has Just Received Highest Honor American League Can Give, Tells Boys to Do Their Own Playing and Not to Be Content to Stand on the Sidelines and Watch Others — How Athletics and Right Kind of Playing Help Character.

You Know What Kind of a Man "Sis" Is on the Playing Field but Here Is a Story That Will Tell You Just Exactly the Sort of a Chap He Is Off — A Great Friend of the Boys Who Idolize Him and He Likes to Chum With the Recruits to the Ranks of His Team.



—After a Portrait by Sid Whiting.

GEORGE SISLER.

Hundreds of thousands of St. Louisans have seen George Harold Sisler in playing uniform on the ball field, but few have seen him in his "civies." He has a fighting face and it must be said, if one were to judge him from his appearance in a game, one might be tempted to conclude that he is tough and hard-boiled. But here he is as he looks off the field, a smiling, mild-mannered, soft-spoken, pleasant, cultured gentleman.

It's a long lane that has no silver lining.
Every cloud has its turning.
—Scrambled Proverbs.

COMPENSATION has come, with almost unexampled promptness, to the St. Louis fans who were mourning, a few days ago, over the fading of their pennant hopes. While their serially numbered letters, applying for world's series tickets, were still on file with the Browns' management, they learned that, though their club was in second place, their favorite player had been adjudged the best and most valuable man in the American League.

The honor award to George Harold Sisler, first baseman of the Browns, which was announced Friday, and which will place his name first on the $100,000 monument to be erected by the American League in Washington, pleased the fans, pleased the other players and pleased Sisler. But it positively delighted the boys of St. Louis.

In his own league at least, Sisler has no rival in the affections of St. Louis boys. The gang that plays on the corner lot may talk, now and then, about lining out "a Babe Ruth," but the more common exhortation is to "give it one of those Sisler taps," while the lad on first base keeps on his toes, in the effort to emulate the infielding of his hero.

Sisler appreciates the admiration of the boys, having been a boy himself up to a dozen or 15 years ago, and having a small boy of his own. In the dressing room at Sportsman's Park Friday, between the brief and heartfelt congratulations of his teammates, and of some of the visiting Philadelphia players, Sisler talked with a Post-Dispatch reporter of the value of athletics to a boy, and the spirit in which a boy should go into athletics.

What Athletics Do for Boys.

"The exercise and the muscle-building are only a part of what a boy gets by going in actively for athletics," Sisler said.

"The boy who gets out on a baseball or football field is getting his experience in appearing before the public. Perhaps it's only his own school crowd, or perhaps there are visitors and older people watching him; but he is getting something that he may need in later life, and that will keep him from being easily embarrassed or getting rattled when the eyes of others are on him.

"He gets the knocks and the cheers, and he has to keep his temper with one, and not get to feeling too important over the other. He is getting the training of mind and instinct which comes through keeping his eye on the ball and his mind on the job. He has a chance to make good or fail, every time the ball comes his way.

"The boy who doesn't get into the game himself, but watches from the sidelines, gets none of this training. About all he gets is the fresh air. Of course, boys will come to league games, and will go to see big school games, whenever they have a chance, but taking it right through the season, it's much better for a boy to be playing himself than to be watching others.

"If a boy doesn't get on the first team of his school or neighborhood, he should try to make the second or the third. The scrub teams give their members as much fun and exercise as the team of more pretensions. If baseball doesn't suit, he should try football, or tennis, or golf, or track work. The main thing is to get into some game.

"The competition, and the constant effort to do one's best, in any form of athletics, brings out a fellow's qualities, and shows what is in him. If he needs correction, he will get it more quickly that way than any other.

"You can't get far in any game without the spirit of sportsmanship, and the boy will learn that spirit or get it knocked into him, before he gets very far.

Comradeship of Playing Helpful.

"The comradeship of playing on a team is another thing that the mere spectator doesn't share in, however much yelling or back-slapping he may do.

"Athletic work, too, will keep a young fellow's mind off the things that are not good for him. He will learn moderation, and the need for honest observance of his training rules.

"Any young fellow who doesn't think clean living is necessary—well, he's out of luck.

"His growth will be impaired and his work in school or in employment will suffer, from disregard of the principles of clean living, which he would get in team work and athletic discipline.

"There are athletic organizations, picked-up baseball teams as well as teams in other games, which run without very much discipline. Being on such teams is not of much value to a fellow who has not learned the principles of clean living and sportsmanship for himself.

"Every good amateur or school team has its code of discipline and observes it. No smoking in training is one of the first and most necessary rules.

"A boy should go in for athletics, up to 19 or 20, simply for the good it will do him and the training he will get. He should get all he can out of it while he is in school, and up to the time of maturity. Then it is time enough for him to think about doing anything in professional athletics.

"The field for professional baseball playing is broadening every season, with the formation of new leagues. If a man thinks he can make one of the principal leagues, almost anything may do to start with. I can't say that I would recommend small-league baseball to a young man as a career in itself, yet a good many of the men in the smaller leagues probably have a more enjoyable time, and make more, than they would in some other line of small-town work. It all depends on what a fellow's ambitions are.

Praises Major League Players.

"Major-league players today are mostly men of good habits. They would stand comparison with any class of business men. They save their money, show moderation in their enjoyments, and conduct themselves as gentlemen. Many of them are married, and some are even fortunate enough to have their homes in the cities that they play for."

Sisler, whose home is at 5861 Washington avenue, is one of those in the fortunate class mentioned. Besides "ball player," the city directory shows him, occupationally, as president of one business concern and vice president of another. Among St. Louis players, only Branch Rickey and Rogers Hornsby are anything like so well established in local acquaintance.

Engineering was Sisler's line of study at Ann Arbor, where he was a University of Michigan student in the years 1912-15, when his connection with organized baseball was an issue between managers and, at times, in the courts, and before he was sure that he intended to remain in baseball.

If he had followed up, with his classmates, his training as a civil engineer, he might have built a bridge or a skyscraper, but he would have missed his place on the monument of the national sport in the nation's capital, and he might also lack that other monument which he already has in the hearts of St. Louis fans. Particularly the boys.

As He Is Off the Field.

"What sort of a fellow is Sisler off the field?"

This question is asked of Sisler's personal friends thousands of times each year by baseball followers in every city in the United States. Those who have seen Sisler dominate every situation which could possibly arise on a baseball field, wonder what manner of man he is when stripped of the glory that is his in his own profession and retired to the ordinary status of a civilian.

They wonder whether Sisler is successful simply because of his great natural ability for baseball. They ask whether he would be a successful man if he had been forced to make his way as the general run of college graduates must do. They want to know whether his reputation for clean living, absolute fairness and self-control as exemplified by his conduct on the ball field, is carried with him after he leaves it.

To all these queries the same answer may be returned. Sisler is the type of man who would make a success in any profession, because he puts his entire being into everything he does. Unlike many baseball players, he does not spend his winters hunting and lolling about waiting for the advent of another season. He enters some productive field where he can get a fair return for his services without unfairly capitalizing his baseball reputation.

He is a man of ideas and originality. The same qualities which have made him the most daring and most successful base runner in baseball today are carried through into his civilian life to make him a man who thinks clearly and directly. He wastes no time upon trivial things. Anything to which he bends his time and effort must be worthy of it.

A Day on Road With Sisler.

It may be interesting to trace the activities of Sisler through a day when the team is playing "on the road" and all the players are living at the same hotel. George is generally down for breakfast at 9:30 o'clock. Shortly thereafter he returns to the lobby to sit and talk with the other men on subjects that may vary from acts of the administration to the most effective manner of playing against the pitcher who will oppose them that day. Generally, he seeks the company of

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

La Follette and the Third Party.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PAUL Y. ANDERSON'S article on Senator La Follette in Sunday's Post-Dispatch was the most interesting piece of political news that I have seen in a daily newspaper for years. I have always regarded La Follette as one of the biggest men in the country, but my voice was always drowned by the "knockers' chorus." The time is ripe for the third party. I voted for Harding in 1920—God forgive me! J. W. W.

East St. Louis, Ill.

Abolish the Bill of Rights, Too.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THOSE who talk about "doing away with the moonshiner and the bootlegger," through measures weakening the prohibition laws, are combining two things that may seem to belong together, but do not.

The moonshiner is going to be eliminated anyway. More vigorous prohibition enforcement would rid us of him more quickly, but he is bound to disappear, because of the quality of his product, and the death rate among its users. Home brew is practically a back number now, because of the worthlessness of most of the stuff made under that name. The product of the attic and fence-corner still will go the same way, leaving only the mountaineer makers of "white mule," who were active long before prohibition.

The bootlegger has better staying qualities. His suppression will be accomplished only by persistent and vigorous law enforcement, with special attention to the prevention of smuggling from other countries and of the abuse of physicians' prescriptions. As long as he can get a supply with fair dependability, and can make sales without too great harassment, the bootlegger will continue, and the sale of so-called wine and beer, which under the constitutional requirement must be nonintoxicating, would do nothing to impair his trade, and might improve it. The rehabilitation of the saloon, which would indisputably result from a wine and beer measure, would help the bootlegger by making it easier for him to find and do business with his customers. H.

A Startling Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN reference to the bottle-throwing incident of Saturday's St. Louis vs. New York game, would suggest that as a reward of over $2000 was offered for the arrest and conviction of the person guilty, if the boy accused in yesterday's paper come forward and acknowledge to the president of the Browns, he be paid a reward for his confession. This would clear all parties interested in a clean game. What think ye? A FAN.

Defends State Constabulary.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN your issue of Aug. 21 there is a letter headed "What a State Constabulary Means" and signed "Mary Dowling." To right-thinking people such a letter cannot go unchallenged.

The apparent purpose of the letter is the attempt to deter the people of Illinois from gaining the protection of a local constabulary and the implication of the writer, if not her direct statement, is that in Pennsylvania it is the custom of the State constabulary to ride down women and children and to use steel whips on unoffending citizens.

Mrs. (or is it Miss?) Dowling states what she herself has seen in this regard, which should carry more weight than can hearsay statements. She, however, does not know or she conceals the fact that the Pennsylvania constabulary does not in any way interfere with peaceful citizens.

The history of this body of picked men is replete with instances where one or two troopers have ridden into a district where terror had reigned for some time and, single-handed or in pairs, have overawed a mob of hundreds of drink or blood crazed foreigners and restored order to the community. Like the Royal Northwest Police, the Pennsylvania constabulary has the reputation of always getting their man, and this sometimes rankles.

Contrary to Mrs. Dowling's statement, this constabulary does not make use of steel whips, but is armed with long riot sticks, which are an effective weapon against brickbats and knives in the hands of a mob, not "to lay open faces," but to induce peaceful slumber.

Mrs. Dowling sounds a warning to the State of Illinois against the creation of a State constabulary. Had there been one trooper of the caliber of the Pennsylvania constabulary present on that day in Herrin the State of Illinois would have been fortunate indeed!

It is not to be taken as a reflection on Mrs. Dowling; she states she would no longer live in a state where a constabulary existed, but can we restrain the thought that if the authorities in Pennsylvania, after being convinced of the need for such a force, established their efficient body, it would be a pity not to restrict migration to our own less fortunate areas?

Mrs. Dowling likens the feelings of the people in the states having a constabulary to those of the workers under state or Federal protection. Such remarks are unfortunate. The question of a man's right to gain his end by tramping on the rest of the community is a dead issue—more dead than Mrs. Dowling may be willing to concede.

EDWARD J. WALSH.

THE REVOLT AND THE LEADER.

Public opinion as expressed in various primaries throughout the country in the last few months has rebuked the administration. Candidates approved by the party organization have been defeated. In Indiana Senator New, a close personal friend and adviser of the President, was beaten by former Senator Beveridge. The latter, it is true, did not ask for support as an antagonist, or even as a critic, of the administration. Still, the Indiana result cannot be explained solely by the successful contestant's personal distinction and scholarly eminence. Those were contributing factors, but a more powerful factor was Mr. Beveridge's reputation for liberalism, his sympathy with progressive movements, his intimate relationship with progressive leaders with whom he cast his fortune in the memorable revolt of 1912.

Along with Indiana, a number of other states have spoken in the same voice—Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, Pennsylvania. But it remained for Wisconsin not merely by indirection to express dissatisfaction but squarely to repudiate the Harding administration and the legislative record of Congress. In his fight for renomination Senator La Follette attacked the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, denounced the administration's ship subsidy measure to which the President is wholly committed, demanded the repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, which he characterized "a legislative crime," and proposed a number of radical remedies, some of them innovations, others familiar La Follette planks tooled, where needed, to fit into present mutations.

In an interview in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday, La Follette reaffirmed his opposition to the Republican administration, with which he is nominally identified, and insisted that the sentiment in Wisconsin was shared by the people of other states. He was not ready to say that the Wisconsin result was a summons to a third party but gave it as his impression that "the policy of the Harding administration has been of the character that would prepare the soil for the appearance of a new party." That appearance, he admitted, could not be foretold. "It may come in two, six, 10 years; perhaps later."

Should this new party come, say, within two years, to whom would it turn for leadership? In commenting on La Follette's majority of 200,000 in the Wisconsin primary the Post-Dispatch observed that "his strength and the strength of his issues are not confined to his own State. La Follette must be reckoned with. He is the biggest figure and the strongest factor in the progressive revival." And his claim for leadership, in addition to this striking validation, extends far back into our contemporaneous history. It would not be too much to say that La Follette was the pioneer progressive. The insurgency of 1910, which found expression in the revolt against Cannonism, had had inspiration in La Follette's career of informed, though often vehement, protest against the domination of special interests in governmental affairs. La Follette had assailed the Payne-Aldrich law and the forces back of such legislation while the insurgents of the House were gropingly furious with conditions but uncertain as to what or where or whom to attack. Long before Roosevelt had sensed an opportunity in rebellion La Follette had practically proposed a program which substantially constituted the platform of the Progressive party that made Roosevelt its candidate.

La Follette still has his platform, expanded, of course, to meet changing requirements. Its professed objective, namely, the Government's service of common interests, not special interests, is an American fundamental. Many planks of the La Follette platform will command the support of the liberals of all parties. Opposition to ship subsidy, to excessive tariff rates, to the monopoly of markets, to Newberryism, to spoils and spoilsmanship in government, in whatever guise, has a wide and deep appeal. There would be considerable support, too, for publicity of all income tax returns, for an increase of inheritance tax on great fortunes, for the vigorous prosecution of war profiteers. But the abolition of injunctions in industrial disputes and the La Follette hobby—not included in the platform—of devitalizing the Supreme Court by stripping it of the power to pass upon the constitutionality of laws would alienate the balanced liberals.

As the situation sums up in the light of the Post-Dispatch interview, La Follette's grievance against the prevailing order of things is well founded and largely indorsed. Many of his remedies seem worthy of trial. But there are tenets in his political philosophy which can be accepted by the majority of the American people only when the majority are ready to adventure into a new form of government—a sort of Democratic-Socialistic hybrid. Nevertheless, the Wisconsin verdict leaves La Follette "the biggest figure and the strongest factor in the Progressive revival."

THE NEAR EAST AND THE LEAGUE.

The will to peace has not yet overcome the will to get and hold by force in Europe.

Europe's state of mind is well illustrated in the Near East imbroglio.

Great Britain stands for the freedom of the straits, which is good policy for Great Britain. It has the advantage of being sound policy for everybody, at least everybody outside of Turkey. But Great Britain has more interest at stake than anybody else and has the dominating sea power capable of controlling the straits if she should, for any reason, want to adopt that policy.

France, on the other hand, is tied up with the Kemalists. She has interests and ambitions in Syria which Turkish friendship would promote, and, since Greece is a sort of protege of Britain, France supported the Turks with substantial aid against the Greeks and is not willing to join with her allies against Turkish ambitions to regain Constantinople, Adrianople and Thrace—in short, to re-establish the Turkish Empire at Constantinople with a foothold in Europe. Italy's interests worked for the side of the Turk and the French.

This is the situation which led Great Britain, when Kemal threatened to advance on Constantinople and the straits, to issue an ultimatum and immediately prepare to resist the Turks with army and navy. Britain's war ultimatum was aimed, not only at the Turks, but at France and Italy, particularly France. It was notice that, if they backed the Turk in his attack on neutral territory, they would help to make war on an ally and an ally who is extremely valuable on the Rhine.

It was this that led to the conference between Curzon and Poincare and to the calling of a peace conference, with a plan of settlement practically agreed upon, in which the chief point is the freedom of the straits, with the Turk again in Constantinople and Thrace.

The whole thing is a rotten mess, beginning with the Greco-Turkish War, on account of Greek ambition in Asia Minor, which should have been stopped at its inception.

It explains why the League of Nations was not called upon to settle the trouble, as the British colonial representatives suggested. The suggestion seemed pertinent and wise. The League was organized to deal with such dangerous situations as that of the Near East. It was organized to substitute peaceful for warlike methods of settling differences and to use all the resources of negotiation, mediation, arbitration and united action to prevent war. Allied nations were members of the League, with the privilege and the duty of calling attention to the situation and setting the League's peace machinery in motion.

The clash of interests, however, influenced the leading nations involved not to call on the League. The League is established to settle disputes on a basis of justice and reason and Great Britain, France and Italy probably preferred not to submit the case on these grounds. They were not willing to act together for the general good.

The outlook is better now and the League is coming into view as the final solution. It is given out that the League does not feel that it ought to intervene when a peace conference, where some of its leading members will be in the council, is pending, but leaders of British labor, who have been induced by Lloyd George to abandon their peace-at-any-price stand and support the Government's policy, are urging that the settlement be referred to the League and Lloyd George himself proposes that the League be placed in charge of the straits to safeguard all interests.

The League is likely to be the final resource. The nations may ignore it for a time, but they must fall back upon it in the end. It represents peace and the only means by which peace can be maintained without menacing and crushing armaments. Our Government, which pretends to ignore it, is shamming and dodging. We must come to it, as the whole civilized world must come to it, as the only hope of abiding peace.

MOONSHINING IN PRISON.

A crude, though effective, moonshine plant has been discovered in the State penitentiary. A mixture of prunes, sugar and rain water was found waiting in some hidden stone jars for naughty nature to endow it with an anti-Volstead kick. The theory of its origin is that convicts working in the kitchen were engaged not only in moonshining for themselves but were bootlegging their brew to other convicts.

If the illicit liquor business cannot be stopped within prison walls what prospect is there of stopping it outside even after a prison has been made of the whole United States?

PANETELA.

YES, Luella,
Mr. Harding
Put the bonus
Fast asleep;
Aren't the crafty
Politicians
Getting dexterous
And deep?
Here they had
The money dangling,
Duly counted
In a sack,
And when someone
Reached to get it,
Lo, they deftly
Pulled it back!

In the Congress,
Little girlie,
Nothing much
Can be refused:
Mention any Benefaction—
Everybody
Is enthused!
While the mass
Of members vote it, Seemingly
Devoid of tricks,
Two or three
Slip through a tunnel
To the White House
Crying, "Nix!"

Thus the bonus
Lived and prospered,
What with jubilance
And noise,
Just as if
They were not putting Something over
On the boys.
Everybody's aye
Was voted
With a good Old-fashioned will,
Although no one
Thought the bonus
Would survive
Beyond the hill.

So it happened,
Sweet Luella:
Just about
The time the chink
Seemed upon
The point of dropping,
Lo, the leaders
Passed the wink!
Pulling one
Eyelid down thusly,
And an eyebrow
Rising so,
What was flashed
Between them clearly
Was the long
Expected no.

Thus we have it,
Little dearie,
In an old
And practiced school,
Illustrating
How the founders
Feared minorities
Would rule.
Maybe they
Were visionaries,
Some day doomed
To be forgot,
But for just
A crowd of old-time
Primitives
They knew a lot.

Discovery of twin suns probably caused no greater shock to the astronomer than discovery of twin sons by a new father.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sir: The recent invasion of Plinthourgos into your columns leads to my conviction that you are willing to admit not alone philosophical discussion—whether of an estimable variety or no—as well as an occasional Latin dictum. Thus I am emboldened to present a contribution of my own.

Plinthourgos' note of Sept. 18, in addition to its apparent attempt to air a maximum quantity of erudition in quite a limited space, seems to point to the general conclusion that there is no such thing as an Ultimate Cause. While Plinthourgos maintains that for each fact the causes are adequate; that "the causes for each of those causes were adequate"; and that the causes for those last causes were adequate; and so on, indefinitely, he appears to conclude that for all these causes there was no beginning. Then, let us similarly take up the case of a train of freight cars moving on a level road, with no locomotive at the head. Supposing the ultimate motive power to be located at the rear the first car has the immediate cause of its movement in the car immediately behind it; the second, in the third; the third, in the fourth; and so on; yet would Plinthourgos admit that the whole series of cars could have begun, or for a long time continue, their movement without a locomotive behind the last?

A homely example? It's seldom that such gaudy ornaments as "Ex nihilo nihil fit" add either to beauty of diction or excellence of logic.

Miss Adele Stine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stine of Webster Groves, was hostess Wednesday at a large bridge party complimentary to Miss Virginia Ryan, whose marriage to Thomas Fuller Phillips of Thomasville, N. C., will be an event of Oct. 11. The ceremony will be performed at the Emanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves.

Miss Clarissa Given. —Strauss

Miss Gloria Geisinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Geisinger of 15 Kingsbury place, is visiting friends in Toronto, Ontario. She is expected home about Oct. 10, consequently will be unable to acecpt her invitation to be maid at the Veiled Prophet's ball.

FORMAL announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Nelson Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Anderson of 5400 Vernon avenue, and Hugh Sutherland Sherman. Miss Anderson, with her family, formerly resided in Memphis, Tenn., but for several years past has made her home in St. Louis, where the bride-to-be has been popular socially. Mr. Sherman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman of The Cedars, Columbus, Miss., but has resided here for the past few years. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He served overseas for sixteen months during the war as a Lieutenant in the aviation corps.

An unusually interesting wedding of yesterday was that of Miss Genevieve East of 4234 Lafayette avenue and Dr. Clarence Martin of 5049 Kensington avenue which took place at 6 o'clock at the home of the bridegroom, the Rev. Dr. John S. Bunting of the Church of the Ascension officiating. The guests were limited to members of the two families.

The bride is the sister of Prof. Murray East, Department of Biology, Harvard University. She has been until recently the chief instructor of English at the Cleveland High School. She is a graduate of the University of Illinois and attended Washington University. Dr. Martin is a veteran of the Chinese Boxer campaign, the Philippine Insurrection and the World War. He served as a Major in the army during the latest conflict.

The bride wore her traveling gown and a corsage bouquet. Dr. and Mrs. Martin have departed for a motor trip, and will return to St. Louis Nov. 1.

TWO of the most important engagements of the year, announced last week, calciuated to stimulate society's interest were those of Miss Ada Rand Johnson and James Russell Forgan, and Miss Isabel Mauran and William Van Woort Warren.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Johnson of 25 Portland place. Both of the brides-elect occupy distinctive positions in society. As leaders in the younger exclusive set, they both attended Mary Institute, both were graduated from Eastern finishing schools, Miss Johnson from the Spence School in New York, and Miss Mauran from Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. They are both active in the Junior League, made their debut in the same year, 1920, and were both invited to join the Imperial.

The Johnson family were in mourning for a son, Jackson Johnson Jr., who was killed in France, during Miss Johnson's debut year, and no large formal affairs were given by her mother, but she was one of the most feted belles St. Louis has ever known. She was Queen of the Veiled Prophet Ball in 1920. The circus party given in her honor that year by Gates Williams at the St. Louis Country Club probably was the most elaborate social function of its kind ever attempted here. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Forgan of Chicago. He was graduated from Princeton University, class of 1922, and was president of the Princeton Triangle Club for two years. Last year he took the principal part in the Spanish play they produced at the Odeon. The announcement was made at a luncheon given Thursday by Miss Johnson's sister, Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, 48 Portland place.

The Mauran-Warren betrothal, of no less importance, was announced at a dinner given last Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, parents of the bride-elect, at their country home in Dublin, N. H. Mr. Warren is a Bostonian.

TWO more of the October brides have announced the plans for their weddings. Miss Mary McKeen, whose wedding to Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr. will be a fashionable event of Oct. 5, will have Mrs. Clement Ross Duncan Meier, a sister of Mr. Niedringhaus, as matron of honor, and her other attendants will be Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Miss Elizabeth Suydam of Pittsburg; Misses Isabel and Elizabeth Mauran and Mrs. Asa Brookings Wallace.

Mr. Meier will attend his brother-in-law as best man, and the ushers and groomsmen will be Walter Jaffrey of Minnesota; William R. McKeen of Terre Haute, Ind., a cousin of the bride-elect, Asa Brookings Wallace, Carl Koehler, Marion Niedringhaus, Charles Mullikin, and Erwin Cozzens ,a cousin of the prospective bridegroom. The ceremony will be performed at 5:30 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, in the presence of several hundred guests, and will be followed by a small reception at the home of Miss McKeen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McKeen, 4959 Hortense place.

Miss Henrietta Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. L. Davis of 5285 Washington boulevard, who will marry Soulard Cates, has also selected her bridal party.

She will have Miss Augusta Cook, who has been abroad for two years and is coming home for the event; Miss Frances Carter and Miss Eula Wilson. Mr. Cates will have his brother-in-law, Maj. Francis P. Hardaway, as best man. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock, Oct.14, at the home of the bride's parents. Only members of the families will be invited to the ceremony, while a large reception will follow.

Of interest to society in St. Louis is the engagement of Miss Alice Murphy of Geneva, N. Y., and George Rogers Clark, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John O'Fallon Clark of St. Louis. The wedding will take place soon in Seattle, Wash., where the bridegroom has business interests. Mr. Clark is the great-great-grandson of William Clark, the explorer. He is related to several of the prominent families in St. Louis, and is a brother of Mmes. Alonzo C. Church, Voluntine C. Turner and Edward L. Adreon Jr. The couple will make their home in Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fenimore Cooper, who have resided at 30 Kingsbury place for the past few years, will spend the winter in New York, where Mr. Cooper is studying medicine. Mrs. Cooper was formerly Miss Katherine Guy, daughter of William Evans Guy in Portland place.

Mrs. Henry Wise Hobson of Worcester, Mass., and her two children, will arrive in October for a month's visit with Mrs. Hobson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan Sr., 4346 McPherson avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan returned a week ago from Lake Sunapee, N. H., where they spent the summer.

Mrs. Willard Bartlett of 53 Westmoreland place was hostess at an informal tea Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Donald Hudson, formerly Miss Lorraine Livingston, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Livingston of Kingsbury place. Mrs. Hudson will depart soon for her home in Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Jones of 45 Portland place are expected to arrive in New York Sept. 28 from Europe. They have been in Brussels visiting Mrs. Jones' son, Kent G. Colwell.

Miss Lillian Gerrell of Webster Groves, will be hostess at a bridge party Friday afternoon. There will be five tables for cards.

Mrs. C. E. Purdon, of 6157 Kingsbury boulevard, and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Purdon, have returned from the West, where they spent the summer. They toured the Canadian Rockies for a month, and have recently visited Mrs. Purdon's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Purdon, at their home in San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. Hollis Spencer Wilhite of Kansas City, Mo., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Havlin of 304 Belt avenue. The visitor is being much entertained. She will remain about two weeks longer.

Colonel and Mrs. M. Shoenberg have returned from Charlevoix and pending the opening of the Chase Hotel, where they will reside, are at the Buckingham Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney M. Shoenberg and family, after spending the summer in the North, are again occupying their home, 8 Washington terrace.

Mrs. Charles E. Mohrstadt of 4173 Cleveland avenue entertained the members of her club Friday afternoon at the Century Boat Club.

Dr. and Mrs. Cleveland H. Shutt of 3929 Magnolia avenue have returned home after a visit in New York, Atlantic City, Spring Lake, N. J., and other Eastern resorts.

Mrs. Emma E. Cloud has closed her cottage at Newago Lake, Mich., and is the guest for a few days of her sister, Mrs. E. B. Bernard, 4052 Flad avenue. She will depart Oct.

Recent Social Activities Of Missourians at Capital

Engagement of Miss Miriam Marsh and Bennett Clark Widely Discussed—Mr. and Mrs. Long Return to Washington.

pecial to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Upon he congressional set will fall the burden of maintaining the social prestige of the national capital now that the White House gates will be closed socially for many months due to Mrs. Harding's convalescence. Indications are that it will be many months before Mrs. Harding can once more resume her social duties.

This fact brings into unusual prominence the vivacious wife of the Vice President, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who will perform many of the duties which formerly fell to the lot of Mrs. Harding. Quite a friendship exists betwen Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Coolidge and it is certain that all Mrs. Harding's wishes as to ceremonics and forms will be faithfully carried out.

The adjournment of Congress for six weeks will give an opportunity for the congressional ladies to formulate their plans. Most of the Missouri families will accompany the head of the family back to the old home State. But practically all the houses of the delegation are open and will remain so, even during the recess, some member of the family remaining to keep things in order for the return.

Spencer Is Exception.

The one notable exception is that of Senator Selden P. Spencer who having been re-elected in 1920, is the only one of the Missouri delegation who can remain entirely placid, far from election storms and rumors of defeat. The Senator is due home from Europe on Oct. 5, proceeding leisurely after an inspection trip with a senatorial commission. Mrs. Spencer will meet him at New York and they will visit New England friends before coming to Washington and opening their home for the winter.

There is a lively prospect that Missouri will add a notable bud to the season's debutante bouquet in Miss Beatrice Henderson, daughter of John B. Henderson and granddaughter of the late Senator from Missouri. Miss Henderson is in her seventeenth year but so many of her friends are making their bows to society this winter that she desires to be presented instead of returning to her fashionable finishing school in Connecticut. The decision will be made after her grandmother returns from Battle Creek, Mich., where she has been for several weeks, but the debutantes of the season insist that "Trixie" be one of their number.

Clark-Marsh Engagement.

Washington was thrilled when it learned of the engagement of Bennett Clark of St. Louis, son of the late Speaker, Champ Clark, to Miss Miriam Marsh of Waterloo, Ia. Bennett Clark has many friends in Congress where he has been a familiar figure since he was a little fellow with kilts accompanying his father on the floor of the House. After he grew up, he was made parliamentarian, the youngest man who ever held that post. The announcement has been delayed because of the death of Champ Clark, but it is known here that he highly approved of the match and looked forward to welcoming the daughter of his old friend, W. W. Marsh, into his household. Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson and her husband, James Thomson, the New Orleans publisher, will go to Waterloo for the wedding and so will Mrs. Champ Clark, who is at Bowling Green, Mo., at present. The Thomsons will then return to New Orleans via Washington, where they will spend a week or two with friends and with Mr. Thomson's mother at Summit Point, W. Va.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES OF MISSOURIANS AT THE CAPITAL

Wednesday night in honor of Thomas W. Furlong of Missouri, who is their house guest. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Furlong of New York, nephew and niece-in-law of Mr. Furlong. James W. Millspaugh, nephew of Representative Millspaugh, is now their guest while making plans to enter one of the law schools in Washington. Millspaugh arrived from Missouri last week.

Former Governor and Mrs. Joseph W. Folk entertained at dinner recently, their guests including the Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Charles C. McChord and Mrs. Ollie James, widow of the late Senator from Kentucky.

Mrs. Philip North Moore, who was the leading spirit as chairman of the club committee in establishing a national club house as a center for college women of the world in Washington, under the auspices of the National Association of University Women, will be one of the most prominent figures at the gatherings in the new club house which was opened last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Long, who have been in Missouri and on visits to North Shore resorts, have returned to their home in Washington. Mrs. Long is wearing one of the new draped crepe satin gowns, very long as to skirts and full as to sleeves. Her hat is a smart one, short in the back and front, medium trimmed, of black velvet, with one of the new black paradise pompoms as additional trimming.

Mr. and Mrs. Jocelyn Yoder, who were married 50 years ago in Neosho, Mo., celebrated their golden wedding here this week. The ceremony had a double interest in that it also served to mark Mr. Yoder's seventy-fourth birthday.

Many St. Louisans Remaining on Massachusetts Coast.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 23.—Autumn glories of the Massachusetts North Shore are causing many St. Louisans to prolong their stay at the seaside. Many of the cottagers will remain until well into October.

The J. W. Thompsons, who are spending their first season at Beverly Cove, where they had the Pickman Cottage, returned to St. Louis yesterday. They did much entertaining during the season.

Miss Gloria Geisinger, of St. Louis, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Jean Courthright Grabow of the Swampscott Colony to Paul Codman Sanborn of Boston at Swampscott Monday. All the colonies were represented at the affair.

Mrs. William H. Scudder of St. Louis and her daughters, Signora Gustavo Di Rosa and Mrs. Henry McRee, have been on a motor trip to New York. They are planning a late season stay at Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hussey, of the Magnolia St. Louis colony, are spending a few days in New York with friends before returning to St. Louis. Miss Helen Hussey is to enter the Spence School in New York.

Miss Adeline Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ely Smith of St. Louis, gave a party for her young friends this week in Magnolia, where her parents are spending the late season. Mr. and Mrs. Smith departed yesterday for St. Louis, after spending the summer with Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard of St. Louis. Mr. Smith recently has returned from a hunting and fishing trip in Canada.

For Monday We Offer Hundreds of Rare, New Autumn and Winter Modes in Three Great Sales

COAT SALE!

Leaves little or nothing to be desired in ultra-fashionable modes at savings that are just short of phenomenal for this time of the year. The assortment is, indeed, comprehensive and foretells, in an elaborate display, just what is going to be the favored fashions during the coming season.

Coats made to sell from $59.50 to $100—Choice Monday, Only..... $48

The fabrics are exquisite and include such fine weaves as Fashona, Fiora, Somerset, Arabella, Ormadale, Medallest, Andrea, Moordale, Velvura, Velverette and many others in the new, favored shades for Fall and Winter. Also plain, untrimmed Coats in mannish mixtures.

Any number of styles in the new blouse effects, full-length belted styles and sport Coats. Most every Coat is richly embellished in finest Caracul, Beaver, Mole, Wolf and Persian Lamb. Some are further enriched in beautiful embroidery, fringe, etc.

Women's and Misses' Sizes—Extra Sizes—Stylish Stouts

DRESS SALE!

This offering is one of the best we have announced this season. It embraces a special underpriced purchase of 800 brand-new Fall Dresses which we are proud to place on sale Monday at two prices that should sell the entire number in the one day. When you see the Dresses involved you will marvel at our ability to offer them at such low prices.

Dresses Worth $29.50 to $45.00—Monday Only.. $17

Dresses Worth $35.00 to $59.50—Monday Only.. $25

The combined groups offer an assortment of the new modes that will prove a revelation to style-loving women who crave quality at the lowest prices. New, long skirts, many gracefully embellished in side drapes of irregular lengths. Materials are Satin, Canton, Roshanara, Blister Silk, Lace Combinations, Poiret Twills and Georgette. Many are exquisitely trimmed in beads, chenille, jet, lace, braids, etc. Colors are navy, black, brown and gray.

All Sizes From 16 to 46½

SUIT SALE!

Sets a new record in low prices on high-quality, advance modes. There are 240 Suits in this offering, which represent a very remarkable purchase from one of our foremost manufacturers. The majority are exquisitely fur-trimmed modes, revealing in an abundant degree Fashion's most recent style conceptions for Fall and Winter. They are the sort of Suits you would never associate with such a low price as $37.50.

Suits Made to Sell from $49.50 to $75.00—Choice Monday, Only..... $37.50

These beautiful Fall Suits are developed of exquisite erminine, precioso, melrosa, tricotine, twill cords and marleen, in plain or tastefully trimmed styles for maid and matron.

GATESWORTH HOTEL NEARS COMPLETION

10-Story Structure at Lindell and Union Speeded to Finish in 7 Months.

The $1,500,000, 10-story Gatesworth Apartment Hotel at Union and Lindell boulevards, which has been brought almost to completion in a little more than five months, is a noticeable addition to the rapidly-changing Lindell boulevard skyline. It is one of a number of new structures which are increasing the beauty of that thoroughfare from one end to the other.

Ground was broken on April 13, and on Sept. 13 two families, anxious for dwellings, moved in, although the builders had not completed their task. The apartments of these families, however, were finished. Seventy per cent of the apartments have been leased already.

The hotel has 153 apartments, as follows: Twenty-seven hotel rooms, 63 two-room apartments, 45 three-room apartments, 9 four-room apartments, 9 five-room apartments. A number of tenants plan to move in on the traditional moving day, Oct. 1, next week. Rent for the apartments ranges from $125 to $265 a month. The apartments are all furnished, and the $1,500,000 cost of the hotel includes cost of the furnishings.

It is expected that the construction will be done by Nov. 15, or seven months for the whole job. The ground will be landscaped and in the rear will be a landscaped sunken garden and children's playground. Forest Park is adjacent and the hotel faces the west end of Westmoreland place.

The hotel fronts 232 feet on Union boulevard and runs back 160 feet. The lot is 403x200 feet. White terra cotta and reddish matt brick form the exterior walls. In front there are old Roman columns to the third floor. The first two floors have exterior walls entirely of terra cotta. There is also a terra cotta cornice and the roof is of mansard, covered with glazed green tile.

The lobby has 10,000 square feet of floor space, with walls of paneled walnut and model cork floor. On the north side are the main dining room, breakfast room and a private dining room. On the south side is a 60x65-foot ballroom surrounded by a solarium. The solarium and breakfast rooms extend out from the main structure.

Eight triple casement windows which illuminate the lobby, are of ornamental leaded glass. Outside of each is a decorative balustrade and in the lobby, behind each window, will be arranged lounges. There is to be a roof garden for summer use. The hotel will offer complete apartment and hotel service.

The hotel is owned by the Gatesworth Investment Co., of which A. D. Gates, contractor, whose firm built the hotel, is president, and E. M. Worthington is vice president. The place was named for them. The manager will be A. J. Weldon, who was connected with the Frisco Railway traffic department for 17 years, and J. A. Day, who served with the Fred Harvey System for 14 years, will be in charge of the catering.

Personal Note

It has been brought to my attention by friends that circular letters of another jewelry firm, bearing the name Weber, have been mailed to my old customers, and I would like to impress upon your minds that I am not connected with any firm bearing this name, except my own individual store, located on the second floor of the Oriel Building, where I do a Credit Jewelry business at cash prices. I sell for less because there are no high-salaried officers, or high rents. My system of extending Credit is the most simple and liberal in the city. Investigate.

KING GEORGE ACTIVE ON HIGHLANDS VISIT

Monarch Enjoys Hunting, Fishing and Climbing on His Balmoral Estates.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—King George is enjoying himself these autumn days at Balmoral in the Highlands. More than anywhere else he is there able to get away from ceremonies and formalities and pass his days as an ordinary citizen. He is never without a few guests at Balmoral, but never entertains there on a large scale. He does not have to.

He is always an early riser in the Highlands, and almost as soon as the sun has dispersed the mists from the towering hills, the royal piper is serenading below the King's bedroom window, "skirling" some favorite pibroch.

Every day at Balmoral a certain routine is followed, for the King makes a point of being in the open as much as possible. One day there is a grouse shoot on the royal estates, or on some of the neighboring moors, and the next sees a deer drive in Ballochbuie Forest, or a deer-stalking exhibition around Lochnagar.

Another day the King may prefer to go fishing on the "Silvery Dee," one of the best salmon rivers in Scotland; or, again, the day may be spent in walking within the extensive royal estate or climbing some of the surrounding hills.

Days are set apart, too, for trout fishing on Loch Muick, and for picnics and lunches with the royal household and guests at one or another of the numerous picturesque bungalows which stand in some of the lonely glens within a few miles of the castle.

The great social event on Deeside during the King's holiday at Balmoral is the Braemar gathering. As this day comes round the purple heather and yellow gorse of Deeside are again alive with armed highlanders. The King's men from Balmoral are there in the red tartan of the Stuarts, with the King's factor to command them. They carry the great Locaber ax, while the Duff men, who follow them, are armed with the pike, and the Farquaharsons with the claymore. Highland games, the dancing of the sword dance, and the skirling of the pibrochs fill the Braemar day. Such a scene among the heather and brecken, colored with all the hues of early autumn in the Highlands, draws spectators from all quarters and of all nationalities.

with silver lace and pearl trimming. A satin court train suspended from the shoulders was weighted at the end with silver flowers. The tulle bridal veil had been used in that capacity by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding, and was arranged under a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Schadek and Miss Vera Mohrstadt served as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. Miss Schadek wore peach colored lace over silver tissue, made with a short train of peach blow chiffon cascaded from the right shoulder. Her flowers were tea roses.

Miss Mohrstadt wore green georgette over silver tissue, with a similar train of green, and carried red roses. Jean Bube was the flower girl. Frederick Rebenschied served Mr. Wolforth as best man, and Eugene Bube and Frederick Rouveyrol acted as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolforth have departed on their honeymoon trip at the Northern resorts and will return to make their home in St. Louis. The bride is a member of Sigma Delta Tau. Mr. Wolforth served as a First Lieutenant in the air service during the war.

Dr. Charles A. Leavy of the University apartments, 3703 Washington boulevard, will depart tomorrow for Los Angeles, Cal. He plans to take the Canadian Rocky trip and will make an extended tour of Colorado and California.

Mrs. B. A. Niehoff and daughters, Virginia and Celeste Niehoff, of 1615 South Thirty-ninth street, will depart early in October for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Statius Kehrman of 5943 Etzel avenue have returned home after a six weeks' visit to their daughter, Mrs. Clare H. Whitney, in Cleveland, O.

The wedding of Miss Anna Schneider of 5950 Waterman avenue, and William A. Hopkins of 5704 Julian avenue took place Friday, Sept. 15. The couple have departed for California on their wedding trip, and will be at home after Oct. 15 at 5950 Waterman avenue.

Mrs. Sarah Block of 4261 Flad avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Dena Block, and Emanuel Greengard, Sept. 13, at the home of Mrs. Block. Mr. and Mrs. Greengard will receive their friends informally Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 4261 Flad avenue, from 8 to 10:30 o'clock.

The Rev. T. A. McCourt, S. J., professor of Sacred Scripture and Hebrew at St. Louis University, is to give a course of lectures on the New Testament at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Taylor and Maryland avenues, beginning Oct. 1.

These lectures will take place regularly on the first and third Sundays of each month at 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Estella Fay Hoffman, head of the expression department of the Strassberger Conservatories, has resigned her position there and will leave St. Louis on Oct. 1, for Boston, Mass., where she will teach and study at the School of Expression.

Mrs. Roy E. Simpson of 4418 McPherson avenue and three children will depart next Saturday for a visit of several months at Fairhope, Ala., on Mobile Bay. Mrs. Simpson, who has been active in religious and foreign missionary work for several years will continue her work among the winter colony at Fairhope. For some time past Mr. Simpson and his family have been occupying the home of Mrs. W. C. Shumate during her extended absence in California.

Miss Antoinette Platzer of 2633 Ohio avenue has departed for Cedar Rapids, Ia. for a brief vacation. She was accompanied by an aunt.

Miss Dorothy Carter of 2844 Wyoming street and her fiance, A. Mrazek, accompanied by Mr. Mrazek's mother, have returned from a tour to Chicago and Milwaukee.

Miss Ruth Hooss of 3735 Juniata street was hostess at a dinner dance last evening in honor of her sixteenth birthday. The guests were Misses Viola and Beulah Rollins, Irene Hunter, Rose and Winfred Connell, Marie Gregory, Alice Kaiser and Messrs. Russell Broyer, Harold Brose, Ray Karst, Jack Rice, Zef Montgomery, Joseph Steinhart, Sid-

Walter Tracy and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Maschmeyer.

The wedding of Miss Lucille Bush and William J. Carver took place Sept. 13 at the home of the bride's parents, on Midland, at Longfellow road, St. Louis County. The bride wore a gown of ivory Canton crepe embroidered in seed pearls, made with a court train. She carried orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Frances Bush served her sister as maid of honor and Miss Betty Smock was bridesmaids. Carl Clabaugh was best man and Chauncey Morrow of Sparta, Ill., was groomsman. The couple have gone to the Pacific Coast on their honeymoon trip.

A social affair of the season was the reception given Sunday evening, Sept. 17, by Mr. and Mrs. A. Shank, 6247 Arundel place, in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Edna, to Robert Mathes, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Mathes. The affair took place in their Italian garden, which was illuminated with lanterns. A feature was the fountain illuminated with colored lights.

Mrs. C. J. Ozment of Midland Heights, St. Louis County, is being entertained by Mrs. M. C. Bolt at Chicago this week. Mrs. Bolt, who has been living in Chicago for several years, was formerly a resident of Midland Heights and also St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert R. Fleming have taken possession of their new apartment in the Haywood on Olive street.

A social event for teachers at Lindenwood College was a farewell reception to Dean Lucinda Templin, Wednesday afternoon, before her departure for special studies at Columbia University, on a year's leave of absence. Miss Edna Hough, head of Sibley Hall, and the teachers living in that hall were hostesses. About 40 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman V. Dixon will return the latter part of the month from the North where they are spending their honeymoon. Mrs. Dixon will be remembered as Miss Gertrude B. Kaltenthaler.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Florence Hooker, 3807 Labadie avenue, and Elmer J. Lingner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Linger of 2816 North Vandeventer avenue, Sept. 13, the Rev. Jesse of the Mount Calvary Church officiating. Following the ceremony there was a theater party and a dinner at the Statler Hotel. The couple will make their home at 4251 St. Louis avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Blum of 5216 Delmar boulevard celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a reception Tuesday, Sept. 12, at Harburger Hall. Dr. Thurman blessed the couple in the presence of many friends. The members of the family who were among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Blum and family of Douglas, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Blum of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jones and family of El Paso, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Solomon and family of Detroit, Mich.; Isaac Blum Jr. of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Goldsmith of Oklahoma City, Ok.; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rindskopt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartmann and family and Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Roth and son of St. Louis.

The Queen's Daughters gave a successful rummage sale Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 918 Morgan street for the benefit of the fund required for their new home in the 3700 block on Lindell boulevard. They cleared $1000 for the fund. Miss Mary Hoxsey is president of the organization and Miss Nellie Kelly was chairman of the sale. Those who assisted were Misses Lindsey, O'Brien, Meahan and Mmes. Bacher, Barker, Rodway, Gordon, Tuhill, Kluse, Weinberg, Oester and Meyer.

Speeding-up the Stenographer

There's many a bright girl in business who, for no apparent reason, fails to get ahead.

The trouble lies in defective eyesight, from which arise headaches, nervousness, indigestion, lassitude, and a general lack of ambition.

Glasses quickly remedy the cause. The depressing symptoms disappear and energetic interest is manifested in every undertaking.

If girls who are backward in business will have an Optometrist examine their eyes and furnish the corrective glasses, they will realize immediate benefit, and in the consequent "speeding-up" will find greater happiness in their work and more pay in their envelopes.

Defective eyesight consumes energy that otherwise would be beneficially employed. Let an Optometrist help you!

A CHARACTERISTIC WEIL COLLECTION—AN ASSEMBLAGE WHICH LEAVES NOTHING TO BE WANTED—TRULY OUR AMBITION TO BE "FIRST IN COATS" HAS BEEN ATTAINED

COATS—Coats—and more Coats! Surely, not the most exacting woman will find the selection wanting. From designers who have made a study of the Coat desires of fashionable women and misses come these stunning Wraps. Not days, nor weeks, but months were spent in their selection—each one chosen for some distinctive touch that takes it out of the commonplace.

TO begin a detailed narrative of the styles is to attempt the impossible. To do justice to the wonderful variety would take pages. No matter for what purpose you wish a Coat, you'll find it here. For everyday use, for sports wear, for informal affairs and for occasions of strictest formality we have the proper styles. Gorgeously fur trimmed—or strictly tailored, as you prefer—all of materials of the finest quality. In a word —everything. Prices—

SUNDAY MOVIES ISSUE DIVIDES WEBSTER GROVES

Mayor Favors Sanctioning Screen Amusements on Sabbath, but Councilmen Are in Doubt.

PREACHERS UNABLE TO REACH DECISION

Petition Said to Have 1000 Names to Be Presented at Council Meeting Tomorrow Night.

The Mayor of Webster Groves, Marshall B. Peterson, favors Sunday night movies in his community.

He stands ready to vote, at a Council meeting tomorrow night, for rescinding the town's only "blue law," which was enacted more than 10 years ago, when little thought was given to motion pictures.

However, the town's two Councilmen, who with the Mayor form the Council, have not fully decided what their action will be. L. B. Booth will not reach a decision until he sees how many names appear on a petition now in circulation, while Berton Forester, although personally in favor of Sunday exhibitions, believes he would rather have the question put to a general vote of the people of Webster.

On the other hand, some of the clergy are opposed to Sunday movies. The ministers met Friday afternoon to consider what action they should take. They reached no decision and decided to await further developments before determining their course.

Preachers Differ.

The preachers themselves are not unanimous in their opinions. One minister went on record as being strongly opposed to this proposed innovation in the life of Webster, while another was undecided as to his official action, but expressed a hope that Webster would never have Sunday pictures.

Webster's picture theater, of a metropolitan type which seats 1100, was built about a year ago by a corporation of 28 citizens, after efforts to have St. Louis theatrical men erect it. Until then the suburb was without an adequate place for winter entertainment. The St. Louisans refused to engage in the enterprise, fearing financial failure because of the community's Sunday "blue law." The movie corporation has decided to abide by the will of th people in the present instance.

The petition, asking for the repeal of the Sunday ordinance, must have more than 750 signatures, or more than 25 per cent of the ballots cast in the last election for Mayor. If the City Council refuses to pass it, the question will be put to a general election.

Several weeks ago, Armin Zott, a resident of Webster, and several others, drew up a petition asking for the repeal of the ordinance, but after several hundred names had been obtained the City Attorney declared it had not been drawn legally, so new petitions were made and circulated. Zott reports that more than 1000 signatures are on the new petition, and that it probably will be presented to the Council tomorrow night.

Arguments Advanced.

The citizenry fostering the petition advance many arguments. They say it is not very satisfying to pass by the theater on Sunday and see the doors closed, and then have to spend an hour or more traveling to St. Louis to see their favorite movie star. They also contend that the children and young people are compelled to leave their homes and journey to St. Louis for all Sunday divertisement, and that they dislike this.

Those opposing the petition ask if it is necessary to patronize entertainments on the Sabbath, while the philosophical contend that adolescent Websterites don't care so much what they see as where they see it, and would go to St. Louis anyway.

It also is said to be a bit irksome to loyal people of Webster to think that the neighboring community of Maplewood permits Sunday pictures, and that many Websterites go there on the Sabbath. Other proponents submit as evidence of the propriety of Sunday pictures the fact that last winter movies were shown at one of the churches on Sunday, in conjunction with the singing of hymns and other ecclesiastical rites. This, they say, is evidence that Webster needs Sunday amusement.

So, like the opinions of many of its ministers, the issue of Webster's Sunday cinema amusements is still in abeyance.

GEOLOGICAL LABORATORY BUILT IN MOUNTAINS OF COLORADO

A geological laboratory building, in the mountains of Colorado, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, was erected this summer by the University of Colorado, as an outgrowth of the field work in geology conducted in the Colorado mountains for the last 10 years by Dr. W. E. McCourt, dean of the schools of engineering and architecture of Washington University and professor of geology.

Dr. McCourt has just returned from Boulder, where he was connected with the University of Colorado summer school.

The laboratory, near the famous Arrapahoe Glacier, is about 20 miles from Boulder. The building is of rocks hewn from the mountain side. It contains a working laboratory, a kitchen and an office. Sleeping quarters for students and the staff are provided in house tents. The immediate vicinity of the laboratory has a wealth of varied geological formations, which supply abundant material for class study and research, according to Dr. McCourt.

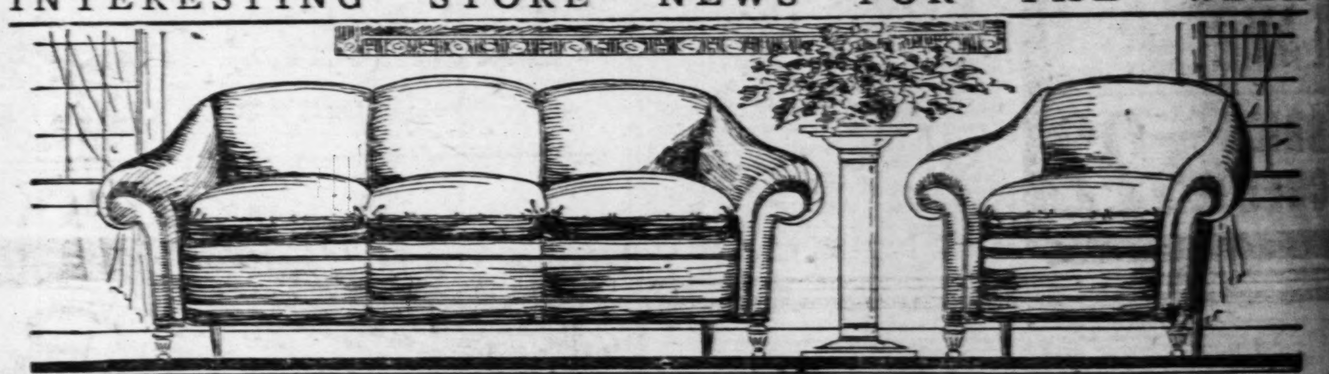
This Is What People Are Finding at Kennard's

The visitor to Kennard's is amazed at two things—the extent of the assortments of Home Furnishings of every description and the low prices prevailing throughout the store.

It is not true that excessive prices must be paid in order to possess beautiful Furniture, Rugs, Carpets, Linoleums Curtains and Draperies, as you can prove for yourself by inspecting our complete exhibits in which every article carries a plainly marked, surprisingly attractive price.

INTERESTING STORE NEWS FOR THE WEEK



Luxurious Living-Room Suites at Small Cost

The superior buying facilities of Kennard's are proved by the extraordinary value of this Two-Piece Living-Room Suite, of which a limited number are priced, Sofa, $187; Armchair, $109. Of superior craftsmanship, patrician appearance and inviting comfort there is nothing of its equal to be had in the city at the price. If you wish a Living-Room of the most engaging character, you will agree that Kennard's is offering in this suite a notable opportunity to achieve your ideal.

And when you are here see also the Windsor Chairs, of which a large number in various styles are shown. The effective placing of these highly esteemed chairs and rockers will add greatly to the enjoyment of your Living Room. From $10.00 and up.

Should you be interested in Lamps, the coming week offers an unprecedented opportunity to purchase one at a great advantage. A large number of the most beautiful lamps you have ever seen, some recently priced at $100, others at $75, and so on, are marked for the week at $29.75, including all of our exclusive models of widely advertised Almco Lamps.

FLOOR COVERINGS

Attention is directed to the Royal Wilton Rugs named below as the finest produced in America. None exceed in beauty of design, richness of coloring or long-lived wear.

Anglo-Persian Rugs
9x12
$125.00

Wool Wiltons are regarded by many as extremely satisfactory and you can depend upon those sold here as the very best obtainable. The designs are excellent and the colorings soft and pleasing. The quality priced is unreservedly recommended.

Wool Witon Rugs
9x12
$75.00

Axminsters are great favorites. They come in several grades and at various prices. The grade below is of good quality and seamless. Many designs and a great variety of colorings.

Axminster Rugs
9x12
$45.00

Carpets

For 66 years Kennard's has been recognized as the leading Carpet House of the West. The assortments embrace all qualities in numerous designs, also all plain colors.

Linoleums

102 patterns of Inlaid Linoleums and 75 patterns of Printed Linoleums—all new and all attractive. Kennard's has probably the largest assortments in the city. Plain color and battleship are shown in Green, Gray, Brown and Black.

Inlaid Linoleums
$1.30 to $3.25 per Square Yard
Printed Linoleums
85c to $1.15 per Square Yard

Oriental Rugs

Superbly beautiful are the new importations. The all-over designs, the magnificent colorings, the extent of sizes and the moderate prices give much interest to these fine specimens. The entire collection has been enriched and the opportunity for choosing weaves, designs and colorings is much enhanced.

New Window and Doorway Curtains and Draperies

The quality of all Curtains and Draperies sold by Kennard's is the best, and you should use the best only, if you expect the service such essentials to the well ordered home should provide. Emphasis, however, cannot be given too strongly to the fact that the prices here are always the lowest.
The assortments from Domestic and Foreign sources represent the very newest that are the vogue in the fashion centers of the world.
Save tiresome shopping. You will usually find Kennard's have all you have set your heart upon, and at a lower price.

DOCTORS DO MORE THAN THE POLICE FOR DELINQUENTS

cused of immorality, shoplifting, stealing and begging. Her early childhood was spent in a home of poverty and filth.

The clinic examination showed no abnormal physical findings. She was a trifle subnormal in intelligence and no special abilities were detected. She was vivacious, friendly, rather flippant and quite emotional.

Environment Cause of Trouble.

An explanation of her general makeup was made to her foster parents who had taken her from her early surroundings at the age of 4. She was to remain in her own home under probationary and clinical care. She had reported regularly to the clinic for five months. Suggestions have been made to her. Her foster parents state she is improved at home and assists with all housework. She has a typewriter and a piano and is taking lessons. She seems happy and contented and is not giving trouble in any way. This is an illustrative case where environment and misunderstanding were producing misbehavior.

Commenting, the committee declares:

"We think of the greatest woes of childhood as destitution and disease—but delinquency of a degree requiring the attention of courts shadows the lives of more children than do some of the most prevalent and serious diseases, and the danger of entering upon criminal careers is a more threatening one than is hunger or bodily neglect.

"The importance of centering all constructive social work on those forces that train children for a wholesome and socialized adult life cannot be over-emphasized. The adult is what the child was; whoever can control the mental, physical and moral life of a child, can, thereby, direct the child's future actions as an adult. We have here the keynote to the program for attacking crime.

"We believe this problem can be approached and dealt with in the same scientific spirit that we have attacked other human evils—tuberculosis, yellow fever, malaria, typhoid, etc.—if we seek to know its sources and causes, and concentrate on their eradication.

Childhood Time for Action.

"Childhood is the golden period for this prevention program. In the Juvenile Court, the public schools and at home will we find the criminals of the future. What we do, or fail to do, for these maladjusted children today will show itself in their criminal, or noncriminal, conduct in later life.

"The most important thing we can bring to this entire problem, we believe, is the organization of diagnostic machinery, for the careful study of the causes of delinquent conduct in children, and the wise mapping out, in the light of this study, of intelligent and far-reaching medical, social and educational treatment.

"A psychiatric clinic to deal with the delinquent child in the Juvenile Court, with the maladjusted children in the public schools showing conduct disorders, and with the large group of pre-school children who very early in life have already begun to demonstrate mental attitudes and trends, that in adult life show themselves in full-blown mental disorders and anti-social conduct, is, in our opinion, one of the most fundamental needs of St. Louis."

The Committee investigated the cases of 50 women entering the venereal clinic through the city courts. In only six was nothing abnormal mentally noted. Twenty per cent were drug addicts. Sixty-one per cent were suffering from venereal disease.

"These girls are industrially inefficient," the report states, as shown by low wages and inability to keep employment, even in unskilled callings. They are unfitted to compete on equal terms with normal girls.

"With the zeal of the reformer we herd these defective and mentally handicapped girls into our venereal clinics and hospitals, seek to cure them of venereal disease and promptly turn them out in the community to acquire it over again.

"The type of treatment needed is more fundamental than this. Each delinquent girl coming before the city courts should receive a careful examination. Those whose mental condition is so serious as to make it unlikely that they can be handled under probationary measures out in the community, should receive prolonged care in institutions suited to their needs."

In this connection, blood tests were made of jail and workhouse prisoners which disclosed that 32 per cent of those in the jail were sufferers from syphilis and 16 per cent of those in the workhouse.

Of the 149 boys at Bellefontaine farm, 40 were sufferers from syphilis mostly congenital (present at birth). Of the 200 children in the House of Detention, four had syphilis and 19 were suffering with other venereal diseases. Of the 167 taken through the clinic, 24 were syphilitic and nine had other veneral diseases.

Survey of Infirmary Inmates.

In approaching its study of dependency among inmates of the City Infirmary, to which the city poor are sent, the committee declares that many explanations have been offered for dependency and poverty—unemployment, industrial unrest, bad housing, over-crowding and others—but in its opinion these are symptoms, not causes and that the real cause can be found in the pauper himself—his physical and mental condition.

The survey was of 200 inmates, some of whom had been dependent as long as 47 years. Fifty-two per cent have been dependent for from five to 30 years. Approximately every case showed need of medical care; 18 per cent were suffering from mental disease; 11 per cent were feeble-minded, while 42 per cent showed mental deterioration due to senile changes.

Sixty-nine per cent got no further than the fifth grade of public schools while 79 per cent never have had training for any special work.

The committee's conclusions are:

"It is becoming more and more obvious that a striking percentage of these persons and their families have been dealt with by social agencies and relief organizations over and over again, and have continued to be problems for many years.

Policy of Seeking Cures.

"Many thoughtful persons complain that we are spending vast sums of money in treating results of conditions that we could have recognized at a time when prevention was possible. Of course, one reason for it all, is our short-sighted policy of always seeking to cure evils rather than to prevent them. Also, there is a tremendous emotional appeal in yearly campaigns for the care of the sick, the crippled, the poor and the unfortunate. As a matter of fact, this emotional appeal is entirely lacking when we come to the task of seeking out, and eradicating causes which produce these results.

"The time has now come, we believe, when we must pass beyond those things in social and welfare work, that are obvious and appealing, and do more in a constructive, preventive way, unless we want to keep on pouring money into social patchwork, with little hope of really reducing the size of our problem.

The conditions from which these persons suffer show themselves largely in childhood and adolescence, at a time when actual treatment and training may be of considerable value. At least at a time when a career of lifelong dependency, we believe, can in most cases be prevented.

Hope for Progress.

"A city and state program for the diagnosis, training, segregation and supervision of feebleminded children; a serious effort in the direction of intensive treatment and after-care of all psychopathic and epileptic school children (approximately 3.5 per cent public school children are cases of psychopathic personality, and .2 per cent epileptics); pushing energetically campaigns for better physical and mental hygiene among school and pre-school children, will, it is our belief, make an immense dent in the dependency problem of the future.

"It is our opinion that in a large measure the dependents of tomorrow will be recruited from the mentally and physically handicapped children of today."

In conclusion the committee points out: "The average cost of convicting a felon in certain states is $1500. The results obtained in protection to society, or in reforming criminal careers are, in most cases, negligible. No one knows the cost of poverty and dependency. Suffice it, the figures, if obtainable, would be large.

Must End Waste of Efforts.

"We cannot go one multiplying social organizations, institutions, hospitals and court machinery for handling over and over and over again apparently unimprovable cases. The most important need facing our courts, delinquent institutions, social agencies and public schools is for a psychiatric clinic that will undertake to serve these agencies in the study and diagnosis of the human material with which they have to deal.

"We recommend the taking over and maintenance of the present demonstration clinic and advocate its enlargement to cover the varied problems mentioned. We believe the Department of Public Welfare is the logical department within which to lodge the clinic."

"LIVE CLEAN," SAYS SISLER, MOST USEFUL PLAYER OF BASEBALL

younger players, although he divides his time with the veterans of the team also.

This practice of association with the younger men has in a large measure helped the Browns. When Sisler, the greatest "star," spends his time with the "rookies," the "stars" of lesser magnitude cannot afford to be snobbish. It has made the Browns' team a fraternal organization, with each man anxious for the success of the others, and has totally eliminated all petty jealousies.

At noon the players partake of a light lunch and are then off to the baseball park. A game completes their day's work and they return to the hotel for dinner. Sisler spends his evening in the lobby, smoking, at the theater, or in the rooms of one of the men playing cards.

Sisler is not a "sissy." He smokes, plays cards and "cusses." But his "cussing" is of the type that would scandalize not one. No one would be shocked at George's mild outbreaks.

Keeps Well-Informed by Reading.

Sisler reads extensively. The sport page is his first stop in the perusal of daily papers. But he reads all the news, both domestic and foreign, and the editorials. Then he forms his own opinion about the situations which interest him. He prefers not to discuss baseball off the field, because friends invariably bring him into the discussion. Sisler loses all his ease and becomes a self-conscious boy at such a time.

He has never completely overcome his early bashfulness. It is a characteristic so much a part of him that he never will lose it. But outweighing this attribute is the supreme courage of him. Sisler, the backward, reticent boy, has faced situations where he had to fight in the fullest conception of the word. When he entered professional baseball there were several men, products of lower classes, who chided the "college boy." The college boy met them all at their own game and proved himself a man's man.

George still returns to Michigan University for an occasional visit to his old professors and members of his fraternity, Delta Tau Delta.

He's Republican, Wife a Democrat.

St. Louis, with its large Republican majority, probably will be glad to hear that George is a Republican. He does not "vote 'er straight," but he is inclined to the Republican party. However, the Democrats need not despair—Mrs. Sisler, who attended Michigan University with George, is a Democrat. They have two young sons, 5 and 2 years of age. They have not yet declared their politics.

"I hope they won't be Socialists," George says.

So, off the field George Sisler is just like any other young man. He regards his profession as an honorable one and his entire interest is in his family and the success of the ventures of which he is a part. He wants to save some money, provide his family with a good home and merited luxuries and give his sons a liberal education.

Everyone wants to do that. And there you have George Sisler off the ball field, with the same hopes, ambitions, thoughts and desires that the normal young man of 29 possesses.

MILLION LOANED TO PERSIA BY OIL CONCERN DISSIPATED

When Government Wanted to Return Money After Disagreement, All Was Gone.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TEHERAN, Persia, Sept. 1.—The Government some time ago considered granting a 50-year concession for oil exploitation jointly to an English and an American company. One of the companies thereupon made an advance of $1,000,000 to the Government, based on the assumption that the concession ultimately would be made operative.

Once in hand, the milion was expended quickly. It went to pay troops in the field, and a lot of overdue salaries to officials.

When the Government learned that the advance was conditional upon exclusive concessions, there was trouble, for in the meantime it had become actively engaged in negotiations with other oil interests, looking to get as much as it could from the potential wealth under the ground. It made every effort to get back the $1,000,000, but too lat ery cent had been expended.

Returns from two benefits and three cash donations have added $38.97 to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund during the last three days.

A bazar given in the 6600 block of Washington boulevard during the early part of this month netted $13.72. The children who directed the affair were: Irene Geary, Ella Gazzo, Maxine Williams, Nadeen Gazzo, Kathryn Lytle and Margaret Ives.

Glenda Tweedle, Grace Isatt, Opal Timpe and Margarette Haas conducted a lemonade stand at the corner of Keokuk street and Michigan avenue and earned $4.25 for the fund.

Cash donations came from the Samuels Shoe Mfg. Co. and the Cadillac Automobile Co., each of whom sent $10, and "Anonymous," who gave $1.

This is the last day of the eight-day carnival at Vandeventer and Laclede avenues for the benefit of the milk and ice fund and arrangements have been made for an overflow crowd. By far the largest crowd which has attended the carnival was on the grounds last night. As early as 6:30 o'clock they began to gather and by 8 o'clock the midway was crowded. The shows and concessions did a flourishing business.

The Boy Scouts have proved themselves a valuable aid in carrying on the carnival. Last Sunday night Troop 35, under the direction of Charles Duggan, was on duty; Monday night Troop 33, directed by Walter Winious, served; Tuesday, Troop 53, of which Frank P. Nagel is scoutmaster, assisted; Wednesday, Troop 49, with Harrison Matson, helped, and Thursday members of four troops were present—Troop 5, Scoutmaster C. S. Rubey; Troops 30 and 145, William Sonnenreich, scoutmaster, and Troop 53, directed by Frank P. Nagel. Friday evening J. P. Simons and Troop 3 worked and last evening C. C. Hoke, with Troop 77, lent assistance. This evening Troop 97, of which J. Welsh is scoutmaster, will assist.

As yet the financial results of the carnival have not been computed, but if the attendance this evening is large the milk and ice fund will be increased considerably. The entire net rental of concession space, together with a large part of the actual proceeds of the carnival, will go to the fund.

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN CASE OF TWO KILLED IN AUTO

Edward Nielsen, 40, and Wife, 39, Lost Lives When Machine Plunged Off Road Into Quarry.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned at Wellston yesterday in the case of Edward Nielson, 40 years old, and his wife, Rose, 39, of 768 Aubert avenue. They were killed when an automobile, owned and driven by Bernard H. Hieger, a saloon proprietor at 4636W Florissant avenue, left the road in attempting to make a turn from Madison Ferry road into Riverview drive at 3:30 a. m. and plunged 15 feet into a quarry.

All three were pinned beneath the overturned automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Nielson were dead when extricated.

Hieger was not seriously hurt. He testified they were approaching a downgrade leading to the intersection of the roads when Nielson said: "Look out, there's a grade here."

Other Seized Wheel.

Hieger said he took his foot off the accelerator and started to apply the brake, when Nielson took hold of the steering wheel. At that instant the machine leaped forward. Hieger thought that Nielson's foot had come in contact with the accelerator. The speed of the car increased until, when it reached the turn, Hieger said, it was going as fast as a six-cylinder automobile could go. He could not make the turn. The car left the road, struck a telephone pole and caromed off into the quarry.

Hieger said Mr. and Mrs. Nielson had called at his home for him and asked him to go riding. They were riding in their own automobile, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Flanery of 2312 Olive street. The Neilson's entered his machine, he said, because Nielson liked it and was considering purchase of one of the same make. Flanery drove Nielson's car, he said, and was following at the time of the accident.

Started After Midnight.

A woman, living in the same flat building on Aubert avenue with the Nielsons, said that Mrs. Nielson had a son, John, who was a Government-aided student at the Rolla School of Mines, and a daughter, who was married last Christmas and who resides in St. Louis. She said it was after midnight last night when she heard the Nielsons depart from home in an automobile.

Malden Man Ends Life.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MALDEN, Mo., Sept. 23.—R. L. Blanton, son of Jerome Blanton, a pioneer resident of Malden, shot and killed himself this morning at 6:30. Blanton was in the employ of the Cotton Belt Railway. He was in the strike, and went back to his work last Wednesday night and had been working steadily ever since. He left his work this morning at 6 and went home and to bed. At about 6:40 the sound of a shot was heard from his room, and his wife found him dead. Besides his wife he is survived by seven children.

GAMING SPIRIT STILL RUNS HIGH IN RUSSIA

Five Players Await Each Seat About Baccarat and Roulette Tables in New Moscow Casino.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.—There are five players waiting for every available seat around the baccarat and roulette tables in the newly opened gambling casino in Moscow, where the play runs high from 8 o'clock in the evening until 10 the next morning.

Frequenters of Monte Carlo and the other big European gaming places in the old days when Russian aristocrats went abroad to spend their money, always remember the Slavs as the most reckless and inveterate of gamblers. A visit to the Moscow Casino today shows that all of the troubles of the Russian revolution have not changed them.

Workmen, roughly dressed and unshaven, with heaps of 10,000,000 and 100,000,000 ruble notes in front of them, sit tensely watching the turn of a card at tables where, perhaps, a fashionably dressed girl, unable to get a seat, leans over a workman and asks him to place a bet for her, or proposes that they take the "bank" at baccarat together.

Foreigners wonder where the players get their money. Persons whose appearance suggests their readiness for the vagrancy court or the poorhouse, dig heaps of Russian ruble notes, foreign currency and even gold coins out of ragged coats, and lose or win billions without outward appearance of elation or discomposure.

The "big play" at baccarat is confined to one room, barred to all those except actual players. Here the minimum bet is 50,000,000 rubles, or at present rates, about $12 in American money.

From this minimum banks frequently are built up to many billions of rubles, equal to several thousand dollars. At other tables the minimum bet is 10,000,000 rubles, or two and a half dollars, and these tables are in the open, with scores of anxious spectators crowding about those lucky enough to get places.

The roulette wheel is operated only for one hour each night, and here the maximum bets range from 3,000,000 rubles on a single number, to 30,000,000 rubles on a color. The wheel has two zeros, instead of the usual one at Monte Carlo, and the profits of the "house" at roulette are, in proportion, twice those which the Monte Carlo gamblers reap from their wheels.

At least $200,000 changes hands nightly at this casino, for the "house," in taking 5 per cent from each baccarat pot, reaps an average of about $10,000 a night. Recently one night's takings were 69,000,000,000 rubles.

Prices that shock even hardened American tourists are demanded for refreshments served by the waiters while the play is on. A package of 10 cigarettes of a well known but very cheap brand, selling in England for the equivalent of 10 cents, brings 6,000,000 rubles, or a dollar and a half, while a small bottle of soda water is served at the equivalent of 75 cents.

Practically all of the gains of the house go to the Government for relief of famine sufferers, or other worthy causes.

MEN NOMINATED FOR ILLINOIS LABOR FEDERATION OFFICES

John H. Walker, President; Duncan McDonald and R. J. O'Halloran Seeking to Head Body.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Nominations of officers of the Illinois Federation of Labor to be voted on in December include:

John H. Walker of Westville, Ill., president, for re-election; Duncan McDonald of Springfield, a former president, and Richard J. O'Halloran, Spring Valley, to head the organization. All represent mine workers' locals. Victor A. Olander of Chicago of the Sailors' Union, is unopposed for re-election as secretary-treasurer.

Vice presidential nominations include the nine present vice presidents —Al Towers, Belleville; Michael J. Whalen, East St. Louis; John P. McGrath, Springfield; L. J. Salch, Bloomington; Fred Heldt, Carlinville; William P. Spinnenweber, Belleville; Agnes Nestor, Chicago; Duncan McDonald, Springfield; Christ Brandhorst, Centralia; Henry Felderwerth, Breeze; P. F. McCauley, Buckner; John H. Wilder, West Frankfort, and R. J. O'Halloran, Spring Valley.

Candidates must file acceptances prior to Nov. 1 and the nominations then will be presented to the federation convention at Rockford on Oct. 16. Voting will be held by local unions at their convenience in December.

MAX WEIL'S FUNERAL TUESDAY

Funeral services for Max Weil, president of the Weil Clothing Co., Eighth street and Washington avenue, who died Aug. 31, will be held at Mount Sinai Cemetery Tuesday. The body has been in a vault at the cemetery since the death but services have been postponed until an only son, Ralph Weil, could return from Europe.

Weil, who was 62 years old, died from Bright's disease. He had been in the clothing business in St. Louis since 1903. The survivors are his wife, Mrs. Nina Weil and his son, Ralph.

Pal o'Mine Is the World's SMARTEST Washer
It Has a Disappearing "Drop-Head" Wringer and Is Priced $25 to $50 Below Other High-Grade Washers

Pal o' Mine, this snug-looking little beauty, in glistening white and gray enamel, is the most revolutionary advancement in the history of the washing machine. A remarkable set of 183 Steel Dies, valued at $250,000.00, makes possible the economical production of Pal o' Mine, which can only be compared with washers costing from $25 to $50 more.

QUALITY AT THE RIGHT PRICE—at last!

Beautiful Pal o' Mine is really on a par with fine motor cars and other highly developed and ably manufactured products. It is so simple and logical that you'll wonder why no one ever thought of making a washer like this before. A succession of surprises awaits those who examine Pal o' Mine thoroughly—big, solid-rubber wheels; automobile-type disc clutch; indestructible cord; convenient wide-opening panel door; and a "twin-six" action 50% faster oscillating tub that operates so silently and smoothly you have to see it to know that it's running.

See Pal o' Mine demonstrated at any of these stores tomorrow—or have one sent out on approval. We'll gladly submit to a test in your home because we're confident that when you use Pal o' Mine you'll want it.

Touch a button and raise or lower the wringer. The double drain is also easily operated—just move a little lever at the top and the tub is empty.

Ah! Here's a wringer that squeezes ALL the water out of anything from a handkerchief to a blanket without a single change in the tension adjustment.

REPORT OF DEADLOCK ON COMPENSATION ACT

Belief Rearguing Is Due to Even Vote in Supreme Court 6 Weeks Ago.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23. — The workmen's compensation case will be arranged before the State Supreme Corut at 2 p. m. next Tuesday.

In this case, Thomas M .Sayman, head of a St. Louis manufacturing concern, and a number of others have brougth action for an injunction against Secretary of State Becker to keep him from allowing the workmen's compensation act, enacted by the last Legislature, to go upon the ballot at the November election.

The case was argued before the Supreme Court six weeks ago, but Judge Elder was not sitting. Although no explanation of why the case is to be re-argued has been made by the court, it is understood upon reliable authority that the six judges who heard the original argument were equally divided as to a decision. All of the judges are expected to be present Tuesday.

'TOY DRUM HERO' IS APPOINTED GOVERNOR OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Major-General Sir George Molesworth Bridges Got Name for Rallying Men in 1914 Retreat.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Major-General Sir George Molesworth Bridges has been appointed Governor of South Australia, succeeding Lieutenant-Colonel Sir William Weigell. The latter resigned the position because, he said, he could not live on his salary and had not sufficient private means to afford the luxury of maintaining such a position. His successor, Sir George, is known in the British army as the "Toy Drum Hero." That term has not been applied to him in derision, but in recognition of a memorable incident in the war, in which he displayed gallantry.

After the action at Le Cateau, in 1914, the British army started on its fighting retreat, and men were dropping out from sheer exhaustion. Maj. Bridges, as he then was, went back to St. Quentin to round up 250 stragglers. He found them in a state of collapse. At a little village shop he bought a toy drum and, falling the men into line with the toy drum and a penny whistle to serve as a band, he marched them off, laughing in spite of their weariness. They kept on marching for 28 miles.

Sir George was the military member of the Balfour mission to the United States in 1917, and head of the British War Mission to the United States in the succeeding year.

Bond's Clothes

Bond's Suits With 2 Pairs of Pants Are the "Best Buy" in St. Louis

You've never seen any better looking styles than are shown in Bond's Fall display.

FIRST because Bond's Clothes are real quality clothes; Bond's prices, too, are, we believe, at least $10 lower than any retailer's; because Bond's is an organization of manufacturers dealing direct with the consumer. We thus save many dollars per garment, as you can readily understand—what we save in dealing direct you save by buying direct. It is this "saving" and the added feature for the Fall of the extra "pair of pants" with Bond's suits that makes them the best buy not only in St. Louis but anywhere.

Two·Pants Suits

You Get Twice the Wear Because of the Extra Pair

$25.

Others at $30, $35, $40 and $45

Come to Bond's and Be Convinced

All we can tell you isn't half so convincing as the clothes themselves. Give us five minutes of your time and let us show you. Try on a few Bond garments. Examine them carefully—compare them with clothes you have seen elsewhere, selling up to $75, then you, too, will be convinced that you should wear Bond's Quality Clothes. It's one thing to make a statement and it's another thing to prove it—but we can prove that Bond's clothes are all that we claim for them—and we want you to know it. Come in men and see for yourself. It's the one sure way of being fully convinced. The wise buyer is the early buyer—for he gets more wear and longer wear at no greater outlay.

First Longies for Young Lads

At no time in his life is he so particular as now, when he's about to wear his first long-pants suit.

We know this from experience—that's why we operate a "special junior department."

Here we specialize in Suits and Overcoats for lads of his age and proportions. Bring him in—we'll satisfy him and save money for you.

Bond's New Fall Gabardine "Toppers"

These coats will give you "double duty"—a topcoat in ordinary cool evenings and a raincoat when the weather calls for one.

Full belted models with raglan shoulders—the pockets are the popular "patch" style. They'll beat the weather any time—and at Bond's prices they can't be beat.

All Sizes

Never mind what size you wear—you may be extra tall or short, extra large or slim—you may be extra particular, but we have what will please you at a price that any man "who cares" can afford. It's up to you to come to Bond's.

Overcoats!

Because of Bond's extraordinary showing of fine overcoats—because of the vastness of the assortment—because of the real quality represented, this store can justly be called "The Overcoat Store."

Ulsters! Ulsterettes! In all the newest blanket-back materials. Great, big, roomy coats that are ready to defy old "Doc Winter." As are all of Bond's clothes—they are priced, we believe, at least $10 lower than you have to pay elsewhere.

INTERNATIONAL NEWSREEL

By Leased Wire to the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

BEVERLY D. HARRIS, prominent clubman, society man and financial expert, resigned last June from the National City Bank, where he was vice president, about a year after the resignation of James A. Stillman, the former president.

No one saw any similarity in the motive for the resignations of the two officials. Up to then Mr. Harris had attracted little attention in the public eye, except as an authority on banking conditions. He was an adviser in the framing of the Federal reserve act.

His parting from the institution where he had been held in much esteem since 1914 came as a surprise to the bank and occasioned a one-day stir in Wall street. After that it was quickly forgotten. Why he resigned, no one knew. Few cared.

Not until four months later was the motive revealed, when the curtain was lifted from the hidden chapters of his life. The revelation came with the filing of a petition in the Supreme Court on Sept. 11 to annul his marriage to the former Elaine Lee, who had been considerably advertised hereabout as a "noted Southern beauty." Then the full details of the romance in the banker's life burst into the glare of publicity. The newspaper spotlight, then turned on, bared one of the strangest entanglements that has yet been brought to the metropolis, already satiated with salacious, vivid tales emanating from Thaw, Stillman and Stokes menages.

After almost 50 years of apparently quiet and inoffensive life, Beverly Harris now comes into court and painstakingly describes the secrets of his matrimonial career and asks the Court and the world in general to believe that he, the shrewd, capable banker and man of affairs, was trapped seven years ago into marriage with the woman whom, he now asserts, spent her former life in the demimonde, among surroundings of the most questionable character.

Unfolds a Strange Tale.

Strange, indeed, is the tale Mr. Harris unfolds, but his attorneys think that there will be no strain upon the credulity of the jury or the judge when the case is finally presented. It is the story of an innocent, well-intentioned, idealistic man, knowing more about business than women, snared by the wiles and seductive beauty of one he believed to be a child of the so-called aristocratic South, and a daughter of [illegible]cker Lee, wealthy founder of the famous line of Lee steamships on the Mississippi River. Her he now charges with being the illegitimate daughter of one Saluda Ann Lee, third wife and widow of Samuel C. Lee of Dover, Tenn., who died eight years before Elaine was born.

Just when and where the great discovery dawned first upon Mr. Harris is an important part of the story yet to be related. How many years he spent in ignorance, what suspicion as to his wife's past were aroused and what finally prompted the investigations which brought the startling "truth" are unwritten chapters of the domestic drama. They are, however, essential parts of the well rounded picture which must be presented to the court several months hence in support of the present suit for annulment, if that suit is to succeed.

Cynical, sophisticated New York laughs at the notion that any worldly-wise and responsible man could rush so unsuspectingly into marriage with a woman of whose life history and family he was in total ignorance. But truth is often stranger than fiction, and Mr. Harris will soon have his day in court. So will his wife.

Very different, indeed, is the story told by Mrs. Beverly Harris, who denies her husband's charges. She has filed an answer and proffered "special defense." She accepted the summons and complaint in her suite at the Biltmore on June 2. She then moved to the Pennsylvania, where she was reached by telephone last week by a reporter. At present, however, she has decamped from there, bag and baggage, leaving no trace of her present whereabouts or forwarding address.

Her story is exactly contrary to that of her husband. Placed side by side, however, the tale of the bizarre romance falls naturally into chapters plentifully punctuated with disillusionments and heart aches.

"Love-Child" Letter.

A letter alleged to have been written to his wife by Harris in 1918 when they were living happily together was introduced in the hearing by Mrs. Harris' attorney, as follows:

"Precious—This is your birthday. Of all the handiwork of God in all the world, none is of more rare and exquisite beauty than you.

You are a love-child, and to you He has given every charm that the artist's vision or poet's fancy could imagine of wonderful, perfect womanhood.

You are the very radiant flower of love.

The full-throated songs of all the birds are in your marvelous voice—your eyes are like soft skies—your skin like the blush of dawn—your teeth a cascade of pearls—in face and form and grace of movement you are all that woman longs for—and that man worships.

The First Chapter.

The narrative must open when Elaine Lee is a young woman of 19, because her girlhood is hidden in a mist of uncertainties and contradictions. Not a fact is known about how or where her youth was spent, except by those who say their lips are sealed.

Was she brought up with every luxury life offers and educated at the Ward School, most exclusive finishing school of the South? All of this she claimed as her heritage when introduced to the middle-aged banker from Houston, Tex.

Or was this slim, dark-eyed brunette whom the banker says he loved at first sight the daughter of the underworld, well known to its denizens and the police?

Mrs. Harris denied practically all of her husband's charges at first, but later, when publicity on the case grew tense, she admitted, through George Gordon Battle, her attorney, who placed the fact on record, that she is an illegitimate child. She claims, however, that Mr. Harris was aware of this before the marriage.

It was intimated in court that the real father of the child was Eli Rayner, who posed as her uncle.

And now the story must skip to the next chapter, where more is known of the details.

Chapter II—Courtship.

His Version.

Beverly Harris met the beautiful Elaine Lee at the Rice Hotel in Houston in February, 1915. They were introduced by friends. She was chaperoned by her "aunt," Mrs. Hosea A. Harris. He soon fell in love with Elaine. She, however, did not lose her heart quickly to the banker, who was 20 years her senior.

Soon, however, she felt a strong attraction for him, for in a letter of March 11, 1915, after she had left Houston, she wrote:

"Dearest Beverly—Now you are gone—I am sad, but I am mortally sad—I don't know what to do. I miss you so. Dreadful awakening from so beautiful a dream and nothing to strengthen me but a memory. Beverly, dear, I have never in all my life had the golden fortune to meet and know anyone so glorious and wonderful as yourself, and now I would not take the whole world for your friendship."

And so the friendship ripened into love, the depth of which is told by a series of heartfelt letters to him. She told of being "overcome by an emotion I cannot describe. I am desperately miserable and sad. I only know I love you and think of you constantly." These messages of love told of her desire to be with him and "to be all yours in perfect love and trust and understanding."

A whirlwind courtship proceeded, which commenced when Beverly Harris suddenly, on July 17, 1915, received a wire: "Haven't heard from you in four days. Am worried about you. Wire me. Elaine."

The next day this wire came to the banker:

"Come direct to St. Louis. Elaine has nervous breakdown. Must see you. AUNTIE HARRIS."

Alarmed about the health of his sweetheart, Harris wired back that he was coming at once. The next day he received another telegram.

"Elaine better since she knows you are coming. Auntie."

Frantic with haste and alarm, he arrived on July 20 at the bedside of his youthful love. They were married the next morning, July 21, 1915.

Another prominent man attended the hasty ceremony beside the minister and the bridegroom. It was her physician. He told Harris his bride was run down and nervous and must go to a sanitarium—that the Colorado climate would be beneficial. Harris, who was in the midst of a business trip and was headed toward that territory, promised the physician he would take every care and gayly started forth with his beautiful bride toward a new land and new life. It was a land where one Cupid held sway, and for the first time in his 46 years of life, the banker, who had never before known love, felt it illuminating his world.

On the honeymoon, a long, beautiful dream, the youthful bride danced and drank so gayly with the rest of the party forgetting her doctor's orders, that she had to remain in Colorado Springs for a rest while the banker went on to San Francisco.

Her Version.

The courtship, as related by Mrs. Harris, is not the story of a spring time love, which filled the heart of an innocent girl and an elderly banker who had passed and skipped the springtime of life. It takes the form of age desiring youth and pursuing it relentlessly.

According to Mrs. Harris she was hardly interested in the banker when she first met him in February, 1915, perhaps because of the 20 years difference in their ages. In March, 1915, she says, he lured her to his room in the Rice Hotel in Houston, and showing her some Civil War relics. Here he conquered her, "partly by force and partly by promise of marriage." He sketched glowing accounts of his coming business and financial success in New York, which she would share and some day call her own. And on the strength of these promises the 19-year-old girl yielded.

Even then her heart rebelled at marriage with the man whose life was mostly behind him while hers was yet in the glowing future, she says, but he brandished the story of her misstep over her. He threatened to tell every one in town. He would expose to the world the account of their intimacy and her social standing would forever be ruined, so says Mrs. Harris.

So once more youth yielded to age, and they were married in St. Louis on July 21, 1915.

But cruel disillusionment awaited the youthful bride, according to her story. On the very eve the knot was tied which made them one "for better or for worse, in sickness and in health," the bride discovered it was "for worse."

"That evening at the Jefferson Hotel," reads the tearful letter of the bride, which forms part of the record, "after the private dinner, I came into your room, which adjoined mine. You were sitting in a chair with a bottle of champagne on the floor beside you and a pitcher of lemonade on the other side of you.

"I sat on the edge of the bed, not knowing what to do or say. I covered the sheet of the bed with pink rose leaves, and you said to me: 'That is the most beautiful thought I have ever known.' Yet you continued to order champagne."——

Then, she says, on that eve when the flower of love is fairest, instead of promises of eternal love and affections came boastings from him that he was known as "the King of the red light district in Houston," of the many women he had vanquished, of the quantities of liquor he could consume

Her romance, shattered from the start, the heart-sick bride says she went to her own room to begin the first of a series of sleepless nights.

The honeymoon was a nightmare, she declares. Her husband's conduct became so unbearable that she was forced to leave him at Colorado Springs and return to her aunt. He continued on to San Francisco.

CHAPTER III.

Married Life.

This is Beverly's version:

Married life was the prolongation of the honeymoon—all bliss. Called away on a business trip shortly after the marriage, Beverly Harris was cheered in his absence by such missives as this:

"Beverly Dearest: I am simply stunned almost with the joy of it all. The realization is sweeter than the hope that filled a thousand years with flame. I don't want you ever to be sorry in your life for one single moment that you have given your heart into my keeping. * * * This existence without you is torture, my precious, grand and noble darling. I would give anything to spend this evening in your own darling arms, because that is when I am really happy."

When her banker-husband commented on the absence of the congratulations from the wealthy Lee family in the honeymoon, and their failure to welcome him into the family, the bride "confessed" that her father was estranged from the rest of the family and that they had not been friendly for years. One day came a letter to Harris from his wife's sister, apologizing for her apparent lack of hospitality in not entertaining him, saying that because the family fortune had dwindled since her father's death, they were not in a position to entertain him in the way he deserved. She asked him "please" never to call, because it would humiliate Elaine and embarrass the family.

Harris says he was touched by the vestiges of pride in the family whose fortune was fading and wrote back a whole-hearted letter, telling her sister he loved Elaine all the more since he knew of the pitiful struggle to retain the family prestige.

Mr. Harris' version continues:

Shortly after her marriage, Mrs. Harris developed a mania for traveling. Undaunted by the fact that her husband's business would not permit him to accompany her, she went alone. Nearly always, however, she wrote her husband that "Uncle Eli" had come to cheer her loneliness.

One month after her marriage found her in Colorado Springs. Her winter months she spent in Palm Beach, Havana, Jacksonville and St. Augustine. In April, 1916, she went to St. Louis, Hot Springs and Little Rock. May found her in Houston, Galveston, Fort Worth, St. Louis and Hot Springs. In July her itinerary took her to Washington, Atlantic City and Saratoga. By August she had finished touring Colorado Springs, Denver and Kansas City.

Her activities during the next few years read like a railroad time table—leave Denver 8 a. m., arrive Kansas City 10 p. m., etc.

She visited many fashionable resorts, going in the same month from Yellowstone to New England and back again.

And at every port she was joined by "Uncle Eli," who, Mr. Harris asserts, registered them as "Eli Traynor and niece."

But, the husband says he, unsuspectingly, was glad her uncle came to keep her company. Endearing missives from her continued to flow and bring sunshine into his life.

On her intermittent visits to her home in New York, he says, she complained to him and others that she had married a man who was wedded to his business. She wanted more love, was her continual plaint. Everything else Harris showered upon her. She told reporters and "feature writers" he had cigarettes especially made for her of rose leaves and sachet powder. She was literally an "old man's darling," but that was not enough.

So the couple, Mr. Harris continues, agreed to disagree, and separated in July, 1919, quietly, with no news to the outer world that the romance had come to grief on the rocks of reality. In December, 1919, Mrs. Harris wrote her husband from the Hotel Plaza that she wanted "a legal separation with a settlement of $500,000." Mr. Harris allowed her $500 every two weeks and they lived apart. This was their agreement.

Then suddenly came the resignation from the bank by Mr. Harris last May. He urged the bank to accept it, pleading heavy business entanglements which required his undivided attention.

In reality Mr. Harris set to work preparing his suit for separation. Investigation of his wife's earlier history was bringing some startling facts to him, he says, and he wished to spare the bank the humiliation of having another one of its important officers exposed to the glare of publicity in one of the most sensational domestic entanglements of the day.

Suddenly, he says, the fact that he had been duped, tricked from the start by the erstwhile Southern aristocrat, who was naught but a child born out of wedlock, caused Mr. Harris to change his contemplated suit for separation into one for annulment.

Her Version.

"My married life was filled with horrors," asserts Mrs. Harris in her affidavits. "My husband was cruel to me, and frequently intoxicated. Once, while intoxicated, he lifted me from a sick-bed and suspended me from a window on the tenth floor, threatening to drop me. He often pointed a pistol at my head.

"Instead of an eminent business man, I found I had married a man who had been known as 'King of the Red Light District' in Houston. He nagged me to divorce him, threatening to expose my relations with him before our marriage.

"He didn't even permit me to have children. He told me his mother had died a lunatic and that his sister and niece were insane.

"My married life with him was a

Voice of Union Labor and the Radical Press

The Post-Dispatch prints herewith extracts from editorials or articles in the organs of the labor unions and of the Socialist and Communist parties, showing the trend of thought on public questions among those bodies of citizens, and indicating causes of social unrest

WAR ON WAR.

(From the Oklahoma Leader, Farmer-Labor.)

There must not be another World War. Every good man and woman agrees to that. But to say that, even though we believe it with every ounce of intense sincerity we can command, is not sufficient.

We must organize the men and women who profess this sentiment and educate them to discover and understand the cause of war and then unite to remove that cause.

The Leader has been pointing out that the cause of war is the struggle between the profiteers to find markets for the surplus wealth the workers create. The remedy is the elimination of the profiteers and the consumption of the wealth the workers create by the workers so that there will be no international commercial rivalries, no contests for profits, and hence no more wars.

THE MOONEY CASE.

(From the Workers' Challenge, Communist.)

It has now been more than six years since Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings were arrested, charged with throwing a "bomb" into a preparedness parade at San Francisco.

Every person connected with the prosecution, either as a prosecutor or witness for the State has been proved a contemptible blackleg and scoundrel, and the case itself is recognized everywhere as a ghastly conspiracy, but still the Governor of that benighted State remains adamant.

Not less contemptible than the frame-up itself, has been the vicious tactics of the so-called labor leaders of California and particularly of San Francisco. They saw an opportunity to dispose of one of the militants in the labor movement if Mooney could be eliminated, so they have sabotaged every effort on the part of the defenders of the victims of master class hatred. No one expects anything from them, but the same tactics that characterizes the reaction in the labor movement everywhere.

HARDING AND STRIKEBREAKERS.

(From the Oklahoma Leader, Farmer-Labor.)

According to Harding, thugs and gunmen have just as much right to work as the regular law-abiding and peace-loving employes have to cease working. He did not put it in those words, of course. But a man of the world, such as he, is conclusively presumed to know that strikebreakers are usually thugs and gunmen who do not want permanent jobs—men who love adventure and who are willing to sell their souls as Judas did.

We strongly deny that strikebreakers should have the same right as regular employes. We say that the regular employes—who have faithfully served the railroads for years—have a right to work on the railways for decent wages, so long as there are enough jobs thereon to go around among them. If Harding were not a class-conscious President—class-conscious on the side of the capitalist class—he would not claim otherwise.

THE RIGHT TO WORK.

(From Forty-Four, Union Labor.)

For over a year about 6,000,000 wage earners with over 20,000,000 dependents, were refused all opportunity to work and support themselves and families. While these wage-earners and their dependents were suffering the pangs of slow starvation not a single Government official or captain of industry invoked the "right to work" in their behalf.

No Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Retail Merchants' Association, Manufacturers' Association; in fact no organization that indorsed the open shop and the destruction of organized labor, demanded that these unemployed wage-earners be protected in the "right to work."

Is there a law on the statute books of a single state in this Union giving an honest working man "the right to work?" If so, why was it not invoked in behalf of the millions of unemployed last winter. There are volumes of laws protecting property and property rights.

MARXISM VS. UNIONS.

(From the Labor Review, Union Labor.)

While there are many members of Socialistic organizations who are also members of trade unions, it should not be forgotten that the success of pure Marxian socialism would mean the destruction and dissolution of the trade union.

The trade union recognizes capitalism as a necessary factor in modern society, but in Marxian socialism there is no place for capitalism nor for any group which would recognize capitalism. Also there are many intelligent trade unionists who agree with the Socialist program in some particular items, while they emphatically reject the doctrines which constitute the basis of Marxism.

Whatever is good in the so-called Socialist movement will not be lost to the world when the organizations which advocated it shall have proved their futility and crumbled before the march of progress. But the results of practical experiments with the Marxian brand seem to prove that it is basically anti-social rather than a constructive element in society.

More Fruit Packing Plants Planned.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2[illegible].—The Illinois Fruit Exchange hopes to have, by next June, its own packing plants at all the 20 points from which its local units ship fruit, according to C. H. Durst of the Illinois Agricultural Association, who organized the exchange last spring. The exchange is the first organization of its kind in the State. It operates along lines similar to those of the California Fruit Exchange. It now has 11 pack-

ALCOHOL FROM MOLASSES USED AS FUEL IN HAWAII

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

HAMAKUAPOKO, Island of Maui, T. H., Aug. 25.—Coal strikes, warnings that the forests of the world may soon disappear if conservation is not practiced, predictions that the petroleum supply of the world may soon be exhausted and the high price of gasoline have no terrors for the inhabitants of this small community, for they cook, heat their houses and run their their automobiles on alcohol which is generated by a newly discovered process from molasses.

The process was evolved by J. P. Foster, head chemist of the Maui Agricultural Co., and has been patented in all of the sugar-producing countries of the world, he said. Heretofore molasses always had been considered a waste product in sugar milling.

Originally the alcohol produced by Foster was used only in the company trucks and automobiles, but later, enough was manufactured to supply employes of the plantation who live in Hamakapoko. A simple apparatus composed of a few thin pipes and an open burner is required to burn the alcohol to supply heat for cooking, and these have been placed in all of the homes here.

Foster said that Maui can produce only enough alcohol in this fashion to supply the needs of the island's population and that no surplus would be available for use on the other islands of Hawaii.

ROMANCE OF BEVERLY HARRIS A STRANGE TALE OF DISILLUSION

period of suffering and humiliation to me until the separation," continued Mrs. Harris.

In an interview given to reporters when the first news of the separation reached the outer world, she described an attempted kidnaping while she was riding in a taxicab as the work of her husband. Mrs. Harris told of the incompatibility of their natures, explaining that her husband had spent nearly the best years of life while she was still at the threshold.

"I hate artificial things in life," she said. "I adore the primitive mode of living. I think in my previous existence I must have been a tigress. I love to dance in the moonlight with nothing on but draperies. I crave wild abandonment and nature. I want Freedom!

"Briefly, the reason for our separation is that he is the Wall street type of man. He is wedded to Big Business—I want Love.

But love is only a minor issue in the face of the charges against Mrs. Harris now, which involve her entire life from her paternity through her girlhood, and involving her travels with Eli Raynor.

The denouement, with all the thrilling events which may help decide whose is the correct version of the entire romance, will be staged in the court room in the near future.

And not the least importa the disclosure of the real the former Elaine Lee.

LANDSCAPE WORK A FAVORITE FORM OF AMERICAN ART

National and Distinctive Note Struck in Paintings Now on View in City Art Museum.

THEME ACCORDED VARIED TREATMENT

Poetic Sentiment of Barbizon School Blends With Vibrant Colors of Impressionists at Forest Park Exhibit.

The seventeenth annual exhibition of paintings by American artists, which is now on view in the City Art Museum in Forest Park, indicates that landscape is a favorite form of artistic expression among American painters.

The collection is not lacking in strong figure subjects and vigorous portraiture, but it is in the realm of landscape that the American artist strikes perhaps the most national and distinctive note. His subject is, of necessity, part and parcel of the country, colored by the changing moods of the seasons and varied by the endless succession of mountain, stream and plain. To this task the present day painter brings a rich heritage, combining the poetic sentiment of the Barbizon school with the vivant color of the impressionists.

These qualities are admirably balanced in the beautiful canvas called "The Grey Woods," by Daniel Garber, one of the most successful American painters, in the rendition of the fleeting, idyllic moods of early spring or late autumn. The present example shows a wooded hillside, its steep inclines carpeted with the rich russets and reds of fallen leaves and striped with the purple autumnal shadows of bare, gaunt trees. The scene is bathed in the soft, pervading haze of late autumn, which subdues and harmonizes colors and imparts to the painting a certain air of ominous hush and expectancy, as though winter were at the threshold.

Works of Other Artists.

Another painter, who is keenly sensitive to delicate atmospheric moods, and who possesses the fine discrimination of color and value necessary for their interpretation, is Leonard Ochtman. He is represented in the current exhibition by a typical painting bearing the title, "Early June." The subject is a landscape vista between clumps of trees across a foreground of water into the distant wooded hills. It is a cool, misty day in early spring, when opaque leaden clouds oppose the cheerful tender greens of forest and hillside and cast an air of chill over the landscape. This feeling is enhanced by the somber darkness of the water in the foreground, and by the cool blue mist which envelops the distance and imparts to the picture its dominant mood.

George Elmer Browne's painting, "The Loggers," is a composition in striking tones of green, which though less literal and representative than the works of Garber and Ochtman, nevertheless attains as high a level of interpretative expression. It is severely simple in composition—a level plain in which stands a lone group of tall poplars, a distance shut in by broadly painted forests, a sky of restless, fleeting clouds. With these few elements the artist has caught something of the bigness and grandeur of even the commonplace phases of nature. Matching Browne's canvas in the rich brilliance of its foliage greens is Charles Reiffel's "Midsummer," another excellent example of subjective painting to which the artist has imparted something of his own feeling toward nature.

"Mood" in Landscape.

Jonas Lie's contribution, "Sycamores in Storm," is an effective rendition of "mood" in landscape. Great sheets of opaque green storm clouds cast a lurid green light over a small fishing village and two tall wind-swept sycamores which stand upon an eminence in the foreground. Every detail is forcefully expressive of the sinister, oppressive atmosphere of an approaching windstorm. Frederick J. Waugh's painting, "In the Tropics," is, like his contribution to last year's exhibition, a marine of vigorous and spontaneous execution.

It shows, jutting out into the sea, a massive point of rock against which the surf beats violently to recoil in wreaths of swirling spray. The rythmic sweep of the water recalls in its grace Hiroshige's famous wood block, "The Wave," in the series of 36 views of Fuji. Charles H. Woodbury shows a marine called "Sun Spots," which is of typically fine color, with unusual effects of lighting. The scene is a narrow ocean cove, shut in by high precipices, excluding all direct sunlight except a few almost vertical rays which produce brilliant lines and spots where they pass through the mist laden air and strike upon the swirling, prismatic water.

"The Old Mill at Francestown," by Chauncey F. Ryder, with its delightful reflections, presents an interesting subject in an attractive manner; and the same may be said of Felicie Waldo Howell's "Fifth Avenue," "Turkey Farm," by Paul King, is charming by reason of its pleasing color, which is especially good in the autumnal foliage and rambling farm buildings of the background. William Wendt and Ben Foster both show well painted landscapes, done in what is now considered the "academic" style. Frank V. Dudley's "Night, Indiana Dunes," and Mary Nicholena MacCord's "A Summer Night" are nocturnes painted in widely differing manners, yet each is keenly alive to the poetic aspects of the theme.

Winter Landscapes.

Winter landscape finds notable interpretation in the works of William H. Singer Jr., Edward W. Redfield, Gardner Symons, Charles Rosen, Ernest Lawson, William L. Carrigan, Charles A. Platt, Everett L. Warner and others. The dominant note of William H. Singer's painting, "The Golden Hour of a Winter Day," is its feeling for the delicate tones and colors of snow—the subtle graduation of purple snow shadow from the foreground to the mountains of the distance. Edward W. Redfield and Gardner Symons, if less sensitive to delicate nuances of color, are none the less expressive of the cold, somber air of winter.

Redfield's "Reflections," is a particularly enjoyable canvas from the brush of this popular artist. It portrays a quaint old village nestling among snow-clad hills and forests, which raise bare gray branches against a pale winter sky. A pool in the foreground, probably the reservoir of an old mill, mirrors the still winter scene upon its quiet surface.

Charles Rosen's painting, "Ice Bound River," has fine decorative value in its broad contrasting expanses of darkling water and ice, and its rhythmic sweep of line. William L. Carrigan shows a snow scene, "Winter Night," remarkable for its laboriously stippled surface and its unusual presentation of a landscape veiled by falling snow. In the weird, uncertain light, hills and valleys have assumed ghosty, unfamiliar forms, now appearing and now vanishing as the spectacular attempts to trace their outline.

The collection of paintings by American artists will remain at the museum until Oct. 25.

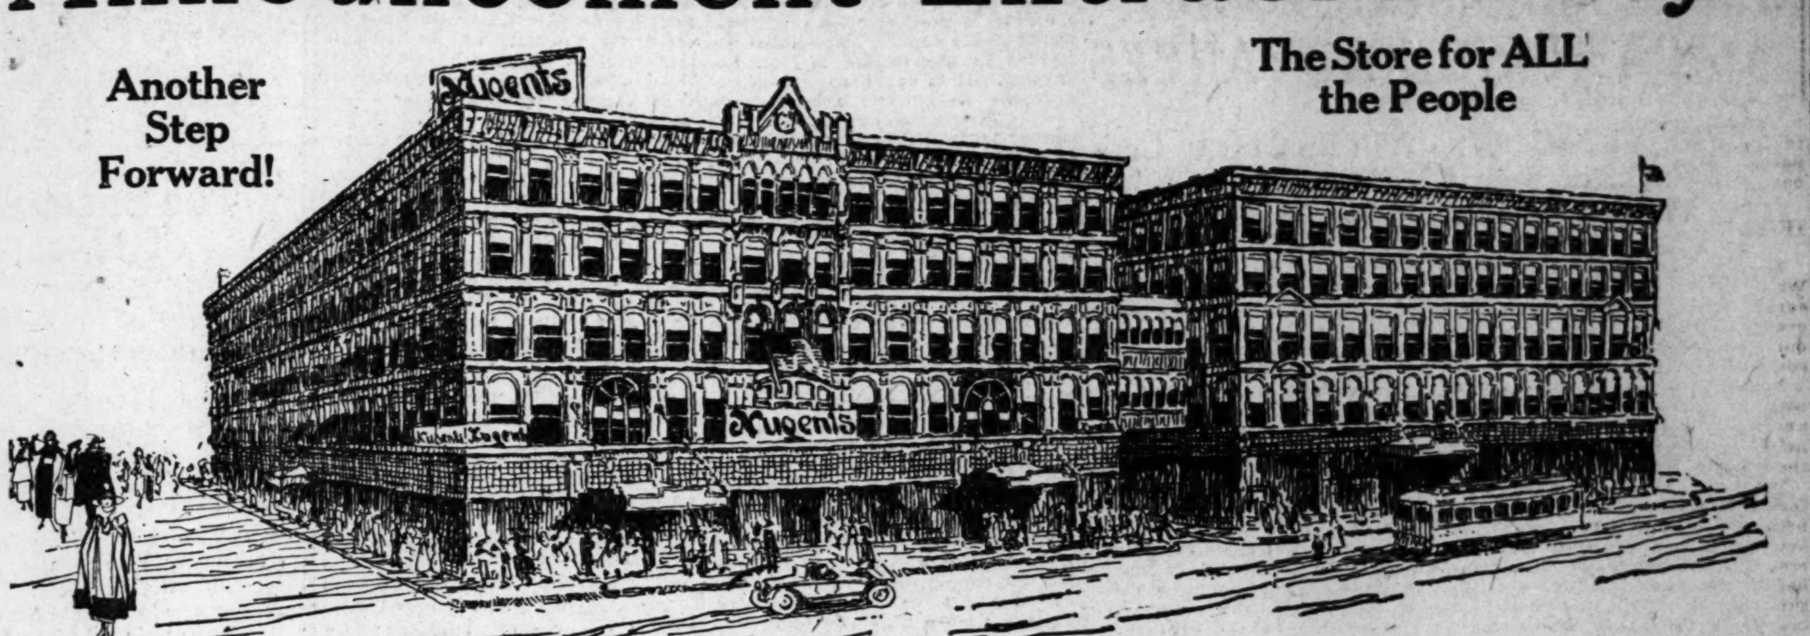
Two-Year Sentence for Burglary.

George S. Ebert, 29 years old, of 3119 South Broadway Friday was sentenced to two years in the State Penitentiary by Judge Franklin Miller on a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary in the second degree and larceny. He admitted having broken into the store of Charles Grau at 3826 South Broadway, having taken $149 worth of property. A second charge of burglary was dismissed.

Announcement Extraordinary!

Another Step Forward!

The Store for ALL the People



Buy on the Household Club Plan!

Another step forward—this store adds a new and popular department to its "Store Service."

We are pleased to announce to our thousands of patrons and St. Louisans that we have installed a popular "Household Club Plan" of payment on home furnishings and household needs which you will find the most convenient and most liberal.

"The Household Club Plan"

—affords a method of obtaining home furnishings and many of the comforts of the home without the neccesity of an immediate outlay. Only a small payment—balance in weekly or monthly payments as you desire.

"Buy while you use" has become a popular method of buying household needs. We deliver the goods immediately. Many of our patrons who maintain regular monthly charge accounts will be pleased to learn of this new arrangement. The necessity of disturbing investments, surrendering bonds or drawing on an interest-bearing account is eliminated.

It is a safe and dignified way to buy. It is a heart-to-pocketbook arrangement for you and your home.

The "Household Club Plan" prices are the same as when you pay cash. Think of buying beautiful Rugs, Carpets, Linoleum, Beds and Bedding, Draperies, Stoves, Refrigerators, Wash Machines, Baby Carriages, Kitchen Cabinets, Cedar Chests, Floor Lamps, Etc., have these delivered to you immediately and the privilege of paying for same in convenient weekly or monthly payments.

"WANAKI WOODS" ON THE
North Pelican Chain of Lakes

Is a block of the most beautiful lake frontage now available in Northern Wisconsin; heavily timbered—not with small, scrubby, second-growth stuff, as is most of the frontage now on the market, but—with large pine and scattering hardwood, so thick that trees must be cut to provide sufficient open space for building; facing the waters of the North Pelican chain of lakes; three miles from railroad station, postoffice and grocery store; two miles off main highway; about twelve miles from Rhinelander, the gateway to the Summer playground of the North, from which it is an easy drive over wonderful scenic roads to Eagle River, Three Lakes, Sayner, Arbor Vitae, St. Germain, Woodruff, Minocqua, Flambeau, Trout Lake, Boulder Junction and many other resorts known all over the country.

The North Pelican chain of lakes proper, consists of five beautiful lakes linked together with thoroughfares, while another lake can be reached with a short portage. This territory is practically unknown to the tourist, and, being far from any large town, the waters have been fished but little. Muskellunge, pickerel and bass are plentiful, as well as the hungry little blue-gill, whose willingness to "bite" anything at any time, is a source of continuous joy to the youngsters. The timber has furnished good shelter for both deer and partridge, and there is excellent shooting in season.

This property will be blocked in lots, each having a water frontage of one hundred feet, and a depth of not less than five hundred feet, the depth varying with the indentations of the shore line. This is about twice as wide and twice as deep as the average Summer resort lot, but it is purposely so plotted with the intention of selling to people who want desirable property and are willing to pay a reasonable price for a lot large enough to prevent crowding. Most people go to the country for rest and seclusion, and neither can be had on a fifty-foot lot. Moreover, the purchase of a hundred-foot lot of desirable land means an investment considerably higher than fifty feet of bare land, and this arrangement will make for a more exclusive settlement.

These hundred-foot lots will be sold for twelve hundred dollars each; deed furnished for each lot; terms cash. If desired, an opportunity will be arranged for prospective buyers to inspect the property. Reliable interested parties will be sent a set of photographs, showing practically all of the frontage and some interior views; these photographs to be returned after examination. This set of pictures will enable a buyer to pick a location from the shore-line views without being on the ground. There is no swamp frontage in the entire description. Inquiry may be made to any bank in Wausau, as to the integrity and business standing of the owner.

This is an unusually desirable property of a kind that is rapidly disappearing from the market, and it will be taken up quickly. If you wish to acquire an ideal Summer homesite in the most beautiful and accessible resort district of the country, at a reasonable price, communicate with J. H. ELLIOTT, Box 398, Wausau, Wisconsin.

G. O. P. SEES SYMPTOMS OF REVOLT AGAINST OLD ORDER AS CAMPAIGN ADVANCES

Kind of Republicans Who Will Be Sent to Con-
Danger of Defeat by Democrats.
gress Worries Administration More Than

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1922.)

This is the first of a series of daily dispatches to be writen by David Lawrence as he canvasses political and economic conditons in 21 Northern States from coast to coast between now and election day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Nearly four years have elapsed since the guns ceased firing on the Western front and the peoples of the world began to turn governments upside down in a desperate effort to achieve quickly the normalcy of pre-war days.

How far has the restlessness of the electorate been checked, if at all? How vital are the murmurs of dissatisfaction today as compared with the gloomy months of low farm prices and unemployment which started with the painful processes of deflation just after the 1920 presidential election? Will the Republicans survive the spirit of change which has been working to the disadvantage of the party or Government in power everywhere?

Milestone in Reconstruction.

Few campaigns have had more interesting questions to answer. This year is a milestone in the era of reconstruction after the great war. All the ills of an electorate irritated by war's inconveniences were combined in the verdict of 1920. Much of the vote was in protest against acts made necessary by war, particularly burdensome taxation. Is the need of heavy taxes better understood today? The answer to this question will be registered in many a congressional district on Nov. 7th. It is the writer's intention to make a survey of the situation in 21 Northern States where if a political revolution is in sight the result may have a bearing on the attitude of Congress in the winter season and on the preisdential contest of 1924.

One can get preconceived ideas of the public attitude by living in the Washington atmospehre constantly and nothing is more refrèshing to the student of politics than to get away from the standards by which politicians measure the public pulse and study at first hand the currents of thought in all walks of life.

Expert to "Retain" Control.

For one thing, the Republican leadership here is convinced it will retain control of Congress. In those words, "retain control" may be read an admission that the Republican majorities will be cut down. There are those in the Republican fold who would prefer smaller Repubican majorities in the Senate and House, anyway. It is conceded that many normally Democratic districts were caught in the landslide of Republicanism in 1920 and that the change to Demorcacy again is inevitable. The Republican chess players have already counted these pieces as lost.

What the Republican administration really expects is not a duplication of 1920 by any means, but a healthy pre-war Republican victory. This is not admitted of course by the Democrats who enthusiastically go forth to battle believing that the Republicans will suffer heavy losses including control of the House of Representatives at least.

Quite apart from the poltical and partisan views of each headquarters there is something in the situation which the "regulars" in both parties do not relish. There are symptoms of revolt against the existing order. Even the label "Republican" when worn by radicals develops no feeling of comradeship in the hearts of Republicans of yesteryears. There's a new type of Republican whose kinship is closer to the radical or progressive Democrat of 1912, the group that helped Wilson into power against a divided Republican party or closer if you like to the Bull Moose crusaders who swelled Roosevelt's vote.

Many Political Uprisings.

No common denominator can be found for all the political uprisings which the primary elections of the last few months have developed. The views of Brookhart of Iowa, Frazier of North Dakota, Beveridge of Indiana, Johnson of California and Lafollette of Wisconsin, and incidentally Pinchot of rockribbed Pennsylvania are much more like those of a William Jennings Bryan than Warren Harding, titular leader of the Republican party.

That's the reason the chief worry in Washington in the conservative administration circles is not whether the Republicans will beat the Democrats, but what kind of Republicans will come here to sit in Congress. The administrations' experience with the farm bloc, especially in tariff making and in the embarrassments of the bonus, which commanded almost the unanimous support of the Western members, has been a disappointing one. The pressure of conflicting interests, the almost irreconcilable attitude of the agricultural West and the banking and manufacturing East make it necessary that either one or the other of these Republican types shall dominate in govermnent if any legislation is to be passed or checked according to its merits.

Series of Deadlocks.

The Congress just adjourned embraced a series of deadlocks in which the lack of outstanding leadership was not so much the absence of dominating or persuasive personalities, but the conflict of two sections of the United States—the East and the West—aided and abetted by Democrats from the South, some of whom leaned with one group and some with the other.

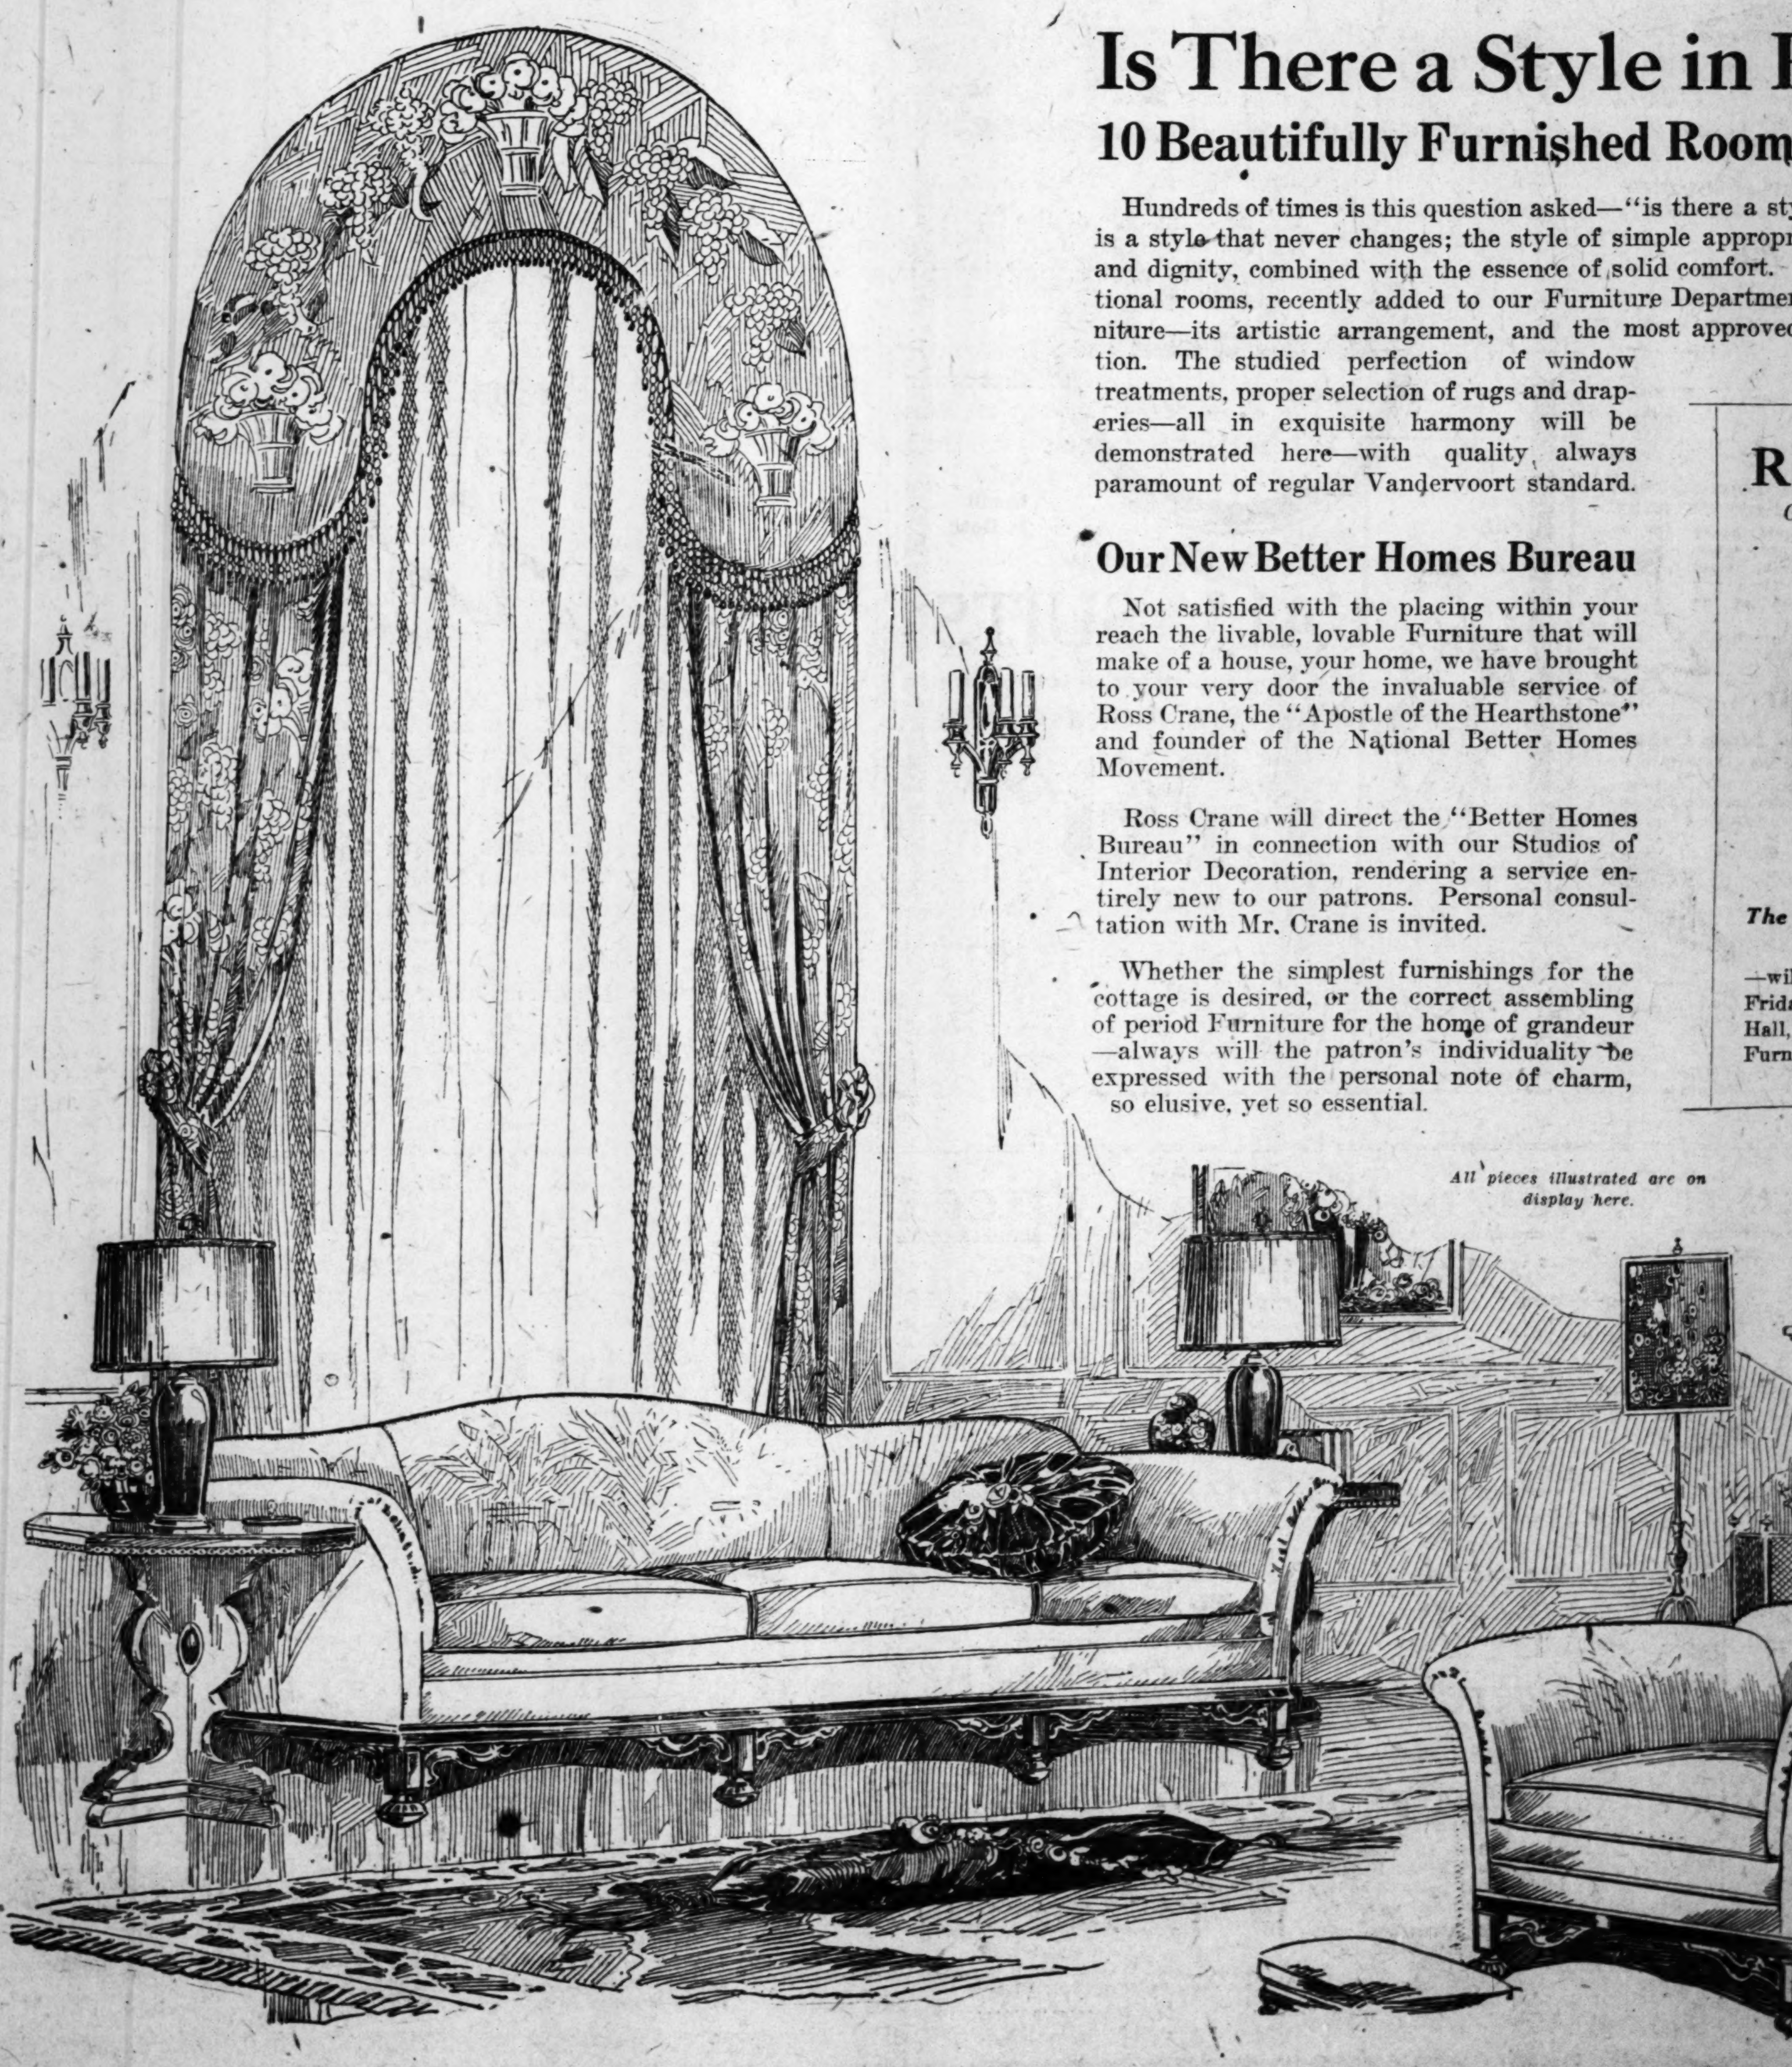
WE launch this event tomorrow. It is so broad in its scope, so wide in its possibilities, that we believe the entire community and a vast portion of the Middle-West will profit from the inexhaustive resources available here, for the creation of Better Homes. We impatiently await your surprised appreciation which we know will be forthcoming, when the magnitude and beauty of our Autumn Exposition of Home Furnishings bursts upon you in all its splendor. No effort has been spared in the assembling of good Furniture, from the hands of master craftsmen, who build to endure and attract for the future as well as now.

Turkey, Persia, China. Japan and other countries of the Far East send Rugs, rich in color and of rare loveliness. From France and Belgium come gorgeous Tapestries of wool, hand-woven in wondrous scenic effects of true historic interest.

Curtains from Switzerland—Holland adds its bit of beauty, and Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors and "Lenox" China, the finest in the world, made right here in America—all are here. Not one thing has been forgotten that could contribute to the interest and helpfulness of the exposition.



All pieces illustrated are on display here.

Is There a Style in Furniture?

10 Beautifully Furnished Rooms—Answer Yes!

Hundreds of times is this question asked—"is there a style in Furniture?" Yes there is a style that never changes; the style of simple appropriateness, of distinctive charm and dignity, combined with the essence of solid comfort. We have furnished ten exceptional rooms, recently added to our Furniture Department, to portray the best in Furniture—its artistic arrangement, and the most approved themes in Interior Decoration. The studied perfection of window treatments, proper selection of rugs and draperies—all in exquisite harmony will be demonstrated here—with quality always paramount of regular Vandervoort standard.

Our New Better Homes Bureau

Not satisfied with the placing within your reach the livable, lovable Furniture that will make of a house, your home, we have brought to your very door the invaluable service of Ross Crane, the "Apostle of the Hearthstone" and founder of the National Better Homes Movement.

Ross Crane will direct the "Better Homes Bureau" in connection with our Studios of Interior Decoration, rendering a service entirely new to our patrons. Personal consultation with Mr. Crane is invited.

Whether the simplest furnishings for the cottage is desired, or the correct assembling of period Furniture for the home of grandeur—always will the patron's individuality be expressed with the personal note of charm, so elusive, yet so essential.

BUDER CHALLENGES LAW ON BALLOTING FOR ASSESSORSHIP

Salary and Length of Tenure in Office Would Be Cut Even if He Won in Election.

ORDER AGAINST CONTEST SOUGHT

Oscar Buder, Brother of Incumbent, Acting as Attorney in Effort to Defeat Act.

William F. Buder, City Assessor, thinks that the legality of the act which changed his office from an appointive to an elective one should be threshed out.

He was appointed originally and must stand for re-election in November. If the new act could be declared inoperative he would continue to hold office until April, 1925, whereas, if elected in November, his new term would expire in January, 1925. Besides, as an elective office, the salary is only $8000, whereas his predecessor in the last year of his tenure as an appointive officer drew $5000 salary plus $10,000 in fees, or $15,000 in one year.

Buder's close friend, Jacob Stocke, notified the Board of Election Commissioners yesterday that he would file application for an injunction forbidding the placing of the names of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist nominees for Assessor upon the November ballot. He alleges that the act converting the office to an elective one was passed at a special session of the Legislature, the Governor's call for which did not include many things included in the act.

Oscar Buder, Brother of the Assessor, is attorney in the case. Assessor Buder is the Republican nominee.

ST. LOUIS U. ENDOWMENT FUND TOTALS $1,092,768

About $450,000 of Above Spent for Law, Medical and Dental Buildings.

The Rev. William F. Robison, president of St. Louis University, who has been absent for more than a year, returned to the city yesterday and assumed active control of the University's affairs, including the Centennial Endowment Fund movement, inaugurated by him two years ago.

Dr. Robison is in splendid health, and finds all departments active, as the largest enrollment of the University's more than a century of existence now is being registered. There was an increase in attendance last year of 18 per cent, bringing the total enrollment up to nearly 3100.

The total of the endowment fund to date is $1,092,768.14, of which approximately $450,000 has been spent for new buildings for the Law, Medical and Dental colleges.

It is expected that within a few days President Robison will call together the members of the Endowment Fund Committee for a resumption of activities which were dormant during the period of business depression.

GERMAN CASKET WITH BODY OF ST. LOUISAN WEIGHS 900 LBS.

Coffin Bearing Corpse of Henry Mangels Three Times as Heavy as American Types.

A solid oak casket, copper lined, weighing three times as much as those of American manufacture, was used to ship the body of Henry Mangels, 3502 Pestalozzi street, from Berlin, Germany, to St. Louis. He died of pneumonia, Aug. 15, while touring with his wife.

The body arrived in St. Louis Thursday. The crated casket weighed 1200 pounds, and was 4 feet wide, 5 feet high and 9 feet nigh. The casket itself is 6 feet 9 inches long, 3 feet 4 inches wide and 3 feet 4 inches high. It weighs 900 pounds. Eight bronze handles, each about 15 inches long, are fastened to it. The casket, mounted on six oak legs, is handsomely carved. It is dark brown in color. It differs in shape from the American type in that the top and bottom are from a foot to 18 inches shorter and narrower than the middle. The casket is a typical German make.

It will not be used in the funeral services which will take place at 2 p. m. tomorrow, at Jesus Evangelical Church, Twelfth and Victor streets, because of the difficulty of handling it. Burial will be in New St. Marcus' Cemetery.

Mangels was secretary of the Zitt-Ipsen Manufacturing Co. at Seventeenth street and Park avenue, until three years ago, when he retired.

The German casket is being kept at undertaking parlors, 3013 Meramec street.

Refrigerating Engineers' Convention.

Preparations to care for 500 delegates and guests at the annual convention of the National Association of Practical Refrigerating Engineers at the Planters Hotel, Nov. 1 to 4, are being made by the local Arrangements Committee. Special cars from New York, Boston and Philadelphia will bring a large number of the Eastern delegates.

DELICATE PARTY PROBLEM SOLVED BY CHAIRMAN IGOE

Danger of Friction Among Democrats Averted by Selection of Judge Williams to Handle Campaign.

HE WILL LOOK AFTER JUDICIAL CANDIDATES

They Are Said to Have Demanded His Selection, Fearing Fight for Reed Might Be at Their Cost.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

With the selection of former Supreme Judge Fred L. Williams of St. Louis to manage the State campaign in so far as the three candidates for Supreme Judge are concerned, Chairman Igoe of the Democratic State Committee has found a solution for a very delicate situation which arose within the State Democratic organization.

After Senator Reed had completely dominated the Democratic State Convention and the organization of the Democratic State Committee at Excelsior Springs, a fear arose among many Democrats, and, it is said, particularly in the minds of the three candidates for Supreme Judgeships, that the full power of the party organization was to be used to elect Reed, and that wherever anything could be gained for Reed by sacrificing others on the ticket, the sacrifice would be made.

It is said by reliable Democrats that the three candidates for Judge, Judge Walker, Judge White and Judge Ragland, decided that there must be arrangements in headquarters whereby particular attention would be given to their candidacies. The report is that the three candidates decided that Judge Williams was the man they wanted to handle the campaign, and that they demanded of Igoe that Williams be placed on the Executive Committee for the purpose of promoting their candidacies primarily and incidentally the candidacies of others on the State ticket.

Williams' Name on the List.

When the members of the Executive Committee were announced Friday, Williams' name was on the list. An unusual feature of the committee is that although Kansas City is a strong Democratic city, there is no member of the committee from Kansas City, while St. Louis, a Republican city, has two, Judge Williams and State Senator Michael Kinney.

Judge Williams yesterday admitted that he would have "a somewhat active part" in the campaign, and that his efforts would be principally directed to looking after the interests of the judicial candidates, but he denied there was any friction in the Democratic organization, or that his selection for a place on the Executive Committee was due to any demand by the judicial candidates.

"We are interested in electing the entire ticket," Judge Williams said, "and while I expect to devote some time to the candidates for the courts, there will be nothing done in their interests which will in any way conflict with the interests of any other candidate. I am equally certain there will be nothing done for other candidates which will conflict with their interests."

Speeches Awaited With Interest.

The Democratic candidates, other than Reed, are awaiting with considerable interest the speeches which will be delivered at the campaign opening in Mexico Wednesday by Senator Stanley of Kentucky and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, to determine to what extent, if any, the campaign is to be directed more in the interest of Reed than for the entire ticket. There was some disposition on the part of other candidates to oppose the bringing of Senators Stanley and Robinson into the State for the opening.

Because of their activity, particularly Stanley, for Reed in the primary, there was a feeling that Stanley and Robinson would direct all of their attention to Reed, and that their speeches would serve to attract attention to Reed and away from other candidates. At least, with two outside Senators on the afternoon program and with Reed on the evening program, the other candidates have been unable to learn where they will have much opportunity to get to the attention of those who attend the opening.

The Executive Committee, of which Oscar W. Hackworth of Piedmont is chairman, will meet this morning in State Democratic headquarters in the Central National Bank Building to consider plans for the campaign. So far little or nothing has been done toward an organization of the women. Several women have been invited to the meeting today, but, it is said, none of those in the "Rid-Us-of-Reed" organizations in the primary have been summoned.

Selection of Reed Opponents.

In the selection of the Executive Committee attention was given to selecting Democrats of whom a majority opposed Reed in the primary. Hackworth was not active in the primary, but was considered a Reed man. The secretaryship went to C. C. Oliver of Cape Girardeau, who was actively opposed to Reed. Of the other members of the committee five were Long men and four Reed men. The Long Democrats chosen were former Lieutenant-Governor Crossley of Warrensburg, A. T. Dumm of Jefferson City, Everett Reaves of Caruthersville, F. M. McDavid of Springfield and A. H. Whitney of Mexico. The Reed men chosen were J. A. Collet of Salisbury, George N. Orear of Marshall, Michael Kinney and Judge Williams of St. Louis.

Chairman Igoe of the State Committee was Reed's St. Louis campaign manager, while T. H. Fisher of Marshall, secretary, was an active Long supporter.

After the opening in Mexico Wednesday, Reed will go to Jefferson City for a speech Thursday, Sedalia for a speech Friday, and Marshall Saturday. Early next week he will speak in Liberty, Chillicothe and Macon.

This schedule indicates that Reed is devoting his first attention to the strong Democratic counties, where there was a very extensive anti-Reed sentiment in the primary, evidently in the hope of winning back the disgruntled Democrats.

G. O. P. Out After Same Vote.

The Republicans are out after the same vote, R. R. Brewster, the Republican nominee for Senator, being scheduled for his first speeches in strong Democratic communities. This could be for no other reason than to attempt to keep alive the anti-Reed feeling among Democrats.

Brewster will open next Saturday in Warrensburg in the afternoon and Holden in the evening. Both are in Johnson County, which Reed lost by 1480 votes, and where there are 2607 Democrats who voted against Reed in the primary.

Monday Brewster will speak in Moberly, Randolph county, where there were 4434 anti-Reed votes ni the primary; Tuesday afternoon in Centralia, Boone county, where there were 4140 anti-Reed votes; Tuesday evening in Mexico, Audrain County, where there were 2954 anti-Reed votes; Wednesday afternoon in Fulton, Callaway County where there were 3586 anti-Reed votes, and Wednesday evening back in Boone County, at Columbia; Thursday night he will be in Jefferson City, Cole County, where they were 1585 anti-Reed votes; Friday afternoon in California, Moniteau County, where there were 667; Friday evening in Sedalia, Pettis County, where there were 2622; Saturday afternoon in Fayette, Howard County where there were 2947 and Saturday evening in Brookfield, Linn County, where there were 2227.

It is apparent from this that the plan of Republican campaign is to keep alive the Democratic disaffection, leaving to others than their leading candidate the handling of the vote in the Republican counties. Likewise, it is clear the plan of the Democratic campaign is to throw Reed into the anti-Reed Democratic communities in an effort to win back the Democrats.

STORY OF PHILIPPINE TOUR

An account of a 1900-mile tour of the Philippine Islands by a Government party, participated in by Maj. Waycott Denison, will be given by his mother, Mrs. Henry H. Denison, at a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution at 2 p. m., Friday, in Jefferson Memorial.

This will be the first regular meeting this season of the local chapter, of which Mrs. Denison is regent. Maj. Denison, who is in the Medical Corps and is stationed at Fort McKinley, near Manila, told of the trip in a recent letter. The tour required 17 days, in which stops were made at the larger islands and extended as far south as Sula Land and Borneo.

70TH YEAR OF PASSENGER SERVICE ON ROCK ISLAND

Railway to Celebrate Anniversary by Re-inacting First Run of Train From Chicago to Joliet.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co. will celebrate the seventieth anniversary of its first passenger train service, Oct. 10, at Chicago. A re-enactment of the first run of the original passenger train from Chicago to Joliet, which left Chicago at 10 a. m., Oct. 10, 1852, will be staged. Charles Hayden, chairman of the board of directors, will be at the throttle of the engine.

At Joliet a monument to S. B. PROGRESS OF BUILDING DESCRIBED BY DARST

According to the Darst Realty Co. five more buildings are planned for Westmoor subdivision at Clayton road and Pennsylvania avenue.

In an interview on building conditions, Darst Jr. said that 20 years ago it was hard to imagine such a building as the Railway Exchange being erected, 22 stories high. It was almost unbelievable, he said, that a hotel the size of the Chase would be built on King's highway. "Yet the possibilities in Westmoor are far greater and more promising than were the possibilities of 20 years ago", he declared.

"But a few years ago, St. Louis through its House of Delegates, refused to pay $2000 an acre for the purchase of the ground from King's highway to Newstead avenue in order to make it a part of Forest Park, on the theory that the land owners were asking an exorbinant price for this property.

"Great improvements have been made in Westmoor during the past week. Sales have kept up in a most satisfactory manner, and we are in the midst of an enthulastic drive to sell 250 lots in a short time. This will about clean out Westmoor."

PERMITS FOR 10 BUNGALOWS TAKEN OUT BY GREULICH FIRM

The John C. Gruelich Realty Co. has taken out permits for the first part of 10 new bungalows to be erected in the 5400 block of Emerson avenue, across the street from the park of St. Mary's Orphan Home. The bungalows will be of the latest design, with five rooms, tile bath, large front porch and a hip roof over the entire house.

The Greulich company reports having sold all its 10 bungalows on Lexington and Taylor avenues, and also reports having made building loans amounting to $78,000.

Gundlach Reports Sales.

Charles Gundlach reports sales and loans aggregating $37,700. The sales were: 4274 Penrose street, four-room cottage, for Catherine Fowler to A. G. Feldman and wife; 1422 East Prairie avenue, four-room cottage, for John Wershing to C. A. Campbell and wife; 5247 Belleview street, five-room cottage for Fannie L. Henderson to Roland J. and Grace Harth; 2526-28 North Grand boulevard, two houses, eight rooms each, bath, furnaces, on account of Joseph M. Kelley.

WAR SCARE OVER TURK DISPUTE CAUSES NERVOUS MARKETS DURING WEEK

COMPLICATION OF INFLUENCES MARK WEEK IN STOCKS

War Talk, Sensitive Markets and Money Flurries Engage Financial Attention—Reparation Crisis Passes Almost Unnoticed.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"War talk, sensitive markets and money flurries have engaged financial attention during the past week. Beginning with a sharp attack on stocks on Monday, to be accounted for, so speculators explained, by the imminence of a new European war, the early part of the week saw a gradual return of steadiness. Before the close, however, another spell of weakness made itself apparent, this one being accompanied by signs of pool liquidation and a rise in the call money rate to 6 per cent. Meanwhile, as is usually the case, speculative sentiment became distinctly more cautious. Traders began to ask whether a new war really is likely, whether anything is wrong with industry, whether the money position definitely has changed and whether the rise in securities has come to an end.

Complication of Influences.

"All this uncertainty probably will be found to arise not from any one sharp change, but from a complication of influences, some transient and some of a relatively lasting character. No one can pretend to know Kemal's present intentions. It must be admitted, however, that his public statements so far have been moderate. He hardly can hope to face the Dardanelles in the face of the British fleet. He is likely to hesitate before committing a direct act of war against Great Britain. As for Thrace, Turkey probably will be treated liberally in a peace conference. After all, a general war in Europe is an improbability. Almost no country wants to fight, and practically none have the wherewithal. Pending a conference, however, it is only natural for the Turks to make a minimum show of strength.

"Nor are industrial prospects unpromising. The inflationary boom talk of which attracted so much attention a few weeks ago, is, to be sure, becoming more and more of an improbability. Even in the shortage industries, recent premiums are disappearing. The soft coal market is displaying a weaker tone and anthracite prices are being established close to last year's levels. Steel buyers are showing less disposition to bid for prompt deliveries and basic quotations appear to have advanced little if any during the last month. At the same time, the indication as to the trend of general business are good. Bituminous output continues large and increased supplies are helping several industries to enlarge their activity. More blast furnaces have been blown in and steel output has risen further. Even a rate of approximately two-thirds of the country's present capacity, more steel is being produced than in any year before the war. Daily car loadings show that the traffic movement has been exceeded by only a few weeks in 1920.

Flurry in Call Money.

"As for the flurry in call money, that last and most sensitive of surplus, the incident undoubtedly reflects unusual shifting of funds that occurs in connection with the tax date. Fairly widespread borrowing to pay taxes seems to have caused out-of-town banks to withdraw a part of the fund, placed in the New York market. Discounting the unusual factors, however, money is firmer, which is quite natural in view of the season of the year and the preparations for fall trade. Foreign balances are being drawn on to meet seasonal purchases of grain and cotton. Since a portion of these funds had been placed in the acceptance market, their withdrawal has contributed to the rise of one-quarter of 1 per cent in acceptance rates. In addition, an increased volume of acceptances has been created, notably to finance imports of such commodities as sugar, silk and wool. The effect has, for the moment, been intensified by the heavy importations in anticipation of the new and higher tariff rates.

"Meanwhile, in the excitement engendered by the Turkish news, a reparations crisis has been passed almost unnoticed. Germany, with the co-operation of the Reichsbank and the Bank of England, has furnished satisfactory security for the Treasury notes given Belgium. A continuance of the breathing spell recently granted is thus assured. Enormous printings of new marks, however, serve to recall the unsoundness of the German position and give emphasis to the hopes that the next few months will permit the formulation and acceptance of a well-rounded plan for dealing with the whole reparations situation."

"Recovery in stocks which began yesterday afternoon continued this morning in moderate degree. Most of the advances were made during the first hour after which prices showed a disposition to sag again and it was the general opinion that the demand for stocks early in the session came largely from the class of professional traders who dislike to carry their commitments over a week-end holiday. The bond market was dull but steady and without marked price changes.

Exchange Market Quiet.

"As on the previous day the foreign exchange market was affected but slightly by developments in the Near East. The tone was somewhat firmer, but volume of trading was limited and changes in quotations were small for the most part. Sterling at $4.41⅝ showed a gain of ⅛ while French francs, following their good recovery yesterday, were half point higher at 7.60 cents. Italian lire were also half point higher at 4.20 cents. German marks, meanwhile, were unchanged at .07⅛ of a cent. Dutch guilders advanced about 8 points, but altogether the market was just the usual week-end affair.

"Declaration of British policy with regard to the Turkish situation was looked upon as lessening the likelihood of war and commodity markets moved accordingly. Wheat reacted while cotton moved up. December wheat opened at $1.07 or 1⅛ cents below the previous close and then lost a cent and a half more. Some recovery followed. December cotton opened 10 points higher at 21.27 cents and then found a trading level at from 20 to 30 points above yesterday's last quotation. Week-end profit-taking occurred in both markets.

"A decrease of $60,804,610 in surplus of member banks is shown by the weekly statement of the Clearing House. Total excess reserve amounted to $39,582,850. The recovery in business following the improved labor situation is reflected by a gain of $59,059,000 in loans and discounts. A decrease of $63,421,000 in demand deposits accompanied the heavy demands for money in this market during the past week."

TRADE IS QUIET IN SHORT SESSION ON CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — Trading was quiet in today's short session on the Curb Exchange. Renewed buying which started Friday in the shares of Schulte Retail Stores kept on this morning. After opening two and a half points higher it contined its advance getting close to 60. The buying of this stock was said to be still based on expectations of a combination with the other interests.

High priced Standard Oil issues were less active although Standard of Kansas, on very few buying orders, made a new high for the year, while Standard of New York reached 500 again. Ohio Oil and Standard of Indiana also appeared in good demand.

Mutul Oil featured the trading in the independent group. It continued active throughout the session crossing 11 to a new high for the present movement.

New England Fuel Oil was another active leader of the independents, and was traded it well above its previous close. Simms Petroleum attracted attention, getting well above 10. The buying in Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania was renewed at an advance of over 2½ points.

With the exception of Schulte there was very little incident to the trading in the miscellaneous section of the list. Radio issues held firm.

Continental Motors was traded in around its recent high and there was active short covering in Packard Motors preferred. Durant of Indiana was slightly higher.

Bonds were quiet and steady.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The raw sugar market was quiet and no sales were reported, prices remaining unchanged at 3c for Cuba, cost and freight, equal to 4.77c for centrifugal. Trading in raw sugar futures was light and prices advanced three to four points early on scattered covering, but soon eased off under liquidation and were finally unchanged from the previous night's closing: October, 3.05; December, 3.19; March, 3.00; May, 3.27. In refined most of the local refiners were closed and there was little business reported. Prices were unchanged, at 6.25 for fine granulated. Refined futures nominal.

New York Cotton Seed Oil.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The cottonseed oil market closed strong; prime summer yellow, 9.65@11.50; prime crude, 7.60 asked. September, 9.65; October, 8.40; November, 7.92; December, 7.92; January, 7.95; February, 8.03; March, 8.15; April, 8.20. Total sales, 3000.

Cancel Preferred Stock Shares.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Stockholders of the Griffin Wheel Co. have voted to cancel 16,000 shares of preferred stock. This will reduce the preferred from $9,000,000 to $7,310,000. The company, which is owned by the American Steel Foundries Co., has declared a dividend of 50 per cent, or $4,500,000.

Notice of Redemption to Holders of Victory Notes and Others Concerned:

Notice Is Hereby Given as Follows:

1. Call for partial redemption of 4¾ per cent Victory notes. All 4¾ per cent Victory notes, other known as United States of America gold notes of 1922-23, which bear the distinguishing letters A, B, C, D, E or F, prefixed to their serial numbers, having been designated for the purpose by lot in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, are called for redemption on December 15, 1922, pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the notes and in Treasury Department Circular No. 138, dated April 21, 1919, under which the notes were originally issued.

Interest on all the 4¾ per cent Victory notes thus called for redemption will cease on said redemption date, December 15, 1922.

Victory notes of the 4¾ per cent series bearing the distinguishing letters G, H, I, J, K or L, prefixed to their serial numbers, are not in any manner affected by this call for redemption, and will become due and payable as to principal on May 20, 1923, according to their terms.

2. Detailed information as to the presentation and surrender of 4¾ per cent Victory notes for redemption under this call is given in Treasury Department Circular No. 299, dated July 26, 1922, copies of which may be obtained from the Treasury Department, Division of Loans and Currency, at Washington, or any Federal Reserve Bank.

A. W. MELLON, Secretary of the Treasury.

SEES UNDERLYING STRENGTH IN WAY MARKET RALLIES

No Great Change in London Monetary Conditions Expected Yet—Progress in Deflationary Movement Thought Adequate for Moment.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review today, says:

"The recent improvement in security prices partly reflected professional buying on hopes that the public shortly will recommend purchasing after the holidays. The readiness of the markets to rally on the slightly favorable political news indicates, however, considerable underlying strength.

"No great change in monetary conditions is expected yet, for while short credits probably will be plentiful after the turn of the month in connection with fresh borrowing at the bank by the Government, discounts probably will not be much affected in view of expectations regarding the ingathering of taxes. After the end of the year present indications suggest moderate activity in securities especially in industrials and the speculative sections including oils and mines.

'Funding' Problem.

"Keen interest is displayed in the Chancellor's impending visit to America. It is believed that the deputation will be thoroughly representative and influential not perhaps so much with a view to debt negotiations which would be simple, but as to embrace an opportunity for friendly talk with America over international problems of mutual interest and concern. Financial circles here which have been foremost in recognizing the justice of America's demands for a debt settlement, nevertheless consider that the restriction of the powers of your commission to making a loan of only 25 years duration is narrow and that it is inconsistent with the magnitude of the loan and the necessity for occasioning the least possible disturbance in the international exchanges. In this connection the possibility of unduly crippling Britain's power to aid the European nations should not be forgotten.

"It is believed that your forthcoming banking convention will awaken American interest in European financial problems, but it is recognized, nevertheless, that in view of the general excellence of your crops and Europe's needs your trade position is sufficiently assured in the immediate future. In this connection it is considered that an early recovery in sterling is improbable.

Progress in Deflation.

"Progress in our deflationary movement as reflected in the fall in banking deposits probably has gone sufficiently far for the moment. It is believed that the reparation crisis has been materially improved by the guarantee of the treasury bills by the Reichsbank, but there is the keenest anxiety now that advantage be taken of the breathing space for the formation of a plan for dealing with the whole reparations problem."

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—With a clearer understanding of just what had happened at the Dardanelles, both security and commodity markets today took a brigher view of the Turkish situation. Stocks as a rule went higher and foreign government bonds were steady. Wheat options broke sharply, while cotton advanced. The foreign exchanges, while not varying much, showed slight improvement. The entire movement of the day was an exact reversal of the tendencies exhibited last Monday and again on Friday when there was a suggestion of a war scare.

Trading in stocks and bonds, by comparison with other days, also was quiet. This was due, to a large extent, to the Jewish holiday.

There was some further covering in stocks like Studebaker and Baldwin Locomotive, in which the short interests had increased as the result of the week's operations. Standard Oil of New Jersey made a new high. Unusual activities on the buying side developed in St. Joseph Lead, evidently as the result of the recent advance in the price of the company's product.

A sudden upturn in United States Rubber preferred carried with it the suggestion that speculators who had gone short of the stock are finding themselves in a very uncomfortable position.

Railway shares did little either way.

The Bond Market.

The bond market was generally steady during the two hours of trading today. In the foreign department French issues [illegible] yesterday's closing prices. United Kingdom 5½s of 1937 were up fractionally, apprehension over the situation in the Near East having abated somewhat. City of [illegible] 5½s were lower. At 91 they were off 2½ points from the high of the year. This bond is very attractive among foreign issues in that beginning July, 1925, it is redeemable for the sinking fund by lot at par. Liberties were irregular.

Among domestic issues the Cuba Cane 7s and 8s were both lower. As far as known there was no particular reason for the weakness in the general sugar situation. Chile Copper 7s were higher again in response to activity in the stock. Nassau Electric 5s continued their advance, which has been [illegible] a figure in the traction issues [illegible].

Today's unofficial reports from Washington were that the proposed new long term Government issue would carry a coupon rate of 4¼ per cent instead of 4 per cent, as was first suggested. It was also stated that the total issue would be $500,000,000.

The most important of the new issues was the $[illegible],000,000 Province of Alberta 5s, noncallable for two years, offered at a price to yield 5.10 per cent.

In the New York market Canadian bonds of public utilities and industrials were the feature this week. Some of these issues advanced 3 or more points. Canadian provincials were listless.

North American.

Earnings of the North American Co. for the 12 months ended Aug. 31 will be published early next week. It is rumored improvement will be shown even over the favorable statement issued for the year ended Dec. 31. Rumors have it that North American will raise its dividend on the common stock. The figure discussed is $6, or 12 per cent.

Gulf States Steel.

The strength in Gulf States Steel, which has stood out despite the irregularity in the rest of the list and particularly the steel group in the last few days, has been the subject of much discussion. Gulf States has negligible funded debt. Ahead of the 111,545 shares of common is only $176,000 of bonds, and $2,067,800 of preferred. Bond interest and preferred dividend call for $154,628 a year. It is estimated that 1922 earnings will show in the neighborhood of $8 a share for the common, according to report.

American Exports Fall Off.

Our total merchandise exports for August were only $302,000,000, the smallest of any month this year, with the exception of January and February, and $65,000,000 less than those of August a year ago when the domestic trade collapse was at its worst. These figures have shown decisively that the recovery of the last 12 months in home industry has brought no response in the foreign commerce.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review today, says:

"Although the attention of financial and commercial interests was devoted to a great extent to the joining of issues between the British Government and the Turkish nationalists all through the past week, the action of the market for European exchange indicated that the market for those exchanges had been stabilized to a substantial degree, and sterling was maintained well above the low level of $4.40½, established in the preceding week. The tone and movement of sterling was again determined day after day by operations of local bankers, and the steadiness shown was due chiefly to buying from that source. Sterling declined at the beginning of the week, when demand sold at $4.41½, but on Wednesday the rate advanced to $4.43¾. On the following day there was another recession, on which demand sterling yielded to $4.42½, and early yesterday there was another decline to $4.41¼. Continental exchanges generally made their low records for the week on Monday, when Italian sold at 4.15 for lire checks, a new low for the year. Swiss also made a new low for the year on that day, checks selling at 18.66, and Belgian dropped to 7.13, its previous low for the year.

"French checks were down to 7.53 on Monday, but in the next two days rallied to 7.68, the recovery being helped by favorable advices in regard to the Turkish situation, which were changed again late on Thursday. Exchange on Denmark was specially influenced by the bank troubles in Copenhagen, Danish crowns being offered in large volume and yielding 20.78, followed by a rally to 21.02 when the banking affairs were readjusted. A feature of the week was the practical abandonment of compliance to the Greek consortium regulations, drachmas, which had been held at 3.25 because of these regulations, being quoted as low as 2 cents, a new record. Exchange on Portugal was quoted at 4.85 in London and at 5 in this city, also a new low record. There was a steady recession in Japanese exchange, yen declining to 47.60. Indian exchange was variable, rupees checks yielding to 28.85 and then rallying to above 29.

"As on the previous day, the foreign exchange market was affected but slightly by developments in the Near East. The tone was somewhat firmer, but volume of trading was limited and changes in quotations were small for the most part. Sterling at $4.41⅝ showed a gain of ¼, while French francs, following their good recovery yesterday, were half point higher, at 7.60 cents. Italian lire were also half point higher, at 4.20 cents. German marks, meanwhile, were unchanged, at .07¼ of a cent. Dutch guilders advanced about 8 points, but altogether and market was just the usual week-end affair.

NEAR EAST NEWS IS MORE FAVORABLE; WHEAT WEAK

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—War news eclipsed everything else in the wheat market this week, and prices went up sharply.

Prices reacted Saturday on more favorable turn in news dealing with Near East.

The biggest upturn in the wheat market, together with the largest volume of trading, quickly followed announcement that the entire British Atlantic fleet had been ordered to Constantinople and a report that arms factories in Great Britain would work day and night at full capacity. In the first flurry on "change" here nearly six cents a bushel advance took place at the rate of an additional cent in every ten minutes. Although peace moves and absence of word as to any actual fighting led to subsequent rapid fluctuations in the wheat market, tension among traders grew more acute as the week drew to an end, especially after a report came that the Turks had apparently gained control of the entrance of the Dardanelles. Immense receipts of wheat at Winnipeg, as well as other factors that have been regarded as of great importance, failed to check the rise in prices, the action of the market proving somewhat similar to what was witnessed just previous to the world war.

Corn and oats owed their gains nearly altogether to the soaring of wheat. Some European buying, though, of corn and oats was noted.

Demand for provisions was more active than had been the rule of late, lard especially being in request.

Wheat closed sharply lower at the week-end session on the Merchants' Exchange. Corn also was off.

In the local cash grain market Saturday choice heavy test soft wheat held up comparatively well in face of the break in futures. Fair to ordinary milling qualities were 1c to 2c cheaper, but there was good demand, and virtually a complete clearance, with exception of scattered cars of light test or flinty wheat. Shippers, local mills and elevator interests were buyers. Hard wheat was 2c lower on yellow descriptions. The dark wheats were 2c cheaper, with fair demand at ruling prices. Shippers and export buyers took the cheaper classes, while mills bought the good dark wheat. Cash corn ruled 1c to 2c lower, low grades showing greatest decline. At the decline there was rather good demand, white being taken for shipping orders and yellow by mills and elevators. Offerings of cash corn were light and the market was ½c to 1½c lower. Lower futures affected prices, as did also the range of other grains.

December wheat opened at $1.06, May wheat, $1.09¼; December corn, 58½c, and May corn, 60⅝c.

The wheat market opened lower on more favorable tone of dispatches dealing with the Near East situation. The technical situation in the market made for easy reaction, once selling started. Corn also was lower.

The three Northwestern markets combined Saturday had 2179 cars of wheat, compared with 2458 a week ago and 1030 last year. Minneapolis today receiving 316 cars, Duluth 330 and Winnipeg 1533.

Local wheat receipts, which were 109,200, compared with 160,800 a week ago and 176,992 last year, included 52 cars local and 39 cars through. Corn receipts, which were 45,500, compared with 85,800 a week ago and 66,300 last year, included 16 cars local and 19 through. Oats receipts, which were 46,000, compared with 84,000 a week ago and 83,000 last year, included 12 cars local and 11 through. Hay receipts were 178 tons local and 60 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators Saturday were 1,211,247 bushels of wheat, 218,938 bushels of corn and 72,438 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 223,930 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 10,451 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 35,053 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 92,356 bushels of No. 2 corn, 39,372 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 58,761 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 2118 bushels of No. 2 oats, 10,923 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 35,178 bushels of No. 3 white oats and 1085 bushels of No. 2 rye.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Wheat was weak. The news from the Near East was of a conciliatory tone, with the allies inclined to make concessions to prevent hostilities, and the Liverpool market, as well as sterling exchange, reflected this position. This knocked the props from under the bull movement. The start was featured by general liquidation and stop-loss selling. Some strong houses supported the market for a time and this encouraged a little local buying, but the rallies were feeble, and toward the end prices had another sinking spell. Winnipeg cash wheat was firm, but Minneapolis was easier. Local cash wheat premiums were unchanged to a shade easier for hard winter. Shipping sales were 270,000 bushels, including 90,000 bushels to exporters. Export demand was quiet. Sales the day before were said to have been heavier than reported. Market closed 2½c to 2⅝c lower; September, $1.06⅝; December, $1.06@1.05⅞; May, $1.10 to $1.09⅝.

Corn was affected by the foreign news, as well as the break in wheat. Liquidation was in evidence at the start. Later country commission houses bought December and sold May and some longs transferred lines from September to December and sold May and some longs transferred lines from September to December. Exporters took 262,000 bu of corn out of this market. Domestic sales were better and totaled 75,000 bu. Receipts continue heavy. Market closed ⅝c to 1½c lower: September, 62¾c to 62⅝c; December, 58¼c to 58⅜c; May, 61⅝c to 61¼@61⅝c.

Oats were easier with other grains. Trade was of moderate volume. Shipping sales were 100,000 bu. Market closed ¼c to ⅝c off: September, 39⅝@39¾c; December, 36¾c; May, 38⅝c.

Provisions were strong. Higher hogs and improved cash trade were factors. A good trade in dry salt bellies and lard was reported overnight. Lard closed 5c to 25c up and ribs 10c to 62½c higher.

Merchants' Exchange to Resume Standard Time Monday Morning

THE St. Louis Merchants' Exchange will resume standard time trading hours Monday, the hands of the official clock being pushed back one hour. Daylight saving, which became effective April 30 in New oYrk and Chicago, ended officially at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The local exchange adopted daylight saving time in order that the session period might correspond with that of the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grain exchanges did likewise.

Totals	107,242	116,807	91,101

Advance in live stock at the St. Louis National Stock Yards the past week was the most pronounced in hogs and at lambs. Improvement in the cattle department was confined to beef steers and the best yearlings, with butcher stock closing steady to slightly lower. The cattle run for the period totaled fair and trade was featured by the sale of the highest-priced steers and yearlings of the year. Two consignments of choice to prime Hereford yearling steers averaging 909 and 904 lbs. registered $11.30 per cwt., while a load of matured steers, 1173 lbs. average, made $11.25. Other yearlings were noted at $11.15 and $11.10 and sales of steers and yearlings in the $10 and $9 columns were numerous. Although there were a number of good to choice cattle included in the week's run, the total was small compared with the liberal offering of the plainer consignments. Oklahoma alone contributed right at 150 cars of grass steers, values for which ranged from $4 to $6.85. A 10-car consignment of Kansas steers brought $5.60. Beef steers as an average advanced 25c, with some instances of a 35c gain. Medium and good lots showed the greater advance. Stocker and feedr steers ruled about steady under fair receipts and demand, with the price range for the offerings extending from $3.75 to $7.40. The butcher cattle market was quite satisfactory the forepart of the week, but declines were evidenced on the close. Lightweight yearlings closed about steady on the better kinds and weak to 25c lower on others. A spread of $5 to $8 caught much of the grass offerings, with plain kinds on the cutter order selling around $4 and under. The best butcher cows at $5.25 to $6, largely and tops around $7 looked near steady, with common and medium kinds at $3.75 to $4.75 late, showing a 15c to 25c loss. Cutter cows finished about steady, bringing $3 to $3.50, and canners at $2.50 to $2.85 were steady to possibly 10c to 15c higher than a week ago. Beef and bologna bulls at one stage of the trade were 25c higher, but all and more of the advance was lost later, beef animals with weight selling Friday around $4.50 and bolognas bringing $3.75 to $4 principally. Veal calves, after opening steady, practical top $12, scored a sharp advance, best lights mid-week reaching $13 and odd head $13.25. The $13 top was repeated Thursday, but the market was subjected to a severe pounding Friday, virtually all of the early week's advances being lost that day. Best lights on the close Friday brought $12 and $12.25.

Hog Receipts Smaller.

The decided falling off in hog receipts for the week just closing resulted in a pronounced upturn in the market. The supply aggregated only 48,500 head, as compared with 62,000 head the preceding week and 47,700 a year ago. There is no explanation for the lessened offering other than that farmers see a fair feed crop assured and have confidence that finished hogs will be good property a little later on. Nevertheless the week's supply has carried quite a liberal proportion of pigs. Trade opened higher Monday, but the next two days saw a declining tendency although the drop was not large. Late Wednesday the market whipped up and Thursday, Friday and Saturday saw a further advance. Compared with a week ago, the hogs of 160 pounds and up are mostly 75c higher, while the 140 to 160 pound kinds are up 75c@$1. Pigs generally advanced 75c@$1.25, and packer sows full dollar. The prejudice against weighty hogs so pronounced during the midsummer has apparently disappeared and there is but a very narrow spread between choice fat 180-pound hogs and finished swine 240 pounds. Current prices for various classes of hogs are: Choice heavy swine, 250@300 pounds, $10.25@10.50; butcher hogs, 190@250 pounds, $10.40@10.55; shipping hogs and lights, 160@180 pounds, $10.40@10.65; lights, 140@160 pounds, $10.25@10.65; pigs, 120@140 pounds, $10@10.50; pigs under 120 pounds, $7.50@10; packing sows, $7.75@8.60, and stags, $5.50@6.50. Immune stock pigs, 80 to 100 pounds, $11@11.50.

Lamb Prices Better.

Receipts were moderate the past week and as a result prices on lambs were on the advance the greater portion of the week, but sheep were not any better than the week before or for th past month or so, but lambs made a good gain and the week closed with them on the highest basis since last spring. Each day the supply was well cleaned up. At the opening of the week best lambs sold at $13@13.50, but few above $13.25, but later they sold at $14@14.25, showing a gain of close to $1 for the week. Fair to medium lambs sold at $13@13.75, plain kinds $11@12, best culls $7.50@8.50, and others $4@7, according to quality. Buyers did not sort the lambs as closely as the previous week on account of the strong competition. Most of the mutton sheep sold at $6, heavy and plain grade ewes went at $3.50@5, breeding ewes $7@8, stockers $3.50@5, choppers and bucks $2@3.50, and canners principally at $1. Sheep were scarce all week, the receipts running largely to lambs.

Horses and Mules.

Under a fair supply of approximately 500 head on commission, the horse market varied from steady to $10 per head lower for the week, with the decline, where shown, applying largely to the plainer offerings. Fat, good broke Southerners and the better Eastern work horses—animals weighing 1500 to 1700 pounds—were the best sellers, prices for these holding near steady. Excepting for four or five cars, the run was all native. Most of the offerings sold at auction.

Many of the less desirable mules also showed a weaker trend—thin outclassed stuff and small cotton mules. Good fat mules, on the other hand, preferably mares 15.3 to 16 hands high and weighing 1150 to 1250 pounds, were about steady, while attractive miners, if anything, sold strong. The offering out of first hands figured 1000 head, a generous total.

COVERING AND TRADE BUYING LIFT COTTON

More Favorable Tone of News Affecting Far East Factor in Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 8 to 18 points owing to a more optimistic feeling over the political situation abroad, and bullish week-end reviews of the goods trade. There was further southern selling, but it was very readily absorbed. Wall Street buying sent the price of December up to 21.41, or 24 points net higher. Traders found nothing in the weather news to attract special comment, but there was probably some buying on reports that general business throughout the country was increasing.

A crop estimate of 9,705,000 bales for the whole belt, accompanied by an estimate of 3,000,000 bales for Texas and the claim that the crop of that State is more than half picked and sold were heard.

The advance extended to 21.48 for December later in the morning with active months showing net advances of 25 to 30 points on continued covering and trade buying. There was realizing enough to cause slight reactions, but the close was very steady at a net advance of 14 to 29 points.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Spot cotton, quiet; middling, 21.40c.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23.—Spot cotton steady and unchanged; sales on the spot, 83; sales to arrive, 700; low middling, 19.25c; middling, 20.50c; good middling, 21.51c. Receipts, 4350, and stock 70,668.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

Spot cotton declined 25 points in St. Louis today. Quotations: Good ordinary 17.50c; low middling 19.50c; middling 21c; good middling 22c; middling fair 23c.

PETROGRAD HOPES TO BE CAPITAL AGAIN

Residents Believe Change Will Come When Fear of Attack From Outside Passes.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 30.—Hope that some day the capital of Russia again will be Petrograd is buoying up the spirits of many residents of this ghostlike city that Peter the Great built to serve as the center of Russia's power.

No official word, not even a semi-official hint, has been given that the the Bolshevik regime will return the capital here from Moscow, but many Petrogradities base their hopes that this will occur on the fact that Petrograd was built for Government purposes and is far more fitted to house Government offices than overcrowded Moscow.

If the time does come when the Bolshevik officials lose their fear of attack from outside, these Petrograd residents say that the Government inevitably must return to the city that offers it comfortable quarters and immediate proximity, by land and sea, to Western Europe. While the fear of attack exists, these same features of Petrograd's location make it a dangerous site for a capital. Finland is too close, and the Finnish Gulf and the Neva offer anchorage for foreign warships.

Shrewd citizens now are buying Petrograd's property and holding it against the day when the now almost depopulated city again shall be the crowded capital.

The Petrograd port has shown great activity this summer, but most of the factory chimneys of the city and suburbs are still smokeless, and the streets, as compared with those of busy Moscow, seem like the lanes of a country village.

A few pedestrians; an automobile or two; now and then a slow-moving horse-drawn truck, and the scattering of cabs in the great broad avenues laid out by Peter the Great to make Petrograd magnificent, seem lost in the city's spaciousness.

Great Government buildings that border the plazas and squares now are occupied by small bureaus of the main ministries at Moscow. Huge palaces are empty, occupied only by caretakers, or transformed into museums, open but a few hours each week and even then visited only by sightseeing tourists, and now and then a little group or art students.

Many shops are open, selling mostly second-handed furniture and costly bric-a-brac from the houses of the once great, but business is dull and money is much scarcer than in speculation-mad, seemingly prosperous Moscow.

PUBLIC NIGHT TRADE CLASSES DEPENDENT ON DEMAND

Special classes in the public night schools in various new trade and manual courses are to be installed if demands for them are made by a sufficient number of persons to assure classes of more than 20 or 25 for a course, according to Superintendent of Instruction Maddox.

A class in auto mechanics for women will be opened next Tuesday evening in the McKinley High School and will be continued throughout the school year on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

A class in commercial art and interior decorating is contemplated, and other new classes will be considered by the board as demands are made for their installation.

GIRLS' WEEK TO OPEN WITH STREET PARADE ON OCT. 14

Numerous Events Arranged on Program, Including Mass Demonstrations.

Big mass demonstrations of the work, of the Girl Reserves, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will be held at the Young Women's Christian Association Monday evening, Oct. 16, as one of the principal events of Girls' week, which will be observed Oct. 14-21, by 100 St. Louis religious, educational, welfare and civic organizations under the direction of the Board of Religious Organizations.

On Wednesday, Oct. 18, there will be assembly hours in public and private schools, in which addresses will be given on the Girls' week slogan, "Building for Womanhood." Thursday, Oct, 19, will be recreation day, with a mass meeting at the Third Baptist Church at 2:30 p. m., to be addressed by Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen, the "Mother Goose Lady." In the afternoon there will be community recreation hours in the high schools, directed by physical directors of the schools. In the evening, entertainments with community games and programs will be given at the Grand boulevard and Mullanphy municipal centers.

Girls' week will open with a street parade Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14, in which girls will march and in which many organizations will have floats. Sunday, Oct. 15, processional girls will take part in the services in many churches and church schools will have celebrations. Girls' week will end with a pageant at the Odeon, Friday evening, Oct. 20, written by Mrs. Beulah Nyberg Hughes, with incidental music composed by Mrs. C. H. Elliott.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolff Celebrated Occasion Last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolff, 702 O'Fallon street, who have lived in St. Louis since 1881, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday, with mass in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, and a reception at their home in the afternoon and evening.

Wolff, who has been a barber for 50 years, has owned his own shop at 706 O'Fallon street, for 30 years. He is 76 years old and his wife is 70. They were both born in Germany and married there. Five of 17 children born to them survive.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble, you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ-destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

Drama, Moving Pictures and News of Players on the Vocal and Silent Stages

Two Musical Comedies, Both Novel, Usher In Lighter Season Tonight

American Opens With Cohan Production, "The O'Brien Girl," and Shubert-Jefferson Presents "For Goodness Sake."

WOMAN and song, surviving members of a once celebrated triumvirate, will resume their reign on the local stage tonight, with the arrival of two new musical comedies. "The O'Brien Girl," presented by George M. Cohan's Comedians and featuring the petite dancer, Ada Mae Weeks, will christen the American's new season. "For Goodness Sake," starring John E. Young, is the Shubert-Jefferson's second offering of the semester.

The Orpheum's bill, beginning this afternoon, is headed by a miniature revue by Harry Carroll, and the Shubert vaudeville unit at the Empress, also opening today, is entitled "Laughs and Ladies," with book by Will Hough and music by William B. Friedlander. New programs of vaudeville are announced at the Columbia, Rialto and Grand.

"The O'Brien Girl" was first presented in Boston, and remained four months at the Tremont Theater. Then it proceeded to the Liberty Theater in New York, traveling afterwards to Philadelphia and Chicago. It has been declared to rank with "Mary," which was also produced under Cohan's brisk management. The book and lyrics are by Otto Harbach and Frank Mandel; the music is by Lou Hirsch, and the staging is by Julian Mitchell. The setting is in the Adirondacks.

Not Entire New York Cast.

IN the present company, Jane Taylor has succeeded Elizabeth Hines in the titular part; and several other members of the cast did not figure in the Liberty Theater list. Concerning the work itself, the New York World declared that it "fairly tingles with dash and spirit," while the "dance numbers are directed with rapid-fire vigor." "Learn to Smile," a lilting melody, is used as a sort of motif throughout the two acts. A dainty chorus, quantities of dancing and an abundance of comedy are promised. In the cast are Florence Mackie, Olga Roller, Frank W. Shea, Gus Voyer and Ned Forsberg.

"For Goodness Sake," with book by Fred Jackson and score by William Daly and Paul Lannin, had its debut last February at the Lyric Theater, in New York, and has played during the summer in Chicago. In New York the comedy lead was taken by John E. Hazzard, and Fred and Adele Astaire were the principal dancers. The present company, in addition to Roland Young, includes Loraine Sherwood, Ede Mae, Franceme Dunlop, Arthur Lipson, Jesse Block and William Eville.

The story establishes the hero in a country home, with a flirtatious wife. Aided by well-intentioned friends, the unhappy husband feigns suicide by drowning as a means of retrieving what he believes to be her waning affection. But the wife discovers the scheme and causes him endless agony by appearing to accept his death with the utmost unconcern. This droll situation is embellished by music "at a galloping tempo," and a chorus described as youthful and pretty.

The Orpheum's Bill.

THE Harry Carroll revue at the Orpheum is entitled "Getting Together in Rhyme," and with the composer will be seen San Dingle, eccentric dancer; Kathylene Martyn, formerly of the Ziegfeld "Follies;" the Meredith Kiddies and a chorus.

"Manslaughter," "Burning Sands," "The Fast Mail" and "Queen of the Moulin Rouge" Are Featured.

Cecil B. De Mille's much-heralded production, "Manslaughter," with Leatrice Joy and Thomas Meighan in the leading roles, is the week's offering at the New Grand Central, West End Lyric and Capitol theaters.

Miss Joy portrays an orphaned young woman of wealth whose extavagant mode of life exceeds the speed limit. In her automobile she runs down and kills a motorcycle policeman. She is charged with manslaughter. The Prosecuting Attorney, played by Meighan, loves the girl, but the call of duty prevails and he brings about her conviction and sentence to three years in prison. When she comes out, thoroughly reformed, she falls in love with the prosecutor and there is a happy ending. A notable feature of the production is said to be a "cut back" to the days of ancient Rome to afford a comparison of the prodigal excess of that period with present-day revelries.

"Burning Sands," a George Melford production with Milton Sills and Wanda Hawley, is the principal attraction at the Missouri. Melford produced "The Sheik." His present offering is another desert romance picture with a different angle. The Sheik was a man of the desert who tamed a rebellious girl and won her love. In "Burning Sands" the girl pursues and wins the man. On the bill also are comedy and musical features.

Lincoln J. Carter's famous old stage melodrama, "The Fast Mail," in screen form is the week's feature at the Liberty. In the cast of this William Fox production are Charles Jones, Eileen Piercy and Alfred Menjou.

All of the original thrills of the play are said to have been retained and others have ben added. Charles Jones, who has the role of the hero, Walter West, is one of the screen's daredevils and in this picture he is said to have full play for his talents.

Fast horses, boats, trains and automobiles have part in the action and for good measure a storm and fire are thrown in.

"Queen of the Moulin Rouge," film version of a famous play by Paul M. Potter, is the week's feature at the Delmonte, with Martha Mansfield in the principal role. As an added attraction, the management announces, Miss Mansfield will make a personal appearance at each showing of the picture.

SEEING THINGS AT NIGHT

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Drama Critic of the New York World.
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

THE most exciting thing which can happen to a critic in the theater is to discover, or think he has discovered, a new star. Possibly each reviewer is looking ahead to his old age and realizes that when those days come his sole claim to fame may rest upon the fact that he recognized talent even though it happened to be hidden in a small role. From his seat in the chimney corner he may command attention by pointing out that 30 years ago he realized the genius of Miss Katherine Tush, even though when he first saw her she did no more than come on as a maid to say, "Anything else, ma'am?"

There must be something like that to his credit or he can hardly endure to be reminded of the fact that he dismissed some standard classic of the stage contemptuously or hazarded the opinion that somebody, who later became unquestionably great, would never amount to anything as an actor.

Jim Ford, for instance, was present when Lillian Russell made her debut and wrote a review in which he said that the young woman was personable enough, but that she certainly had no voice and could never get far in comic opera. This rested on his conscience until he wrote a book ("Forty Odd Years in the Literary Shop") and explained that his slighting remarks about Miss Russell's voice were written at the advice of a musical friend who happened to attend the first night with him.

Predicted "Peter Pan's" Failure.

SEVERAL of the current New York reviewers dislike to be reminded that they said "Peter Pan" had no chance of success when it was first produced in New York. Among the generation of critics who are gone were many who dismissed Ibsen and Shaw lightly as pretenders who could hardly endure beyond the tether of a temporary fad.

Still there are like dangers in St. Louis Is Dead!

"NO PLACE TO GO"

That's what some ladies and gentlemen said while dining at the hotel. Then someone said, "Say, let's all go to the Gayety Theater." They came! They saw! And they were conquered! They told the manager of the Gayety that they were thrilled and surprised with the wonderful show at the Gayety. This same party has left season reservations for six seats for every week at the Gayety!

If you believe in having a jolly good time and want to make a hit with your dear ones, "get up a party" this week for the Gayety. Doors open at 7:30 at nights! Autos at 10:40. Popular prices. Seeing is believing!

ST. LOUIS IS NOT DEAD

praise. It is disconcerting to announce that a youngster is going to shake New York to its foundations by his acting, only to have him drop completely out of sight within a couple of seasons. And four years ago a critic selected an almost unknown actor as the coming genius of the American theater, whereupon the player immediately went into a nervous breakdown from the excitement and had to retire for two years.

The most sensational debut of the season has been that of Miss Helen Gahagan (pronounced Gaygan) in "Dreams For Sale," by Owen Davis. Here the virtue of discovery can hardly be claimed entirely by the critics. The judgment of a manager came first. Miss Gahagan was in Barnard College last year and during the summer appeared in a semi-professional production of a play by Harry Gribble called "Shoot!" John Cromwell liked her work and gave her a small part in "Manhattan." In this she received almost no critical attention, although this reviewer is prepared to lead anybody to the back files and point out that he said she was "promising."

Obtains Leading Role.

THE impression of ability which she made on William A. Brady was much stronger than that, for after a month in "Manhattan" she was taken out of the cast and the leading role of "Dreams For Sale" was assigned to her. When Mr. Brady was asked just why he felt such confidence in the acting capacity of the young woman he found it hard to justify his hunch except by explaining that she looked so much like Ethel Barrymore.

"Dreams for Sale" is a negligible play in spite of an excellent first act, but the role entrusted to Miss Gahagan has excellent opportunities and it is long and difficult enough to enlist the attention of a star.

There was some interest in theatrical circles before the production because of the fact that an actress so little known was to appear in a leading role. Most of the preliminary reports which leaked out during rehearsals were not encouraging. The confidence of the management was shaken. Miss Gahagan seemed listless. However, the first night in New York disclosed the fact that she had availed herself of a veteran's privilege of saving up her best performance for the opening.

Of Admirable Poise.

INDEED, the most surprising thing about her work when the test came was her entire self-possession and assurance. At one point in the play a rather ridiculous piece of business assigned to one of the other characters set the first nighters to snickering. With all the ease and presence of mind of a person long versed in the ways of the theater Miss Gahagan acted straight into the laugh and crushed the snicker in a second.

It so happens that the newest of Broadway's potential stars is exceedingly beautiful, but that is not exactly an asset, particularly in a light comedy role. Critics are apt to say "personable" of such a player and let it go at that. Miss Gahagan's beauty was quite a secondary feature of the evening. She was able to impress the audience with the facts that she could move readily from one mood to another, that her voice was agreeable and flexible and that in addition to a marked gift for comedy she could make even the somewhat spurious emotional scenes of Owen Davis take on a semblance of reality.

Davis has begun in a pleasant vein of light comedy concerning a spoiled and self-willed young miss who has just been expelled from her third college. It is such a part and such an act as Tarkington might have written. With the end of the first act the vein is allowed to lapse. The play becomes serious and theatrical. We have the great North woods, never too convincing on the stage, and a duel between two warring capitalists as to which shall be the first to build a pulp mill. In the end the good and righteous capitalist succeeds in blowing up the motor truck of his rival, which is carrying the necessary machinery for the completion of the plant. The noise of the explosion unites four estranged couples with a suddenness which was ludicrous even to so naive a gathering as a Broadway first-night audience.

Actors Better Than Plays.

SO far the season has been far more impressive in players than plays. Arthur Richman's new comedy, "The Awful Truth," is an agreeable light-waisted, shortweight little entertainment, but in the skillful hands of Ina Claire and Bruce McRae it seems much better than that. The piece has authentic wit, but it also has moments in which the story would sag confoundedly if it were not for the briskness and charm of a perfectly co-ordinated cast.

Miss Claire excels in establishing and maintaining a mood of wistful mockery. She is by all odds the actress best fitted to play a role in which the heroine is supposed to be a little sentimental and cynical at the same time. In "The Awful Truth" she never allows the lines or the situations of Arthur Richman's play to become bogged in stickiness. Just when one fears that something will be much too sweet, Ina Claire swings the mood to mockery and the self-respect of everybody is saved.

Bruce McRae has not the clearest enunciation in the world, but he has a charm and polish which enable him to accomplish things which would utterly damn many another leading man. Thus he is able to play a sentimental, reminiscent scene with his former wife in which he identifies variously dearly remembered soft cushions by their perfume. And he plays it in such a way that he doesn't seem an ass at all.

THE plot of the piece concerns a young woman named Lucy who calls upon her divorced husband to give her a good character to her fiance. There have been rumors that she was involved in an affair. Indeed, the first husband is firmly of the opinion that she was, but he lies like a gentleman and even more ably. The second suitor is convinced but the marriage never takes place. Lucy decides that it is her first husband whom she loves. There was no great surprise for the audience in this. Bruce McRae played the first husband and it has become a tradition in American plays that the heroine marries Bruce McRae in the last act.

Most of the complications in the play center around Lucy's efforts to prove all that the suspicious about her are groundless. As the play was originally written, we are told, Lucy was not innocent at all. That was the point of the piece; but the author has been obliging enough to sacrifice his heroine to complete respectability because New York audiences will not have their heroines otherwise except in farces or tragedies.

We Americans are fond of priding ourselves on the fact that we have a sense of humor and not much appreciation of art and all that sort of stuff. None of the recent revues bear this out. The Greenwich Village Follies, for instance, is among the most beautiful productions which New York has ever seen. We doubt whether such dazzling and shrewd use of color can be found in any foreign entertainment of the sort. It is, for instance, far more beautiful than the Chauve Souris, but it doesn't begin to be as funny. Indeed, if it were not for Savoy and Brennan it would hardly be funny at all.

Here's a Real Beauty Maker

Pimples, Blotches, Blackheads, Boils, Muddiness and Redness Disappear When You Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

If your ambition is to have the loveliest of complexions here is a real beauty secret:—use Stuart's Calcium Wafers. It is no secret, however, to thousands of pretty girls all over the U. S. who have relied upon these wonder wafers to keep their complexions perfectly beautiful instead of wasting time with cosmetics. These wafers go directly after those embarrassing pimples, blackheads and other such blemishes. It is not a roundabout way. You get results every minute. You are sure of it in a few hours. They clear the blood, they drive from the system the impurities that cause pimples. The calcium goes to the skin, acts as a tonic, stimulates the tiny nerves, pores and blood vessels to renewed activity, and lo! before you realize it the skin is peachy, firm, clear and the picture of a sweet, rosy complexion. Get a 60-cent box today of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in any drug store and you will have a real beauty maker to clear your skin of pimples, redness, roughness and such destroyers of beauty.

TOWN MADE FAMOUS BY O. HENRY IS UNCHANGED

Old Characters of Lithopolis, O., Are Vanishing, but Landmarks Remain the Same.

By the Associated Press.

LITHOPOLIS, O., Sept. 23.—Lithopolians of O. Henry fame, characters upon whom he loved to dwell in facetious manner, are no more, but the town has the same "business district," the same four churches and its stone quarry remotely resembling an industry. You will look in vain for Lithopolis in the railroad time tables, but the paling fences on Columbus, South and Main streets do not bar neighborly conversation.

The village's scenic atmosphere has changed but little in the years that have passed since O. Henry's "Letters to Lithopolis" were inspired back in 1903.

The recipient of these letters was Miss Mabel Wagnalls, whose mother, Mrs. Hester Wagnalls, and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Willis, are buried in the beautiful little cemetery "on the hill on the road out of town."

Miss Wagnall's father, at one time a Lutheran minister, is the senior member of the publishing firm that bears his name. Miss Wagnalls now is Mrs. Richard Jones of New York. Alta Jungkurth, the "tombstone lady," is in Columbus. The Willis homestead, where Mabel Wagnalls visited, has burned down and the Lutheran Church, which adjoined it, is building a parsonage on its site.

The drug store is still operated by L. S. Bennett who "indulges in literature on the side." The butcher and barber shops still grace the "business district" and the Postoffice remains the social center of the town.

One objection is voiced over the statement in the preface of the letters by Lithopolis people—that written by Mable Wagnalls saying "a new house is never added. Rather than do this, people leave the town, or die—it is cheaper."

Lithopolis people are proud of their town for its stimulus to the imagination of a genius—even for so brief a period—and they are proud of their former townspeople that so became noted. They live here because they love the town, they declare; the graveyard on the hill is held in reverent esteem, and they tell you that when they die, no matter where, they'd like to come back to Lithopolis.

Retail Salesmen Wanted

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RIGHT MEN

The J. C. Penney Company needs capable salesmen for managers of its new stores. Would you like to be manager of a retail store in which you own a one-third interest—paid for out of the profits of the business?

If you are between 25 and 35 years old, have good habits, can give us the highest references, have had thorough experience in small or medium size department store, or are experienced in general store work in special lines—either clothing, shoes or dry goods.

We Want You

While of course we want to secure the very best experienced men, we are not expecting the superman. Experience has taught us that some of the greatest successes come from the ranks of average men. We believe that every man has within him "that something" which will lead him to success if properly guided and given the right opportunity. Limited experience, plus character, a lot of ambition, industry and a desire to achieve are the prime factors we are looking for in young men. Investigation will prove that this is an exceptional opportunity.

The investment of money is not necessary for your success with us. The financial backing of our company is ample. What we need are young, healthy, vigorous and capable salesmen who are determined to go to the top while they have youth and energy. We pay you while you are proving your ability.

Here is our proposition outlined briefly:

Men come to us first as retail salesmen in one of our stores. During the period of proving their ability they learn the greater possibilities of co-operative effort. Their progress depends upon their ability and effort. As our new stores are opened, the managers are selected from our sales force.

When a man makes a success of the management, he is sold a one-third interest in a new store and becomes its manager. He may afterward acquire a partnership in other stores which are the outgrowth of the one in which he first received a financial interest. To those who do not possess the capital to purchase a one-third interest in a new store, the money is loaned by the J. C. Penney Company and is repaid from subsequent profits of the store.

The J. C. Penney Company, started in 1902 with one store, now operates 371 stores in 29 states, selling dry goods, shoes, clothing, for men, women and children, and kindred goods. Our cash sales for 1921 amounted to $46,641,928. If you have had thorough experience in one or more of the above lines, it is to your interest to investigate our plan.

Write today for our booklet, "Your Opportunity," which fully explains our plan. Give your age and number of years' experience in our lines of merchandise in your first letter. We may arrange for a personal interview later. All correspondence strictly confidential.

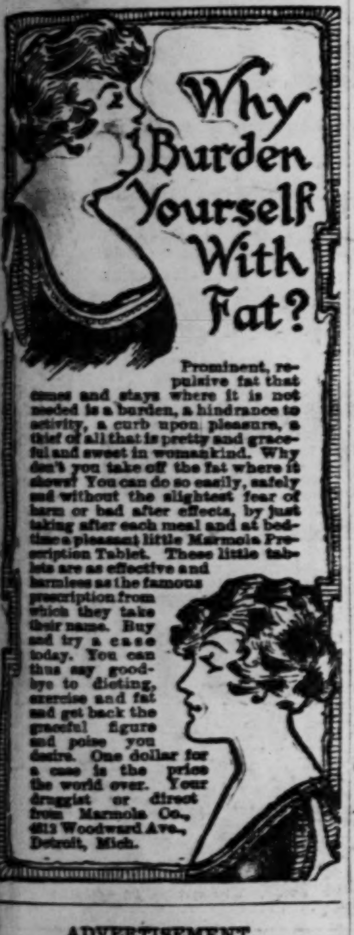
Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

ALMOST every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.



Why Burden Yourself With Fat?

Prominent, repulsive fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden, a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure, a thief of all that is pretty and graceful and sweet in womankind. Why don't you take off the fat where it shows? You can do so easily, safely and without the slightest fear of harm or bad after effects, by just taking after each meal and at bedtime a pleasant little Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name. Buy and try a case today. You can thus say good-bye to dieting, exercise and fat and get back the graceful figure and poise you desire. One dollar for a case is the price the world over. Your druggist or direct from Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powdered or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

TWO MUSICAL COMEDIES OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Charles ("Chic") Sale returns with his classic types in rural mimicry. Others on the bill are William L. Gibson and Regina Connello, in a new play, "The Debutante;" Little Billy, midget entertainer, assisted by James T. Burke; the El Rey Sisters, in "A Novel Dance;" the Runway Four, Frank Shephard and Sid Gairy, and the Southern Syncopaters.

The second week of Shubert vaudeville at the Empress features Emily Earle as prima donna, Will Phillips and Bobby Bernard as comedians, and Dorothy Rudac as principal dancer. Others taking part in one or another of the 12 scenes are Alvina Yates, singer; the Derchin sisters, Betty Hale, Rush Ling Toy, Chinese magician; Jack Gregory and a company, Tex Ellis and Gladys Taylor and Burns and Foran, comedians.

The Woodward Players, who opened an engagement in stock last night at the Garrick in "Polly With a Past," are to continue this Belasco production during the week, and change to Cosmo Hamilton's "Scandal" at next Sunday's matinee.

Rialto, Columbia, Grand.

AT the Rialto, for the first half of the week, will be the Pantheon Singers, Michelini and Trujillo, in Spanish revue; Signor Friscoe, Tom Swift and Mary Kelly, in "Gumdrops;" Faber and Burnett and Carl Rosini and a company. Beginning Thursday the bill will include Dave Harris and his syncopaters, Mary Maxfield and Harry Golson, comedians; the Sabinis in "I Quit;" R. C. Wynn's "Rainbow's End," and Allen and Lee.

The Columbia's leading offering for the first half of the week is Charles Prevette's revue, "Vanity Fair," with Carol Dixon, Doris Lynn and Millie Merrill. Others listed are Morgan and Ray, in song and patter; Ameta, mirror dancer; Bell and Eva, in "The Soda Fountain," and Don Lanning. The cinema feature is "Too Much Business," a seven-reel comedy adapted from Earl Derr Biggers' "John Henry and the Restless Sex," and starring Tully Marshall. The program beginning Thursday will include Bobby Earl and a company in "Rings and Rainbows;" Bob Jones, singer and raconteur, and Dana and Loehr, in "Mischievous Moments." The twelfth chapter of the film serial, "The Timber Queen," with Ruth Roland, will be shown all week.

The Grand's nine-act bill is headed by George Lovett, with an exhibition of psychic phenomena, in which he is aided by Georgia Templeton, and also by an orchestra. Other acts include Joe Boganny's comedians, in "School Days"; Fred Hughes, tenor, and a company; Harry Coleman, with his walking dolls; Sam Hyams and Clara Louise Evans, in "The Quakeress"; James Carney and Julia Rose, in "Lost: a Husband"; Andrus and George, Francis and Scott, and the Gabby brothers.

At the Gayety this week "Bozo" Snyder, the talkless comedian, appears in "Follies of the Day," a production in 22 scenes.

Next week's plays will be Clemence Dane's famous drama, "A Bill of Divorcement," at the American, with Allan Pollock; and the farce comedy, "Just Married," with Lynne Overman, at the Shubert-Jefferson. "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," with Arthur Byron and Juliette Day, is to arrive at the Shubert-Jefferson on Oct. 15.

What They Are Doing in the Movie Studios

George Cowl, who has just finished an important role in Penrhyn Stanlaws' Paramount production of "Pink Gods," started on the stage at 21, with a stock company on tour in England, where he was born. Later he was a cattle-rancher at Fort Qu'Appelle in Saskatchewan. He also hunted gold in Arizona and Nevada. Later he ran a ranch where he raised horses, but the early lure of the stage came back on him and in 1913 he went to New York and became a motion picture actor.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," said Walter Hiers recently. He had just finished a strenuous period of weeks as a colored valet in "The Ghost Breaker," starring Wallace Reid, with Lila Lee in the featured feminine role. In this Paramount production the fat comedian had to fight with a lot of armored "ghosts," and he said every time he came in contact with one of them he got pinched in the armor joints. His happiness was due to the fact that the production had been finished.

Working in two pictures at once was the experience of Eva Novak, in her first work in the Paramount West Coast studio. Miss Novak plays one of the important roles in Thomas Meighan's "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," directed by Alfred Green. Also, she is leading woman for Jack Holt in "Making a Man," under direction of Joseph Henabery.

A college dinner following a boat race is one of the features of "The Young Rajah," in which Rodolph Valentino stars. Harvard wins. Valentino, as Amos Judd, is stroke oar. The big dinner is typical, but it ends in a tragedy when a rival of the hero attacks him with a chair and, missing, falls headlong from an open casement to death below. June Mathis adapted the story for the screen.

Carter de Haven and his wife have begun a series of 12 comedies, the first of which is "Their First Vacation."

Ethel Barrymore to Star in New Hauptmann Drama

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

BEGINNING a policy under which members of the Barrymore family will be presented in rotation at the Longacre Theater, Arthur Hopkins, on next Tuesday evening, will produce Hauptmann's play, "Rose Bernd," with Ethel Barrymore as star. This will be the first performance of the work in America. A translation by Ludwig Lewissohn is being employed, and the settings are by Robert Edmond Jones.

In the company will be Dudley Digges, McKay Morris, Anna Zwillinoff, William B. Mack, Charles Francis, Doris Rankin, Edmund Bowen, Virginia Langton, Irene Shirley, Gregory Robins, Edward Le Hay, Wilson Day, Anita Rothe and John Burkell.

On Wednesday evening John Galsworthy's play, "Loyalties," will be produced at the Gaiety Theater, with a cast including Charles Quartermain, James Dale, Diana Bourbon, Felix Aylmer, Laurence Hanray and Henry Carvill.

Three interesting openings are scheduled for Monday evening. The late Henri Bataille's "La Tendresse," with Ruth Chatterton and Henry Miller in the chief roles, will be presented at the Empire. "Spite Corner," a new play by Frank Craven, author of "The First Year," will begin an engagement at the Little Theater, starring Madge Kennedy. Arnold Daly will make his bow in William Hurlburt's new play, "On the Stairs," at the playhouse.

Marie Tempest's Play Closes.

"THE SERPENT'S TOOTH" with Marie Tempest, closed its engagement at the Little Theater tonight. She is to have another play immediately, it is announced, and possibly will be starred in repertoire after the first of the year. . . . Lew Fields poked his finger in Joe Weber's eye Monday at the Central Theater, and with that jab unlocked the box of tricks labeled Weber & Fields, which has lain in the garret of Broadway memories for years. All the regalia of the '90s was dusted and set to working again—brown derbies with foreshortened crowns, goatees that once dipped into golden-brown brew from Munich, the absurd abdominal circumference of Joe Weber and the murderous gleam of regard in Lew Fields' eyes. Not one jot of the ancient dialogue has been changed. The comedians look just as of yore, but are funnier than ever. They made an ideal comeback in "Reunited," a Shubert vaudeville unit.

Zoe Akins' new play, "Greatness," was placed in rehearsal Monday, with Jobyna Howland as featured actress. Others in the cast are Georges Renavent, Beth Varden, Paul Porcasi, Russell Sedgwick, Stanley Howlett and Cecil Butler. . . . Up to and including tonight, Barney Bernard has acted the part of Abe Potash 3011 times. . . . The new Kalman musical comedy, "The Yankee Princess," was presented Monday night in Baltimore, and is to reach the Knickerbocker Theater in New York on Oct. 2.

Florence Nash will play the part of the Montague Girl in the stage version of "Merton of the Movies," which George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly are adapting from Harry Leon Wilson's novel. . . . Laura Hope Crewes and Roland Young have leading roles in Clare Kummer's new play, "Pomeroy's Past," which had a tryout Monday night in Philadelphia, and is to remain there three weeks before invading New York.

Galsworthy's Dramatic Purposes.

"AS playwright," says John Galsworthy in the preface to a new edition of his plays and novels. "I am not conscious of any desire to solve the problems in my plays or to effect direct reforms. My only ambition in drama, as in my other work, is to present truth as I see it, and, gripping with it my readers or my audience, to produce in them a sort of mental and moral ferment, whereby vision may be enlarged, imagination livened and un-

"How wicked we are!" murmured Patty, whose lips had just been laid on those of him who reclined by her side, and whose arm encircled her waist. Then she turned her beautiful head and saw her husband.

AFTERNOON in front of a fashionable New York boarding house on Broadway, just below the city hall—in 1837. Patty, seventeen and beautiful, comes screaming "Marry me, Mist' RoBards!" He does, and together they drive to his home in White Plains. Wonderful, wondering love is theirs; then the young lawyer must return to the city.

New York, already destined to be great, is in its first growing pains. There is love of rum and lack of water. Elegance and excesses prevail. Then pestilence and fire. A respite comes to RoBards and he turns joyfully toward home. Back to Patty, to whom have come children—and Harry Chalender. Chalender, the engineer, with knowledge of culverts and protection-walls, and women.

. . . .

A city changes; so do its customs and its costumes. But its people remain at heart the same. Strong and weak, willing and willful. Because this amazing story is the true story of people, it is the true story of their city; any city. And any four walls may house Love, Hate, Faith and Deceit.

. . . .

Realizing this RoBards stands dumbly in the doorway. He tries to speak, and cannot; he tries desperately to think; and the only thought that will come is "how beautiful she is!" It is one of the scenes you seem not to read of, or even to witness; Rupert Hughes' novel, "Within These Walls" puts you in the action of it in the October issue of The Red Book Magazine with fifteen other remarkable stories and features.

GREAT ONSLAUGHT AGAINST ORGANIZED LABOR HAS BEEN CHECKED, GOMPERS SAYS

Head of American Federation of Labor Discusses Relations of Workers, Employers and Wall Street.

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Mr. Gompers on the labor situation as he views it from his position as chief of the Union forces of the country.

By SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

PROSPECTS for the industrial future of the United States are the subject of discussion everywhere. No man or woman in America can escape an interest and responsibility regarding our future.

In the course of these articles we have examined the causes of the unrest which has been so clearly manifest and we have taken account of methods and policies which have produced discord. We have done this at a time when the nation has been stirred to profound depths by reason of the stoppage of work on the part of coal miners and railroad workers. Scientists know that certain causes can be relied upon to produce certain effects. Having that in mind, it would be possible to answer the question, "What of the future?" by saying that if there is an insistence upon policies and practices which we have seen to be ruinous and productive of distrust and unrest in the past there will be inevitably a corresponding distrust and unrest in the future. If, on the other hand, the futility of such methods and policies is recognized and a more constructive attitude is adopted by those who are responsible for the employment policies in great industries, there will be a responding evidence of good will on the part of workers which will prove profitable not only to employers but to the country as a whole.

Signs of Improvement.

I believe I see signs of improvement on the horizon. I believe the great onslaught against organizations of the workers has spent its force. I believe the terrific, sweeping attack organized and conducted by powerful financial interests, and by great organizations of reactionary employers operating in conjunction with great financial interests, has been brought virtually to a stop by the heroic resistance of the organized workers and by the force of an aroused and thoughtful public opinion which has been affronted and injured by the brutal display of power and unreason directed against labor. Consider for a moment these facts:

1. The dominating factors in American industrial life are the railroads, the steel industry and the coal industry.

2. The steel industry about a year ago arbitrarily ordered a reduction in wages of approximately 20 per cent. Observing what was transpiring on the railroads and in the coal mines, and having an eye to the future, the Steel Trust has restored wages to the level existing before the last reduction. Of course, the steel trust has not repaired the damage done by the reduction, but it has at any rate restored wages to the figure existing prior to the reduction. It has to that extent recognized the end

Your children EAT But are they FED?

It is not the quantity but the quality of food that counts; not how much but how nourishing.

Every housewife learns that Butter and Eggs are necessary to correctly balance the rations she serves. They are bountifully supplied with iron for the blood, tone for tissues—all the necessary elements for a sound mind in a sound body.

Under-fed, run-down folks of any age must not be stinted on Butter and Eggs. They are cheap now and they are going to be cheap all winter.

"The high iron content of egg yolk and its richness in fat-soluble A gives eggs a special value in the diet of young children."
—Caroline L. Hunt, Specialist in Food Preparation and use

Brownie Butter will delight the youngsters

½ pound butter, yolks of 3 hard boiled eggs, 1 teaspoonful orange flower water, 2 tablespoonfuls powdered sugar. Beat eggs, orange water and sugar smooth, and add butter. Work the whole to a smooth paste. Squeeze through a piece of cheese cloth wrung out of ice water onto a cold plate. The odd shapes of the butter when it comes through the meshes will please the children, and it is very dainty with hot breads and biscuits.

When you leave out the Butter and Eggs you leave out the goodness.

There's no such thing as a "substitute" for BUTTER AND EGGS

ONSLAUGHT AGAINST LABOR HAS BEEN CHECKED, GOMPERS SAYS

of the period of "deflation of labor" and retrogression.

3. The organized coal mine owners of the country have suffered inglorious defeat in their efforts to reduce wages of the miners. After a strike lasting more than five months the mine workers have compelled the mine owners to abandon their policy of wage reduction. "The Iron Age" speaks of the outcome of the strike as the most brilliant victory the miners have ever won. The mine owners have thus recognized the end of the period of retrogression.

Railroad Situation.

4. At the time this article is written it is apparent that the railroads of the country are about ready to recognize the end of the period of retrogression. The recognition will, of course, be in spite of the unlawful injunction secured by Attorney-General Daugherty and it will be in spite of the most strenuous efforts of the greatest financial powers in the country to bring the railroad unions to the point of collapse.

5. Some of the largest employers in the textile industry, who sought to impose upon the workers a wage reduction of 20 per cent in addition to a reduction of 22½ per cent imposed a year and a half ago, have been compelled to abandon their efforts after a strike of more than five months, and the workers have returned to their tasks in those factories at the wage existing prior to the strike. To that extent the employers in the textile industry have recognized the end of the period of retrogression.

I am not so optimistic as to say that we have before us a pathway strewn with roses and that reaction has disappeared. What can be said is that the organizations of labor have proved their ability to resist the most furious and concentrated attacks and that in so doing they have maintained for all the workers of America a standard of living that approaches equity and they have kept open the road of constant improvement.

Effort to Reduce Wages.

As I have pointed out, there developed immediately upon the signing of the armistice a vast concerted effort to reduce wages, lengthen the hours of labor, and generally to lower the standards of working conditions. Because the trade unions constituted a constant vigilant barrier and because the trade unions continually sought the improvement and the elevation of the conditions of all the workers, their destruction became a necessity to those who sought to deteriorate working conditions. The war against the organizations of labor was planned and conducted because of what those organizations sought to accomplish. It was the result of a crude and ignorant greed which was entirely without foresight and without understanding.

I should like to attempt to make it clear that in their struggle to elevate the standards of labor the organizations of the workers are seeking to do much more than is generally understood. Good living conditions, the sense of freedom, education, good wages, relations of cooperation, and good will between employer and employed, and general industrial efficiency with high-grade, high-speed production go hand in hand and cannot be separated. The greater the volume of our national production and the greater the consuming power of the masses of our people the stronger we shall be as a nation, the more fit for leadership we shall be as a nation, the more self-reliant we shall be and the fuller our capacity for living and the enjoyment of life.

We cannot have prosperity and well-being for the wage earners of our country without a consequent and coincident prosperity and well-being for our country as a whole. If this necessitates a curtailment of speculation and a curtailment of autocratic power and exorbitant, unearned increment for a few, I am sure that will cause no anguish except to the arrogant one-half of 1 per cent of our population which contributes neither intelligence nor initiative to our material, mental or spiritual progress.

Labor's True Partner.

For the future the great need is for a drawing together of the forces that contribute usefully to the processes of producion. We have seen the devastation brought by a control over industry exercised by high finance which is interested primarily and chiefly in profits and only in production that yields the largest profits. It has been said, principally by the enemies of labor, that the American Federation of Labor holds the interest of labor and capital to be identical. This of course is a vicious untruth because labor holds the interest of useful humanity above every other interest about which we know. Capital is merely the stored up wealth created by labor in industry and utilized for further production of wealth.

So far as production is concerned, the interests of capital and labor, while not identical, are not necessarily in conflict., but the present dominating influence of the great aggregations of capital is not for production purposes, except incidentally to the making of profits.

The interests of labor and management are much more nearly along similar channels. Each has a distinct function to perform; each, when free to function naturally and normally, strives for the same goal.

The Importance of Management.

Our future welfare development and prosperity require that there be mutual respect and confidence, thorough understanding and unity of purpose between those groups in and around the industrial world which have as their prime object the making and the distributing of commodities for human use. Of these groups labor is, of course, the largest and the most important. Two other groups which are rapidly coming to have a clearly defined identity and a clearly defined function

Is Green No More

"My experience with your medicine has been wonderful. My stomach and liver trouble of five years' standing took a new turn two years ago, when I took on an olive green complexion. I spent $1200 with doctors and specialists, only to prove that I was still as green as ever. A friend advised me to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am green no more. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ONSLAUGHT AGAINST LABOR HAS BEEN CHECKED, GOMPERS SAYS are those generally known as management and engineering. If the functions of men engaged in these two groups at times overlap, that does not by any means destroy the separate identity of the groups or becloud their distinct functions. Management has certain definite functions for which it must be held responsible. The shortcomings of management cannot be laid at the doors of labor.

Labor has already incorporated in its formulated demands upon industry a demand for efficient management. It is the duty of management to correlate and regulate the various divisions and processes of production. Bad management results in low-grade production and sometimes in bankruptcy, and the workers pay the penalty. Bad management cannot produce in competition with good management so as to pay either good profits or good wages.

Labor has a right to demand that its energies be not dissipated and wasted by bad management. The most appalling and inexcusable bad management is that which is made ineffective or inefficient by the dictates of a financial control. Great industries compelled to adopt wrong methods at the behest of a financial control must collect from the workers directly employed a portion of the cost of that control. For the most part management is intelligent enough to realize the great harm that results from Wall street domination, but has not yet found the way to freedom from that domination.

No notion can be more destructive to real progress than the so-called company union proposal. Quite apart from the fact that workers in a plant are not in a position formally to present the interests and viewpoint of the employes in the plant, this further and most important factor must be considered: If wages, hours and conditions of employment can be determined by each of the company unions with each company's directors, industrial chaos would result by reason of inequalities in wages, hours and standards. The leveling trend would be downward and every company and company union would be each for itself, his Satanic Majesty taking the hindmost. What is required are really bona fide unions of the workers as broad and wide as the industry itself, where men may speak the thoughts of their fellows unafraid, and where the union may help to establish the minimum wage, the maximum hours and the best possible conditions for labor to give its service.

Importance of Good Will.

Production in industry is as much dependent upon good will as is success anywhere. So long as there is an unintelligent and frequently belligerent control of industry and consequently of industrial policies, the full release of good will on the part of the workers in industry is an impossibility.

The trade unions are primarily, of course, institutions for the protection of the rights and interests of the working people. So long as greed makes it necessary for the organizations of the workers to function as militant, fighting organizations it will be impossible for them to contribute fully toward the enlargement and the betterment of industrial processes.

In politics, American labor is nonpartisan. It esponses principles, but is not concerned as to parties. The American Federation of Labor is active politically but in a strictly nonpartisan sense in every state in the Union. It is proud to have contributed materially to the recent downfall of some of the outstanding leaders of reaction and it is equally proud to have contributed materially to the sweeping victories of progressive men who have been nominated in the primary elections during the last few weeks.

Labor is hopeful and confident. Our people are inherently and naturally constructive. They rebel at coercion and repression and they will not tolerate enslavement. As free men they will, through natural, orderly, rational and constructive methods, find the solutions of the vexing problems of today and make of the world a better place in which to live.

"Thoughtful Mothers!" Are You One of Them?

All mothers—bless them—are loving and devoted. How often we are led to respect and admire the "thoughtful mother" who provides for emergencies and saves her loved ones from hours of suffering and herself from needless anxiety and sleepless vigil.

The season for colds, coughs, pneumonia, influenza and catarrhal ailments is drawing near, when the "thoughtful mother" makes up a full pint of pure, quickly effective cold and cough syrup; made at home by using pure concentrated Essence Mentho-Laxene (2½ ozs.) mixed with simple sugar syrup or strained honey. A pint of sugar and a half pint of water makes the syrup in three minutes. The essence and and the syrup are then poured into a pint bottle and is ready to use to prevent bad colds and coughs getting worse. The very first dose gives wonderful relief and in a few days all trace of the congestion and catarrhal symptoms are usually gone. The joy of seeing the quick freedom from colds, coughs and dangerous complications, the freedom from anxiety and sleepless nights, to say nothing of the real economy of this home remedy—is "worth its weight in gold"

The drug store supplies the Essence Mentho-Laxene. "Best ever sold for cough or cold".

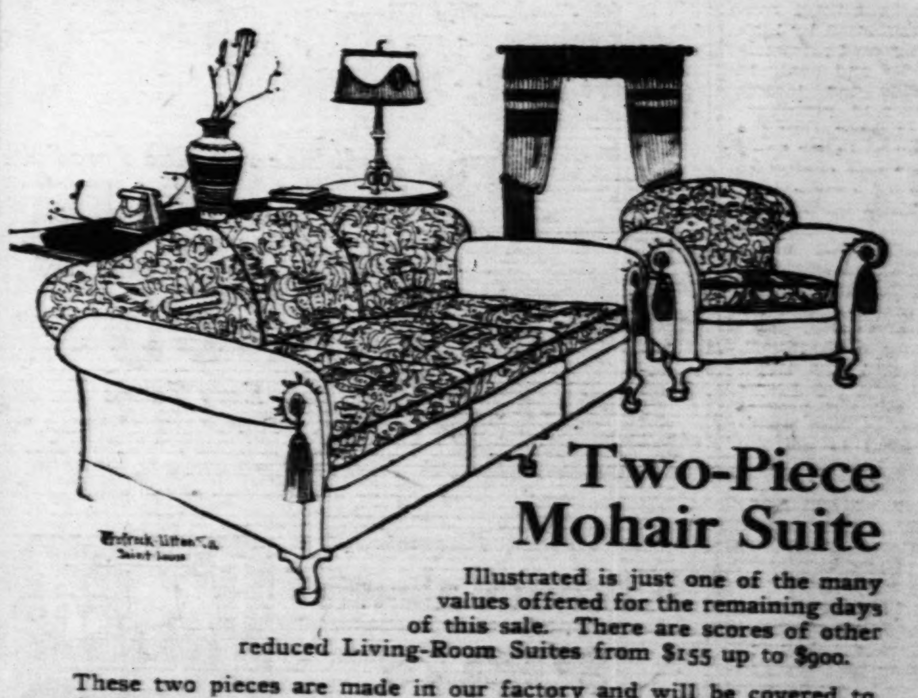
Manufacturers' Sale of Fine Upholstered Furniture

THE announcement of our sale of Living-Room Furniture at factory prices brought forth an instant and overwhelming response and we are extending this sale another week so that those who could not come last week may share in this value-giving event.

FALL is the season of the year most home managers take inventory, and a majority of them find that a new chair here and there, a davenport, or a chair for the hall, is just what is needed to bring a touch of new life to the home. And of course, the best place to make your selections is at Prufrock-Litton's, where upholstered furniture is made in a modern factory, not with the idea of how cheap, but how good it can be made.

FOR just six days more—living-room suites or separate pieces of suites will be sold direct from our factory to you, and at factory prices!



Two-Piece Mohair Suite

Illustrated is just one of the many values offered for the remaining days of this sale. There are scores of other reduced Living-Room Suites from $155 up to $900.

These two pieces are made in our factory and will be covered to order in your choice of the new shades of plain and figured taupe, walnut and mole mohair, with red background, $11 per yard quality. Heavy silk tassels on all arms. A $268 value, this week..... $195

Davenport, $132; Armchair, $62; tall Wing Chair to match, $75.

AUTO HASN'T PUT BUGGY OUT OF BUSINESS, CARRIAGE MAN SAYS

Association to Hold Show in New York; Parade Down Fifth Avenue Considered.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 23.—There is a business as well as a sentimental reason for holding the fiftieth annual convention of the Carriage Builders' National Association, oldest industrial organization in America, in New York City, Oct. 9 to 13, said George W. Huston of Cincinnati, secretary and treasurer.

According to Huston, it is fitting the golden jubilee anniversary be observed in the metropolis, where the C. B. N. A. was born; and it will be a good business stroke to show the nation's first city that the carriage trade is far from being "a dead one."

"The popularity of the automobile hasn't kept the buggy business from prospering," Huston explained. "Buggies are still largely used in the rural districts. Down South, it always will be the favorite conveyance. We also do a large business with South America, where buckboard wagons can go over mountain roads impassable to automobiles. Wise farmers keep buggies, in addition to automobiles, for use in inclement weather and on bad roads."

P. E. Ebrenz of St. Louis is president of the association.

"We are contemplating a horse and buggy parade down Fifth avenue," said Huston.

Rebel at Long Skirt Mandate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POTTSTOWN, Pa. — Pottstown girls between the ages of 15 and 25 years are not going to wear long skirts, no matter what Paris dictates. A leading ladies' tailor here says he has suggested to his customers that longer skirts are in vogue. They say they are going to wear them knee length, so tailors here are making the late summer and early fall suits just as the girls want them. The girls say the short ones are more comfortable.

Whisky Poured in Watermelon.

SIOUX CITY, La. — Policemen found two men on the verge of a fight over the last portion of a watermelon. The policemen inspected the melon. "It smelled and tasted like moonshine," they said. They took the men and the melon to the police station. Now the police are on the trail of a bootlegger who has hit upon the idea of pouring whisky in a watermelon and selling it as a "Georgia cocktail."

PROPHET'S COURT THIS YEAR TO BE UNUSUALLY LARGE

More Than 100 Girls Invited as Maids-of-Honor and 75 Matrons-of-Honor Are Named.

NEW SCHEME OF ORIENTAL DECORATION

Design of Royal Court Said to Be Replica of Throne Room of Magnificent East Indian Palace.

The Veiled Prophet's court this year is to be unusually large.

It is said that more than 100 girls have been invited to sit on the royal dais as maids of honor at the ball in the Coliseum, Tuesday night, Oct. 3. It also is reported that 75 matrons of honor have been designated to serve as official chaperons of the debutantes in the royal court. Last year's maids of honor number 66, and there were 50 matrons. Last year's court attendance broke all previous records because it was Missouri Centennial year.

To accommodate the ensemble the grand dais will have to be considerably larger, and the picture presented by the Court of Honor will be more gorgeous than ever. A new scheme of decoration, in keeping with the Oriental character of the festival, will be used this year. The design is said to be a replica of the throne room of one of the most magnificent East Indian royal palaces. Oriental rugs have been loaned by St. Louis collectors.

The theme of the pageant has not been announced, but the floats are nearly ready, and the members of the Prophet's retinue have been assigned to their places, and now are rehearsing their parts.

The rule barring the transfer of cards of admission from those for whom they are intended will be strictly enforced, it is announced, and tickets presented by others than those whose names are written upon them will be taken up by the heralds at the door and the bearers will not be permitted to enter the ballroom.

A system of traffic regulations has been worked out by a committee of city officials and those in charge of the ball arrangements. This plan will close Washington boulevard, from Compton avenue to Leffingwell avenue, from 6:30 p. m. to 2:30 a. m.; Beaumont street, from Locust street to Washington boulevard, from 6:30 p. m. to 2:30 a. m.; Twentieth street, from Pine street to Morgan street, from 6:30 p. m. to 2:30 a. m., except for those holding parking checks; Olive street, from Grand boulevard to Compton avenue, 6:30 to 10 p. m., except for street cars, and Locust street, from Jefferson avenue to Leffingwell avenue, 9:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Parking space, for the automobiles of those attending the ball, is to be provided in a zone bounded by Twentieth street, Compton avenue, Olive street and Franklin avenue. Copies of the traffic regulations were inclosed with invitations to the ball.

KURDISH REBEL CHIEF AND FORCES ROUTED FROM PERSIA

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TEHERAN, Persia, Sept. 14.—Ismail Agha Simko, the Kurdish rebel chief who for two years has been setting at defiance the authority of the Persian Government, has fled across the frontier into Turkish Kurdistan. His forces have been routed by Riza Khan, the Persian War Minister, who is Commander-in-Chief of the Persian Army. Simko's stronghold at Cherigh, west of Lake Urmia, in Northern Persia, was captured after bitter fighting. Many guns and prisoners were taken.

The internal situation in Persia continues unsettled. In the absence of a stable central government, robber bands and tribesmen have been looting and plundering, and many of the principal roads are insecure.

Outside of tales of disorder, oil is the one absorbing topic of conversation. The country has rich petroleum deposits, and the men in authority are eager to realize on this national wealth.

We Stop Falling Hai in 3 Weeks

And Grow New Hair in 90 D or Your Money Refunded, U Our 90-day Treatment Pla

Costs Nothing
—unless we grow hair under our 90-day treatment plan. The Van Ess treatment is absolutely guaranteed. You are the sole judge. The warrant is signed by your own druggist. You assume no risk in making this test.

This New Way

Science discovers falling, lustreless hair due to simple infection (Sebum). Now quickly overcomes it. Hair actually grown on 91 heads in 100.

This is to offer you new hair—lustrous, beautiful, attractive—or money refunded under our 90-day treatment plan.

It offers, too, to stop falling hair in 3 weeks.

If we fail, the treatment costs you nothing. Your own druggist signs the guarantee. Hence we assume the risk.

Thousands of women have made this test. Results are amazing. The charm of wonderful hair is now available to anyone who chooses to have it.

The Infected Sebum in Your Hair

Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to supply the hair with oil.

But frequently it becomes infected. It cakes on the scalp; clocks the follicles and plugs them.

Germs by the millions breed in it, then feed upon the hair. Soon your hair begins falling. You note, too, how lifeless it appears. In a short time all the natural lustre and beauty are gone.

But—and note this scientific fact—remove the Sebum and the hair reverts back to the softness and brilliancy it displayed when you were a school girl.

The Van Ess treatment accomplishes that result. We know you will doubt it. So we guarantee it.

We urge you to give this new way a fair trial. It is folly not to test it; for, remember, you take no risk.

Come to our drug store today. Ask for the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage on the 3-bottle treatment plan. Written guarantee accompanies it.

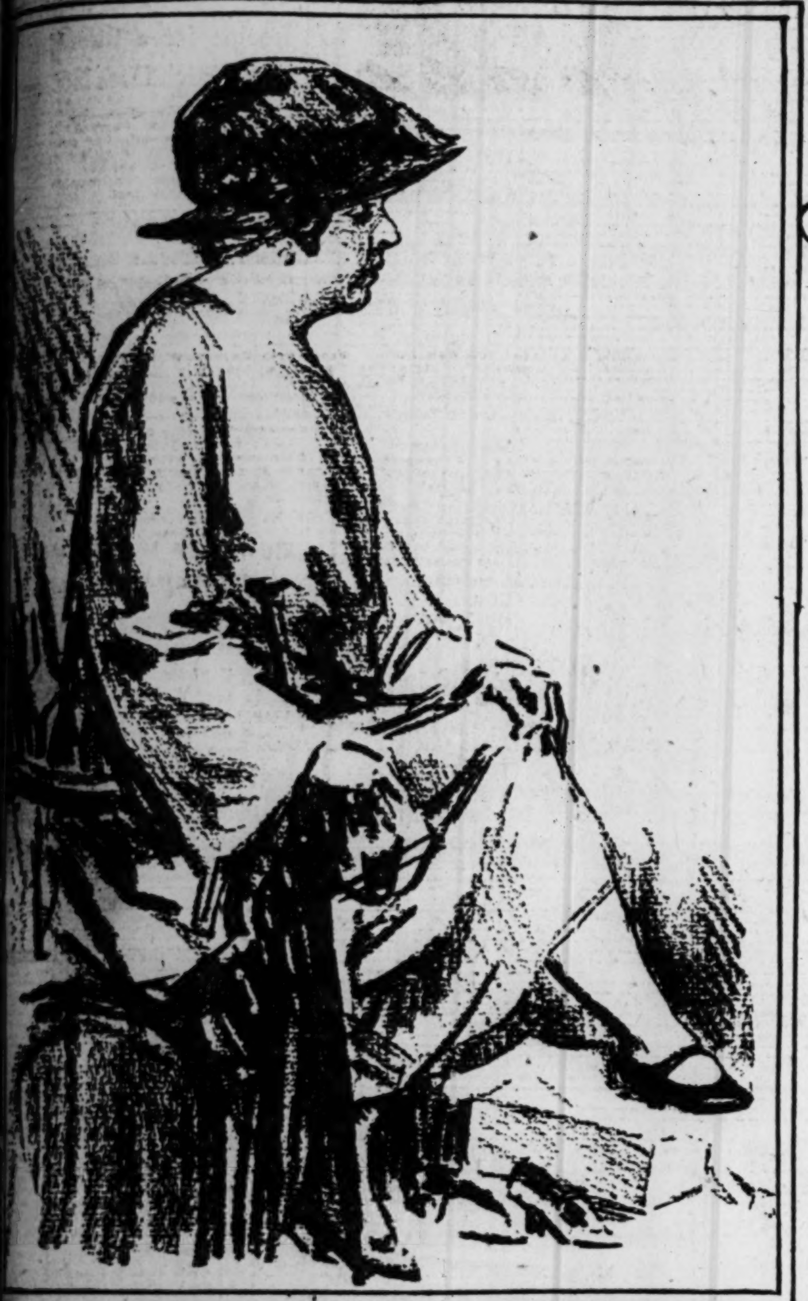
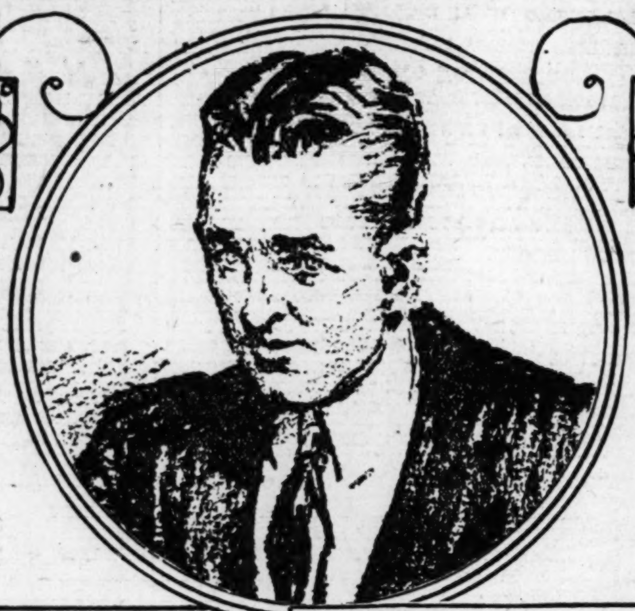
THE SHOE STORE—The Marked Down Sale

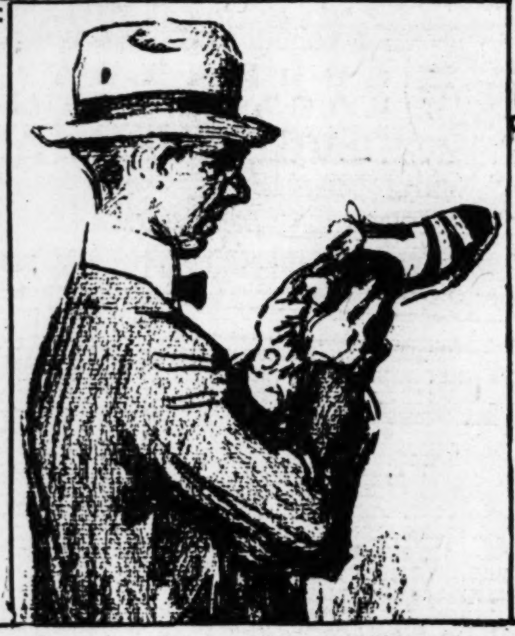
By W. E. Hill



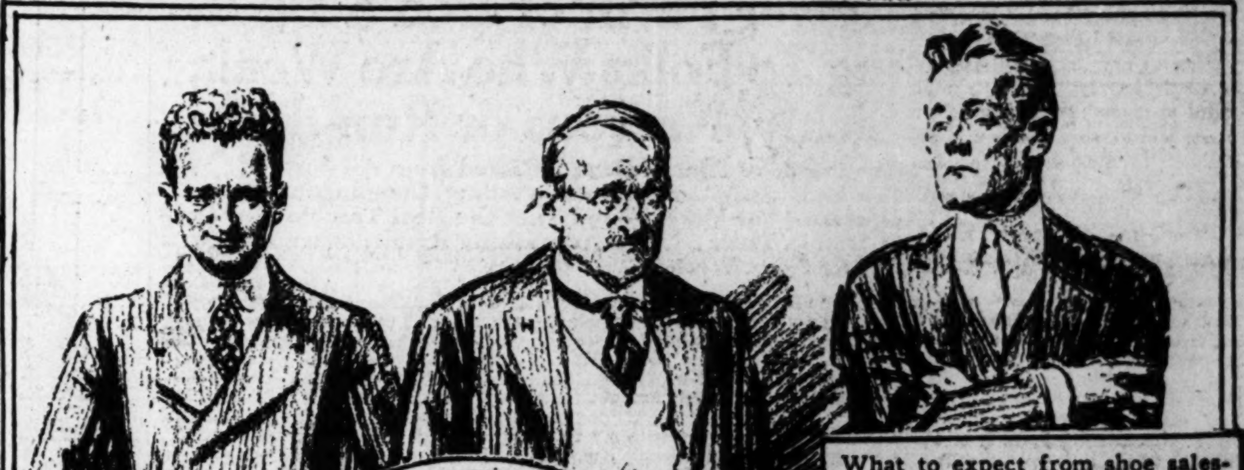


"And now how about a nice pair of trees?"

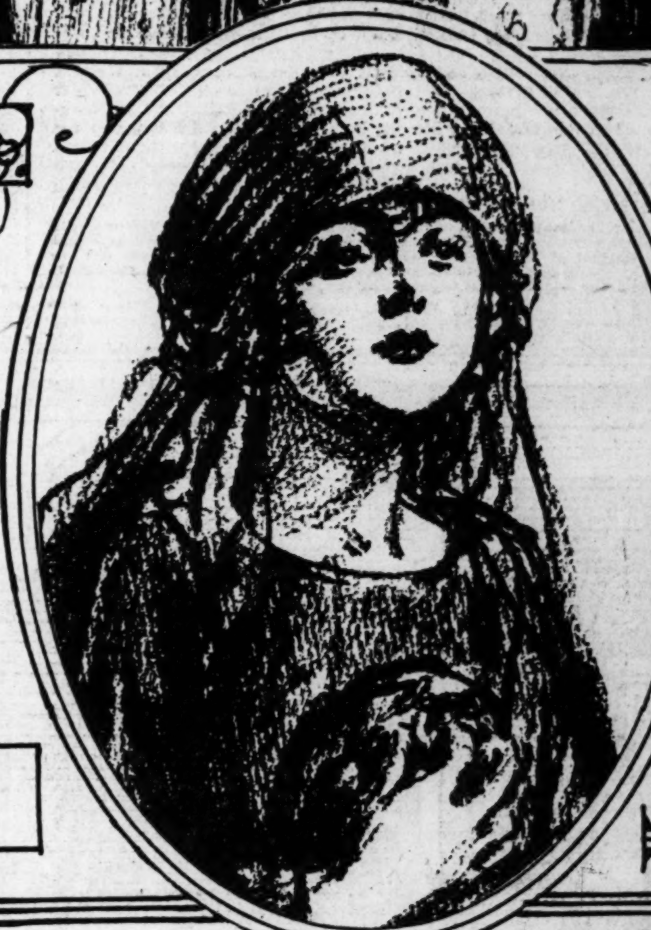
Beautiful shopper observing that really the slipper seems a little bit big. Hadn't she better try at least ONE size smaller?



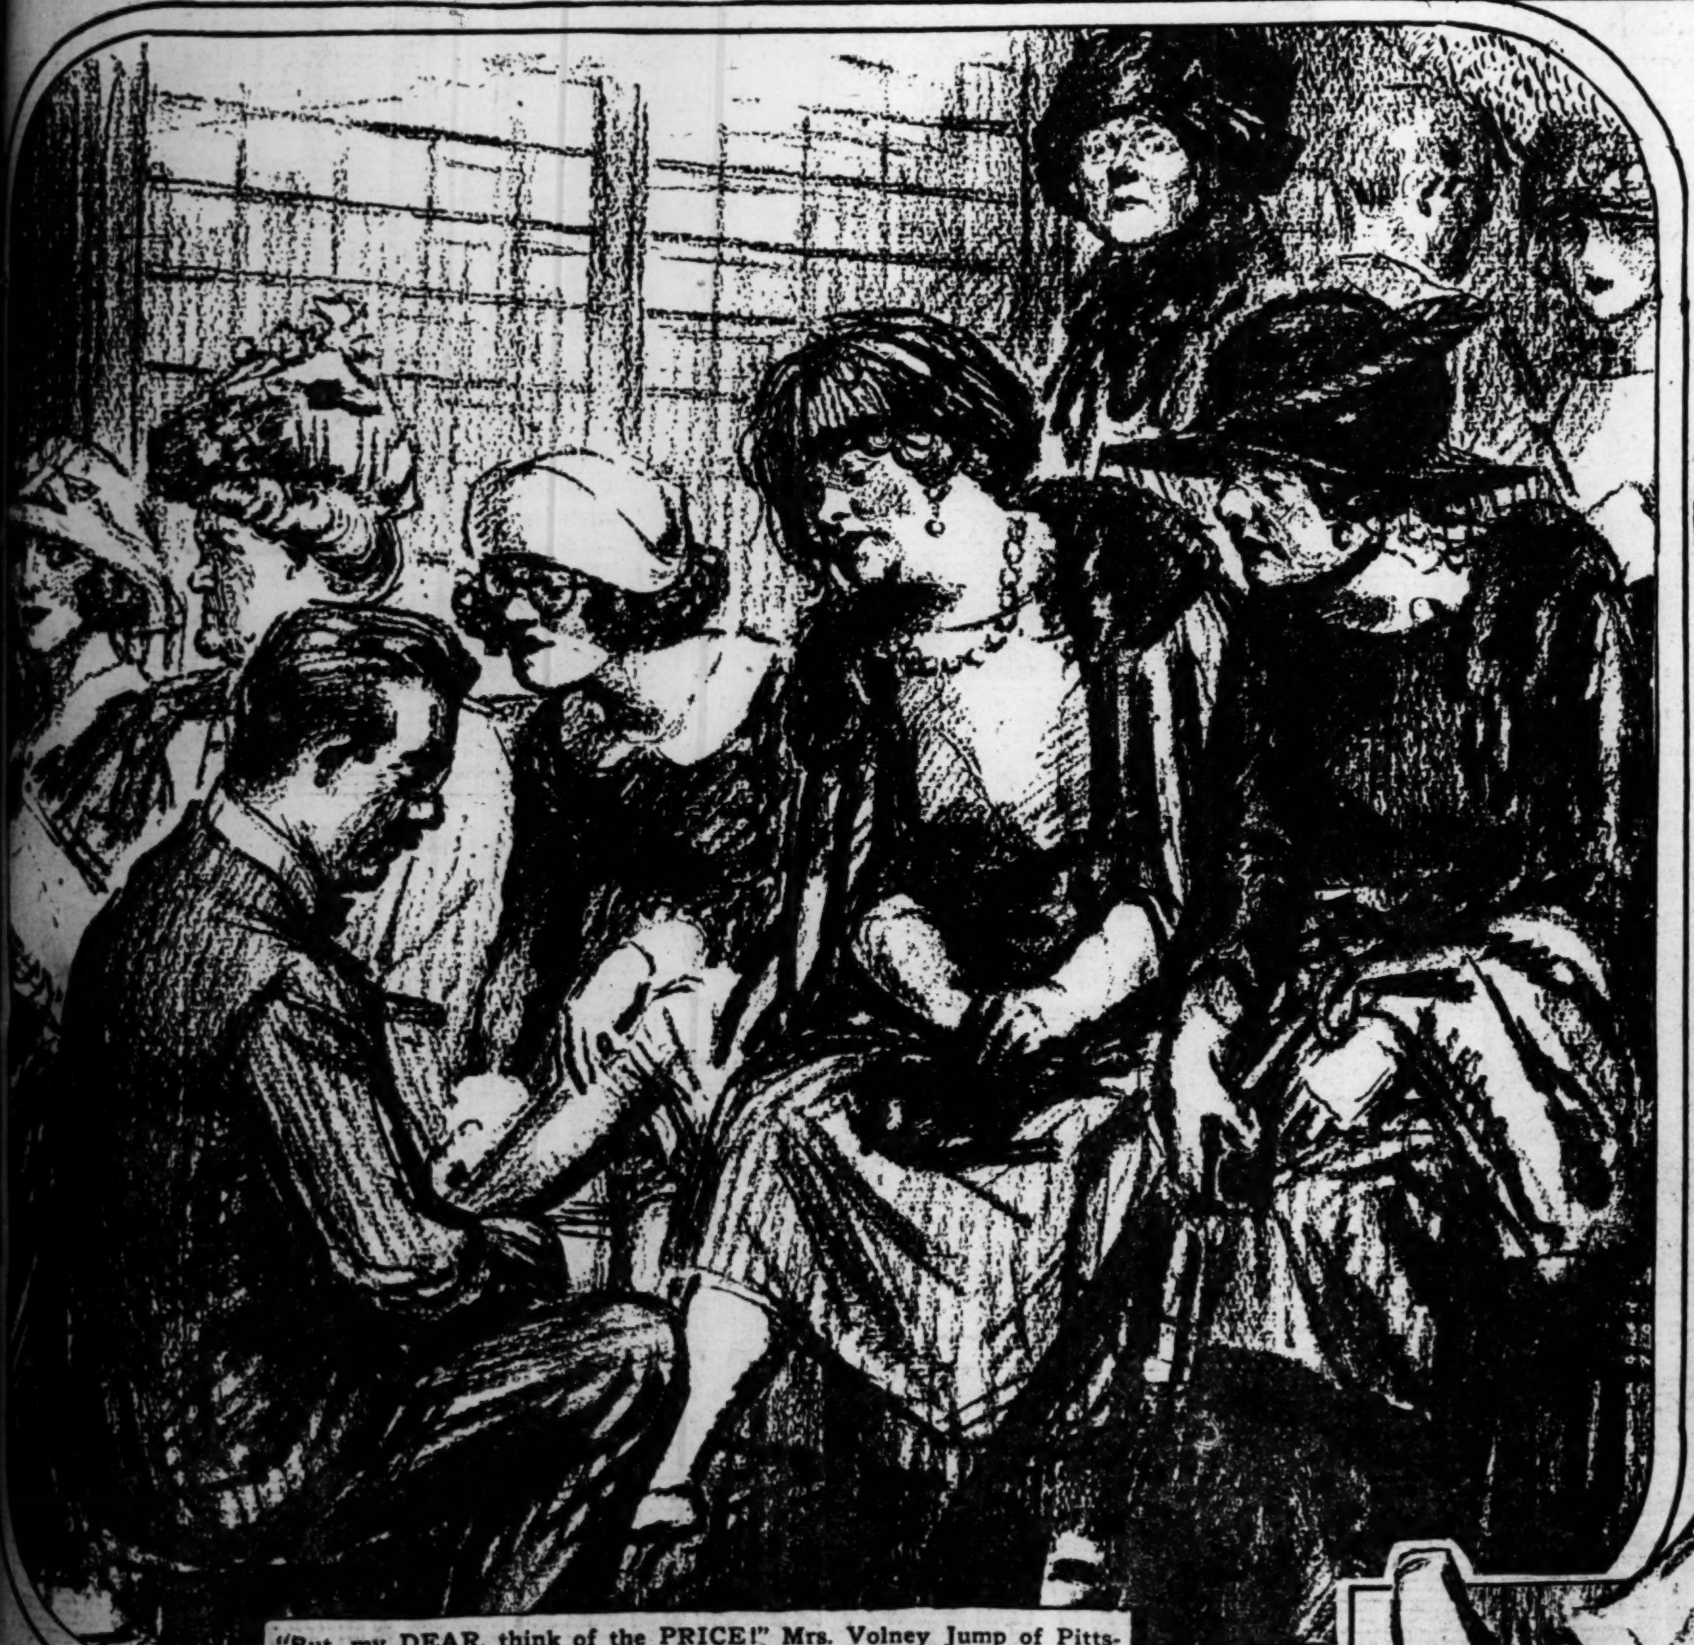
Young man under doctor's orders to take up golf, looking into the matter of golf shoes as a starter. The trickier the shoes the trickier the game.



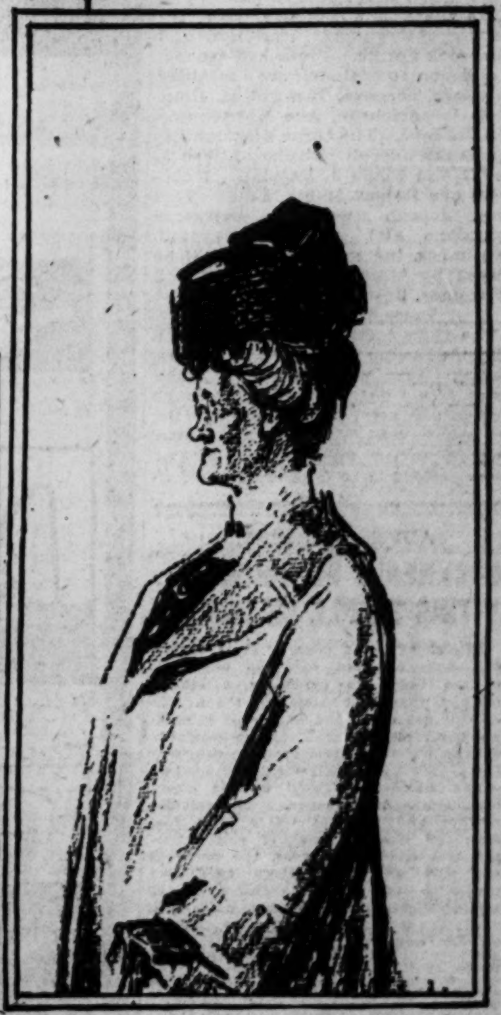
What to expect from shoe salesmen. The young man on the extreme left will hope to die if the shoes you want in a hurry aren't home by the time you get there. Yes siree! And just to show how much he likes you he'll write "Special" in great big black writing all over the box. Four days later you get the shoes. The tired gentleman in the center is down at the bottom a kindly soul, whose life has been warped by too many lady shoppers who insisted they had been told the shoes would be returnable after a month's wear if they got tired of the baby Louis heel and decided on the Cuban. Truthful outside of business hours. Tells you without a quiver that the shoe will stretch over the instep. It's your instep, not his. The furtherest young man is the very grand type. Oh, but he's grand. "No madam," he comes back with, "only the cheaper shops carry that line." And then he will look very pained and move away—in a very grand manner.



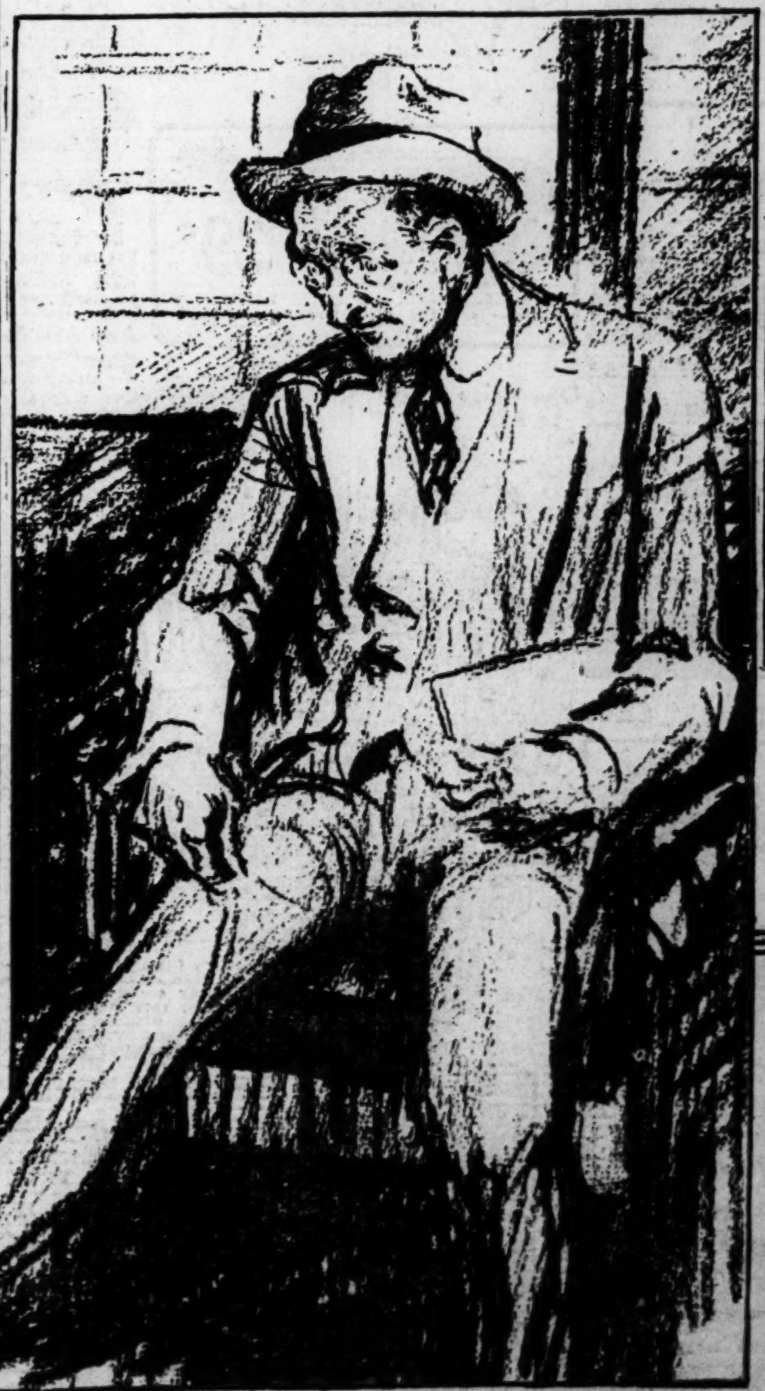
Joyce has just found the greatest bargain at a sale. Just think, a perfectly WONDERFUL pair of riding boots down to half what they were originally! Joyce doesn't ride, but that's a mere detail. A bargain, remember, is a bargain.



"But, my DEAR, think of the PRICE!" Mrs. Volney Jump of Pittsfield, Mass., is attending a shoe sale. She has found a perfectly remarkable line of footwear at twenty per cent off what they were selling at home. The slippers are just a little bit wrong and the shop is just a little bit wrong, and Mrs. Jump will look just a little bit wrong when she wears the new slippers. "But the PRICE, my dear! THINK of the PRICE!"



Mrs. Walter Powley of Brockton Center is about to purchase a pair of ground grippers. Comfort first is Mrs. Powley's motto.



Priestly is one of those unfortunate people who just aren't "shoe conscious." They just aren't, that's all. They take anything the salesman tells them. A really good salesman could probably sell Priestly a pair of fireside comfies to dance in. Priestly has just been persuaded to purchase for the noble game of tennis a beautiful shoe, buckskin foundation, trimmed with leather strips in three colors.

SYMPHONY PLAYERS TO BE 25 PER CENT NEW

Only Viola and Flute Sections Are Taken Over Intact From Last Season.

When the Symphony Orchestra begins rehearsals about the middle of October, 21 new faces will appear at the desks. Only the viola and and flute sections remain intact as they were last season. There will be new leaders of the second violin, double bass, oboe and bassoon departments; a new harpist, in addition to Mme. Ida Delledonne, and a new tuba player, as yet to be selected.

Newcomers include three among the first violins, three in the second violins, two in the violoncellos, three in the contrabasses, two among the oboes, one in the bassoons and one in the French horns. A new first bassoon, Octave Sage, will succeed Frederick Fischer, who will give his entire time to his duties as assistant conductor of the orchestra. Joseph Krausse, recently a member of the National and Philharmonic orchestras of New York, will reinforce the double-bass section. John Leoncavallo, rated among the great oboe players of the country, succeeds Adolph Bertram as first performer on that instrument.

Michel Gusikoff remains as concertmaster, and H. Max Steindel as leader of the 'cello choir. Hugo Olk will once more serve as chief of the violas, John F. Kiburz as first flute, Rocco M. Zottarelle as first clarinet, Pellegrino Lecce as first horn and Oscar Hallbach as first trombone.

Three New First Violins.

Newcomers at the first violin desks will be Edward Joseph Hyna, Joseph Curte and Harry Brandt. Those re-engaged, besides Gusikoff, are Ellis Levy, Charles A. Kaub, John Freiermuth, Emil Vollrath, Benjamin F. Clay, Harry Gold, Louis Druzinsky, Harry Mandel, Benjamin Rader, David Hochman and Isadore Grossman.

The new leader of the second violins is Edwin Nies; other newcomers in this section are Gus Weber and Karl F. Kern. Those re-engaged are Frederic Claiborne, Otto Kuettner, Joseph Winter, Earl Gottschalk, David Bittner Jr., Joseph Catarnichi, Rogert Burger, Joseph Milstein, J. Dastich, Carl A. Preusse and Alfred Bernreuter.

The viola section, taken over bodily from last season's personnel, will consist of Hugo Olk, leader; Carl A. Tholl, Louis Kielsmeier, Oswalk Thumser, Henry J. Falkenhainer, Christian Knudsen, Paul Rossow, Victor Hugo and John Hartl.

The violoncello section's two recruits are Raymond Hamilton and Domenick Sotilla. From last season, in addition to Steindel, are retained Abraham Torgove, Edward H. Clay, R. E. Hendrickson, Abe Kessler and Leo Torgove. The three new double-basses are Joseph Krausse, Alfred J. Kovar and Louis J. Previati. Holdovers are Robert Buhl, Louis Torgove, Joseph Zottarelle, Salvatore Campione and Albert Ravagnani. The harps, increased to two, will be played by Mme. Delledone and a newcomer, Joself Valasek.

Flute Section Intact.

The flute section, re-engaged as a whole, will consist of John F. Kiburz, leader; Oscar W. Neff and L. Mack Close. Two out of three in the oboe section are new, John Leoncavallo, the leader, and Wiley Burton Hoxie. Paul Standke remains as second oboe. Hoxie is to double on the English horn. Rocco M. Zottarelle remains as first clarinet, but the second and third players, C. L. Gesner and Carlos E. Gamacho, are new. Gamacho will also play the bass clarinet.

Octave Sage, the new first bassoon, will be supported by two popular players of former seasons, Domenico Delledonne and Noel Poepping. The contrabassoon will again be intrusted to Poepping.

The horn section remains as it was save for one recruit, the fifth horn, Frank Muenzer. The players re-engaged are Pellegrino Lecce, John Ugrin, Waldemar Helmholz and Joseph Rescigno.

Ganz Buys New Music.

Only two trumpet players are listed, Joseph Gustat and Joe Carlone. The trombone section retains Oscar F. Hallbach and Charles E. Mayer; David Bittner, after an absence, returns as second trombone. Ben Vitto will again be impressario of the kettledrums, and Elmer Gesner and William H. Gilcher of other percussion instruments. Gesner remains as librarian.

A cablegram from Director Ganz, in Switzerland, announces that he will sail from Havre next Saturday on the steamship La France, reaching New York on Oct. 7 and St. Louis some days later. He has purchased a quantity of new music for the orchestra library.

Newer Form of Iron a Blessing To Folks Who Are Weak, Sickly, Nervous or Run-down

Thousands of People Have Suffered from All Sorts of Alarming Symptoms and After Ailing, Complaining and Doctoring for Years Found That the Real Trouble Was Lack of Iron in Their Blood—Astonishing Results Often Shown in Two Short Weeks

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling about the terrible devitalizing weakness caused by lack of iron in the blood, and how examinations by physicians had shown that three people out of every four you meet lack 100% iron in their blood. For years I had been all tired out with my work and never felt well a single day. For long periods I would have pains in my back and think I was getting kidney trouble. Then I had dizzy spells, pains and palpitations around my heart, and began to fear I was getting heart disease. I suffered from gas and my meals always upset me. Nothing I ate agreed with me or seemed to do me any good, and I could not get any strength out of my food.

I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks. The results are simply astounding. I can work twice as long without tiring and I feel myself getting stronger every day. All my alarming symptoms have disappeared and I can conscientiously say that more iron in my blood has tremendously increased my strength, energy and endurance."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by thousands of people since we started this "Satisfaction or Money Back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If after taking two weeks treatment of Nuxated Iron you cannot walk twice as far or work twice as long without tiring, and you are not absolutely delighted with the results, we will promptly refund your money.

NOTE.—The above company is known to be thoroughly reliable. Over 4,000,000 packages of Nuxated Iron are sold annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U. S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

BLACKHEADS GO QUICK BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body, go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two ounces of calonite powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. The calonite powder and the hot water have just dissolved them. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them open and unsightly—and unless the blackheads are big and soft they will not come out, while the simple application of calonite powder and the water dissolve them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can get calonite powder at any drug store and if you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes you should certainly try this simple method.

Use Cuticura And Watch Your Skin Improve

Nothing better to cleanse and purify the skin and to keep it free from pimples and blackheads than Cuticura Soap for every-day toilet use. Assist with Cuticura Ointment when necessary. Cuticura Talcum is also ideal for the skin.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. [illegible], Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c, Ointment 25 and 50c, Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Stars to Aid Veterans.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—Stars high in the movie universe will aid in the nation-wide "Forget-Me-Not Day" campaign to be conducted Nov. 4 by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, according to an announcement of national headquarters. The announcement stated that numerous letters and telegrams offering aid had been received from actors. The funds obtained, headquarters stated, will be used to establish club rooms and summer camps, to aid wounded, disabled and unemployed veterans, and in kindred relief projects.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL TO RAISE $300,000

Campaign for Funds for Additions and Expenses to Be in October.

Members of the board of managers of the Children's Hospital, 500 South King's highway, will meet in the Daniel Boone Room, Hotel Statler, at 1 p. m. Tuesday, to arrange details for a financial campaign for $300,000.

The fund is being sought to enable the board to erect additions to the present hospital building and to meet current expenses. It is planned to conduct the campaign next month.

The increasing demands for medical and surgical care at the hospital prompted the board of managers to make plans for additional room. The lack of added facilities may force many crippled and deformed children to forego treatment, it has been pointed out.

The Children's Hospital, established 43 years ago, originally was at 2834 Franklin avenue, moving from there to Jefferson avenue and Adams street. In 1914 the institution moved to its present location facing Forest Park. The Martha Parsons Free Hospital, Channing avenue and School street, consolidated with the St. Louis Children's Hospital in 1910. The institution is nonsectarian in its management and benefactions and has been supported by subscriptions since its foundation.

In the 43 years it has been in existence it has given treatment to more than 27,000 deformed, crippled and sick children under 14 years of age. Few of those treated paid for the service. Last year 2144 children were treated, only 371 being private or full pay patients. In addition to the hospital on King's highway the institution conducts a convalescent home at Ridge Farm, near Valley Park.

The board of managers of the hospital will be in direct charge of the proposed campaign.

The meeting for Tuesday has been called by Mrs. Robert A. Holland Jr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg Jr. the board of managers and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney of the hospital's auxiliary board.

Salvation Army Festival.

The annual harvest festival of the Salvation Army will be held at the army hall, 1635 Market street, Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and 2. Articles of wearing apparel and needlework will be sold at booths, and fruits and vegetables will be auctioned. The proceeds will go to the local corps of the Salvation Army.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chorman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

DUX, CALVE, ELMAN, IN COMING RECITALS

List Also Includes Farrar, Kreisler, Rachmaninoff, Macmillen and Flonzaleys.

Sergei Rachmaninoff, Fritz Kreisler, Emma Calve, Geraldine Farrar, Claire Dux, Mischa Elman and many others are on the list of artists announced by Miss Elizabeth Cueny for presentation in St. Louis this season. Mme. Farrar will be heard at the Odeon on the evening of Nov. 13. Rachmaninoff will give a recital at the same auditorium on Dec. 13, and Kreisler will appear at the Odeon on Feb. 8.

The People's Concert Course will consist of six offerings at the Odeon, as follows: Claire Dux, soprano, Oct. 28; Francis Macmillen, violinist, Nov. 4; Ruth St. Denis, with Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers, Dec. 2; the Flonzaley Quarter, with Helen Stanley, soprano, Jan. 6; Stuart Walker's production of "The Book of Job," Jan. 27; and Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, in a recital for two pianos, Feb. 24.

Other concerts and entertainments promised by the same management include Sousa's Band, Oct. 22; Irene Castle, in a dance and fashion pageant, during November; Mme. Calve, Nov. 30; the Irish Regimental Band, Dec. 15; Tony Sarg's Marionettes, Jan. 19 and 20; and Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Feb. 19.

Calve "Beats Back."

Mme. Calve, famous contralto and the classic portrayer of the heroine of "Carmen," returned to the recital stage in New York last season, after many years' absence, and extorted from a skeptical public a resounding triumph. Miss Dux came to America last year as assisting artist at some of the Richard Strauss concerts, was engaged by the Chicago Opera Association, and proved a bright luminary at Ravinia Park. Elman, who will play at the Odeon in March, returns after a world tour and an absence of three years from this city.

Macmillen, who has returned to America after several successful years on the continent, is a brother of S. E. Macmillen, manager of the symphony orchestra. Miss Castle's program is to include, so it is promised, several numbers in the vein of "Chauve Souris." Stuart Walker's dramatization of the Book of Job is making its first road tour after successful appearances in New York. Maier and Pattison, who are now in Australia, appeared last season with the symphony orchestra on one of its charming programs. The Tony Sarg Marionettes, seen at the Shelton Memorial last season, will play "Don Quixote" and "Uncle Wiggly."

Hair Curling Troubles Are Over—Read This!

Have you heard about the newest way to keep the hair in curl, bobbed as well as long hair? If not, by all means, cut out these simple directions and try this wonderful method. Procure a new tooth brush and a few ounces of plain liquid silmerine from your druggist. Apply enough of the liquid with the brush to moisten the hair from root to tip just before doing it up. You will be quite astonished when you find you have such lovely waves and curls they appear altogether natural instead of having been artificially acquired. Best of all, the waviness will last very much longer than it would otherwise.

Your hair, of course, will have more "body" and fluffiness than where the drying, singeing, waving iron is used. It will appear glossier and livelier fo. silmerine has proved equally desirable as a dressing for the hair. You will find it pleasant to use, and it will leave no sticky, greasy or streaky trace.

ECZEMA

Also called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk Crust, Water Poison, Weeping Skin, Etc.

I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and NOT merely patched up to return again. Remember, I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting 12 years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TODAY I will send you a FREE TRIAL of mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

"What do you think has happened?"

"My wonderful furs and my husband's winter clothes are ruined by moths." Thousands of housewives who thought the clothes they packed away this spring were free from moths are having those regrets right now. Thousands of housewives will have them next spring. Yet a few cents worth of Enoz will save all that grief.

Remember that moths are not the result of indifferent housekeeping. You find them in the best kept homes. A flying moth may indicate that others are hidden in your nice things where they have laid their eggs. And the eggs (which are too small to see) are invariably laid in hidden places—in dark closets, cracks and crevices, in the folds and seams of garments and in the filling of upholstery, in rugs and draperies.

Bear this fact (this irrefutable truth) in mind

Moths work all year 'round

You seldom see moths flying in the fall and winter but the eggs laid in the warm months will be hatching into worms all winter long. Your only real safety is in completely destroying not only the moths but the moth worms and the eggs as well.

ENOZ

KILLS MOTHS

(Will Not Stain)

Enoz is a powerful spray. It destroys moths and moth worms instantly and more important still, it destroys moth eggs. So thoroughly processed that it cannot stain or injure or effect the dyes in the most delicate fabrics. Enoz is extremely penetrating; it permeates down where the moth eggs are laid and destroys every vestige of moth life. Simple to use. Just spray it on. Enoz is the original guaranteed moth killer. It does the work so thoroughly that it has been used for many years in millions of homes and also by leading manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of garments, woolens, furs, fabrics, upholstery, feathers and rugs to protect their own valuable stocks.

Pronounce it Ee-noz and be sure you get it. Imitations should be avoided. Enoz will not stain. Drug stores, department stores and hardware stores have it.

A pint of Enoz and a sprayer $1.60
In larger quantities the cost is much less
Also put up in large containers for industrial use

In Answer to Thousands of Inquiries

You know that a rifle powerful enough to kill an elephant will kill a coyote. Enoz kills moths—the toughest of household pests. Of course it kills other household insects.

"AMERICAN HISTORY for AMERICAN CHILDREN"

By HENDRIK VAN LOON author of "The Story of Mankind"

This new serial, by this most popular author, will make an even more tremendously popular appeal than his previous masterpiece, which took the reading public by storm several months ago. "American History for American Children," is a real treat for boys and girls (and grown-ups, too). Dr. Van Loon "feels" history and writes about it as he would write about living persons and current events. He backs up his easy, simple, vivid writings with pictures—little pen and ink sketches, unconventional and whimsical, that go straight to the point and complete the story for the youngster and grown-up alike. Commencing tomorrow, in the POST-DISPATCH, Dr. Van Loon will give a personally conducted "lesson" in American History.

Don't miss the first one—and you won't miss any of the other sparkling ones which follow.

RADIO—For the Amateur and Expert

How to Assemble a Single Circuit Tuner

This Type, Because of Its Simplicity, Is Often Recommended to Amateurs—Directions for Tuning and Adjustments.

The most practical and inexpensive receiving set for the reception of radio telephones is that which is commonly known as the single circuit regenerative receiver. It is so called because of the fact that in it only one coil of wire is used for the primary and secondary circuits.

The single circuit receiving set differs from the double circuit regenerative receiver in that the latter uses two inductances which together are called a vario-coupler. The vario-coupler has two windings, one on the outer tube which is the primary, and one on the inner the secondary.

As a matter of fact both of these types contain another circuit which is called the plate or high-voltage circuit. In the case of the single circiut receiver this is called a tickler. However, in speaking of the single or double circuit regenerative receiver this circuit is not considered as it is common to both.

The single circuit regenerative is recommended for those who wish maximum results at a minimum cost. The advantages that it has over the double circuit set, for the novice or one who has not had a great deal of experience with radio apparatus are as follows:

First, it is less expensive, the complete set costing about two-thirds as much as a double circuit receiver, the vario-coupler and one variometer being eliminated.

Second: It is by far the simplest to construct and operate. It uses only one variable condenser and one variometer while the other type set uses two variometers, a vario-coupler, and a variable condenser. The single circuit receiver has only three controls, while the double has four or five. This is a great advantage to the novice as one wishing to listen to radio concerts ordinarily has not the time and often the patience to spend making adjustments. It really takes a fairly good knowledge of the fundamental principles of radio to enable one to operate the double circuit receiver.

Third: As far as the intensity or strength of signals received is concerned it would take an expert to detect the difference between those received on the two sets. Those who use the single circuit set insist that it cannot be surpassed, and it is an argument hard to refute.

For the experienced radio electrician the double circuit receiver has one advantage. It tunes much sharper than the other set. That is to say, with it one can tune out one station and tune in another more easily. For the reception of voice this is almost negligible, though in receiving telegraph stations it is very noticeable.

Figue 1 shows a diagram of the single circuit receiver, a description of which follows. Figure 2 is a diagram of the double circuit regenerative given for comparison.

The tuning part of this set consists of a variable condenser (VC) and a variometer (L1-L2). The variable condenser should have a capacity of .0015 microfarads. This capacity could be a little larger, but no smaller. Most 13-plate variable condensers are about the right size.

L1 and L2 are the stator (outside) and rotor (inside) winding of a variometer. Practically every variometer on the market has the proper amount of wire in them so that one constructing a set of this type should have no trouble in determining the proper amount of wire in these coils.

S is a two-point switch. One point is connected to the wire that connects the two sections of the outside winding of the variometer. The other tap is not connected to anything. The two ends of the wire on the rotor winding should go direct to the plate of the audion tube and the phones.

When the switch arm is on the tap on the right one-half of the inductance L1 is short-circuited and only the other half left in the circuit. In this position the set tunes to the shorter wave lengths. On the other tap this section of the inductance is cut in and the set tunes to the longer wave lengths. This method of connecting the two sections does away with what is known as "dead end effects."

The other instruments, the grid condenser, grid leak, filament rheostat, phones, batteries and audion tube are standard parts.

Figure 3 shows a practical method of locating the instruments on a panel. This, of course, does not have to be followed precisely, but the arrangement is advisable from an operating standpoint. The dial on the left is connected to the variable condenser. The one on the right to the variometer. The switch between the two dials is the inductance switch. One point permits the reception of waves from 200 to 400 meters and the other from 400 to 600 meters, the range depending on the length of antenna used. The knob and pointer to the right are connected to the filament rheostat and the holes above it permit the operator to see how brilliant his tube, which is directly behind, is burning.

To tune this set one should follow this method. It is assumed that the operator is not familiar with the set and does not know where to place the dials and switches in order to locate a station.

Set the inductance switch on the first tap. Turn the dial on the left from zero to 10. Turn the dial on the right toward 100 until a hissing tone or a click is heard. The voice or music from a phone comes in at maximum intensity just before this point. That is, providing the set is tuned to a wave upon which a phone is operating.

If no station is heard on this tune, turn the dial on the left to fifteen or twenty. Then reepat the operation of the other dial as stated above. If nothing is heard again, turn the left dial to thirty or thirty-five (this is a matter of fishing around until a station is found) and use the tickler (right dial) again. Keep this up until a station is heard or until you have gone from zero to one hundred on the left dial. In the latter case place the inductance switch on the second tap and repeat the above procedure.

Once a station is heard, adjust the two dials very slightly until the maximum strength seems assured.

The proper filament current may be found by turning the rheostat on only a small amount, then tune in some local station and adjust the rheostat until maximum signals are heard.

It is well to remember that above a certain point additional filament current on the tube does not increase the strength of signals, while it cuts down the life of the tube very materially. Adjust the filament rheostat to the point where signals are heard the strongest and permit it to remain there unless your rheostat has a vernier adjustment on it, then the vernier may be used for finer tuning.

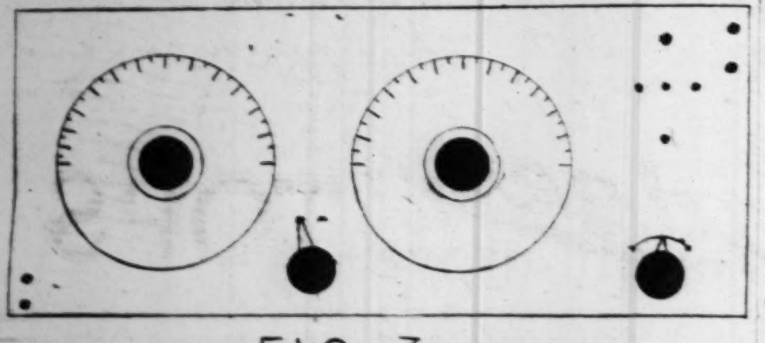

FIG. 3

Useful "Dont's" to Remember..

Don't fail to insulate the antenna.

Don't place the lightning switch indoors.

Don't listen in during a thunderstorm.

Don't cause interference with other stations.

Don't try to use a loud speaker with a crystal set.

Don't neglect to read everything available on radio.

Don't attach ends of antenna to power or telephone poles.

Don't connect a radio set direct to the electric light circuit.

Don't forget that tickler coils are not used with crystal detector sets.

Don't expect to get loud signals with a crystal detector set while using an indoor antenna.

Don't always blame the broadcasting stations. It is usually the fault of your own apparatus.

Inside Wires.

Securely fasten all wires inside buildings in a workmanlike manner. They should not come closer than two inches to any electric light or power wire, unless separated therefrom by some continuous and firmly fixed non-conductor, making a permanent separation.

RADIO TIPS

A Costly Habit.

Burning the filament too brightly merely wastes the filament and shortens the life of the tube without adding to the efficiency of the set.

Look for Open Circuit.

When a steady hum is heard in the receivers after wiring up a set, it may be understood that there is an open circuit somewhere. Trace out the wiring carefully and some little fault will present itself.

Free Air.

No license is necessary in the United States to receive wireless messages of any kind. There are no taxes. There is absolutely no legal "red tape" of any sort to be feared in connection with the installation and operation of radio sets.

Frequent Inspection Necessary.

Watch the connections of a receiving outfit. They gradually become loose and dirty. Make an occasional inspection to keep them clean and tight. Kinks and twists in the phone cord should be taken out because they will eventually ruin the cord.

Radiograms.

Approximately 70 newspapers in the United States broadcast news as well as concerts.

No ship of any nationality may leave an American port with 50 or more persons aboard unless equipped with radio and two operators.

Applications for broadcasting station licenses reach the Department of Commerce at the rate of three or more a day.

Students of Ashland College in Ohio have challenged Harvard University to a series of debates to be carried on by radio.

The New Hampshire State Prison is the first institution of its kind in the United States to install a radio receiving outfit for the inmates.

Believing that radio deserves to be ranked with the best mental therapeutic agencies, several hospitals in New York City have already interested philanthropists, and are installing instruments for convalescent patients.

Every State in the union except Wyoming has one or more broadcasting stations.

Four large department stores in Philadelphia, Pa., broadcast concerts and news every day.

The First Presbyterian Church, Tacoma, Wash., has been issued a license for broadcasting.

Los Angeles, Cal., has the largest number of broadcasting stations of any city in the country.

A radio message can be sent from New York City to San Francisco, Cal., in one sixty-second of a second.

It is estimated that one home in every six in Pittsburg, Pa., is equipped with a wireless receiving apparatus.

St. Louis University of St. Louis, Mo., claims the honor of having the first private radio receiving and broadcasting station in the United States.

Time signals are broadcast by radio from the Naval Observatory in Washington, D. C., at 11:55 a. m. to noon, and from 9:55 p. m. to 10 p. m., Eastern standard time.

Freedom of radio is far greater in this country than in Great Britain. The British amateur is forbidden to relay messages, and can use power up to only 10 watts, which means ordinarily a sending radius of 10 miles.

For a Good Ground.

To ground a wire, use a cold-water pipe, as it is the most direct connection to the ground. The radiator or a hot-water pipe will do almost as well, but these pipes will have a great many more joints in them before they reach the ground, and every joint added makes just that much more resistance for the current. The gaspipe is about the worst ground possible, and it is apt to have an insulated bushing that will not allow the current to pass through.

An Economical Switch Knob.

Switch knobs, for your home-made tuner, can be made out of ink bottle tops. By removing the cork and boring a hole in the center of the black top and inserting an ordinary screw-top binding post in the hole, a serviceable switch may be constructed.

For the Notebook.

An aerial cannot be placed across a street without permission.

Unnecessary apparatus should be avoided in the receiving set.

Greater ranges are covered with receiving sets on cold, clear winter nights than on warm, damp summer nights.

Grease, etc., should not be used on switches or contact to make them work easily. Oil and grease are poor conductors.

The surface of crystals can be cleaned with carbon bisulphide. Put the solution on a cloth and rub over the surface of the crystal.

The radio beginner should first start in with a simple receiving set. Do not buy or select a complicated one until further advanced.

The penalty for operating a transmitting station without license is $500 fine and confiscation of the apparatus—regardless of its power.

When installing radio apparatus, start from the air down, not from the ground up. The success of radio depends entirely upon the antenna, or aerial.

RADIO AIDS C-2 ON WESTERN TRIP

Most of Flying Done at Night in Transcontinental Flight.

Radio aided the army airship C-2 on the westward leg of her transcontinental trip. During the 60 hours' cruise, hundreds of miles of which were traversed in darkness, radio was always available to lend a guiding hand when any doubt as to the position of the airship existed on this, the first transcontinental airship cruise.

All army airships and airplanes are equipped with the latest radio apparatus, and in many instances radio has informed the pilots as to location, course or weather, and, in the event of an accident or trouble, has been the means of bringing aid.

The first 1000 miles of the Western trip was made in approximately 20 hours' flying time, Maj. Strauss, the commander, reported from Belleville, Ill. All along her westward route from Norfolk over Akron, Belleville, Fort Sill, San Antonio, El Paso, Yuma, to Arcadia, Cal., Capt. G. A. McEntire, the radio officer, kept in touch with army, Weather Bureau and private radio stations, which advised as to the metereological conditions to the westward. Radio will again guide her on her return trip to Langley Field, Va., next week.

The radio equipment of the C-2 consists of a modified SCR-67-A radio telephone and telegraph vacuum-tube set, with a sending radius of about 10 miles for the phone circuit and 40 miles for the telegraph. The transmitting wave used was 480 meters, but messages on nearly all wave lengths were receivable. In the present installation batteries are used in sending, but the radio experts of the Army Air Service have been experimenting on a generator geared to one of the driving engines, which will give these radio sets more power. The antenna is a single wire trailed below the airship and is about 100 feet in length.

It was in night trips that the radio equipment proved most valuable as well as a means of entertaining the crew, who frequently listened in to radio concerts en route.

ZENITH
Long Distance Radio
Tune In With "A Zenith" For The World Series
The Post-Dispatch has made arrangements for broadcasting the World Series play by play. Buy a Zenith Long Distance Radio Set at once so that you may be able to tune in on this great occasion—the first time in the history of baseball that a World Series has been reported by radio. Zenith Sets of the 1-R model are ready for immediate delivery. Possession of a Zenith Set will furnish instruction and entertainment for the whole family.
The Zenith is a Long Distance Audion Set, licensed and manufactured under the famous Armstrong Regenerative Circuit Patent, and is not to be confused with crystal detector sets. The model 1-R, now ready for immediate delivery, with proper amplification, and under favorable conditions, will "pick up" stations in any part of the U. S. The Zenith is especially designed for continuous and efficient service in the hands of people who want results but who have no knowledge of electricity.
After thorough and exhaustive scientific tests we are convinced that the Zenith is the best receiving set that has yet been manufactured and we unhesitatingly recommend it to our patrons. KIESELHORST PIANO CO.

Songs by Edward F. Endicott, blind tenor.

Friday, September 29

Southern plantation ballads and melodies—Marcella de Mette, soprano.

Piano recital by Olgo Schoeffler.

Address — "Psychiatry," Dr. Francis M. Barnes Jr.

Saturday, September 30

Recital by Dr. R. A. Trovillion, tenor, and Ellen T. Mudd, pianiste.

Radio Questions Answered

BY AN EXPERT

If you have any difficulties in operating your set, want to know a better hook-up, or if you have a radio problem of any kind to solve, write to the Radio Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Q. May a set consisting of two variometers and a vacuum tube detector be used to receive the radio broadcast programs?—R. V.

A. Yes, but we suggest that some means of tuning the circuit be added, additional such as a vario-coupler.

Q. Could the telephone ground be used for a radio ground?

A. Possibly; however, it might increase the strength of your signals, if you added another "ground," by driving a five or six foot rod into the earth. Even using these, you might also connect your set with the water pipe, or to a coil of bare wire suspended in the water of a well or cistern. The importance of a good ground cannot be overestimated.

Q. Would an iron pump in a well or cistern make a good ground?

A. Yes, an excellent one; use a ground clamp, obtainable at any radio suply house, or, preferably, make a soldered connection.

Q. What is the best loud speaker on the market?

A. Any one of the standard makes will give good results, although they are rather expensive.

Q. How far should radio broadcasting be received with a set using a tapped inductance and a vacuum tube?

A. That depends entirely upon the height, length and type of aerial, also the instruments, circuit used, and the efficiency of the ground connection. Under favorable conditions you should be able to receive a hundred miles.

Q. Why do signals from K S D come in just as loud with the aerial connection removed as they did before taking the wire off?—R. W.

A. This is a regular occurrence at nearly every receiving set located as near to a powerful transmitting station as you are to K S D, and is due to the wire in the set acting as an aerial.

Q. About two weeks ago while listening in on your program you changed your wave length from 360 400 meters. Since them I have been unable to pick you up and miss your concerts. I try every night, but without any luck. Why is this? (F. M.)

A. Your aerial is probably too short to receive on 400 meters. Add a loading coil (single-slide tuner or honeycomb coil) in series with the antenna, and you may need to add one to the secondary circuit, this can be determined by experimenting. If you have a variable condenser in the aerial or ground circuit, either remove it or else shunt it with a piece of wire.

Q. Ir it possible to receive concerts from New York and Pittsburg with an audion detector set?—J. B.

A. Eastern stations can be heard with one tube, but one or two stages of amplification will bring them in much louder.

Q. I have a Westinghouse R. C. receiving set, Western Electric head phones, Ampli-tone horn and a two-stage amplifier. The antenna consists of two wires 5 feet apart, 35 feet high and 80 feet long, is properly insulated and all joints are soldered. The ground wire is soldered to the water pipe. I get K S D strong and clear, W H B occasionally and heard Atlanta, Ga., signing off one night, faint and indistinct. Can you locate my trouble from the above? (L. A. B.)

A. You should be able to hear Atlanta and Kansas City "all over the house." If the set is new, it is probable that you are not yet familiar enough to tune it most efficiently, and the only thing we can recommend is that you experiment every night until you learn where the different stations come in loudest. Tuning can only be learned by experience.

Q. Radio Editor: Please tell me how to make a loud-speaker, such as a Magnavox. J. R. M.

A. We advise that it is not practical, in fact hardly possible for an amateur to make a loud-speaker embodying the same principles as the standard makes on the market, unless a completely equipped electrical machine shop is available. You can, however, obtain very satisfactory results in the way of sound amplification by attaching a type "C" Baldwin receiver to either a home-made or a bought horn. Or, if an old graphophone horn is obtainable, it will serve the purpose nicely. This kind of a "loud-speaker" is connected in place of the ordinary receivers, and requires no external battery. The original cost is about one-eighth of the standard makes, inexpensive to operate, and is preferred by some people.

Q. Radio Editor: I have a set made according to your instructions and have had very good results. But since you have used the new wave length, quite frequently the music or conversation stops abruptly, to continue a few minutes or sometimes seconds later. It is as if a code crossed the wave lane and stopped the music, for I can hear the music as between the dots and dashes of a code. Last night it was clearer and closer than ever before and two interruptions occurred. I am very much interested in knowing why and what these interruptions may be; others in my neighborhood have experienced the same trouble, so it is not my set. V. W.

A. Your trouble is in all probability due to an amateur in the vicinity transmitting code signals with a continuous-wave set. The change in the oscillations caused by his key being depressed "chokes" the vacuum tube for the time, and prevents its functioning. When he stops sending the detector becomes normal and continues its operation.

Q. Radio Editor: We live in a small country village, no electricity, and we want to install a radio outfit. What will it cost to install a set which will receive 300 miles, and can a regular mechanic look after it, or does it require an experienced man in that line? Where can a person buy a radio outfit in St Louis. R.

A. The receiving set complete will cost about $75. A mechanic can take care of the installation. We do not give names and adresses in this column. However, you can find the names of St. Louis dealers in the advertising section of the Sunday edition of the Post-Dispatch.

Q. Radio Editor: Please tell me at what great a distance I can hear your concert with a secondary coil and a crystal detector. J. M. C.

A. We do not understand what you mean by a "secondary coil." If you have reference to a loose-coupler, it ought to pick up signals from KSD a distance of 40 to 50 miles, using a crystal detector and an outdoor aerial 40 to 60 feet high and 80 to 125 feet long, with all connections soldered. The ground should be connected to a water pipe or several rods driven into the ground.

Sources of Trouble.

Loose connections, poor insulation, poor ground, poor joints and wires, worn insulation, wires crossing, and many other small matters may put a set completely out of commission.

101 MILLIONS TO BE SPENT FOR NEW STREETS

Missouri Ranks First, Contemplates Spending Twice That of Any Other State.

Figures compiled by the Department of Economics, Asphalt Association of New York, for the year August 1, 1921, to August 1, 1922, show that the cities and towns of the country during that time voted a total $101,421,275 for new streets. Bonds to the amount of $82,571,361 were actually sold. In addition, a total of $97,271,771 in bond issues for street construction have been proposed for future action.

While street paving in the cities and towns does not appear to show the big gains reported for rural highway improvement, nevertheless it is gaining steadily in all sections of the country as indicated in the reports to the Asphalt Association for August, this year, which show that street bonds to the amount of $6,483,655 were voted during the month compared to $5,428,055 voted in July. Bond issues reported proposed in August were $4,891,250, as against $2,743,000 in July.

Missouri's Outlay $27,505,000.

The reports for the entire year show that more street construction was contemplated in Missouri than in any other state. Missouri reported $27,505,000 in proposed street construction, while Texas, with $13,335,550, was second, and Minnesota, with $12,883,000, was third. Ohio, with $5,649,471 ranked fourth and Illinois with $5,400,000, ranked fifth. Ohio reported the most street bonds voted, the total value for that State being $18,616,131. North Carolina cities voted $7,432,000 for streets and Pennsylvania $6,736,500. New Jersey followed with $6,226,140. New York voted $6,081,977.

In the value of bonds sold Ohio again led all the states with $12,078,266. Texas, with $6,579,250, was second, and New York, with $5,743,130, was third. Nebraska, with $5,436,621 was fourth and North Carolina with $5,131,000 ranked fifth.

WILLS SAINTE CLAIRE BREAKS CLIMB RECORD

A Wills Sainte Claire roadster, stock car, broke all records in climbing the Palomar Mountain, San Diego County, Cal., on July 4.

This climb, with a grade conceded to be much more severe than Pike's Peak and 186 hair-pin turns, is 12.6 miles long and at the top has an elevation of 5800 feet. The Wills Sainte Claire roadster, in second gear all the way, made the climb to the very top of the peak in 31 minutes and 15 seconds. This clips 44 2-5 seconds off the best previous record.

This Woman Has Wonderful Sleep

After Taking Simple Intestinal Antiseptic Woman Sleeps Wonderful

"After taking just one bottle Adlerika (intestinal antiseptic), Oh, what a relief. I have had not one single pain in my side (due to gas on the stomach) and I now eat good and SLEEP WONDERFUL. I feel like a new person." (Signed) Mrs. Otis McGinnis.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicits and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr James Weaver.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and other leading druggists.

DR. HENRICH'S MESSAGE TO PILE SUFFERERS

"Investigate all things and hold fast to that which is good." This plan has made me successful and it should make you successful in your efforts to obtain the right kind of a CURE. I recognize no superior and but few equals in the practice of MY SPECIALTY. When you place yourself in my care you may rest assured that you will receive the very best Treatment obtainable, and that you will be Cured in the shortest time possible, with the least discomfort and expense, and you are not subjected to the inferior treatment of family physicians and surgeons.

I have made a study of PILES and other RECTAL DISEASES of men, women and children for many years. My statements will bear the strictest investigation, and my charges are moderate and within reach of all. I can furnish bank or personal references, as desired. My practice is strictly legitimate. I court publicity in all my work.

I have Cured hundreds. I make strong persons out of weak. If your physical condition is impaired from Piles, Fistula or Fissure, YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF to seek and obtain good health at once.

DO NOT WAIT. NOW IS THE TIME FOR ACTION. STOP DRIFTING. CHANGE YOUR COURSE AND YOUR FUTURE WILL HAVE A MEANING.

Don't be afraid that I will ask you more than you can conveniently pay me, or that you will ever be charged anything without getting what you will value more than the charge I make.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE YOUR PILES FOR LIFE. I don't want any person to pay me unless I cure them so they will stay cured. I cure my patients so they are satisfied and always glad they came to me. I guarantee this by a Guarantee Certificate, under my hand and seal. No other specialist does this. Call for FREE EXAMINATION AND ADVICE, or write for full information before taking treatment, as you will find my charges lower and My Treatment quicker and better than elsewhere.

I use no knife, no scissors, no chloroform nor ether, and cause you no pain. Don't postpone it. Delay is dangerous. Call this week or Write today for Testimonials.

DR. COFFEE SAYS:
If You Suffer With Deafness, Head Noises or Catarrh You Can Probably Find Relief by His New Treatment. Here Wednesday and Thursday.

We call attention of our readers to Dr. W. O. Coffee, one of the most widely known specialists in this country. If you suffer with partial deafness or head noises or catarrh of the nose, head, throat, system or diseased tonsils or diseases turbinated he has a special method of treating these diseases without a surgical operation. He has been using his nonsurgical method for over 25 years, treated over 20,000 cases of catarrh, catarrhal deafness and head noises, especially cases where the hearing is quite bad in one ear and just getting started in the other, that grow worse with each cold, that have crackling or other kind of noises in the ears and that come from catarrhal conditions. He says most of these cases can be materially benefited or completely relieved. He has treated over 1000 cases in his St. Louis offices. He treats over 50 patients a day and making many remarkable restorations of hearing. He says catarrh is a constitutional condition and has to be treated through the system and blood as well as the nose and throat, but each case should be curable. J. R. Meyer, East St. Louis, Ill., had catarrh, deafness and head noises 20 years; completely relieved. Mrs. Minnie Schierer, 3210 Pestalozzi street, Almost totally deaf, suffered 48 years; hearing being rapidly restored. J. W. Proctor, 3120 Whittier street, almost totally deaf in one ear 26 years, hearing restored almost normal. J. C. Patterson, Elmer, Mo., 86 years old, suffered with catarrh, deafness and head noises eight years, completely relieved. If you suffer with deafness, head noises or catarrh of the nose, head throat or system he will examine your case, tell you what the condition is, whether you can be benefited by his method and explain his treatment. He will do all this free of charge. He wants to talk to and examine every person with catarrhal deafness or head noises and especially catarrh. He has published several booklets and pamphlets on his treatment of catarrh, deafness, head noises, eye diseases and cross-eyes. If you cannot see him in St. Louis, write him, describing your case. He will send you the booklets free. He says many people suffer with stomach troubles and neuritis, caused from catarrh. He has established permanent offices in St. Louis, rooms 408-9 Odd Fellows Bldg., 816 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo. He is in these offices every Wednesday and Thursday. Office hours, 9:30 to 4:30. He will treat no patients outside of these hours. He is absolutely responsible; devoted 39 years to this specialty and over 25 years to his special non-surgical treatment. If you suffer you need not hesitate to consult with him any Wednesday or Thursday.

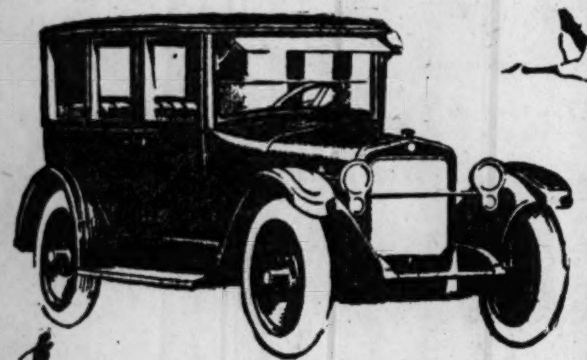
GARDNER MOTOR COMPANY SHOWS STEADY ADVANCE

An authoritative report recently released shows the Gardner Motor Co., Inc., of St. Louis, with sales figures amongst the leaders of the automobtive industry. In units of production, among approximately 90 passenger car manufacturers, this company ranked seventeenth in June and sixteenth in July.

The Gardner Motor Co. passed many of the large and prominent automobile manufacturers. Closed car orders call for over 50 per cent of their total output on all models.



WILLS SAINTE CLAIRE

Soon we shall hear him again—Gray Goose—flying southward to his winter refuge—calling to his fellow travelers of the night—high in the reaches of the autumn moon. To him no perils or terrors of the darkness.

Engineering has given the Wills Sainte Claire a new element of security and comfort in night motoring. The brilliant headlights are raised or lowered by a steering column control. A backing light (turned on with reverse gear) and the courtesy light (on roadster and phaeton) add vastly to your motoring luxury.

Buick

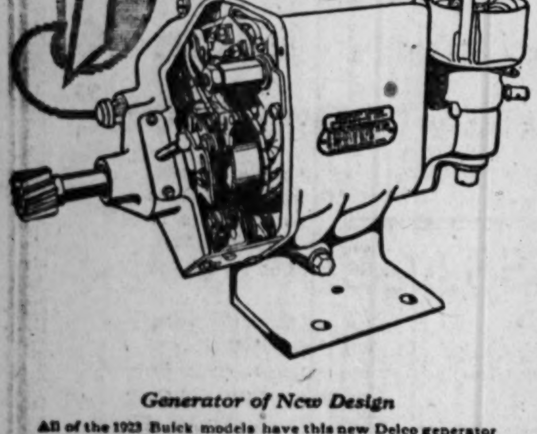
A Perfect Companion for Work or Play

The 1923 Six Cylinder Sport Touring—$1675

Equally suited to the rigors of everyday business driving and to carefree outing tours and social motoring, the new six cylinder sport touring combines the well known Buick sturdiness and dependability with a snappiness and sparkling beauty that mark it as a distinctively smart motor car.

Rich, contrasting colors, set off with brightly polished nickel radiator and fittings heighten the sweeping lines of the long wheelbase and body. The roomy seats are upholstered in fine embossed leather, and every driving and riding comfort and facility are provided. Clock, speedometer, cigar lighter, gasoline and oil gauges, lighting and ignition switches and ammeter, long, nickeled gear shift lever, windshield wiper and rear vision mirror are among the convenient details that are standard equipment.

New rear spring suspension, and snubbers on the front springs have brought greater riding ease while the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine has been so refined as to increase its traditional power and dependability.



Generator of New Design

All of the 1923 Buick models have this new Delco generator so designed that brushes and commutator are kept free from dust and excess lubrication, increasing their wearing qualities. The distributor is provided with a standard pressure lubrication fitting

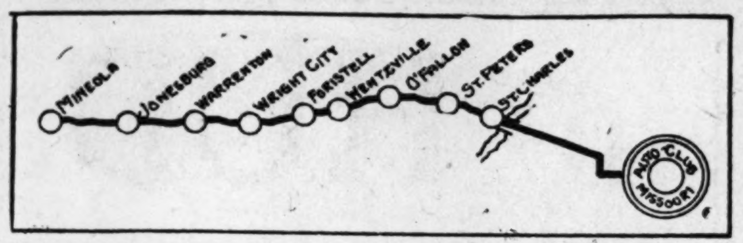
Route to Mineola



TRIP TO MINEOLA OVER DIRT AND GRAVEL ROADS

Resort Noted for Its Hills and Scenery, Ideal for Outing.

To Mineola, a summer resort on the Lautre River, approximately 90 miles west of St. Louis, on the National Old Trail route, and return, is the twenty-third of a series of automobile tours to be offered motorists each Sunday by the Post-Dispatch and the Touring Bureau of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

This trip, although picturesque, is over dirt and gravel roads the majority of the distance, and is anything but a joy ride when compared to some of the concrete highways in Illinois and hard surfaced roads of St. Louis County. It is advisable not to attempt the run immediately after a heavy rain.

Mineola is noted for its hills and beautiful scenery. The resort consists of a large hotel and a new dance pavilion, which faces the Lautre River.

The route is by way of St. Charles, St. Peters, O'Fallon, Wentsville, Wright City, Warrenton, Jonesburg to Mineola. The road as far as St. Charles is concrete. From St. Charles to Wentsville the road is gravel. The balance of the trip, with the exception of a few short stretches, is over dirt roads.

The complete log of the jaunt is as follows:

00.0 Automobile Club of Missouri, 3230 Locust street, north (right) on Leonard to Washington, west (left) on Washington to 02.2 Kings highway north (right).
03.1 Easton (left.)
04.7 Wellston, straight through on concrete.

NOVEL DEMONSTRATION GIVEN BY G. M. C. TRUCKS

"The last word in tests for trucks," says Vance Day, sales manager of the General Motors Truck Co., Pontiac, Mich., "is the combination ramp and perpendicular wall. If a truck will walk up the ramp and then 'stand on its hind legs' until the rear end of the chassis drags on the ground, while the front wheels climb the perpendicular wall, you can be sure that you have a truck with all the power and traction you are ever likely to need.

"This type of test," added Mr. Day, "was really evolved as the result of an accident. One of our trucks got off the road and into a sandbank one day and when the driver started to pull out he was headed right into a straight wall. He put on the power and the truck started to climb the wall. It kept on until the rear was in contact with the ground and the rubber in the rear tires started to burn and smoke.

"To demonstrate the pulling power of the two-range transmission, we have used the combination ramp and perpendicular wall in several parts of the country. When the front wheels begin to climb the wall, there can't be much argument about the power present, and the truck's operation under such unusual conditions is conclusive evidence that the element of traction has been scientifically planned and arranged for.

STAR CAR DELIVERIES TO BE MADE THIS WEEK

The first deliveries of the new Star car in St. Louis, Durant's latest creation which sells for the same price as the Ford, will be made the early part of this week, according to an announcement made yesterday by H. W. Spalding, president of the Spalding Motor Co., distributor for the Durant and Star car in St. Louis and adjacent territory.

The first shipment consisting of several car loads left the factory at Lansing, Mich., early last week, and are due in St. Louis tomorrow.

Studebaker
LIGHT-SIX

CLOSED CARS

COUPE-ROADSTER
$1225
$1550

Present prices are the lowest at which Studebaker Light-Six closed cars have ever been sold.

Yet the intrinsic values are emphatically the greatest Studebaker ever offered. This means they are the best values that the industry affords, because Studebaker cars have always been above par in the amount of value per dollar invested.

Capacity production and the savings resulting from Studebaker methods of complete manufacture make these low prices possible.

Light-Six closed cars are sturdily built of finest materials and best workmanship. The bodies are the product of Studebaker skill and craftsmanship, and the prices of $1550 for the Sedan and $1225 for the Coupe-Roadster are no index to their inherent value.

When you buy a car you want to look at several makes. Include Studebaker in your list and after you have ridden in the Light-Six Sedan or Coupe-Roadster it will not be difficult to make up your mind.

The foundations of Studebaker success are quality, durability, comfort and integrity—principles that have been upheld steadfastly by Studebaker for seventy years. You can depend upon Studebaker automobiles because of the name they bear.

EQUIPMENT

The Studebaker Light-Six Sedan has four doors that swing wide open; dome light; mohair velvet plush upholstery; inside locks on three doors and outside lock on right-hand front door; silk roller curtains.

The Coupe-Roadster seats 2 passengers; ample space under rear deck for luggage; upholstered in genuine leather.

Both models have thief-proof transmission lock; cowl ventilator; side coach lamps; rain visor; windshield wiper; eight-day clock.

TRUCK DEALERS TO DISCUSS ARRESTS

A meeting of the Commercial Car Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association will be held tomorrow noon at the Marquette Hotel.

The meeting, to which representatives of the St. Louis Truck and Team Owners' Association and representatives of the tire dealers in St. Louis have been invited is for the purpose of discussing the arrests of truck drivers in East St. Louis because of the width of tires used on their trucks, and the new ruling made in Granite City and Nameoki forbidding the use of certain streets by trucks over the two-ton capacity. J. E. Mack, vice chairman of the bureau, will preside.

Each of the new 1923 Haynes 55 sport models is fully equipped with modern and improved accessories, while the cars themselves are made more attractive with de luxe super-appointments, such as six disc wheels, with six tires and tubes, the two extra wheels being mounted on the sides of the body at the front; polished protection bars at the back of the body; a trunk that conforms to the shape of the body, mounted on new design trunk rack; a nickel-plated radiator, ornamental radiator cap and headlights; Boyce motometer; special Haynes design sun and vision visor; latest style windshield wings on the sport touring car and sport roadster. The open cars are trimmed in brown Spanish leather. Bumpers are standard equipment, both front and rear, on all of the new models. The clear vision top of the sport touring car and sport roadster is furnished in either black or rubberized khaki as standard equipment. A cloak strap adds to the completeness of the appointments.

All of the new 1923 sport models are mounted on a 121-inch wheel base chassis, and are finished in deep maroon color. The Haynes cars are distributed in St. Louis by the Wilson Motor Car Co.

"FAIR-PLAY ON THE HIGHWAY"

Today, the motorist in this country is fast approaching the majority rather than the minority class of citizens. Consequently, he is a person to be reckoned with and one deserving of "Fair-Play on the Highway."

At the present time the transient motorist is having a hard time of it when in towns and states not his own and "Topics of the Day" films are championing him with a plea for fair-play. The message tells its own story:

Many rural communities are having their advancement retarded by the attitude of their officials toward transient motorists. Abandon the idea that every automobilist is to be milked, mulct and bilked to supply fees for justices and constables, and amusement for court (?) loafers. It's a detriment to local business men. Harassing the automobilist drives potential investment away. Every community owes its growth to the outsiders who visited it. Close your town to visitors and you die of dry rot.

Traffic is increasing daily and methods of regulation must be devised to handle it safely and fairly, as well as expeditiously. A conspicuous example of excellent handling of motor traffic is that of the State of Connecticut. The State strives for the friendly assistance of the motorist in accelerating traffic and preventing accidents. As Connecticut is the gate-way to New England, the system has been put to a hard, practical test. This effort toward the prevention of violations rather than the trapping of violators is proving most successful.

Maryland Votes to Join N. M. A.

The Automobile Club of Maryland has voted formally to affiliate with the National Motorists' Association.

This action means that the Maryland organization will sever its relations with the American Automobile Association.

The membership of the Automobile Club of Maryland totals approximately 6000 motorists. It is made up of individual owners, not only of Baltimore and vicinity, but with representation throughout the State of Maryland.

The New Gardner Sedan

When such important qualifications of closed car value as equipment, comfort, convenience, appearance and price are considered, the Gardner Sedan gives a good account of itself.

With 32 x 4 anti-skid cord tires—sturdy drum-type headlamps—tilting steering wheel—dome light—Perfection heater—it embodies every detail of equipment and refinements that could be desired in a closed car.

The interior is draught-proof and weather-proof. Ventilation is controlled by adjustable windshield, cowl ventilator and rotary-type door window lifts, while a permanent metal sun visor increases the safety and comfort of driving. With full five-passenger seating capacity—all four doors open wide, providing easy entrance to both front and rear seats.

The full weight of the car is carried on axle housing rather than on axle driving shaft, thus relieving the propelling mechanism from all save driving strains. This is an exceptionally important feature in closed car construction.

The new Gardner Sedan is a real quality job—at a price that puts the family pocketbook back in the picture.

Your druggist carries a thousand and one items for your convenience and welfare. Always "Try the drug store first."

"—because it acts in 30 minutes to two hours"

That is the reason your druggist recommends Pluto Water. He knows that, in cases of constipation, prompt relief is essential for the protection of your health. 80 per cent of all sickness finds its source in the intestinal tract.

Pluto acts in 30 minutes to two hours. Being a water laxative, it gently and completely flushes the system. There is no griping, and no unpleasant after effect.

The safe plan, of course, when there is sickness, is to call a doctor. The timely use of Pluto, however, will often forestall sickness. That is why thousands of homes always keep it on hand. Stop at your druggist's today — take home a bottle of Pluto Water.

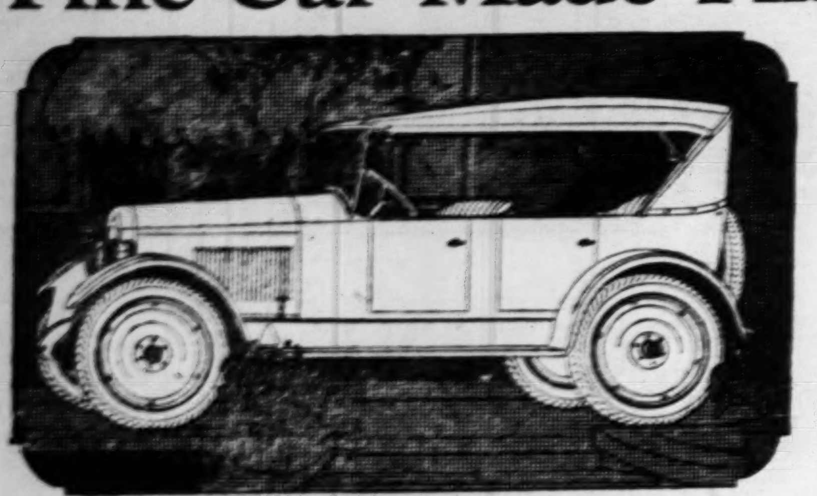
A Fine Car Made Finer



Announcing the Jewett Special—$1095

The Jewett Special is now ready for your inspection and once again we promise you a genuine surprise.

Here is a touring model of this sturdy Paige-built 50 horsepower Six that without doubt you will declare is as smart in appearance as anything you have yet seen on the road.

That will be your first impression. Then examine the car closely. Observe the nickel radiator, the beautiful moleskin gray finish on body and hood. Note the disc wheels with demountable rims and outside valve stem—a factor of both beauty and safety. Then examine the special Spanish hand-crushed leather upholstering, gray in color to harmonize with the body.

When you have finished checking up the numerous features of this beautiful and distinctive car, then will come the pleasantest surprise of all—the price—only $1095 f. o. b. factory, just $100 more than the standard job.

At that amazing figure there is nothing on the market today that approaches the Jewett Special in beauty, equipment or value.

The dull grey film that "won't" come off your car

— how to remove it

Soap and water won't budge it.

Neither will any ordinary "polish"—

Nor "strong-arming."

You know because you have tried them all.

Yet it can be removed with as little labor as it takes to use a simple oil polish! But in one way only. And that, with COMMON-SENSE THE GREASELESS CLEANSER!

WHAT COMMON-SENSE IS

Common-Sense Polish is a non-greasy, liquid cleanser for automobiles only. Perfected after years of scientific experiment, it is hailed by experts as contributing as much to "appearance value" maintenance as the pneumatic tire to easy riding!

Common-Sense literally starts where ordinary oil and paste "polishes" leave off.

That is to say, unlike any other preparation you have ever used, it does not depend upon a false lustre for its effect, but—

By REMOVING all grease, road oil and grime from the surface, it actually cleans the dullness away, restoring the ORIGINAL FACTORY LUSTRE with its sparkling sheen of NEWNESS!

No greasy, dust-gathering surface. No milky smear! BUT—a clear surface, smooth as glass, Bone-Dry and Dust-Proof!

UNIVERSALLY ACCEPTED

Results with Common-Sense are amazing. Already more than 100,000 of America's leading garages have discarded old-time preparations in its favor, while it practically Monopolizes the Sale of Polish in Every District Where Introduced!

WHERE TO BUY COMMON-SENSE

At the Department Stores, or your nearest Druggist, Accessory or Hardware Dealer has it, or can get it for you promptly. The first application will add at least $150.00 to the appearance of your car, but will cost you only $1.00. Will be mailed, postpaid, to any out-of-town address, direct from the laboratory, upon receipt of $1.00.

Dry As Bone!

F. W. A. VESPER PREDICTS BETTER AUTO BUSINESS

Next Five Years to Be the Best for Reputable Dealers.

That the next five years will be the best ever known to the automobile dealer who conducts his business on the right plan and the worst for the one who fails to merchandise his wares in the proper manner was predicted by F. W. A. Vesper, president of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co., Thursday evening before a large gathering of automobile dealers from Alton, Edwardsville, Belleville, East St. Louis and St. Charles, who were guests of the members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

Vesper related the conditions that formerly existed in the automobile business and his experiences.

Vesper also stated that an automobile dealer today must be a real merchant and conduct his business on a dignified plan if he hopes to succeed, and, above all, must make up his mind that he is in business and not in a game, a moniker hung onto the automobile business many years ago.

He also called attention to the importance of educating the salesmen to a higher plane and the necessity of keeping all departments of the business shining and looking as immaculate as a brand-new car.

Phil Brockman, president of the De Luxe Automobile Co. and president of the Police Board, who also was one of the principal speakers at the meeting, spoke on traffic regulations.

Brockman stated that he hoped that the day was not far off when there would be an ordinance that would compel the pedestrian to cross at crossings and not be allowed to dart from behind machines and zigzag across the street. He also stated that motorists are reluctant in obeying traffic rules when there is no officer stationed at the principal crossings, such as making lefthand turns, leaving motors running while the car is stopped, driving in the center of the street instead of near the righthand curb, passing street cars too soon and driving with improperly focused headlights.

He also stated that there is a necessity for a uniformed highway police system under the jurisdiction of the State for the safety of motorists. It is his plan to have the entire St. Louis Police Department equipped with a radio system for the apprehension of criminals within the next year.

Other speakers were E. A. Hatfield of the Mississippi Valley Motor Car Co., who addressed the meeting on the used car problem. H. H. Walker of the Dorris Motor Car Co., who spoke on service, Joseph H. Schlecht of the Mound City Auto Co., on selling new cars, and J. R. Meyer of the Belleville Automobile Dealers' Association; A. Bothman, president of the Madison County Association, and L. J. Windly of the St. Charles Dealers' Association.

The meeting was the first of several planned by the St. Louis automobile dealers for the purpose of the out-of-town dealer and the distributer. It was decided that the association would not hold a fall automobile show. H. F. Fahrenkrog of the Kardell Motor Car Co., president of the association, presided.

DYER LAW HAS REDUCED AUTO THEFTS

The Dyer anti-theft automobile law, named for Congressman Dyer of St. Louis, has emphatically justified its presence on the statute books. Since October, 1919, more than 2000 automobiles, valued in excess of $2,500,000, have been recovered by the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. More than 1000 motor car thieves have been convicted and sentenced to terms in the penitentiary, and, what is more important, the ratio of thefts has steadily declined since the passage of the law.

The Dyer law places the interstate transportation of stolen vehicles under Federal law and makes such action punishable under the Federal laws. Before the passage of this act there had been built up a great and growing traffic in stolen automobiles, conducted by bands who maintained assembling factories at various points and who through their ability to transpose parts of various machines, one to the other, were able to so alter a stolen car as to make it practically unrecognizable to the owner. State law failed to reach those men.

At the present time the Automobile Club of Missouri, in conjunction with the A. A. A., is endeavoring to have all motor car manufacturers to mark all automobiles in such a manner that it will be impossible to destroy identification. Considerable progress is being made in this move.

ARKANSAS-LOUISIANA HIGHWAY FINISHED

The Arkansas-Louisiana highway, pronounced one of the finest roads in the South, is now completed, according to information received from the State Highway Department. The entire system is now open to traffic.

The road is 153 miles long. It cost approximately $2,500,000 and was three years and six months in course of construction. A total of 114 miles of the road is asphalt surfaced, while 11 miles are macadamized and 28 miles graveled.

In Arkansas the road traverses Lincoln, Drew, Desha, Chicot and Ashley counties. One branch of the road extends from Grady through McGehee, Lake Village and Eudora to the Louisiana line. The western branch of the road connects at the Louisiana line with the road to Monroe.

Operators who make it a habit of resting the feet on the clutch and brake pedals will wear out the clutch collar, making it noisy, and sometimes cause the brakes to drag. The best position is to have both feet near the pedals ready for instant use.

Standard of the World

More and more Buyers are attracted by Type 61 Value

THERE is one very safe and sure guide to follow in selecting a quality automobile, and that is the number of people buying it.

In this respect, as in others, the majority is usually right, and its choice of a quality automobile is usually the right choice.

One need only refer to the number of people buying the Cadillac to know that it enjoys this majority preference.

The fact is that more people are purchasing the Type 61 Cadillac than purchased any previous Cadillac model.

What is even more important, sales of the Type 61 exceed those of all other cars combined selling at the Cadillac price or higher.

Such a conclusive expression of favor for the new Cadillac, we believe, has a significance which cannot well be mistaken.

It means that the public recognizes in Type 61 a new high point in Cadillac efficiency and value.

And it means that an ever-increasing majority of buyers of high-grade cars regard Type 61 as the greatest automobile value in the world.

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Monday, September 18, 1922.

50 Auto Drivers Arrested in North Side Last Night on Headlight Charge

Police of the Mounted District last night in North St. Louis arrested 50 operators of automobiles for violation of the ordinance regulating headlights. Thirty-one were charged with having glaring headlights and 19 with having insufficient or no lights.

Wing Lens

A product of superior principles complies with all State and City laws everywhere. The Wing Lens shades all the light from the upper left portion of the lighted area, so as to shield the approaching driver. The darkened area does not impair your driving light since it is all above the height of your lamps.

WINTERFRONT

The New Automatic

Radiator Cover

The "WINTERFRONT" completely covers and protects the radiator while it is cold, but automatically opens after the radiator temperature has passed 140 degrees F.

The "WINTERFRONT" is a simple and extremely effective device and represents to the automobile in cold weather what an overcoat represents to you. Gives driving comfort by keeping air under hood warm, preventing cold from entering driving compartment.

The motor kept warm by the "WINTERFRONT" is easily started, eliminating strain on the battery.

The "Winterfront" can be had for all makes of automobiles.

MOTORISTS ASKED TO SIGN PLEDGE BY A. A. A.

Pledge of Carefulness Issued in Connection With Safety Program.

Officials of the American Automobile Association are asking their members throughout the country to sign the "Pledge of Carefulness" issued by the Highway Education Board of Washington in connection with its safety program for 1922 and the national safety essay contest for elementary school pupils. The pledge follows:

"Realizing my responsibility as an American citizen to secure the safety of others by careful conduct on the streets and highways, and,

"Realizing that the accident and the death toll of my nation, state and city can best be reduced by thoughtfulness and carefulness,

"I pledge myself to be considerate of the rights of others while on the streets and highways; to learn and observe traffic rules and regulations to the best of my ability; to co-operate in a campaign of carefulnes, either as a pedestrian or as a driver of a vehicle, and I will, by precept and example, endeavor to assist others in making streets and highways safe."

Children to Observe Safety Week.

The Highway Education Board conducts each year a safety program which includes the "Safety Season," from Sept. 10 to Dec. 16, a national safety essay contest among elementary school pupils, the national safety lesson contest among elementary school teachers and the observance of "seven days for safety," which this year will be from Oct. 8 to Oct. 14, inclusive.

The national safety essay contest last year drew responses from thousands of school children all over the country and the A. A. A. believes that this participation by school children is one of the greatest factors for safety, both future and present, that is conducted in the United States today, as it educates the future citizen of the country in safety methods.

The endeavor of the association through distribution of safety posters and literature, talks in the schools, motion pictures in the various theaters and other means of propaganda is to reduce the toll from traffic accidents. With the ever-increasing number of automobiles using the highway safety precepts are becoming an increasingly important part of every school curriculum and automobile owners all over the United States are taking a constantly greater interest in measures designed to make the highways more safe.

Contest to Close December.

The subject for the safety essay contest this year will be "My Share in Making the Highway Safe," the essays not to exceed 500 words. The contest is open to pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, 14 years old and under. The essays must be submitted not later than Dec. 4. The contest embracing the practical lesson teaching safety on the highway, not to exceed 3000 words is open to all elementary school teachers and this contest, like that for the students, closes on Dec. 4. Handsome national, and state prizes are offered in both contests.

24-HOUR SERVICE ON RECHARGING BATTERIES

Announcement is made by the Battery Service Co., Willard distributor in St. Louis, that a new plant capable of charging 96 batteries in 24 hours, enables the company to furnish a battery free while the original is being charged.

The new system which is known as the Constant Potential System, does away with charging batteries in series, each battery having individual connection with busbars connected with the generator. It is claimed that this does away with the necessity for introducing "resistance" and thus wasting current to regulate the potential to individual batteries.

The charging which now requires only 24 hours formerly took from two to three days. The total capacity of the Battery Service Co.'s plant is 800 batteries, says W. O. Suhre, president of the company.

Paris policemen are now provided with motor cycles that can carry four other officers of the law in the side car.

WILLYS-OVERLAND ANNOUNCE PRICE CUT

A cut in prices of Willys-Knight and Overland automobiles effective Sept. 18, was announced by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Co., last Monday.

The reduction in the selling price of the Willys-Knight brings that car's price to the lowest level at which any car equipped with a Knight motor ever was sold.

Under the new list prices the Willys-Knight five-passenger touring car, which, during the spring of this year sold at $1525 and more recently at $1375, is now to be had at $1235.

The Willys-Knight five-passenger sedan is reduced in price $145 from its former price of $2095, making its present cost, under the new list prices, $1950. The Willys-Knight roadster, formerly $1350, is cut to $1235, and the Willys-Knight coupe from $1875 to $1795.

The Overland car is reduced to $525 for the touring model and the roadster to the same amount from their former price of $550. The coupe is dropped from $850 to $795 and the sedan from $895 to $875.

Willys-Overland Co. have just completed the largest July and August business in the history of that company, having already built more cars than the entire year's plans for 1922 called for.

Driver discourtesy must not be tolerated as it creates public opinion antagonistic to highway transport.

GRAY CROSS-COUNTRY CAR DUE THIS WEEK

The Gray touring car on its economy test run across the continent is expected to arrive in St. Louis the end of this week. Leaving Los Angeles last Sunday, the Gray has encountered all kinds of roads and weather conditions in its journey through the Western States.

No effort is being made toward speed, but only to establish authoritatively the operating cost under all manner of conditions.

Undoubtedly the worst roads on the cross-country trip have been conquered and the results in gasoline consumption have been very pleasing. It is believed that the Gray has established new records, although neither the driver nor Capt. Walton, the observer, can give out any figures until the Gray finishes its trip in New York City.

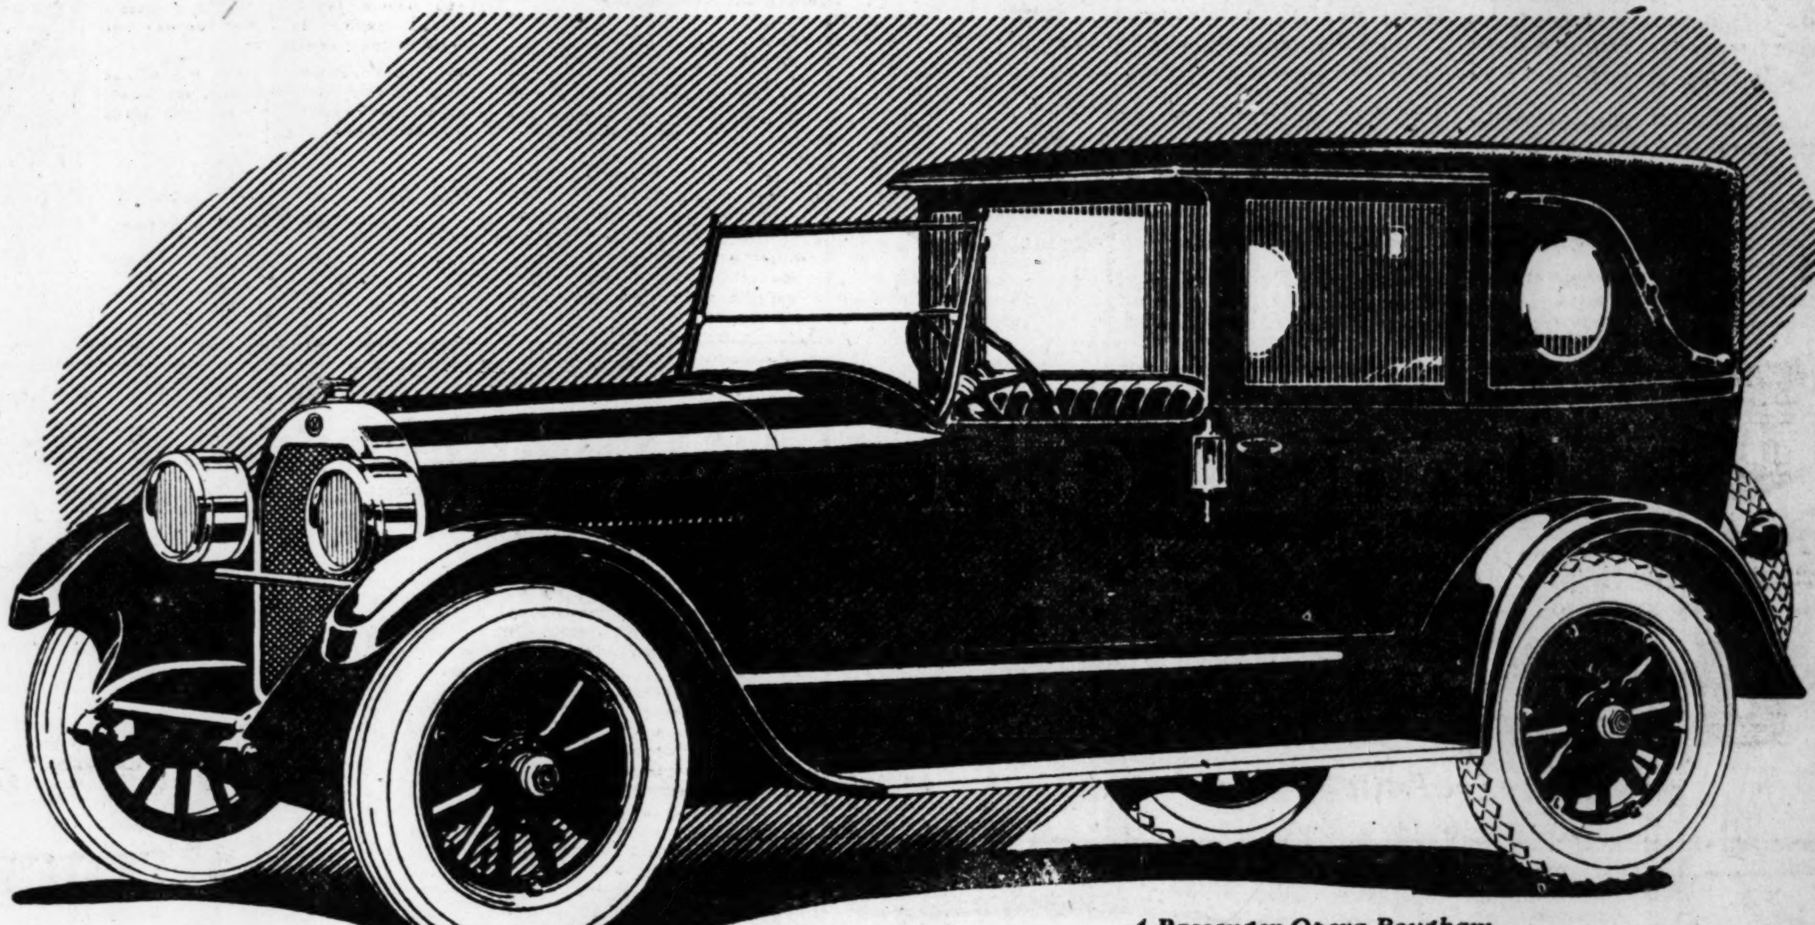
The cross-country car left Denver several days ago, proceeding east via Grand Island, Omaha, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis, thence to Chicago and eastward.

Cole Increases Production.

The Cole Motor Car Co. reports that during the first month of production of the New Ultra Series Cole 8-90 sales have increased 62 per cent over those of the preceding month and 49 per cent over those of the same month for 1921.

The average motor vehicle travels 21 miles daily.

Power That Seems To Have No Limit



4-Passenger Opera Bougham

Through the medium of the new Peerless Eight, America is now learning to what greater heights the power, sustained speed, and ductility of fine eight-cylinder construction can be carried.

It is learning the thrill and the enjoyment of power that seems to have literally no limit.

Power that comes with a rush that leaves you almost breathless; yet it is yours to command as you will.

Power like this, in its exuberant force, is probably found in the special cars built for the track.

But we are certain that no stock car heretofore has incorporated such power, with such power-control.

In the exquisite grace and beauty of the new Peerless Eight, there is little hint of its might.

But ten minutes at its wheel will serve to convince the most experienced motorist that for fine behavior and ultimate ease, its like has not been built before.

SOCIAL ECONOMY SCHOOL TO OPEN REGISTER TOMORROW

Two New Courses, "Current Social Movements" and "Crime and Treatment" Offered.

The Missouri School of Social Economy, 2221 Locust street, will reopen tomorrow for registration for the fall courses, which open the following day. Dr. George B. Mangold says there has been an unusually large advance registration, both from the city and states throughout the Southwest. The school is conducted by the University of Missouri, and offers courses in principles of economics and sociology, and problems of public health, municipal welfare, organization and function of social agencies and sanitary science.

Two new courses will be given this year, both of which will be taught by Miss Bessie McClenahan, assistant director of the school. They are, "Current Social Movements" and "Crime and Its Treatment." Dr. Mangold will have a special course on "Labor Problems," and there will be a series of 10 weekly lessons on family budgets by Miss Nina Brumstead, who, during the summer, was director of the demonstration cottage of the Detroit Visiting Housekeepers' Association. Miss Grace Anderson will direct the department of public health nursing, with courses for trained nurses.

German Opera Season Opening.

The German Theater Society will begin its third annual season on next Sunday evening at the Eagles' Auditorium, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. There will be 30 performances, on successive Sunday nights. The members of the company include Lore Duino, Lena Weingartner, Grete Hilmer-Maertens, Clara Gefrer, Anna Prinz, Otto Reuter, Felix Marx, Paul Nelva, Kurt Herrnfeld and Adolf Hertel. Gustav Hilmer, a well-known German actor, will again serve as director, and also take part in the performances. The musical director is George Buddeus.

LARGE INSURANCE FIRMS TO LEND ON PROPERTY HERE

New York Life Company Is One of Those Which Will Make Surpluses Available for Loans.

PRUDENTIAL ALREADY HAS ENTERED FIELD

Influx of Capital Expected to Revive Many Large Building Projects Held Back by Lack of Funds.

By Berry Moore.

Several large life insurance companies, whose surpluses have not been available for real estate loans in St. Louis, now are making arrangements with trust companies and with leading real estate agencies to lend money on real estate in this city, according to reports in real estate circles.

These include, among others, it is understood, the New York Life Insurance Co., whose vast resources have been an important factor in real estate development in New York, Chicago and in other big cities, but which had not established itself in St. Louis in this capacity. This is ascribed to the fact that St. Louis, prior to the world war, was manifestly over-built and values were not stabilized, as a general thing.

As a result of the cessation in construction, during the world war, the situation is the reverse of what it formerly was. The demand for both residential and business purposes now greatly exceeds the supply and values have increased in proportion. The position of the city, from a real estate viewpoint, accordingly, is challenging the attention of the big insurance companies and other interests with surplus money available for first mortgage loans or deeds of trust.

Prudential Enters Field.

The Prudential Insurance Co. recognized the advantages of St. Louis as a real estate investment several months ago, when it appointed James M. Franciscus, president of the Franciscus Realty Co., agent to lend its money on first deeds of trust in St. Louis, on both residential and business properties, with liberal provisions for reducing loans.

This influx of capital doubtless will revive many large building projects for which plans have been completed, but which have been held in abeyance because of lack of capital. While a specialty is to be made on loans in residential districts, there will be no dearth of insurance money for legitimate building enterprises in the business districts.

The Hemmelman-Spackler Real Estate Co., the Mercantile Trust Co., the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co., the First National Co., and the Simon Van Raalte Investment Co., with one or two exceptions, are the only concerns in St. Louis through which large scale real estate loans on the serial or debenture plan can be made. Several large insurance companies which contemplate lending money on real estate here have been dickering with the Hemmelman-Spackler Real Estate Co., for whose loans there is a wide demand and which is regarded as one of the staunchest real estate and financial establishments in St. Louis. Edward L. Bakewell also is offering large loans on downtown property.

Twelve-Story Building.

The International Life Insurance Co., whose headquarters are in St. Louis, in the International Life Building, Seventh and Chestnut streets, is scheduled to finance a 12-story building projected for the site on the west side of Grand avenue, between Olive street and Washington boulevard. As now outlined, the International company is to occupy five floors of the proposed building, which is to bear its name. Plans for this structure have been made by Preston J. Bradshaw. Its construction is contingent only on the successful outcome of negotiations now pending with Moses Schoenberg for a 99-year lease of the site.

DR. R. H. SCHLUETER BUYS HOUSE FROM DICKMANN FIRM

The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 4063 Magnolia place, a seven-room modern bungalow, 40x100 feet, with hot water heat, for the account of Carl G. Schoelch of the Schoelch Contracting Co., to Dr. Robert H. Schlueter, for a home.

Other sales were:

3963 Shenandoah avenue, lot 30x150 feet, and five and six room single flat, for the account of Louis Dudenhoefer, to Fred D. Richards of Swift & Co.

4039 Shaw avenue, 30x150 feet, four and five room single flat, for the account of Alice Godbey to William M. Taggert. This is the fourth time this building has been sold by the Dickmann firm during the last two years.

Northeast corner of Shaw and Lawrence avenues, 70x170 feet, seven-room modern bungalow, for the account of Walter O. Schaefering, to John F. Powers, proprietor of the Edison Hotel.

3709 Connecticut street, 30x150 feet, single five and six room flat, for the account of Eugene A. Freund, to Nellie St. Cyre.

2814 Lafayette avenue, 40x130 feet, modern home, to Louise Hemsen for the account of Helene A. Luyties.

4644 Ashland avenue, 40x150 feet, five-room modern home, for the account of Sarah Silver, to Robert M. Gates.

4003 North Taylor avenue, 30x130 feet, five-room modern bungalow, for the account of B. E. Kersting, to William Weigel.

5418 Virginia avenue, 27x120 feet, three and three room single flat, sold for the account of Frank Restetzky, to Joseph Niemeier.

All parties in the above transactions were represented by the Dickmann company. The firm also reports loans to the amount of $110,000 and an active demand for dwellings of all characters.

BUILDING PURCHASED HERE BY NEWTON (IA.) COMPANY

The Cherry Blossoms Co. of Newton, Ia., has leased the four-story and basement building at 1449 North Sixth street for a long term of years. This building contains about 15,000 square feet and will be used by the new tenant for the manufacture and distribution of cherry blossom extract.

This firm selected St. Louis as a distributing point because of the central location, as it distributes its merchandise to all parts of the United States. Their location is within a few blocks radius of seven railroad depots.

Extensive alterations will be made in the building and this company will occupy it as soon as the alterations are completed.

The lease was made by Martin & Breitt for the account of the Holthaus Saddlery and Auto Supplies Co.

REALTY SALES REPORTED BY BLAKE & BROTHERS CO.

The John S. Blake & Bro. Realty Co. report the sale of 4106-08A Russell avenue, double flat of four and five rooms, for Ben Moscowitz, who was represented by the John Abbott Realty Co., to a client of this office; 5863 Etzel avenue, seven-room residence, for Dr. R. A. Michell to Dr. C. C. Presnell; lot, 60 feet front on north side Westmoreland drive, Maryland Terrace, to R. A. and G. B. Bullock; 5164 Enright avenue, nine-room residence, for E. S. Meyer to F. W. Flint; 4173-75A De Tonty street, double flat of four rooms and two open porches each, for Anderson-Stocke-Buerman Realty Co., to a client of this office; 4020-22A De Tonty street, double flat of three rooms each, for a client of this office to John Gleasman.

SCHOLLMEYER COTTAGE PLAN REPORTED WELL RECEIVED

The A. R. Schollmeyer Real Estate Co. reports an enthusiastic acceptance of their proposition to build small frame cottages for the man of moderate means on the monthly payment and "do-some-of-the-work" plan.

The company will build a frame cottage of two or more rooms, the interior work being left incomplete, with the buyer putting in his work and a small cash paymen, thus increasing the property's value month by month. This plan has been worked in other cities, but the A. R. Schollmeyer company is the first to put it in operation here. Plans and full particulars may be had at the subdivision office in "Parkside," three blocks east of Gravois avenue, at Bates street.

Jost-Miller Reports Sales.

The Jost-Miller Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 6133 Waterman avenue, a new brick residence of eight rooms, for Mrs. Charles H. Flach to Lansing F. Smith; 4220 John avenue, two-story frame of six rooms, for F. W. Nedderhof to Charles Henckler; New brick bungalow on north side Richmond place, east of Pennsylvania avenue, for C. R. Fickes to Felix Feroni.

FEWER FRESHMEN AT WASHINGTON THIS FALL

Chancellor Hall Believes This Is Because Business Depression Crimps Many Families.

The freshman class of Washington University, which will open its sixty-sixth year Thursday, will be fewer in number than last year, due, Chancellor Frederick A. Hall believes, to business depression, rather than any decline of interest in higher education. The total enrollment probably will exceed that of last year, 5069, due to increases in the upper classes.

"The effects of the business depression now are being felt by the family in moderate circumstances," Dr. Hall said. "In times of ease, many persons in even moderate circumstances can, with sacrifice, send their sons and daughters to college. But, following a long period of business depression, the average family finds it impossible to meet the additional expense, that is, fewer average families, even with sacrifices, can give the privileges of college education to their children.

"The women's colleges, both large and small, apparently are to be crowded. The situation educationally is the reverse from what it was a quarter of a century ago. Then the son was supposed to be educated in preference to the daughter, if both could not go to college. Now, parents feel their daughters must have an education, whereas the son is supposed to be able to fight his own battle, if the parents are unable to provide him with means.

"I am told that at Washington University about 40 per cent of the students meet their university expenses wholly or in part by working through the summer, and, in many cases, throughout the year, at some occupation which can be carried on in connection with their studies.

Students Settling Down.

"It isn't quite fair to say that the sons of rich families are not interested in their studies. It isn't fair to say that in many instances they do not develop into the highest type of manhood. On the other hand, an excessive amount of money is likely to prove a handicap.

"Statistics at Washington University show, in the last year, a considerable improvement in the character of the work done by the student body, as compared with the years immediately following the war. Throughout the country, last year showed a steadiness of purpose among the students that was not in evidence upon their return from war experiences. Educational matters are getting back to a normal situation."

WANSTRATH REPORTS LOANS OF $89,000 AND SEVERAL SALES

George J. Wanstrath reports having made loans amounting to $89,500 last week, and made the following sales: For Joseph B. Mettler and wife, 5731-33 Spalding avenue, a brick double flat, to a client of Charles Roeder; for Fred Press, a single flat, 3811-11A Labadie avenue, to Frank Bering and wife; for L. F. Boedeker, a new five-room bungalow, 1524 Agnes avenue, to Margaret M. Goodall.

JOSEPH MEEHAN PURCHASES HOME IN GURNEY COURT

Joseph Meehan, president of the Meehan Grocer Co., has purchased one of the homes in Gurney Court from the William Remmert Construction Co. Recently Meehan purchased from Wayne Stedlon the site at 818 North Broadway upon which has been erected a building to accommodate the increasing business of the Meehan Grocer Co.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

F. H. F.—The mean temperature of June of this year was 78.2 degrees, of July 78.8.

L. L. K.—The width of Twelfth street at its widest point between Washington and Market is 110 feet from curb to curb, the sidewalks are 20 feet wide.

DE SOTO.—The tool which you refer to as "drawing knife," is a carpenter's tool named draw-knife. 2. A hockey club is used in playing the game of hockey.

INTERESTED.—A course in library work may be taken at the St. Louis Library School, Thirteenth and Olive streets. Information concerning qualifications may be had by applying there.

M. D.—The Polk-Gould Directories, 204½ North Seventh street, can be referred to for addresses of all concerns in this city and other cities. The Board of Education is always interested in new ideas and methods of teaching the little ones.

H. H. T.—We have no record of a nickel 5c piece dated 1832, the 1832 5c silver piece is worth 6c to 15c. The half dime dated 1848 is worth 5c to 15c; of 1856 and 1861, 5c to 10c. Coin encyclopedias can be obtained at the book shops.

CONSTANT READER.—Interesting articles about the lives, careers and ages of moving picture stars can be read in the motion picture magazines. The Sunday and often the week-day theater sheets of the newspapers print interesting articles on movie gossip.

15-YEAR READER.—An old established mailing house considers the following the speed of the average girl in addressing envelopes, etc.: Fair speed in addressing on the typewriter would be 125 envelopes an hour; folding of circulars 200 an hour; inserting, 1000 an hour; sealing envelopes, 2000 an hour; stamping, 1500 an hour.

J. G.—The Banner-News is the daily paper of St. Charles, Mo.

JESS.—In the United States the cultivation of the pomegranate is confined to the southern part of Florida and the warmer parts of California, as the tree is tender, being injured by a temperature of 8 to 10 degrees below freezing. In some portions of the South the plant is used for hedges. It is propagated by cuttings of both green and ripe wood, by layers and by grafting. The finest morocco leather is said to be tanned with the rind of the fruit, in the Eastern countries.

FAN.—Baseball became the National Game in 1885, although it was played to some extent as early as 1840. The first baseball club was known as the New York Knickerbockers, which was organized in 1845, and the first match game was played at Hoboken, N. J., in 1846. The first rules governing baseball were made in New York City in 1857, and the National Baseball League was formed in New York City during the same year. The first champion team was that of New York, in 1858, but it was not until 1868 that a salaried team was in existence. The National League was formed in 1876, and the American League in 1881.

C. R. B.—To transfer designs, Henley's Twentieth Century Home Book of Formulas gives the following process: To transfer designs on painted surfaces, cloth, leather, velvet, oil cloth and linen sharply and in all the details with little trouble: Take the original design, lay it on a layer of paper, and trace the lines of design accurately, with a packing needle, the eye of which is held by a piece of wood for a handle. It is necessary to press down well. The design becomes visible on the back by an elevation. When everything has been accurately pressed through take for dark objects, whiting formed in pieces), lay the design face downward on the knee and pass mildly with the whiting over the elevations; on every elevation a chalk line will appear. Then dust off the superfluous whiting with the fingers, lay the whiting side on the cloth to hold it so that it cannot slide, and pass over it with a soft brush. For light articles take powdered lead pencil, which is rubbed on with the finger or limewood charcoal. For tracing use oil paint on cloth and India ink on linen.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

W. A. B.—If the type is not what the seller represented it was, you can sue him.

WORRIED WIFE.—Under the circumstances or under any you are not responsible for your husband's debts.

BEN.—You should consult a good lawyer, as the questions involved are questions of fact more than questions of law.

J. V.—Six months' residence in the county in which the suit is brought, is necessary in a divorce suit in Nevada.

B. K.—You can sue them out in a Justice of the Peace Court and can also sue for your rent. The old couple can be served by leaving a summons at their home with a member of their family.

OH TED.—Report the facts to the Prosecuting Attorney at the Municipal Courts Building. The woman can be prosecuted for molesting you, and you can also sue her for damages for the libellous letter which she wrote.

E. J. B.—Whether you have to pay for the phonograph depends upon the terms of the contract which you signed. If they carried insurance on it, you do not have to pay, and certainly you would not have to pay the full amount, as they took back the motor.

W. A. M.—If it can be proved that the personal property was held by the man and wife as joint owners, on the husband's death the property would go to the wife, not to the husband's estate. If it was merely owned and used in common the husband's share of it would go to his estate.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

D. J.—We do not give advice on the dyeing of hair.

F. H. W.—The fracture of the terminal bone of the spine would not cause a disturbance in breathing. It would be well to have an examination of the lungs, heart and kidneys.

SAD WIFE.—There is no drug or remedy which will prevent a person drinking alcohol. The desire to stop must be sincere and even then successful treatment requires institutional care.

I. B. T.—The reduction of fat in any certain region is hardly practical. The best method is to reduce the body fat generally by diet and exercise. The excess fat in the "upper stomach" and the arms, no doubt, is caused by the practice of drawing up the folds of fat and supporting them with the corset.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.—1. In our opinion the State Board of Health is now compelled to grant graduates of the college mentioned the same rights as students of other colleges in the State. 2. The same answer would apply to your second question. 3. No one can tell now whether further legislation will be introduced in this matter, but the present issue is settled as we understand it.

SUBSCRIBER.—To cure the disease itch proceed as follows: 1. Provide clean underclothing, clean bedclothing and clean night clothing, which is to be used and not changed, until the completion of the treatment. At the completion of the treatment clothing must again be replaced by clean clothing and the clothing used during the treatment must be removed and well boiled, to prevent reinfection, and the outer clothing ironed by a very hot iron, especially about the neck and the ends of the sleeves. 2. Take a hot bath of soap and water, using and rubbing well with a coarse wash cloth, to break down any lesions on the skin in which the itch might be lodged. No other baths until the completion of the treatment. 3. Rub in thoroughly, in every inch of the skin below the chin, the following ointment, which should be well made and smooth, and rubbed in night and morning until five rubbings have been done: 4 drams washed sulphur; 4 drams balsam of Peru; 2 ounces lanolin; 2 ounces vaseline. Make into smooth ointment. 4. The night or morning following the fifth rubbing, take a hot soap and water bath, after which all clean clothing should be used. It should be borne in mind that the ointment may for a few days occasion an itching, and time should be allowed for this to pass. If a cure has not been effected the treatment should be repeated.

MINNIE SCHMIDT AND DAUGHTER.

Gratefully I wish to thank my neighbors and friends for their sympathetic kindness during the long illness of my beloved husband, John Schoch, also the members of the German American Benevolent Club, the St. Louis Germans Benevolent Society and the Cabinetmakers' Union, Local No. 1596, for their services and attendance at the funeral, and Mrs. J. Milton Critchfield and Mrs. M. J. Herzog for vocal and organ renditions, and Rev. H. H. Schroeder for his consoling spiritual advice in my sad hour of bereavement.
MRS. LIZZIE SCHOCH. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but sweet remembrance of our darling son, Frank Henry Meyer, who departed this life Sept. 26, 1915.
Sadly missed by PARENTS.

In loving memory of our dear son, Carley Vollmer, who passed away Sept. 24, 1915:
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by
FATHER AND MOTHER. (c)

In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Alice Mary Gallagher (nee Smart), who left us two years ago today. Sadly missed by MOTHER, SISTER AND MANY FRIENDS.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Louisa Scholl, who died Sept. 22, 1920. Gone but not forgotten. Sadly missed by her SON AND DAUGHTER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Corp. Walter M. Blakely, who gave his life for his country four years ago, Sept. 26, 1918.
Sadly missel by
FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER.

In loving memory of our dear son Vernon Schultz, who departed this life four years ago, Sept. 25, 1918.
Sadly missed by PARENTS.

In loving memory of our beloved godfather and friend, Louis McKinley Brawn, who departed this life on Sept. 29, 1921.
Sadly missed by
HOFFMANN AND BERNZEN FAMILIES. (c)

In loving memory of Thomas R. Daly, who departed this life Sept. 30, 1920. Sadly missed by sister and brothers and all who loved him. (c)

In loving remembrance of our dear sister and aunt, Hattie Kleiberger, who departed from this life Sept. 22, 1915.
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by her sisters, brothers, brothers-in-law and nieces.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Fluchel, who departed this life one year ago, Sept. 25, 1921:
Sad and sudden was the call,
Our dear mother, loved by all;
We little thought on that day
Our dear mother would be called away.
Sadly missed by THE FAMILY.

In loving memory of John Morrison and Rosanna Morrison:
Mamma and papa, just five years since you left us,
To go away up there to dwell.
But, oh, mamma I miss you more and more each day.
Your daughters,
MRS. MARY CLODFELTER, MRS. JULIA MILLER AND THOMAS MORRISON. (c)

In memory of my beloved husband and our dear father, Conrad Schmitt of 3015 Lemp avenue, who departed this life Sept. 26, 1915:
Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.
Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving memory of my dear brother, August H. Wilkens, who departed this life Sept. 24, 1915:
Surrounded by friends, I am lonesome,
In the midst of pleasures, I am blue,
A smile on my face, still a heartache—
Aching and longing for you.
Sadly missed by sisters,
EMMA SCHROEDER,
TERESA KENNARD.

In memory of our dear son and brother, Henry Schmid, who died Sept. 27, 1921:
A precious one from us is gone;
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memories fade,
Loving hearts shall always linger
Around the grave where you were laid.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND SISTERS.

In memory of Olinda Clausen, my dear wife, who died Sept. 28, 1921:
One year ago we laid to rest my loving wife.
She left behind a baby dear, who was her mother's joy.
Missed by relatives and friends, who loved her smiling face. But when death to us doth call, she will welcome us in heaven above, where the love and peace of God is everything to us all.
Sadly missed by husband, baby, relatives and friends.

In loving memory of our darling boy, Lloyd R. Lickiss, who passed away at Great Lakes Training Station, Sept. 21, 1918:
God's golden sun is shining upon our loved one's grave;
The one we loved so dearly, for you our hearts doth crave;
And when we lost you, loved one, we lost our dearest pal;
We love you and we miss you and forever shall.
So rest in peace, dear loved one, your face in heaven's bower;
The day when we shall meet you grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by
FATHER AND MOTHER.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Hattie Younkin, who departed this life one year ago, Sept. 26, 1921:
She bade no one a last farewell,
She said good-by to none;
Her loving heart has ceased to beat,
And before we knew it she was gone.
And when we lost you, mother,
We lost our dearest pal;
We love you and we miss you
And forever shall.
Sadly missed by her sons,
FRED A. AND MERL E. WATERHOUSE, and everyone who loved her. (c)

In loving memory of my beloved son and our dear brother, Richard Thomas Wideman, who died Sept. 27, 1918:
We little thought that on that day,
My dear son would be called away.
He shall never be forgotten, never from our memory fade;
Loving hearts will always linger around the grave where he is laid.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, BROTHER AND SISTER; MRS. H. WIDEMAN AND FAMILY.

In sad but loving remembrance of Charles R. Birkel, who departed this life one year ago today:
The golden sun is shining upon our loved one's grave;
The one we loved so dearly and tried so hard to save;
And when we lost our loved one, we lost our dearest pal;
We love you and we miss you, and forever shall.
So, rest in peace, dear one; you're safe in heaven's bower,
The day when we shall meet you grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by wife and son,
GERTRUDE AND CHARLES BIRKEL.

In sad and loving memory of our beloved mother, grandmother and mother-in-law, Mrs. Annie Boltas, who departed this life one year ago, Sept. 24:
God's golden sun is shining upon our mother's grave;
The one we loved so dearly and tried so hard to save;
And when we lost you, mother, we lost our dearest pal;
We love you and we miss you, and forever shall.
So, rest in peace, dear mother; you're safe in heaven's bower.
The day when we shall meet you grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by her husband, William Boltas, and all who loved her.

BE "slow in choosing" a "store," slower in changing; for 11 years we have been "slow and careful" fighting for "low prices" for you. We'll let you "listen" in on these big values at $15, $18 and $20 suits; save 25 to 40 per cent. Additional 10 per cent allowance on suit when "cashing a soldier's bonus check" in our anniversary sale. We've got it on the world for selling "clothes at the rock-bottom prices." What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you: These fine garments are made by manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for salesmen; they are made better than the regular goods; after they show them off, we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit. This policy enables us to save you money. All we ask is to "go shopping around" first and come here last. Buy more, pay less. Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau, all lines transfer to our door. "Abrams, the Place to Buy Clothes," 926 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau av.

YOU CAN'T "GYP" THE PUBLIC AND GET AWAY WITH IT

Take it from me—a good used car beats a cheap new one seven ways from Sunday. And a Yahlem Used Car is the best and cheapest on the market. I'm telling you something. I've been in the used-car game long enough to become the biggest used-car dealer in the West. And I didn't grow on conversation. Bargains, quality, terms and satisfaction did it.

High-brow knocks, indirect slams and beautiful language don't mean anything. I am accused of talking in plain language. According to the dope I'm handed, I ought to get a college professor to write my ads. But I'm a plain guy, and I deal with plain people. If I used jaw-breakers in describing my cars, would that add to the value? I want the public to say: "Yahlem talks my language. He's my kind."

A few years ago, my stock in trade was two cars. Today I have more than 100 in stock all the time. How come? Demand for Yahlem cars. Why? They can't be beat—or even equaled. Treat a man white and gradually all his friends will know it. Gyp him once and all the cockeyed world will know it in a minute.

After all, I don't ask you to take what I say at full value without investigation. Those who know me, know that what I tell them is straight goods. It's up to you to find that out, too.

But what I wanted to tell you most of all today, was about the slew of good cars that are on sale at my two stores, 4524 Delmar and 1035 N. Grand. Didn't you know that I had just bought that building on Delmar? Surest thing you know. Give it the once over.

Rebuilt Automobiles

The twenty-eight thousand dollars invested in high-grade rebuilt Cars does not mean that we are overstocked with renewed automobiles. It means instead, that The Diesing Motor Sales Co., in anticipating the wants of the buying public have deviated from the regular policies of the house, in holding the used car stock to a minimum, have got together one of the most complete lines of rebuilt Hudson and Essex Cars ever offered in St. Louis. Furthermore, we intend to keep our used car stock, at all times, to its maximum. In conclusion we do not intend to mislead by saying that this is a sacrifice sale offering, the reason usually given by the average used car dealer.

For eight days we will sell any car on any terms that are at all reasonable. We have arranged to entertain during the evenings, while the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk Carnival continues, with radio concerts.

Remember, if you are a good risk, you can own one of our Hudson or Essex automobiles.

ROMANCE. TRAGEDY. LIFE IN THE LONDON TIMES' "AGONY COLUMN"

Daily divertisement of American tourists is to read these "Personals" and try to figure out the story concealed in each cryptic advertisement—Here follow a few specimens with hit-or-miss interpretations of the "agony" in each.

> WAZOO.—Yea, Fourth, all will surely rise some day; writing.—Dish Bird.

THAT'S English, don't you know! Yea, English as she is understood by Wazoo, whoever Wazoo may be. It is, no doubt, code English, appearing, as it does, in the illustrious "Agony Column" of the London Times. That column, always on the front page, marked "PERSONAL," is the most distinctively English thing about the great British newspaper of today and yesterday which some call "The Thunderer." From immemorial times, almost, the agony column has been a daily necessity for the Britisher and an every-morning amusement for the American within London's gates. It is a British institution, as is the Tower of London, or Westminster Hall; and as such it is a subject of keen study by the New World tourist seeing London.

It cost Dish Bird 10 shillings, or about $2.50, to insert that small ad telling Wazoo that "all will surely rise some day" and that he or she was writing. Ten shillings is the minimum charge for an ad in the agony column. That is for two lines; each additional line costs five shillings.

The value of the agony column, to an American, lies chiefly in its mysteries. Americans love mystery stories. Some of them who visit London and peruse the agony column aver soberly that "there's a story in every ad—a mystery story, a love story, maybe, a tragedy, perhaps; and it's a fine mental exercise to read those 'personals' and set one's imagination working, to the end of filling in the details."

One is inclined to wonder, in the first place, just why Dish Bird spent $2.50 telling Wazoo that all will surely rise some day, when he or she was writing anyhow and it costs only a penny to post a letter.

The mystic "Yea, Fourth," no doubt, is codified confidence. Sherlock Holmes might expand it into a complete novelette, or E. Phillips Oppenheim into a book-size thriller. Many things those words might mean, but that doesn't explain why it was worth $2.50 to print them there. So in that little two-liner we find unexplained mystery enough to keep us guessing indefinitely. Dish Bird also expresses a fine spirit of optimism—another quality demanded in present-day fiction.

Another optimist in the column is Pom. Probably a poet is Pom, who has read Walt Whitman, the Ultimate Optimist, and no longer worries whether school keeps or not. Witness:

> LAL.—Still jogging along the high road, but happy anyway.—Pom.

That looks like an easy one to work out to a finish. Lal, quite likely, is Laura, lady love to Pom. She has thrown him over, given him the mitten, told him to be on his way. But Pom is not going to toss himself into the Thames, nor will he eat prussic acid on his bitter bread—not Pom! Nay, Pom is not that kind. Pom is high-hearted, Pom is not cast down by being cast off, Pom sings "Vivas to those who have failed!" and he sets forth, afoot and light-hearted, on the open road—he calls it the high road—and he is jogging along, happy in spite of the unresponsive Laura's command that, in American lingo, he proceed forthwith to beat it.

Still, why didn't Pom, who may be none other than Peter O. Marsden, thus seeking sillily to conceal himself in his initials, spend a postage stamp and tell Laura, in plain prose, that single blessedness exactly suits him and he continues to have the knack of being happy regardless?

> W. A.—Nothing like a fine start. Cheers. S. Y. V. at O.—E.

There's another. Now, who is W. A.? Male or female? William Archer or Wilhelmina Abercrombie? And E—is E just Uncle Ed cheering on Nephew Bill, or Evaline making known to Will that she is rejoiced at his getting on; or is it Edwin assuring Wilhelmina that he's proud of her for landing the job in silk hosiery at Selfridge's big store, even though she did throw him over so that she could carve out her own career?

Well, let's make a definite beginning and translate W. A. into Wilhelmina Abercrombie, new-style daughter of a belted Earl. Wilhelmina, scorning mere family pride, goes into trade—opens a beauty parlor, let us say. Edwin, second son of a third-rate Lord, loves Wilhelmina devotedly, but can't send letters to her at the beauty shop because Annabelle Billiken, the attendant, is a curious-minded minx and opens the envelopes by melting the mucilage in the beautifying mist bath, resealing after reading.

That S. Y. V. at O. means, of course, "See You at 5 (V means 5) o'clock at Oxford." So simple that it sounds almost silly!

> FLYAWAY—Come to 5. Maude, Mother very ill. Everything forgiven. Warning—Leave Fred.

That one is different. Real agony there. Tragedy—girl gone wrong, maybe. Ran away with Fred, a good-for-nothing. Ashamed to communicate with family. Probably 5 is street number. Mother may be very ill, and she mayn't be. Tricks in all trades, and sometimes the "mother-ill" trick is employed.

> S.—May see you within the week. I shall look for you at usual place.—76.

That's simpler. "76" is just out of prison and is using his number. S. is Stealthy Steve, who was his cellmate. "76" is up to tricks—got a job on, going to rob 10 Downing street, perhaps, if Mr. Lloyd George doesn't object. Or, maybe S. is Sarah the cook and "76" is the neighbor's butler, who knows that Sarah, like all cooks and scullery maids and second girls and society girls and daughters of Earls and Dukes in England, reads the agony column clean through before breakfast every morning. He has given Sarah that mystic number, and he knows she'll read his agony ad and be there on the dot.

> W. C. W.—Must see you or write. Please send address.—LIL.

Any journeyman fictionist could expand that two-liner into any number of romances. And, at that, it may not be a love story at all. It may be that Lillian has lost track of the fellow who promised to put her into the movies because she has the witching eyes, and she feels sure that when he sees his initials flashed out in big type that way he'll remember her, even though she be but one of the 327 simple maids he fooled with that lure.

Still, of course, it may be that Walter Conyaghan Watkins has danced divinely with Lilly at the Plumbers' Helpers' Grand Ball and proposed to her on the spot. She has told him to look in the agony column for her answer. Then, after thinking it over, instead of putting a mere "yes" or "no" in the column, she seeks an interview or an address to which to write and ask Walter why it was that he told her he was making four pounds a week as a taxi driver when, as she has discovered since, he is heir to a proud earldom and was out that night just on a skylark.

> ENID.—Certainly you were "quaint"; that no doubt accounts for the laughs.—FLAMINGO.

Now that one presents difficulties. It calls for expert diagnosis. Money in England is said to be scarce, and yet here is a fellow who spends $2.50 just to tell Enid that she was "quaint." But let us analyze this agony.

Aha! Spell Enid backward: it reads DINE! Flamingo, who is a gay gird, is making a dinner engagement at a cafe with some clandestine lady acquaintance whose name or code sign-manual is concealed somewhere in the phraseology. Might just as well interpret it that way as any other. The interesting thing about these agony ads is that they supply such an infinite variety of interpretations.

More than mildly mystic is this one:

> FAY.—Your Barbarian has packed his "grip;" how about you?

No signature. The Barbarian is the advertiser. He is all ready and ra'ring to go; but Fay, the shy, fairy Fay, has forgotten all about the engagement. 'Twas a week-end at the seashore the Barbarian had planned; and now Fay has up and upset the beautiful plan! Well, maybe, after all, she will take note of his agony and decide to let the Barbarian know, at least, that conscience, which is supposed to make cowards of us all, has made her brave enough to change her mind before taking the fatal step.

To continue the tale into the emotional, happy ending. Fay leaps into the arms of her husband when he returns to the flat that night, kisses him twice, thrice—nice! Husband, accustomed only to one compromise kiss and hardly a hug at all—since the honeymoon, you know—is mildly amazed. Women are queer creatures—especially wives. Husband realizes this fact more keenly when Fay, who has prepared him an extra-good dinner, including truffles and things, suddenly exclaims from across table:

"The Barbarian! Why, the very i-DEAR!"

Fay, of course, the husband translates, is thinking of the iceman who left only tuppence-happeny-worth of ice and charged a shilling.

And here we have a bit of philosophy sarcastically stated—$2.50 worth of agony with a sting in its tail:

> COURAGE preached by cowards adds insult to repeated injury.—J. V. C.

Handy arrangement that. Instead of meeting his enemy in the street and slapping his face, or sneaking up behind and sticking a stiletto into his back, J. V. C. spends money to hand him one in public, which, in the end, probably saves money, if not life and limb.

Now let us end this agony column with a real romance, fresh with the breath of youth, tingling with the tang of adventure, and profane it not by any philandering fancies as to the story it contains:

> UNKNOWN FRIEND.—Belated discovery amazing! Wish to thank you.—Eve.

Still, one simply must be permitted to express the hope that Adam reads the agony column every day and will discover Eve's tender message, even though it may raise Cain in his own household.

The Domestic Tragedy in the Life of Sir Henry Irving Revealed!

ing of pension of $500 to his widow, now 80 years old, brings to light the fact that she is in existence— For nearly 50 years they had lived apart, the only connecting link being their two talented sons both of whom are dead ::

ANNOUNCEMENT just made that the British Government has granted a pension to Lady Florence Irving recalls a wellnigh forgotten tragedy of more than half a century ago. She is the widow of Sir Henry Irving, who achieved, both in England and America, the greatest position of any actor of the Victorian era. So quietly has her long life been lived that many who witnessed the playing of Sir Henry and his two talented sons, now also dead and gone, hardly will recall that there is or ever was a Lady Irving. She is in her eightieth year.

The pension of $500 a year is in recognition of the services rendered to dramatic art by John Henry [illegible], that being the birth name of the famous actor. Lady Irving, it is stated, does not exactly need the pension, her son's widow, Mrs. H. B. Irving, having been not unmindful of her wants. The pension, [illegible] is regarded more as a compliment than as an absolute necessity.

Though surrounded by friends, a circle necessarily growing thinner with advancing years, Lady Irving is rather lonely, forlorn figure. She is of the far past, a pathetic holdover from the days of Henry Irving's young manhood. Never divorced, for more than 50 years she has been husbandless, so far as the man she married was concerned. He lived for 34 years after their separation, and so far as public records go the two were dead to each other all that time.

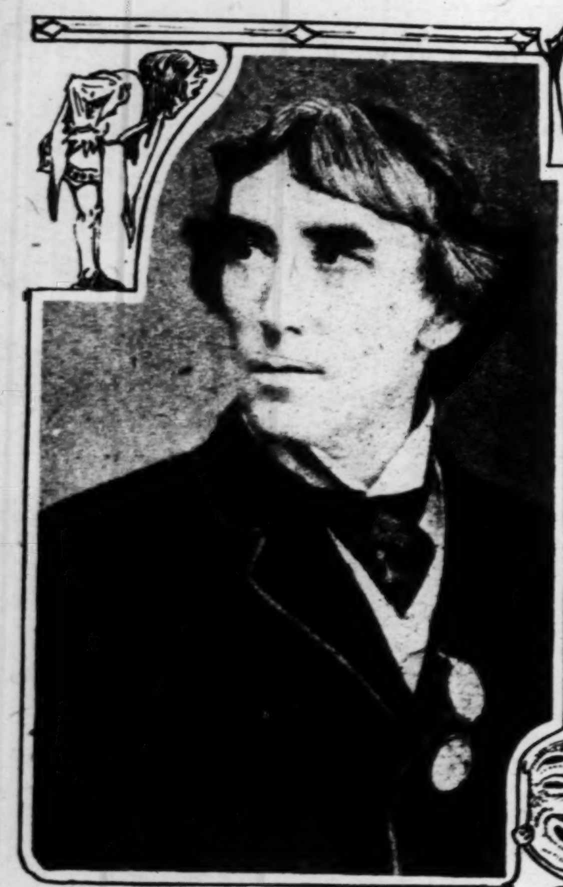
Lady Irving in recent years has lived in Kent, her present abode being in the town of Folkstone, where she has part of a house cut off from the rest, so that she enjoys all the amenities of a private residence. [illegible] her few remaining relatives by blood and marriage visit her, and occasionally a friend who knew her in happier days drops in for a chat. Beyond that, she lives in memories. She is the last leaf on the tree of the Irving tragedy.

It is interesting to note that almost simultaneous with the granting of this pension there has been published in England, the book not as yet having been published in America, a biography entitled "'H. B.' and Laurence Irving." It might be called, with nó exaggerative effort, "The Tragedy of the Irvings." In this book Austin Brereton, who for 25 years was an intimate friend of Henry Irving and for many years knew also his two sons almost as well, tells for the first time in book covers the story of the brief married life and the sudden separation of Sir Henry and Lady Florence. Accurately speaking, they were but plain Mr. and Mrs. Irving during their three years of marital association, knighthood coming to the husband years later.

What might be termed tragedy came into the lives of all three of the Irving men. Dying comparatively young, the two sons were cut off in their prime and [illegible] on the edge of high achievement in their chosen art. H. B., the elder, died in the October of [illegible] at the age of 49, from a mysterious disease that made him old before his time. Laurence, 16 months his junior, perished with his wife, Mabel Hackney, when the liner Empress of Ireland went down [illegible] 1914, in the St. Lawrence. He was only 44.

The tragedy of Sir Henry himself, who died in 1905, on Friday, the thirteenth of October, lay partly in his estrangement from his wife and partly in the fact that, despite his huge earnings on the stage, he lacked the money necessary to give his son a start in a diplomatic career. During most of his career of amazing artistic success Sir Henry seemed to be a "poor rich man."

When Henry Irving and Miss Florence O'Callaghan were married, in July, 1869, he was 31 and she was [illegible] Irving already was a distinguished actor. His wife was the daughter of an army surgeon who had [illegible] service in India, where she was born. The story of their married life is short and simple. [illegible] Henry Brodrigg, "H. B.," was born in August, [illegible] a little more than a year after the marriage. Laurence Sidney followed in December of the next year. Very shortly after the birth of Laurence, for reasons not made altogether clear, Henry Irving decided to go it alone. As was stated at the time of Sir Henry's death, by one who is said to have known the circumstances thoroughly, no question of morality or of feminine jealousy, arose. "It was merely a case of incompatibility of temperament." Irving was a coming-on actor, a genius in the throes of breaking into world-wide fame. His wife was not temperamentally, so it is left to assumption, to promote the progress of such a husband.



Henry Irving in 1878, at period when formal separation agreement was made

Sir Henry Irving in 1904, at the height of his fame.

Lady Irving, widow of Sir Henry Irving, in her 80th year.

H. B. and Laurence Irving, with a bust of their father.

Mr. Brereton, who already has published two biographies of Henry Irving, one in 1883 and the other shortly after the actor's death, in his third Irving book thus touches delicately the trouble between Henry and his wife: "For reasons which need not be entered upon, and may be put down to 'incompatibility of temper,'" the Irvings separated. About eight years later, in 1879, a deed of separation was signed, the mother taking charge of the children. For that matter, she had had charge of them since the separation.

Henry Irving, growing more famous from season to season, was living in a flat in London when, on a day in the early summer of 1883, a rather interesting incident took place—rather pathetic, too. Mr. Brereton briefs it:

"When Henry and Laurence came to their father's rooms on that June afternoon, although they were welcomed and made much of * * * they were somewhat constrained in their manner, a little, perhaps, disdainful. * * * The manner of the boys is not to be wondered at, for they only knew of their father by name and by the echo of his fame which reached them in their schoolroom."

It is set forth that Irving deeply deplored his separation from his sons. The boys, after this first embarrassing visit, came to realize their father's true character and to appreciate him. The father was grateful. He did what he could for his boys, but somehow he never had money enough to do what he wanted to do for them. Henry Irving made and spent fortunes, for he lived like a prince and was "generous to a fault." Always he gave out the impression of wealth; yet, when he died suddenly after a performance of Tennyson's "Thomas a Becket," he was said to have been almost as hard up as he had been in his youth. How hard up that was he indicated himself in one of his favorite stories. A certain actor was so poor that when winter came he had not been able to supply himself with clothing enough to keep him warm. He was invited to dine at a friend's house. This friend, also an actor, knew the other's plight. The young man entered the house shivering. His host, after a bit, suggested that the visitor might like to go upstairs and wash up for dinner. He took the shiverer up. In the bedroom was a suit of warm underwear hanging over a chair. The poor actor was minus underwear. His host left the room, but, coming back to the door, remarked, in a manner as casual as he could command, that the guest would better put on those things on the chair, as it was a rather cold day —and his voice broke on the last word.

Irving, of course, was the actor who had no underwear, and he never forgot the kindness of his friend. The dinner itself, he said, was a godsend; but for that invitation he must have gone without.

Mr. Brereton tells something of Sir Henry's earnings in later years: "Sir Henry Irving, in the period of his management (Aug. 31, 1878, to June 10, 1905), took over two and a quarter millions of money, in pounds sterling, from the playgoers of Great Britain and America. Notwithstanding these colossal receipts, his heavy expenditure in the theater, his lavish hospitality and his immense charities administered in private and of which the world knew nothing, left him a poor man. He was literally worked to death, and he died in harness, the result of an endeavor to pay his way. Some six years before, he had been forced to sell the greater part of his dramatic library. After his death it was necessary to dispose of his effects by auction, the net result of which was a sum over 14,000 pounds."

Laurence Irving was ambitious for a career in diplomacy. Says Mr. Brereton: "A considerable sum of money, as well influence, was required for those who entered the diplomatic service in those days. The influence was there, but the financial aspect was not roseate. * * * Unfortunately, although to the outer

“Divorce from the Wife's Angle”—A Bles

Judge Bartlett tells how economic independence brought freedom from domestic slavery — Corey-Gilman case first to bring Nevada's liberal laws to the attention of the public—What the wife-slave must endure in “little amorous excursions on the outside” by her husband :.

By GEORGE A. BARTLETT,
For Many Years District Judge in Reno and Twice Member of Congress.

ARTICLE II

THERE'S a poetic [illegible] adage that [illegible] that “the hand that [illegible] the cradle rules [illegible] world,” but it must be [illegible] mitted that “the hand [illegible] holds the purse-strings” does its fair share of [illegible] ruling!*

Feminine hands in ever greater numbers have [illegible] the purse-strings in re[illegible] cent years. This has [illegible] one of the most powerful agents in gaining [illegible] woman the civil and so[illegible] cial rights that she has sought.

NATION-WIDE publicity was first achieved by Reno through the Corey-Gilman case. The wealth and prominence of the parties to the suit, the romantic attachment of Mr. W. E. Corey for the chorus girl, Mabel Gilman, and the sympathy of a large part of the public for the “deserted” wife attracted unusual interest to Nevada and her liberal laws.

Mrs. Laura B. Corey, after several years of wedded life, and the struggle of early hard times, came to Reno in 1905, to sue for a divorce from her husband. The court records show that the legal ground was desertion; and never once does the name of the beautiful Miss Gilman appear.

Contemporary newspapers, however, supplied the blank in the lurid colors. The public devoured with avidity the reports of the magnate's infatuation for the stage beauty, many years his junior, which led eventually to his divorce and remarriage.

Though public sympathy went then to the deserted wife there were thoughtful persons, as always, who were reluctant to make unqualified condemnation.

It was as Galsworthy has written concerning one of his characters:

“He had a feeling that, since he alone knew all the circumstances of his case, he alone was entitled to blame or excuse himself. The glib judgments that moralists would pass upon his conduct could be nothing but the imbecilities of smug and pharisaic fools—of those not under this drugging spell—of such as had not blood enough, perhaps, ever to fall beneath it!”

Certainly that kind of “drugging spell” is one of the paths to the divorce court!

People will sometimes go to curious lengths to gain their ends. The “Allen” case before the Reno court in 1915 is an illustration.

Dr. William Blank (the name is fictitious) an entomologist in the Government employ, wrote to Reno that year, making inquiries about divorce probabilities. The reply, apparently, was satisfactory; shortly after the doctor, a woman called “Mrs. Allen” and the latter's three children came to Reno. Mrs. Allen and Dr. Blank each took immediate steps toward getting divorces.

Concerning the existence of a Mrs. Blank there was no question, but, as the Allen case progressed, the lawyers came to the astounding conclusion that there was no Mr. Allen! This was the story:

Dr. Blank, summering in Virginia in 1900 with his wife and children, met a kindergarten teacher. When all returned to Washington, she applied to Dr. Blank for some work out of school hours, and got it. She became friendly with the family; and gradually all of Dr. Blank's real estate holdings were discovered to be in her name. His wife vehemently protested. A coolness grew between her and her husband, while his friendship with the other woman increased.

In September, 1906, the kindergarten teacher's marriage to “Mr. Allen” took place. She claimed to have met him that summer in the course of her travels. She said she had consulted her friend, Dr. Blank, as to the advisability of marrying him—that Dr. Blank had urged her to do so and raise a family, offering to finance her if she needed it.

Nobody ever saw “Mr. Allen.” His “wife” said he was a railroad conductor, with headquarters in Pittsburg, but that upon marrying he gave up his job and took another, as secretary to a railroad man in Philadelphia. She didn't know the latter's address and her husband's, it appeared, was merely “General Delivery.”

Not long after the announcement of the supposed marriage, she was ensconced in a Washington flat. Three babies were born in rapid succession; yet, with Philadelphia only a few hours' ride away, no friends ever saw “Mr. Allen,” but were merely told he had been over.

Skeptical murmurs began to grow a bit disconcerting. Dr. Blank and “Mrs. Allen” proceeded to manufacture evidence of “Mr. Allen's” authenticity. They made him a bank depositor. They invented an explanation of his absence that would have done credit to a scenario writer. He had “done something,” they said, that made it unwise for him to appear in Washington.

In that city, they implied, “Allen” was supposed to have been drowned, but had miraculously escaped, concealing the fact of his escape even from his broken-hearted parents! That is why, the former teacher said, he visited her secretly. “Mr. Allen” was much grieved at the suspicions surrounding his dear wife. To allay them he “wrote letters” to her brother—and to Mrs. Blank, sanctioning the “friendship” of his wife and the doctor.

Dr. Blank was taken sick in 1914, he said, and his physician—strange procedure!—ordered him taken, not to a hospital, but to the home of Mrs. Allen, though she had three children to occupy her time, and was not a nurse!

Later he went to Florida, taking Mrs. Allen along to take care of him. She wrote a letter to her oldest boy, its main purport being to impress upon his childish mind the existence of “Papa Allen.” In the course of it, however, she said “Papa Allen” had called him a trilobite, because he had a funny little habit of nds of women today head their own business, or hold important and highly paid positions in those of others.

of these—in all likelihood most of them—started stenographers. Women ought to raise a monument to the humble typewriter!

se, you see what bearing all this has upon situation. Women need no longer be upon man for her bread and butter; the elements of desperation and anxiety in her are therefore materially lessened, and she to give freer play both to herself and to him their mutual status.

to women who have been wage earners about relations! Then talk to those who been dependent.

I held a conversation with one of the Her husband furnishes more than ample support, but there is no harmony in her married life. She with interesting frankness:

my husband makes little amorous excursions on the side. I hear about them from time to time, but I shut my eyes to them. It wouldn't do to show that I see them; there's no use in trouble."

would be completely terrified at the supporting herself, and, indeed, would be it in her accustomed style. No degree in her marital relation would be of leverage to swing her from her material is her questionable recompense.

man suddenly appeared who engaged and who was able and willing to assume of her support, this woman's vision clarified. She would see those quickly enough, and gain her freedom the strength of them.

who sees her way clear financially is much more initiative in making her happiness. If her marriage is a failure, again. The woman capable of supporting financial daylight. She throws aside the marriage incubus—when it proves to be.

"You never really know anyone until you live with them."

"The first year of married life is the hardest."

These are two formulas that have become household words, and both of them are entirely true. The second follows naturally from the first. Two human beings imperfectly acquainted (though they may have known each other for years) suddenly, through marriage, find themselves in an intimate association that reveals all sorts of unsuspected quirks and peculiarities, and calls for a strenuous process of mutual adjustment.

Sometimes the revelations are trivial and superficial, and the two slip into a groove of daily accustomedness with great readiness. Sometimes, on the other hand, they are not only completely unexpected, but of a nature to offer horrible violence to the sensibilities of the other person.

The case of Mrs. Mary Jones (the name is fictitious) against her husband, a minister in a little Eastern town, is an excellent illustration of the latter.

Twelve years ago the Joneses were married. They have two children of 8 and 10, for whose sake Mrs. Jones deferred as long as she could the proceedings that gave her back her freedom.

The man she married was very handsome, and, notwithstanding his calling, something of a dandy, having numerous suits of clothes and appearing in frequent changes. Her family did not approve of the match, but made the best of it; her father, a man of considerable wealth, supplied money for the wedding trip, generously enabling the young couple to travel in excellent style.

In each hotel, therefore, they took a fine room with a bath. Here came the first shock of the unexpected.

In the two weeks of their travels, this man of the many suits of clothes and the apparent personal fastidiousness, never once used the bath!

Her testimony showed that during their entire married life he continued not to bathe oftener than once every two or three months; he never thought of changing underwear or stockings, she said, until she took the worn ones away and put out fresh ones.

"He would go days at a time without washing his hands," she testified. "Even when he shaved, he would frequently just wipe them off."

During their entire courtship Mr. Jones had been the soul of consideration and solicitude for his fiancee's comfort. But the very first morning after their marriage these impulses seem to have died a sudden death. He ordered breakfast for both without consulting her tastes; and he read the paper as he ate.

"All during our wedding trip," testified Mrs. Jones, "he insisted upon our going to the ball games and sitting on bleachers in the burning sun, instead of consulting my wishes in any way whatsoever, even though my father was contributing the means so I could have a happy time."

The veneer of gentleness which was the badge of his profession wore away rapidly under pressure of close association. He had a violent and uncontrollable temper, which expressed itself frequently in his choking and abusing her. Sometimes his temper rages vented themselves, averred his wife, upon the children, whose little bodies would be black and blue from the attacks.

He sang and played beautifully; yet he would never do these things for his children, though they begged him to. In the pulpit, he urged upon his parishioners the value of family prayers; in his own home he refused to bother with them, except when company was present.

When she was an expectant mother—the only time at which tobacco smoke was distasteful to her—he would take cigarettes to bed with him, so that she would have to get up and go out!

Of course, not all desire for divorce grows from causes as flagrant as these. There are many and varied stages by which interest in another person, so absorbing at the start as to amount almost to obsession, may gradually lose its potency, turning into indifference or active distaste. To trace them would fill a volume in itself. Certain it is that often in marriage (as in everything else human) between anticipation and fulfillment are wide gaps. Sometimes these are bridgable and sometimes they are not.

It isn't the road that leads to disillusion, but the fact that the goal has been reached, that is pertinent, in an ultimate sense. But let us consider a few of the roads. Here is one:

The woman has started with glowing expectation of future happiness, based to a considerable extent upon the tissue of lies that has been woven for her by best-selling fiction. After a time, when the mists of romance have evaporated, she finds herself linked with one who is in spirit a complete stranger.

A coldness grows up between them. He does not notice it, being absorbed in other interests. But she, with more time and temperament for the romantic side of life, is aware of it; she chills and contracts under its influence. Like a plant, she seeks to withdraw from the chilling shade and turn toward the light. No more than the plant, probably, does she analyze all this.

But if "light," at the crucial moment, appears in the form of a sympathetic male, there's a fairly strong likelihood that she will make her way to the divorce court.

It may be that her husband is a gay Lothario. She discovers that the same charms which won her are exercised upon other women, and though jealousy sometimes feeds the flame of love, it is likely when sufficiently protracted to turn it into hate.

Sometimes the marital unhappiness demonstrates the truth of the dictum that when poverty knocks at the window love flies out of the door. It is only in story books that romance flourishes amid the hard grind of constant penny-wisdom. There are cases, also, where actual poverty is not involved, but where money limitations deprive the wife—the spoiled-child wife, in many of these instances—of luxuries to which she had been accustomed, or had hoped to attain through marriage. Discontent and bickering are the result.

These are a few of the devious ways by which the woman learns that marriage as it is, and as she dreamed it, are not identical. They are a few of the paths by which she travels to the divorce court. Almost invariably this is after considerable deliberation; she shrinks from the publicity, the expense and the general nervous strain, and usually takes the step only as a last resort.

In a very large number of cases she gets impetus and moral support through the presence of another man somewhere in the offing.

Not every woman headed for the divorce court gets there. Attempts at reconciliation occur, with varying success. Many a woman in Reno, not long before her case comes to trial, receives a letter or a telegram from her husband, or a visit from an intermediary.

Usually attempts at reconciliation are made before suit is actually commenced; but there are times when proceedings are stopped midway on the strength of it.

It occasionally happens, when efforts are successful, that after a brief try-out, they separate again; but in the main (judging by observation, since no statistics are to be had) there is some subtle change in the basis upon which they start again, and the renewed relation has better chance of weathering the storm than did the original one.

Perhaps it is because each has learned to expect less!

Reconciliation is more likely to occur when there are children than when there are none. Occasionally the wife agrees to make it up for flatly cold-blooded utilitarian reasons. There are times when the overtures leave her greatly agitated; she has an impulse to agree, and yet——

"I have tried this before," she ponders. "Is it wise? Will it work?"

Taking it all in all, when a marriage relation contains the elements and reaches the point where it seeks settlement in the divorce courts, it is likely to be a hollow shell that had best be broken—best, that is, from every angle of human happiness.

If one or the other had exercised a little more patience at a crucial moment; if at the first foreshadowing of breach, their mutuality had been such as to let them sit down in a calm, quiet discussion of the conditions they were up against; if a trip and a temporary separation had been possible at a time when too-prolonged association was getting them upon each other's nerves; if they had had twins at the end of the first year—if, if, if!

Unquestionably a stitch in time, in some matrimonial rifts, might have saved nine. But when the lesion is such that nine are needed—the divorce-court stage, in other words—the chances of mending are usually slight, and the crude patch that might be applied is more than likely to continue showing its rough edges.

THE SHOPLIFTING "FLAPPER" A NEW

Professionals not so numerous as formerly due to the more remunerative bootlegging activities of their men but the young girl amateurs, eager for the fine clothes declining wages put beyond their reach, try to steal them—Interesting stories of shoplifters and their methods :: :: ::

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

NEW tricks in shoplifting and new types of shoplifters add new thrills to the work of the department store detective, which work is not without its thrills even at its dullest season.

"We are getting them younger and of less experience," observed W. H. Jenkins, a former Pinkerton man, who has become a sort of supervising detective employed by the Retail Merchants' Association as adviser to the house operatives employed by all the large stores.

"The professional shoplifters are not so numerous as they were; possibly due to prohibition, illicit liquor dealing proving more attractive to men and women of this class," was his theory. "A new type of shoplifter is of the flapper description. Too much advertisement has been given this type. Where in former times a very young girl, conspicuous for her attire, would have been singled out for advice and discouragement, nowadays she is encouraged by the attention she is receiving, discussion and controversy for and against her, developing defenders as well as detractors, and the flapper assuming undue importance unto herself.

"Many of these girls are not earning enough with which to purchase the glad raiment, the silk stockings, the cosmetics and all the rapidly changing fashions that go to distinguish the flapper, but who yet would join the flashily dressed legion of their contemporaries, and so there come to be some who yield to the temptation of acquiring the joyous regalia by hook or crook.

"Then, too," added Mr. Jenkins, "there are those who a short time ago were getting high salaries, who now find it difficult to adjust themselves to lower standards. This accounts for many crimes whose perpetrators would not have been tempted had they not got a taste of better things."

Accounting for the change in type of shoplifters upon whatever theory, all the detectives agreed that Saturday afternoons and the noon hour when factories and office buildings disgorge their multitudes of supposedly honest working folk, now are the busiest periods in the store detectives' work.

Only the private records and recollections of the store detectives reveal the ways and wiles of the newer type of shoplifters, such cases apprehended for the first time rarely reaching the police reports, being usually dealt with by the store authorities themselves. A good scare, the threat of exposure, disgrace and the positive assurance that henceforth they will be under suspicion and watched in all the stores belonging to the association, usually averts a repetition when the offender is an amateur.

A frank confession and payment for or return of the goods, usually will stay the threat to report the indiscretion to husband or family. The written confession of a woman who attempted to purloin a $90 Madeira tablecloth, reposes now in the safe of the Associated Retailers. Her husband is wealthy and gives her a liberal allowance and she is not able to explain the sudden yielding to a temptation. She has repeatedly offered $1000 for the slip of paper. It is not for sale, she has been told, though it may be returned to her one day when time has proved her immunity to temptation.

A bride was caught fraudulently charging goods. She agreed to go home and confess to her husband and bring the money for the things. He extracted the information that she had charged upwards of $800 worth of stuff on 15 different accounts, with which to provide her trousseau and furnish her new home.

"They both appeared before me, showing the effects of a sleepless night," related Mr. Jenkins. "I made a remark to the effect that they both had assumed a great responsibility at their marriage a few days before. Whereupon they fell upon one another's necks and wept. They are still living together and every month the husband brings me a stipulated amount toward liquidating the debt."

On the other hand, another detective gave an account of a different, but perhaps just as effective, method of dealing with a wife's transgression. "He was a policeman and he came in ready to make us all trouble, until he was convinced of his wife's guilt. Then he turned on her and promised to 'beat her up' if she didn't own up and quit being so 'bull-headed.' He'd see that she walked straight in the future. Just leave it to him. And, with no evidence to the contrary, we assume that he did."

One reason given as to why the flapper type of shoplifter is apprehended in large numbers is the nature of her costume, which affords few places of concealment. Not as in the old days can a woman secrete articles in her stockings, her sleeves or her blouse. A girl who had hidden a pair of silk stockings beneath her handbag as she sat at the counter suffered the humiliation of having them unfold as she walked away. She had a ready story of absent-mindedness, though her blushes gave her away. In such a case, as in most cases where a plausible story is offered, the detective is obliged to release the suspect as the odds of conviction are all in favor of the defendant in court and the store is loath to risk a damage suit.

"The Lavender Lady"—a shoplifter, court.

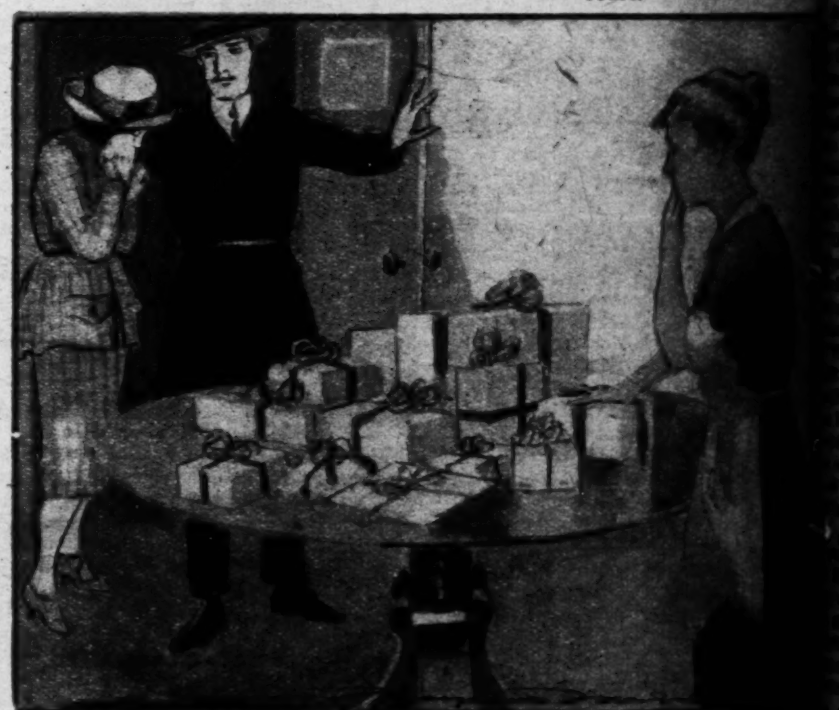
And there is another point which has to be taken into account by the storekeepers on the side of leniency. Often it is only temptation and opportunity which calls into action thieving propensities. Knowing this, persons in other situations do not leave their money and valuables about where they may tempt the weak-willed stranger. In merchandising the order is reversed. Goods which are much more tempting to many women than money itself are purposely displayed and exposed in such manner as to tempt the woman shopper to buy, even though she cannot afford to pay. It may be but a small step from the temptation to overspend to the temptation to steal. The storekeeper naturally feels it his right to tempt women to spend with him the money that ought to be paid the butcher, the grocer, the family doctor whose bills are overdue. If by playing upon a woman's resistance the woman yields, and steals—what then? Here is a problem in moral and ethical responsibility for the storekeepers, and undoubtedly they recognize it, else many more cases of shoplifting would find their way to the courts.



Christmas presents, wrapped in tissue, tied with ribbons, ready to "Please, lady, don't take it away. You'll only cause me to have to go out and steal another one."

Another reason why so few are haled into court and so many must be assiduously watched and shadowed while they are in the store, until they can be caught at a disadvantage, is because the thing the store authorities abhor more than all else is a "scene." The suspect must be taken QUIETLY to the detective's office. Many women are known to the detectives as either amateur or professional shoplifters whom the detectives never have been able to get "the goods on." These become bolder and more defiant with and lead the detectives a merry chase. Marathon up and down the aisles, going and in another, knowing they are trying to wear the pursuer out. Or they to out-sit the detective in the restroom. of the boldest of the professionals the to be on quite familiar terms, the jail petty larceny rarely discouraging them ing to their profession. Many of them their first names, or a nickname, spoken of by the detectives with not for their cleverness. It gets to be a which rules of fairness are observed.

"I was shadowing 'Babbling Bess' one woman detective, "when I got her in a myself on the outside. She heard me to send for a headquarters detective. on the alert for a chance to escape, but sistance. 'He ought to be here by this marked, at length. Before the headquarters rived, one of the detective force of chanced by. Bess immediately set up a I had used underhanded methods, that pedaled her into a trap. But I hadn't," detective. "It was just a coincidence happened along." And the detective seemed to feel that there was some justice in the shoplifter's accusation of unfairness, though to one not familiar with the rules of the game the discrimination is not [illegible]

The reaction of the work upon the detective is interesting to observe. Some appear to grow harder and uncompromising, though those that have been in business the longest and have the most captures to their credit, seem to become more tolerant of the frailties of human nature. While to capture, convict and send over the road a professional is the proudest achievement, it was to be noted that, by common consent, the greatest contempt and hardest words are reserved for the apparently respectable woman who has fallen from grace.

It must, indeed, be maddening to the detective to hear one of these "respectable" women, caught red-handed, defiant and threatening trouble she can make for her through her wealth or influence.

"Don't you dare touch me. I am Mrs. So-and-so and my father-in-law is So-and-so!" (a powerful politician). And when the detective did dare to extract a lot of small articles unaccompanied by sales checks, and still more telltale booty from a garter stocking-top, the defiant one had the poor taste to say: "Remember, you are dealing with a lady, not one of your own class." I repeat, it must be maddening to the detective, and no wonder they seem to have more respect for the common thief.

There is one young woman detective who is characterized as a "regular tiger cat" by her associates. She is known to have caught a big, burly negro stealing a hat, and to have clung to his collar, her feet dangling at an angle off the floor, until they reached the corner. She invited me to come up to the courthouse and witness the trial of one of her victims whom she had been shadowing for weeks and nicknamed the "Lavender Lady," because of a fondness for that color in dress. The defendant was well dressed, looked "like a million dollars," to the young detective. She pleaded guilty to the theft of a $60 dress and an $18 hat and was fined $50 in Court. "Oh, but I wanted her to have a ride," said the detective. Meaning she would like to have seen her sent to the workhouse.

Another woman detective who has been with one store 15 years is a motherly looking woman, dressed in black, whom you'd never suspect of sleuthing proclivities. She could fill an interesting book with her observations and experiences with these breakers of the Eighth Commandment. Listening to her, one observes equally pronounced though seemingly conflicting traits of character developed by her work: the unrelenting zest for capture and an almost sympathetic understanding of motivation of the thief.

"Oh, how I want her!" she exclaimed almost with [illegible] of a woman whom she has been unable to catch with the goods. And of others whom she has succeeded in running down, she often has a tale of [illegible] of their frailty.

"When we get them up here in the office, with their [illegible] they unburden themselves of all their [illegible]" she said. "A doctor's wife told of how she had been a maid in the house where her husband was a medical student. Of how he had seduced her, had been forced to marry her and how ever after he had treated her as inferior, keeping her in the background, allowing her a pittance but insisting that their children should make a smart appearance [illegible]. Of how, upon her rare appearances with him in public, she had had to resort to subterfuge and theft in order to get the clothes which would [illegible] her daughter. And thus she had taken to stealing. Her husband, some months after the case had been cleared up, came and asked me to be a witness in a suit for divorce upon the ground of this [illegible] of deflection. Needless to say, I re[illegible]

Though none of the younger detectives takes any stock in kleptomania as an alibi, this older detective knows there is such a malady.

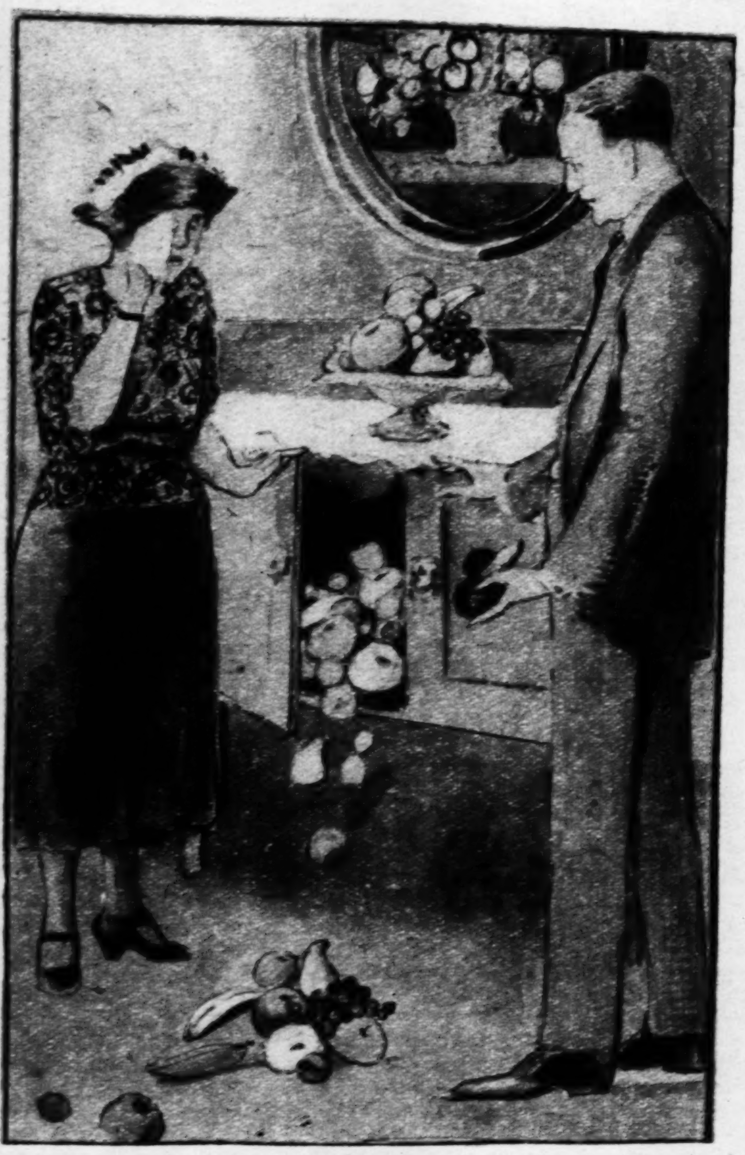
"There is an old woman whom I caught [illegible] and whom I still meet now and then who comes confidingly up to me and says: 'You know my failing!' She used all the methods of the professional shoplifter: trick boxes, bags, pockets in her petticoat, disguises. But she did not steal to sell. When I went to her home I found it crammed full of things for which she could have no use. A collection of sealed jars in a neat row in her [illegible] I asked about. She said she had no idea what they contained. She had stolen them from a chemical company. She had a lot of automobile accessories she did not know the use of. She must have [illegible] driver; she had a whole ham [illegible]. She was a real gentle, docile kind of a soul, except for these [illegible] ex[illegible] to this crime. She liked to patch quilts and I would say to her: 'Why don't you stay home and see how many quilts you can patch?' She replied: 'It's when I'm sitting there stitching that something seems to grab me by the arm and pull me down to the stores, and I can't get away until I've taken something.' She was a fiend for fancy work. On the table was an embroidered cover which I thought I recognized as one of ours. 'Please, ma'am, don't take it away,' she pleaded. 'You'll just make me have to go down and steal another one.'"

Another almost pathetic case was told of a mother and daughter caught stealing little things for Christmas presents. Further investigation at their home disclosed a whole table covered with packages daintily wrapped and tied ready to send away to loved ones, and every article in every package stolen! A strange manifestation of Christmas spirit!

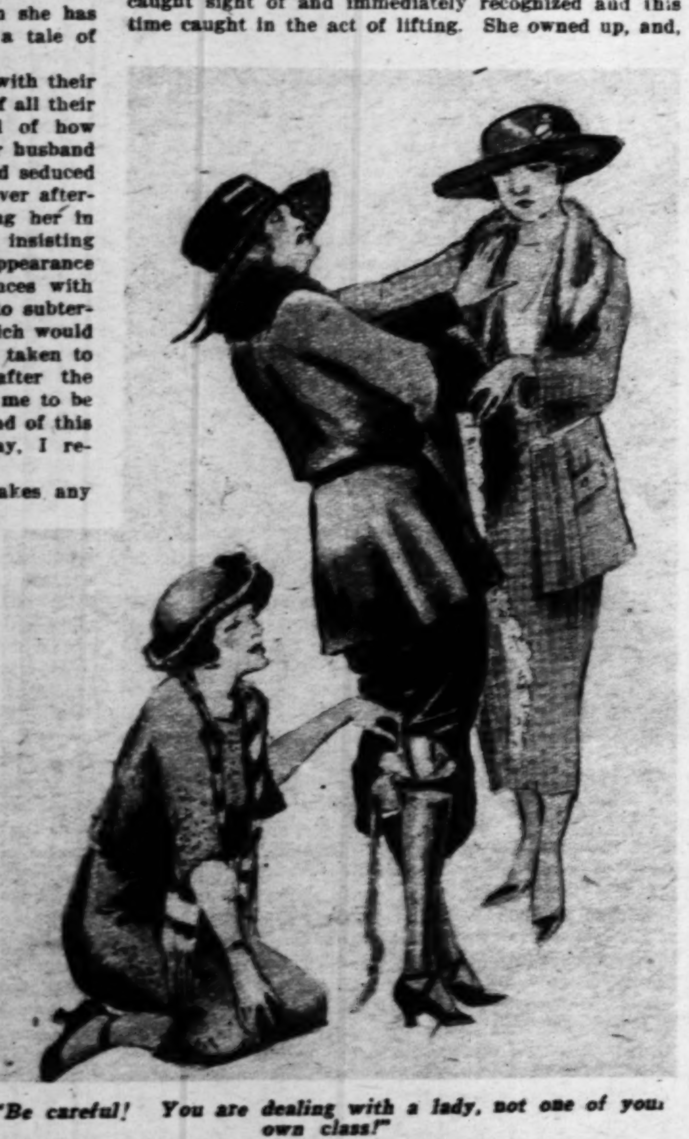
Many of the professionals become quite frank in their confessions to this detective.

"The professionals always work in teams, the dope fiends alone," she said. "None of these people ever work in the morning. I met one of my old offenders about 11 o'clock on the morning of Labor Day. I said to her: 'How does this happen? You downtown before noon?' 'Well,' she replied, 'you close at 1, don't you? I have to get my work done before you close up.' 'Now, tell us, do we look like thieves?' two of them asked me. I assured them they did not and that if they'd employ the same cleverness at some legitimate business they could be both successful and respectable. 'I'm going to quit when I've got $800 more,' one of them declared. I said to Rose one day: 'Why don't you go to Chicago and give St. Louis a rest?' Next time I saw her she said she had taken my advice and got in bad. That she went to Chicago and found she didn't have the 'pull' in the Chicago courts that she had here. I brought in another old-timer whom I hadn't seen for so long that I asked her what had become of her. She replied, apologetically: 'I lost my nerve. I'm not as good as I used to be.'"

To this woman is credited extraordinary memory for faces. A woman whom she suspected, eluded capture one day, years ago. A few days ago she was caught sight of and immediately recognized and this time caught in the act of lifting. She owned up, and, furthermore, acknowledged the previous theft and paid for the goods stolen then. She was from a small town and said that in all the long interim she had not been in St. Louis.



She had enough artificial fruits to fill a bushel basket.



"Be careful! You are dealing with a lady, not one of your own class!"

Many of the shoplifters are women from small towns, in the city on shopping expeditions. The theory is that they are so struck with the quantities of goods on display that they come to believe anything they might take will not be missed, nor in such crowds, their individual actions observed.

All detectives believe there is something psychic in the way in which they are drawn to suspect a guilty person. They often cannot account for their attraction to a person who later will justify their suspicions.

Cases of shoplifting they tell of on the part of women of position or prominence or well known to ourselves—a "Judge's wife," a "professor's wife," a "girl from your own office building"—cause one to shudder at how near home they get.

The less sympathetic and less experienced detectives, though they cannot account for the motive of stealing articles for which the possessor can have no use or could well afford to buy, will tell you that kleptomania is just another name for acquisitiveness overdeveloped, miserliness and the instinct to get something for nothing, which attributes, we must admit, are to be observed in some of our best people. Most conspicuous are these traits in Monday morning bargain rushes. An insatiable desire to possess quantities of one particular article, is akin, I suppose, to the collecting habit which, though innocent enough, frequently develops into a kind of mania. An example of this was a woman caught stealing artificial fruits. Investigation at her home revealed enough artificial fruits, all admittedly stolen, to fill several bushel baskets.

Then there are those known as the "fitting-room gang." One of these will go into a fitting room and have so many gowns brought in for her trying on that the saleswoman will lose count. In the absence of the saleswoman, who has gone to fetch still others, the customer will slip her old gown over a new one and depart, sorry there was not one which she liked.

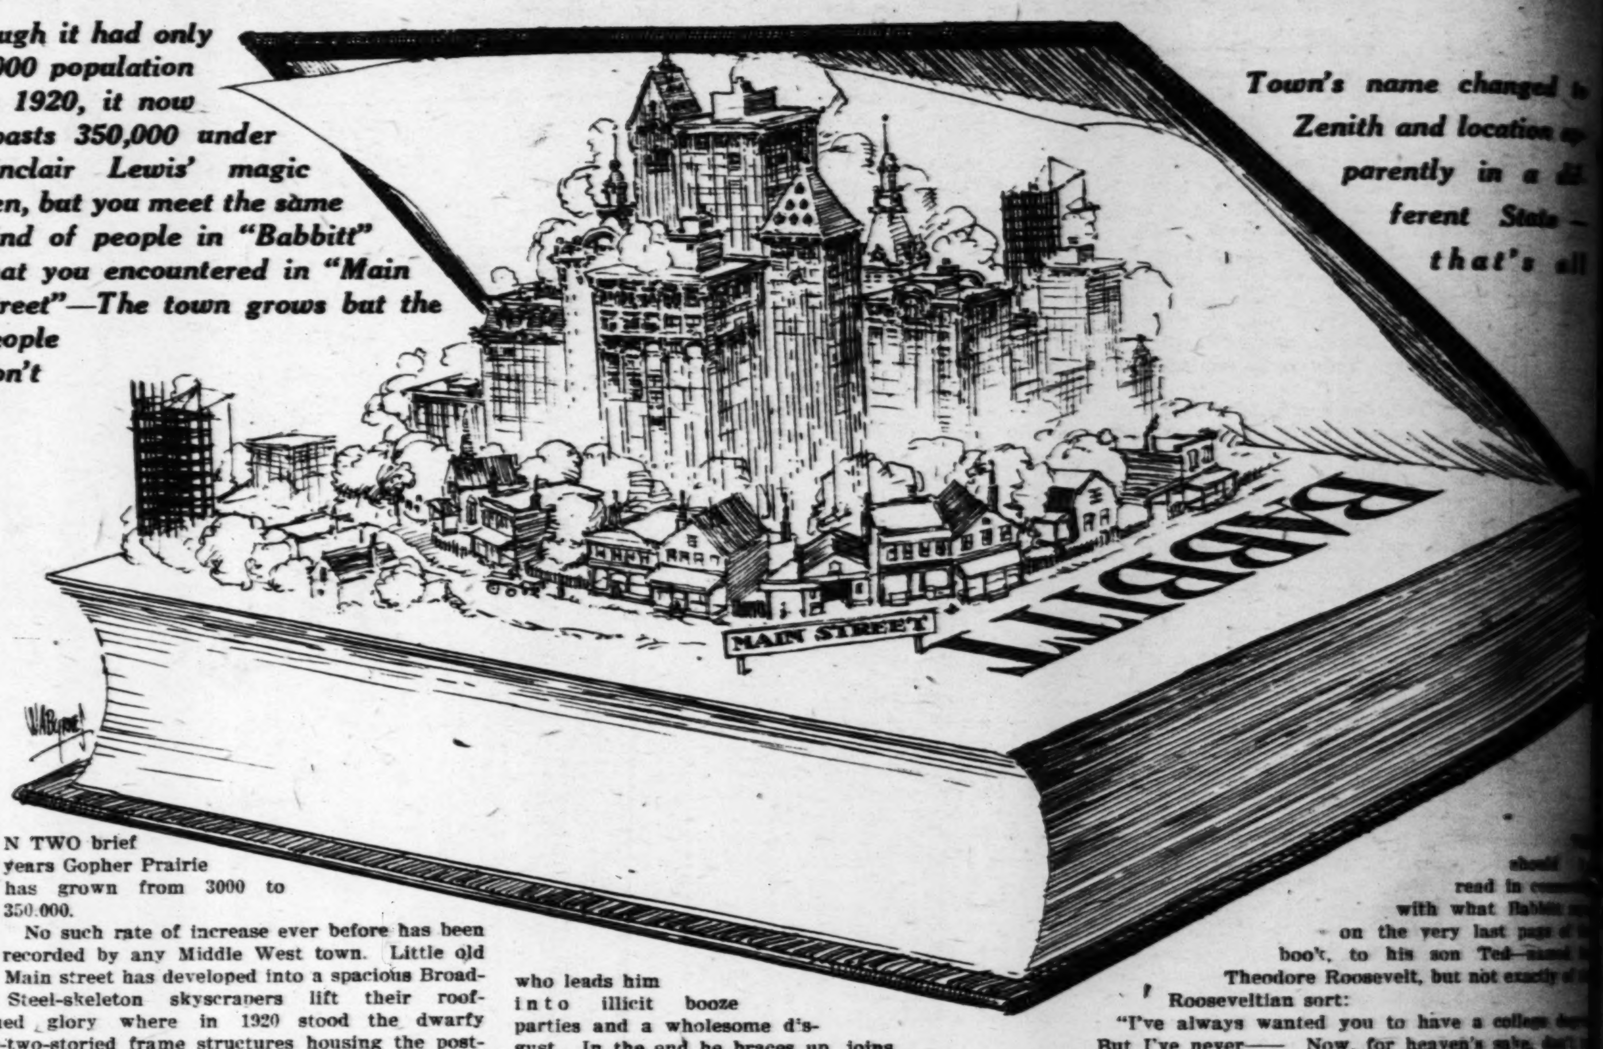
The same trick is workable in the millinery department, the customer leaving her old hat and walking out with a new one in the saleswoman's absence.

In one store I was told of a fraud manipulated by a saleswoman in collusion with her customers. She would volunteer to sell a garment at wholesale or half-price to a favored customer for cash, a conspiracy in which both parties profited at the expense of the store, for, of course, when it came to accounting for the garment, it was reported mysteriously missing or stolen.

GOPHER PRAIRIE GROWS UP!

Though it had only 3000 popalation in 1920, it now boasts 350,000 under Sinclair Lewis' magic pen, but you meet the same kind of people in "Babbitt" that you encountered in "Main Street"—The town grows but the people don't

Town's name changed to Zenith and location apparently in a different State — that's all



IN TWO brief years Gopher Prairie has grown from 3000 to 350.000.

No such rate of increase ever before has been recorded by any Middle West town. Little old Main street has developed into a spacious Broadway. Steel-skeleton skyscrapers lift their roof-gardened glory where in 1920 stood the dwarfy one-or-two-storied frame structures housing the post-office and the dry goods store. Tall hotels, some with private baths to every room, have taken the place of the squat hostelries that were. Miles and miles of solid street paving have supplanted the mud thoroughfares. The town has spread out and annexed the country for miles around, including Floral Heights and other imposing residential districts.

And all this, remember, in two years! Only the wizard hand of Sinclair Lewis could have done this. Yes, Mr. Lewis has done it all, in his new book, "Babbitt," which Harcourt, Brace & Co. just have published. For "Babbitt" is "Main Street" multiplied. Zenith, city of the new novel, is Gopher Prairie, small town of the 1920 best seller, grown up. Multiply Gopher Prairie's population of 3000 by about 116, and you get Zenith's population of 350,000. To be sure, Gopher Prairie was in Minnesota, while Zenith appears to be somewhere in Ohio; but nevertheless it's the same old town developed with amazing rapidity into a city.

In "Babbitt" the sex is changed. The central figure in the other book was a woman. George F. Babbitt, intensely masculine if not altogether a he-man, is limelighted now. Like Carol Kennicott, he is in rebellion, but with a difference. She rebelled against the rawness and the narrowness of Gopher Prairie and tried to introduce "culture." Babbitt rebels, in a sort of detestable self-pity way, against the drabness of his domestic and business lot in life. But as to Zenith, his adopted city, he is a busy booster. As a member of the local Boosters' Club he agrees with the rest that Zenith is the marvel city of the universe. He had abandoned the "hick town," the Main-streety place of his birth, to grow up with Zenith.

Babbitt boosts Zenith largely as a matter of business interest. His business is that of a real estate man. He calls himself a real estate broker, or a "realtor." He averages about $8000 a year from his selling and renting of houses and his promoting of city additions. He has a home in the Floral Heights district, where everything suits him except his "tin" garage, and he's always determining to build a wooden one. That is a point about Babbitt to be remembered. He never builds the new garage, and he never really quits smoking, though he swears off as to the tin garage and as to tobacco every three or four days.

A married man, a few years under 50, with a daughter grown and a son nearing his majority and another daughter growing up, Babbitt nevertheless still dreams of the "slim fairy girl." Every now and then, despite his membership in the Presbyterian Church, he makes an ineffectual effort to find the slim fairy, but he is a timid huntsman. Finally he finds a widow past 40, who leads him into illicit booze parties and a wholesome disgust. In the end he braces up, joins the Good Citizens' League and sticks to his prosaic but domestically useful wife, who, after all, has become a habit with him.

"Babbitt" is like "Main Street" in that Mr. Lewis introduces many characters typical of the community. As in the earlier book, it is their vices rather than their virtues which he depicts. Vices may be too harsh a word—foibles perhaps is better, as applied to many of the characters. Self-pity seems to be the central theme in both books. Carol Kennicott pitied herself because she had to live in a Main Street town. Babbitt pities himself because, in an unguarded moment, he permitted himself to marry Myra shortly after his graduation from the State University and consequently had to stick to his job in a real estate office, whereas he had been ambitious to become a lawyer.

Though frequently boasting of his A. B. degree, Babbitt almost invariably talks the conventional slang of his crowd. It is up-to-date slang, 1920-22 brand. The whole book is about people of today.

SINCLAIR LEWIS.

Mr. Lewis apparently has set himself the task of painting a realistic picture of business and social life in a typical Middle West city. Everybody in St. Louis and in other cities of the great Mississippi Valley will recognize, either from personal contact or from hearsay, many of the characters introduced in "Babbitt." Persons of that kind undoubtedly talk and act just as Mr. Lewis depicts them. They are inclined to be, as Babbitt is, social climbers; and, likewise as Babbitt is, too irresolute to do much climbing. Verona, the Babbitt daughter, wants to do settlement work. Her father's response indicates the general attitude and outlook of George F. Babbitt:

"Now you look here! The first thing you got to understand is that all this uplift and flipflop and settlement work and recreation is nothing in God's world by the entering wedge for socialism. The sooner a man learns he isn't going to be coddled, and he needn't expect a lot of free grub and, uh, all these free classes and flipflops and doodads for his kids unless he earns 'em, why the sooner he'll get on the job and produce—produce—produce! That's what the country needs, and not all the fancy stuff that just enfeebles the will power of the working man and gives his kids a lot of notions above their class. And you—if you'd tend to business instead of fooling and fussing—— All the time! When I was a young man I made up my mind what I wanted to do, and stuck to it through thick and thin, and that's why I'm where I am today, and— Myra! What do you let the girl chop the toast up into these dinky little chunks for? Can't get your fist onto 'em. Half cold, anyway!"

should read in co with what Babbitt on the very last page of book, to his son Ted—named Theodore Roosevelt, but not exactly of Rooseveltian sort:

"I've always wanted you to have a college But I've never—— Now, for heaven's sake, don't repeat this to your mother, or she'd remove what hair I've got left, but, practically, I've never single thing I've wanted to in my whole life! I know's I've accomplished anything except just along. I figure out I've made about a quarter of inch out of a possible hundred rods. Well, you'll carry things on further. I don't know. do get a kind of sneaking pleasure out of the you knew what you wanted to do and did it."

Ted, it may be explained, just had married next door, with whom he grew up. Ted and been out late, to a dance or something, and bitt discovered them in bed together in Ted's that morning. The Lewis presentation of what novel scene is worth copying out:

"She (Myra) led him (Babbitt) down the door of Ted's room and pushed it gently the worn brown rug he saw a froth of chiffon lingerie; on the sedate Morris chair silver slipper. And on the pillows were heads—Ted's and Eunice's.

"Ted woke to grin, and to mutter with ing defiance: 'Good morning. Let me intro wife—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Eunice Littlefield bitt, Esquiress.'

" 'Good God!' from Babbitt, and from wailing, 'You've gone and'——

" 'We got married last evening. Wife! say a pretty good morning to mother-in-law.'

"But Eunice hid her shoulders and wild hair under the pillow."

Midway in the book it is set forth: "Of a man in Zenith it was required that he belong preferably two or three, of the innumerable and prosperity boosting lunch clubs; to the the Kiwanis or the Boosters; to the Odd Moose, Masons, Red Men, Woodmen, Owls, Maccabees, Knights of Pythias, Knights of and other secret orders characterized by a high of heartiness, sound morals and reverence for stitution. There were four reasons for joining orders. It was the thing to do," etc.

Here is a picture of Eunice, flapper type, Babbitt's daughter-in-law:

"She was 17 now. Her ambition was to be actress. She did not merely attend the every 'feature film;' she also read the magazines, those extraordinary symptoms Pep—monthlies and weeklies gorgeously with portraits of young women who had manicure girls, and who, unless their had been arranged by a director, could in the Easter cantata of the Central Methodist

"These authorities Eunice studied. frequently did, tell whether it was in December, 1905, that Mack Harker, the cowpuncher and bad man, began his chorus man in 'Oh, You Naughty Girlie.' of her room, her father reported, she had photograph of actors."

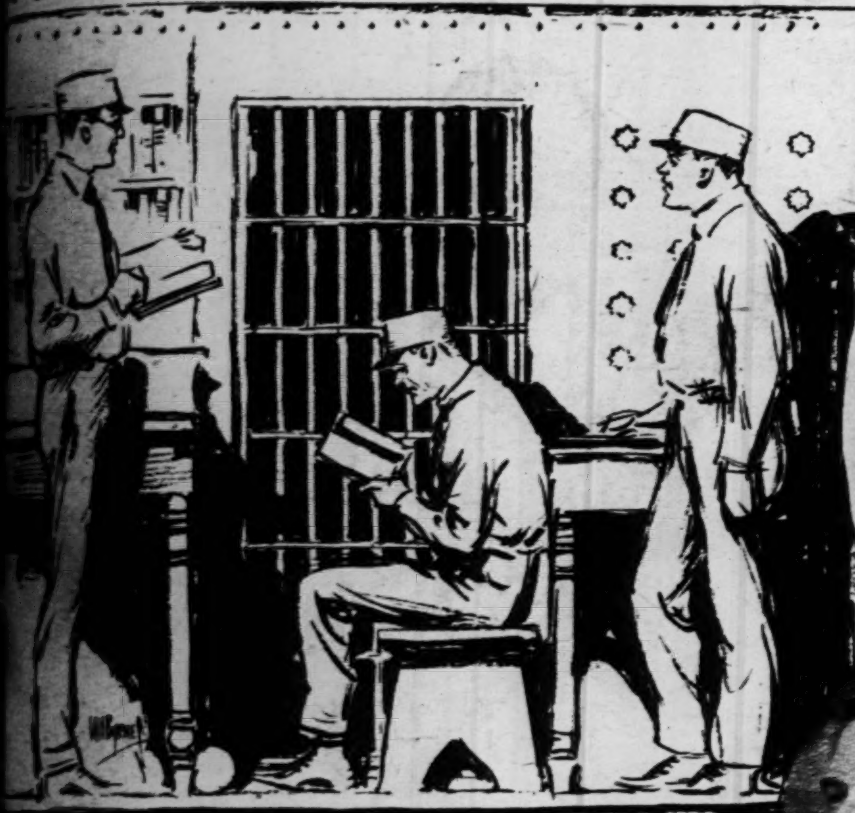
A Prison School Run by a Convict



Stork assorting and classifying a shipment of books in the prison library.

Chaplain Thomas O. Reed, whose sympathetic attitude has made the prison school possible.

[illegible] of Ohio Penitentiary evolves new idea for educating [illegible] fellow prisoners that evokes interested inquiries [illegible] wardens of 20 state institutions—Beneficial effects noted on even those men who have not enrolled [illegible] lessons :: :: :: :: ::

WAS it written on Destiny's pages that Butler R. Stork, scion of a well-to-do family, graduate of a big Eastern university, soldier, "boy wizard of high finance" and forger, should occupy a felon's cell that he might give to the world an idea which bids fair to revo[illegible] prison welfare work in America?

[illegible] the convict, has created in Ohio an institution [illegible] by no other state in America—a "peniten[illegible] college."

[illegible] E. I. Malone he earned $200 in Toledo, went to [illegible] the check, was just receiving the money when [illegible] of his old command unexpectedly appeared [illegible] the scene, greeted him as "Capt. Stork"—and he [illegible] the State Prison in Columbus for forgery.

[illegible] the prisoners are obtaining mental equipment [illegible] may go far towards erasing the "ex-convict" [illegible], once their terms are concluded. Many who [illegible] better opportunities to get an education are [illegible] taking advantage of the school. Other enthusi[illegible] are men who had no such opportunity [illegible].

[illegible] disposal, free of charge, is a library of text[illegible] valued at approximately $7000, as well as other [illegible] needed for their studies, all of which were [illegible].

[illegible] Stork went to the penitentiary he was as[illegible] to duty in the library, under Chaplain T. O. [illegible]. The penitentiary library was an almost for[illegible] institution. No regular provision ever had [illegible] made for its maintenance. Chaplain Reed had [illegible] as attractive as possible with the occasionally [illegible] contributions of discarded newspapers, magazines and books of fiction. There was not even a [illegible] allowance for library postage. As far as offi[illegible] was concerned, the department was quite ig[illegible].

[illegible] another man to help him, Chaplain Reed set [illegible] improve this condition, told the new assistant [illegible] hopes, and, hoping to instill in Stork a sense of responsibility, asked him "to think up some suggestions."

A month passed and the chaplain had not seen any results of the thinking. He went to the office one morning to remind the prisoner-librarian of his duty. But the reminder was unnecessary. The first thing the chaplain saw was a stack of letters addressed to nearly every worth-while book and magazine publisher in the country. The letters asked for extra or sample copies of anything the recipients published, and explained the use to which the material would be put.

Chaplain Reed signed the letters and, without inquiring fully into Stork's scheme, gave him full liberty to go ahead with it.

Not only was each letter answered with a shipment of just what had been requested, but letters came, too, stating that the publishers were glad to dispose of superfluous "press copies" in this manner, and that the Ohio Penitentiary had been added to the mailing list; that more books and magazines would follow periodically.

Today, if a prisoner wants to read fiction, he need only consult a list of "best sellers," select the title which appeals to him, then call at the library desk for it. If the book isn't there, the librarian sends a request to the publisher, and in a few days the book is received.

But much more important with respect to the future welfare of the prisoners was the response to letters addressed to the Alexander Hamilton Institute, the La Salle Extension University, the International Correspondence School, the American Technical Society, Funk & Wagnalls and Henry Ford.

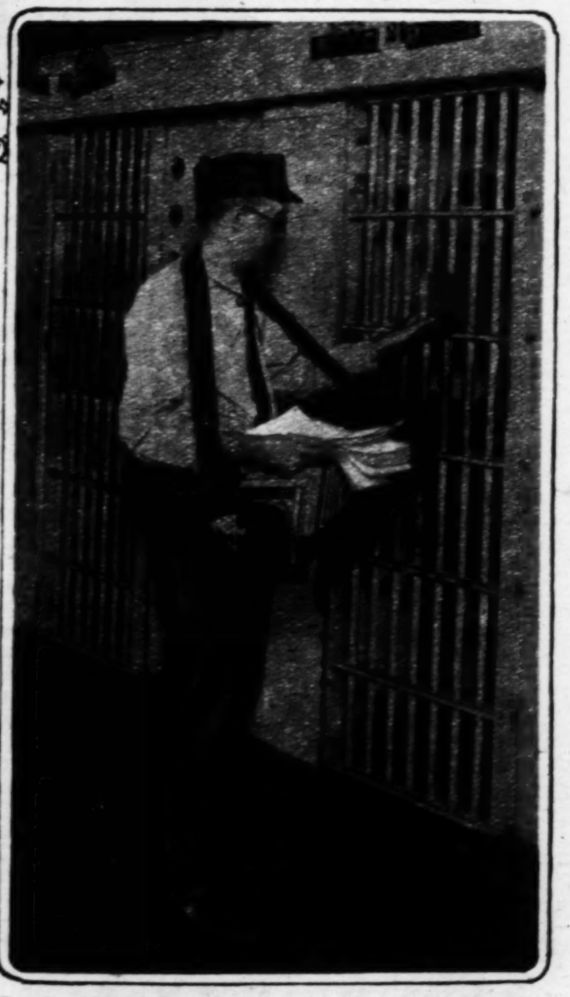
The International Correspondence School answered with complete sets of a dozen courses. Funk & Wagnalls sent dictionaries and the other education-by-mail establishments supplied textbooks for many of their courses.

Henry Ford sent manuals dealing with the construction and maintenance of Ford cars and tractors.

Equipped with this valuable supply of literature, the problem of putting it to its most valuable uses presented itself. Chaplain Reed's assistant was ready with another idea and the chaplain decided to watch developments, giving his approval or ironing out difficulties when his help was asked.

In the school which came into being almost overnight, five convicts are taking correspondence courses in journalism and short-story writing. Eight are studying telegraphy. Nine are enrolled in accounting, having passed a preliminary examination to show their fitness. Fifty-one are studying various courses in electrical work. Seventeen have taken up subjects of carpentry and contracting, and more than 100 the course in auto repair work.

Another 21 convicts are studying modern machine-shop practice, while 118 are increasing their knowledge in such basic things as spelling, geography, arithmetic and grammar. One has undertaken to fit himself for stock raising and dairying.



Stork collecting examination papers from his fellow convicts in their cells.

Other subjects being studied include: Traffic management, railroad signal work, steam engineering, bookkeeping, modern business, yarn and textile machinery, business administration, penmanship, blacksmithing, business law and veterinary surgery. One prisoner has requested a radio course and it has been sent for by the librarian. Another aspires to the dental profession and until more textbooks on this subject come in he is studying anatomy.

The students had to be enrolled and each was interviewed to determine a classification. Then textbooks had to be issued.

These preliminaries out of the way, only a week elapsed before the first lesson papers were coming in. There had to be a teacher and a record had to be kept for each man, so that the teacher might know about his progress in school. Also, a check was important to prevent neglect of studies. Certain studies are required of the prisoners and they may not be running at will to the teacher with their work, so some person must "tour the ranges" each week and collect the papers, then grade and return them.

There are 127 prisoners in the school taking courses

PROF. TIERNAN EXPOUNDS THE LAW

Notre Dame University specialist in domestic relations explains why he instituted paternity proceedings against man whom he accuses of betraying his wife—Talks of the folly of violence, which is irreconcilable with his religion—Tells why the issue as he sees it is solely one for the courts :: :: ::

"From now on the case is between Augusta Tiernan, with the full force and power of the State behind her, and Harry Poulin, whom she charges with betraying her."
—Prof. John P. Tiernan, in statement on his withdrawal from the prosecution of Poulin.

Prof. John P. Tiernan and his wife, Augusta, posing for a photograph in their home shortly after instituting the paternity suit.

WILLIAM JOHN lies in his wash-basket cradle in South Bend, Ind., and coos and kicks up his heels and tries to put his big toe in his mouth just like other 10-months-old babies, unmindful of the fact that he has two front names, but no last name.

In one respect he differs from other babies. He has never been taught to say "Da-da." If in his youthful impetuosity he has been impelled to confer this paternal title on his mother's husband, Prof. John P. Tiernan, instructor in law at Notre Dame University, he has found no encouragement. No doubt he is physically capable of saying "Da-da," but the stern finger of the law is raised to warn him that it is a wise child that knows its own father and that the conferring of this appellation, designation, title or patronymic denomination upon John P. Tiernan as party of the second part would be wholly irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial and not consistent with the allegations as set forth in the petition.

The warning finger of the law in this case is impersonated by Prof. Tiernan, whose classroom specialty at the university is that branch of legal learning known as Domestic Relations.

It would be a great shock to the intensely legal mind of Prof. Tiernan if this little son of his wife should sit right up in the wash basket and call him "Da-da." Likely as not the professor would admonish William John: "Confine yourself to matters of which you have personal knowledge," and would then ask that the voluntary statement of the witness be expunged from the record.

In behalf of his wife Prof. Tiernan haled into court the man whom she alleged to be the father of the child, but later he announced that he would have nothing to do with the prosecution of the case. At the same time he made it known that he and his wife would separate.

Prof. Tiernan is not impulsive or emotional, but stops to reason things out in the light of his legal knowledge. When on the eighth day of last January his wife told him that he was not the father of William John, Prof. Tiernan put her through a well-ordered cross-examination which brought out her testimony that the child's father was Harry Poulin.

On the following day Prof. Tiernan called on Poulin, who was too busy to see him. So Prof. Tiernan called again the next day. Having had plenty of time in which to outline his course of action, Prof. Tiernan, on his second call, kept on safe legal grounds. He demanded that Poulin pay all the expenses thus far incurred in connection with the advent and care of William John and that he further agree to contribute regularly to the child's support. Poulin, whose mind is less legal and more impulsive, ordered Tiernan out. Negotiations were thus delayed for a time and the friendly relations between the Tiernan and Poulin families were strained, though not broken.

Poulin is agent for a South Bend retail clothing company and during the school season he conducts a branch store at Notre Dame University. The Tiernans and Poulins were neighbors and close friends. Mrs. Tiernan spent much of her time with Mrs. Poulin, who is an invalid, and the families frequently exchanged visits, though Prof. Tiernan, deep student of the law and writer of legal books had less time for social relaxation than Poulin. It thus turned out that Mrs. Tiernan went alone on some of these neighborly visits.

Though the families now live in different quarters of the city their homes were only a few doors apart until a few months ago. Their social intimacy was such that they all called each other by their first names. To the Poulins Prof. Tiernan was John and his wife was "Gus," a friendly abbreviation of her real name, Augusta. To the Tiernans, Poulin was Harry and his wife was May.

Though Prof. Tiernan and Poulin had few tastes in common, they were nevertheless close friends. Prof. Tiernan had much of the austerity of the plodding, hard-studying college professor. He dressed neatly, though rather somberly and he had little time for social diversion.

Poulin was of a more worldly type. As a seller of "snappy" clothing to college students, it was part of his stock in trade to demonstrate the "latest styles" in the adornment of his own person and to mingle with the younger set of collegians and flappers at their dances and entertainments. Though both men are about 35 Poulin is of more youthful appearance than Prof. Tiernan. Both have dark hair and brown eyes.

Mrs. Tiernan is 28, of plump, well-rounded figure. She has red hair, large, liquid, brown eyes and that peachblow complexion so often found in combination with red or auburn hair. The baby, William John, has blue eyes and light hair, as have the other Tiernan children, Irene, 4 years old, and Mary Virginia, 3.

Even after Mrs. Tiernan made the important revelation to her husband as to the paternity of William John, an effort was made by the Tiernans to keep up a semblance of friendly relations with the Poulins.

Mrs. Tiernan herself revealed that after her confession she repeatedly invited the Poulins to come to her home. Explaining her reason for this she said to a Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine reporter: "He may have been afraid to come, but he had nothing to fear from me or my husband. I wanted him to come to our home and see the baby. I felt sure that if he would do that he would see how much the baby resembled him and would acknowledge that he was its father."

But Poulin refused to visit the Tiernan home. As the months wore on Prof. Tiernan brought all of his legal acumen to a consideration of the problem and early this month he hit upon a course of legal action. He had Poulin arrested on a statutory charge of a sort which would make possible the introduction of testimony as to the probable paternity of William John. In this type of case it would be within the province of the court, upon adequate proof, to order Poulin to support the child, either through regular contributions or by the payment of a lump sum to the Tiernans. Failure to obey such an order might cause commitment to jail for contempt of court.

Prof. Tiernan himself explained these legal points to the reporter before deciding to retire from the prosecution of Poulin. Across the room from him in the parlor of their home sat Mrs. Tiernan, holding and occasionally kissing and fondling little William John. There seemed to be no reluctance on the part of Tiernan or his wife to discuss the strange Domestic Relations tangle. On his part the professor chose his words with as much care and lack of emotion as though he were summing up a case in court and his references to his listening wife and the cooing William John were as impersonal as though they had been entered on the record as Exhibit A and Exhibit B. He referred to them frequently as "this woman" and "this child."

Nothing more impersonal, unimpassioned or detached than Prof. Tiernan's bearing and manner while discussing the case could be imagined. Here was a lawyer dealing with a problem that presented many interesting legal facts. So far as any observer could have discerned it was a problem in which he had no other than a purely professional interest. That it vitally concerned him on his personal side was not discernable. The subject of discussion might have been some old and long-dead case which he had dug up from the musty vaults of a law library and which he was discussing in an academic way as an instance of the involved snarls and tangles into which distorted domestic relations might lead.

In his manner toward his wife, who sat there holding William John, there was neither a display of sympathy nor hostility. There was neither a softening nor a hardening of his passionless monotone.

"This woman will make a splendid witness for me when the case comes up in court," he said. Then he embarked on a line of questioning which soon brought from his wife the story of the snub in church which cast a cloud on the hitherto good name of William John. The little fellow crowed in his mother's arms while she was telling about it.

"Now," said the lawyer-husband, in the manner of questioning a witness, "I want you to tell us just why and how you came to make this confession."

"I made it after Harry Poulin snubbed me in church the eighth of last January," replied Mrs. Tiernan in even tones. "After the baby was born in November Mr. Poulin repeatedly called me on the telephone and wrote notes to me to assure me that he would stick by me and take care of me and the baby. I did not intend to say anything to my husband or to make this thing public, but I wanted Harry Poulin to remain outwardly friendly, so that [illegible] would ever suspect the truth. I met him several times in public and he always greeted me as he had done before, but in church on that morning in January I met him face to face and he failed to give any indication that he saw me."

"It was then that you decided to make the truth known to your husband, was it not?" said Prof. Tiernan.

"It was," replied Mrs. Tiernan.

"Had you ever told anyone else?"

"Before the baby was born I had told Mrs. Poulin. She wouldn't believe me and said it was all in my imagination."

"Now tell us how you came to make that revelation to Mrs. Poulin," said Prof. Tiernan.

"Well," said Mrs. Tiernan, "it was this way: Early last September Mrs. Poulin visited Chicago, and while she was gone I went to the Poulin home several times, at Mr. Poulin's invitation."

"I can attest to the fact that this woman went out at night frequently in that period," interjected Prof. Tiernan. "I remained home with the children."

"Some of the neighbors spied on us," resumed Mrs. Tiernan. "I caught one of them peeping in at a window. When Mrs. Poulin returned they told her of my visits. She came to my home and asked me what I meant by visiting her husband when she was away. She said so many unkind things to me that I just had to tell her. I told her of the relations with her husband which had begun nearly a year before. As I said, she wouldn't believe me."

"I recall the day of Mrs. Poulin's visit here," said Prof. Tiernan. "I came home just as she was leaving and I could see that something had excited her. I said to her: 'Why, May, what's the matter?' She replied that there was enough the matter, and hurried away. I supposed she and my wife had had some quarrel of a trivial nature and I made no further inquiry. You will understand that the baby was born in November and that I knew nothing about any doubt as to its parentage until the following January."

Without solicitation Prof. Tiernan said he wished to make his course of conduct clear.

"I understand," he said, "that many persons have expressed surprise that I could restrain myself from physical violence after the revelations made to me. It must be understood that I am a Catholic. I hold a high position in the Knights of Columbus here and I am a member of the faculty of a great Catholic University. A crime of violence would not be in keeping with my religious beliefs. I thought the matter over carefully and I can truthfully say that I never contemplated the commission of a sin of violence in this case.

"I did not proceed entirely on my own initiative in mapping out my course of action. I had spiritual as well as worldly advice and it was pointed out to me that the obligation of Harry Poulin to admit his act and accept its consequences was basically a moral obligation. I tried and others tried to make him see that. When it was apparent that he was not disposed to meet his moral obligation the only remaining recourse was to the law.

"We are Catholics and the Poulins are Catholics and our religion does not sanction divorce. Divorce cannot be thought of as a remedy in either household. The church would sanction nothing more than a separation. Even that is not a step to be taken without due thought. There are two daughters of our union whose welfare must be considered. Their lives must not be blasted by this unfortunate occurrence.

"As to this boy—this child of my wife—I will resist any effort to take him from his mother. Under the law she is the natural custodian. Even if the court should decide that Poulin is the father, I would resist any effort Poulin might make to claim custody. I have considered the advisability of adopting the child, though I can see that this would bring up some fine legal points. Poulin might object to such an adoption, but it would seem to me that the filing of such an objection would involve an acknowledgment on his part that he was the father.

"It has been asserted that we have attempted to blackmail Poulin. That is ridiculous. He has nothing. He earns a moderate salary, most of which is needed for the support of his wife and two boys. We did not go into this for money and would be satisfied with only a moderate judgment."

"No, it isn't money I'm after," said Mrs. Tiernan as she fondled William John. "I want Harry Poulin to acknowledge that he is the father of this child. I don't see how his conscience can let him sleep."

Except for general denials of the truth of the charges brought by the Tiernans, Poulin's policy is one of silence. The readiness to discuss the amazing case in which he has become entangled, so manifest in Tiernan and his wife, is wholly missing with Poulin.

Opinion in South Bend was divided from the start of this unique proceeding. Many persons accepted the view of Mrs. Poulin that the things confessed by Mrs. Tiernan were "all in her imagination." Others suggested that excessive study might have subjected Prof. Tiernan to a severe mental strain which would account for his unusual course of action, though that could hardly account for Mrs. Tiernan's confession, not only the one made to her husband, but those she has repeatedly made to newspaper interviewers.

"I know what they are saying about my mental condition," said Prof. Tiernan. "I understand they even went so far as to plan for an investigation as to my sanity, but they dropped that in a hurry. My mind is all right. My religion counsels me against violence and my training as student and instructor in law makes me believe in the law's efficacy. If the law cannot be depended upon to right wrongs in so far as legal redress can right them, what is to become of our social fabric? This child of my wife is now without a father. I have suggested an appeal to science to fix his paternity. That having failed because of Poulin's refusal to submit to a blood test, the only remaining recourse is to the law."

Tiernan's suggestion that samples of blood from the baby and from Poulin be submitted to scientific inspection caused widespread interest.

"I wrote to eminent scientists and they informed me that the blood of a child would show a definite reaction to the blood of its father and that in their opinion this would be a conclusive test. But Poulin would not submit to it," said Tiernan.

The employment of a blood test in cases of disputed paternity is a comparatively new scientific development. In February, 1921, a San Francisco Judge, on the basis of blood-test evidence, decided that Paul Vittori was the father of Virginia Vittori, whose parentage Vittori had repudiated. Dr. Albert Abrams, professor of pathology at Leland Stanford University, testified that he had examined samples of the blood of Vittori and the child and found "that they vibrated in unison."

In March, 1921, when James A. Stillman, New York banker, denied his paternity of Guy Stillman it was suggested that the blood test be made, but the laboratory of New York hospital issued this stateemnt:

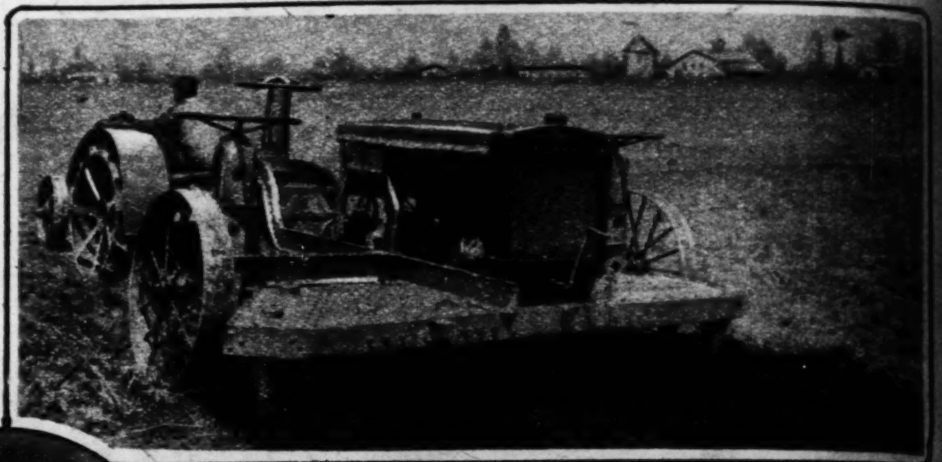
"We know of no possible means to determine parentage in such fashion. Tests of this character show the difference between animals and human beings. They do not show nationality or individual traits or vibrations so far as we know."

A statement issued at that time from the Cornell Medical School said: "It would be a valuable discovery, perhaps, but it is untrue. The theory may be sound, though in practice it is impossible. We can determine very little difference between the blood of individuals of the same race or genus."

Notre Dame University is one of the leading Catholic educational institutions in the United States and the largest in the Middle West. It has noted medical, legal and architectural departments and plays a prominent part in college athletics. It was founded in 1844.

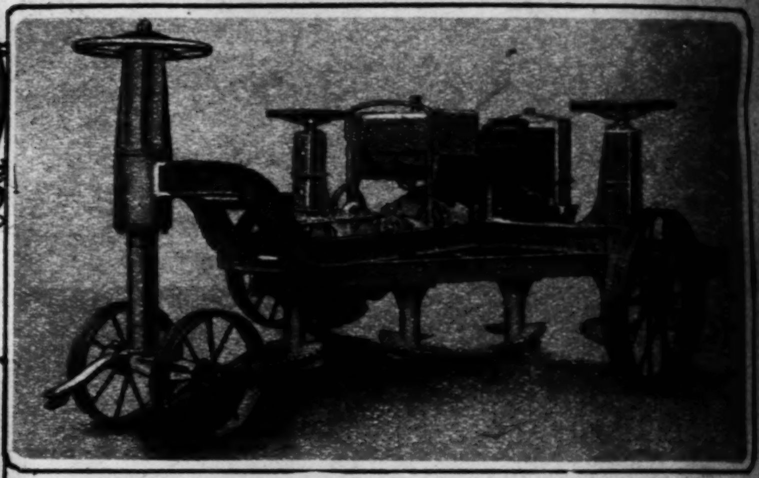
AND NOW A NEW IDEA IN PLOWING AFTER THOUSANDS of YEARS!

St. Louisan develops a tractor-drawn device that stirs the ground to a depth of 16 inches and makes possible its preparation for seeding at an incredible speed — No harrowing or discing necessary :: :: :: :: ::

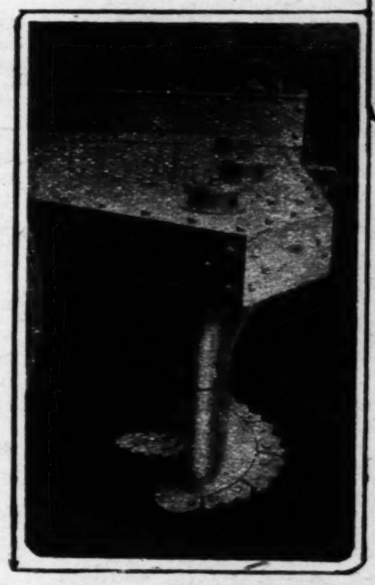


In the wake of the new "spiral plow." Note that it churns an area 11 feet wide.

Lytle S. Adams, inventor of the new plow.



A side view of the spiral plow, showing the nine rotating cutters mounted on the triangular frame so that the tracks overlap as the machine goes forward.



One of the nine vertical shafts and its cutter, in a close-up picture. Depth of the plowing is regulated with hand wheels.

FOR how many thousands of years mankind has been plowing the soil, even the archeologists can only estimate. But as soon as the earliest ancestors of the human race gave up their nomadic, hunting life for a more or less settled existence, the art of agriculture had its first rude beginnings.

The cultivation of food plants as a substitute for the toilsome and precarious gathering of such grains and fruits as could be found in the vicinity, necessitated the planting of the seed. This meant at least a sort of preparation of the ground, and the plow is regarded as one of the earliest tools which primitive man fashioned for himself.

Whether the plow was of wood or of metal, whether drawn by the women of the tribe, the men, beasts of burden or gasoline tractors, the way it worked has remained much the same through the ages: a sharp point digs into the soil and then is dragged forward, breaking up the dirt and turning it over in a furrow as it goes.

Now comes a new type of plow which substitutes, for the straight cutting movement of the old-fashioned plow, the rotary movement of the auger. The difference, so the inventor says, is comparable to that of trying to pull a circular saw through a log by main strength, and letting that saw make its way through easily by revolving and cutting its own path.

Within recent weeks, two of the new-style plows were loaded onto flat cars at the East St. Louis plant where they had been manufactured, and were shipped to Western points. One plow went to Utah, the other to California. They were the first which had been sold, although earlier ones were built for experimental and demonstration purposes.

Lytle S. Adams of Webster Groves is the inventor. He was a farmer boy who became a dentist, practiced his profession for several years and then went back to active farming because it is the work that he likes best. And he believes that his spiral plow will introduce a new era of scientific crop production, bringing prosperity to the farmers by a better, quicker and cheaper method of soil preparation. Says Adams:

"Great development has taken place in the building of tractors, cultivators, binders and all the machinery for the farm except the plow, the first and most important of all. This essential implement still is modeled on the principle of the forked stick, the crude device of our forefathers."

The development of the spiral plow had its genesis in the World War, and an effort which Adams made at that time to help the American army in France by inventing a machine for laying cable more efficiently than the work could be done with pick and shovel. Also, it followed a career marked by a somewhat unusual combination of farming and professional work.

Adams was born and reared on a farm adjoining Mount Vernon, Ky. The farm has since been subdivided into building lots, but the future inventor did real farm work there until he was 18 years old, when he came to St. Louis to complete his formal education. The studies he took at St. Louis University were partly those for a physician, partly those for a dentist. He was graduated in dentistry in 1905.

Thereupon Adams removed to Parsons, Kan., and for three years practiced his profession there. His contact with farming was not severed, however, because he owned a 160-acre farm near Parsons, and conducted it through a hired man.

Then he went to California and bought the Pauma Ranch, in San Diego County. This was a much larger venture, for the ranch contains 12,000 acres. He resided on the California ranch for eight years, at the end of which time he had perfected his plans for the spiral plow, and then he moved back to St. Louis as the most advantageous point for his plant.

"We were doing lots of ditching, on the ranch, prior to the war," said Adams. "I had been studying how the work could be accomplished more easily, for mechanical problems always have appealed to me, and especially problems of the farm.

"When this country entered the war they wouldn't let me in the army because I was raising wheat and I wanted to do something that would help the soldiers. In a series of articles about the soldiers' work in France I read about the miles and miles of cable trenches which had to be dug, and I knew just what hard work it was and how slowly it went forward by hand.

"So then I began to design a machine which could take over that work—a cable layer. It was just perfected, and I believe would have been a real help to our army, when the armistice came, and then, of course, it was useless for military purposes. But that cable layer, which would have laid half a mile of cable an hour, was the beginning of the spiral plow."

The standard type of the Adams spiral plow has a triangular frame of channel steel, with nine vertical shafts projecting downwards and on the end of each a revolving spiral cutter of a specially hardened steel. These cutters, lowered by hand wheels to any desired depth below the surface of the ground, do the plowing as they are revolved by a powerful gasoline motor mounted in the center of the triangular frame.

The frame and its load are carried by two wheels, and the whole machine is drawn forward by a tractor or it can be drawn by six horses.

The apex of the triangular frame points forward, and the nine cutting tools are so arranged along the two sides of the triangle that their tracks overlap in the forward progress of the plow. Adjoining shafts and cutters rotate in opposite directions, which causes co-operation in removing obstacles, such as loose, underground rocks.

The width plowed each time by this machine is 11 feet. The inventor declares that the same tractor power under the ordinary conditions of plowing would be sufficient for a furrow of only 28 inches. He says this demonstrates that the same ratio of pulling power is not required since the forward rotation of the cutters themselves eliminates the "dead pull" of the present plow.

Hand wheels on the three angles of the V-shaped plow frame permit of adjustments for from one to 16 inches of plowing depth. The cutters have both a lifting action and a rotating power. Hence the effect, when the plow encounters loose rock, is to dislodge the object and then force it quickly between the cutters to the rear of the plow. The cutters never strike an obstruction solidly as other plows do, says Adams.

Again, the V-shaped frame makes it possible to have the wheels always ahead of the cutting, while the back cutters remove all the tracks.

The necessary "crew" consists of one man, who is the driver of the tractor or of the horses, as the case may be. In using the spiral plow, the plow motor is first started, then the clutch connecting the motor and transmission is thrown in and the plows are gradually lowered by means of the hand wheels to the desired depth in the soil.

The operator then takes his seat on the tractor, starts that motor and goes ahead, pulling the plow behind him. A governor on the plow motor regulates the gas feed and the speed of that motor.

With the spiral plow, says the inventor, it is possible to prepare for seed between 30 and 40 acres of land a day, quite an advantage in places which have short seasons and where the element of time is the all-important factor. Land thus plowed is ready for seeding—it does not need harrowing, discing or dragging, declares Adams.

What does a field look like, after the spiral plow has performed its work? It does not present the ridged appearance of a field which has been plowed in the old way. For the soil has been fairly pulverized, not just turned over in furrows, however neat. It looks like ground which has been spaded and then raked, or like ground which has been plowed in the old way, disced and harrowed.

The spiral plow is expected by the inventor to be very useful in sections of the country which depend upon dry farming. In regions of limited rainfall, occurring practically in one season, the necessity of seeding before this rainfall is apparent. Owing to the hardness of the surface soil in these sections, it has been necessary in many cases to depend on rainfall to make the plowing possible.

Thus a large part of the advantage of the rain is lost, a further cultivation of the soil is necessary the next year, then the seeding, and in such manner a crop is produced every other year. But with the spiral plow, it is claimed, the hard soil which cannot be broken with an ordinary plow is easily put into proper condition in the summer time while it is dry and hard, in this way making possible a crop every year. In addition, the spiral plow in one operation will clear the land of sage and other shallow-rooted brush.

The inventor of the spiral plow says its use will remove hardpan, and plow pan is not created, since each year a different depth of plowing can be obtained, resulting in the use of new soil at each succeeding depth.

For clover, cowpeas, alfalfa, vetch, stubble, etc., the spiral plow is set at a depth which covers the top of the cutter an inch or two under the roots of the plants. By so doing, the vegetation is better covered, being thoroughly mixed with the soil.

The mixing operation does two things of prime importance: First, it prevents a "mattress" of vegetation from being turned under and allowing a circulation of air, which quickly dries out the soil; second, the nitrogen (found in cells on the roots of plant life) is distributed throughout the cut, thereby inoculating the soil through a depth of several inches instead of an inch or two on top. In sod, the spiral plow pulverizes the soil, cuts the sod into small bits and mixes it thoroughly with the soil.

No Reform Hobbies for This Woman Mayor!

Miss Emma Harvat, chief executive of Iowa City, Ia., which is the largest municipality governed by a woman, makes herself popular by moderation in all things except in her war on bootleggers and gamblers, whose activities caused the downfall of her predecessors ::

A blue law opposed by 9/10ths of the people is no longer a law.
Sunday baseball games and picture shows are harmless amusements to those of our citizens who can't go any other time.
Bootleggers and Gamblers must go.

Miss Emma J. Harvat.

WHEN a unanimous vote of the City Council made Emma Harvat, then the Republican Alderman-at-Large, the Mayor of Iowa City, on June 19, last, there were some grave misgivings among conservative men as to the wisdom of putting a woman in the executive chair at a time when much firmness and all-around good sense were required in administration.

Iowa City had been condemned, during the last two or three years, because of the operation of alleged bootlegging and gambling rings, and many prominent citizens there and the State Department of Attorney-General Ben J. Gibson, at Des Moines, had caused this resentment to crystallize into "dry" raids, which produced abundant evidence of the existence of dens of chance and vending places for "moonshine" liquor.

Such conditions did not appear to call for the proverbial soothing touch of a woman's hand, but for something far stronger and more terrifying. The situation was made still more difficult by the well-known fact that a certain percentage of the voting population did not want a rigid enforcement of the laws against gambling and bootlegging. That rock, the one on which other administrations had been wrecked, still loomed ominously, dead ahead.

It seemed an unfavorable time for an experiment, and women Mayors are still decidedly in the experimental stage. A few have been elected in smaller towns, but Miss Harvat is the first chosen to preside over a first-class city. Iowa City, including the 6000 students enrolled at the State University, has a population of more than 18,000. Occasional student transgressions and pranks furnish in themselves a large problem for the peace forces of the community to deal with.

Men who are inclined to scoff at woman suffrage and at what they call the idealism and vagaries of the sex when raised to power, might expect, under the situation thus presented, a lot of half-baked or ill-digested efforts at radical reform, with, possibly, a complete breakdown in business administration. Yet, after three months of "petticoat government" in Iowa City, it is safe to say that those who placed the present Mayor on her municipal throne would do it again without hesitation, and the city, as a whole, even more generally "strong for her" than before, would indorse the aldermanic electors' action. The experiment has been a decided success from every viewpoint.

The city has a business administration. There have been no sentimental reform movements. Women have not swamped the city hall with perfume and political piffle. Neither men nor women grafters have imposed upon the Mayor, and every department is functioning with pleasing efficiency. Miss Harvat is a woman Mayor without a single reform hobby.

Those who have taken time to study the past life and successes of Miss Harvat are not a bit surprised that she has been a success as Mayor of this city. Her life has been a series of successes.

Being 52 years old, she has had time to gather her share of experience. She was graduated from the high school and a business college in this city and started out with the avowed intention of becoming a business woman. Her first attempt was in an Iowa City bookstore. After two years' experience she was surprised one day when a man of known business judgment offered to finance her in purchasing a third interest in the store.

She found that he was willing to advance the $1500 necessary on her unindorsed note, to be repaid at her leisure. With such confidence displayed in an 18-year-old girl she could hardly fail in self-confidence; so she became a partner in the store. It is known that she repaid the loan in less than three years and purchased a larger interest in the concern.

A short time afterwards, when an attractive proposition was presented to her from Kirksville, Mo., she sold out her interests in Iowa City and became the sole owner of a business in that city. She was surprised upon arriving at her new home to hear that five men, previous owners of that store, had gone into bankruptcy. But she stayed in Kirksville five years and made the store a real financial success. Having an opportunity to sell at a good profit, she closed out, engaged temporarily and successfully in realty business in Oklahoma, and then returned to Iowa City.

Fifteen years ago an exclusive woman's shop, selling ready-to-wear clothing, was an unknown idea in Iowa City. Miss Harvat, in partnership with Miss Mae Stach, started the first store of that kind ever seen there. She was in that business for 14 years, moving once into larger quarters.

Business has dealt kindly with Miss Harvat during the last 25 years. She owns a $20,000 home on one of the principal streets. The house was built after her own design to meet her own tastes. She says she will be satisfied to live there the rest of her life. She also owns valuable heart-of-town business property.

The Mayor's first venture into politics was almost two years ago when she was asked to run for the office of Alderman-at-Large on the Republican ticket. Iowa City is called a Democratic stronghold, but the woman candidate won, heading her ticket by a comfortable margin. While she was serving as Alderman, the city voted almost $500,000 for public improvements.

Last June, when the city was topsy-turvy over disclosures made by State agents, and a climax came with the resignation of the Mayor then in office, the first candidate mentioned by virtually all voters was Emma Harvat. She was selected by the City Council the day following, without a dissenting vote, although two influential politicians were "willing to accept the office."

The address of acceptance made by the Mayor-elect that day was characteristic of her, if not of women in general. There were just 28 words in her speech. She arose in her place as Alderman and said:

"I thank you, gentlemen, for the honor. You know where I stand. I have this much to say: I will do my duty as Mayor of Iowa City."

The last act of the former Mayor had been to discharge his Chief of Police and appoint a new one. The Council had refused to confirm this appointment and so the new Mayor found a disorganized police force as well as a disrupted office. The new Mayor said:

"The first thing I will do is to secure a reliable Chief, one who will do as I say and enforce the laws. We have had enough unfavorable publicity for a while. Let us try a little of the other kind.

"The only threat I am making is that gambling and bootlegging must go. I have no use for either. I do not intend to be rough about it, but it must stop and will stop, if it is possible to stop it.

"People all over the State have their eyes on this city. With 6000 young boys and girls coming here every year the mothers of the State want to know that the city is fit for them to live in. We will do all that is possible to make it so. I am for law enforcement, regardless of my own private ideas on the wisdom of the laws."

The woman Mayor of Iowa City makes one reservation in her plan to uphold the statutes. She thinks that a law may become obsolete. When questioned as to her intentions of enforcing the "blue laws" of the State she replied:

"I want it understood that I am making no effort to lead a reform movement. A law that nine-tenths of the people do not want is no law. I can see no reason for stopping Sunday baseball games and picture shows. Sunday is the only day half our people can see those amusements and that may be their only relaxation. I certainly would not lead a movement to stop them.

"I realize," she said, "that one will be sure to displease many people no matter what is done. I intend to know, when I am done, that I have satisfied at least one person, if it is only myself. Of course, now that I am here, I intend to run for the office next spring, but that will make no change in my official actions."

One of the first things done by the new Mayor to put her plans in effect was to start the enforcement of traffic rules. In a short time, $600 in fines had been garnered as a result of the campaign. Many influential business men, who had been excused for previous transgressions, found that real cash was required under the new administration. As a result, the new traffic cop and his new car nearly ran out of revenue after the first month. Speeding almost stopped.

Miss Harvat did not appoint a new Police Chief for more than a month. Then she disregarded precedent and installed a Democrat over a Republican majority in the Council. No one voted against her selection.

Careless methods of handling city funds have been replaced by a careful system of business bookkeeping by which the city may know from day to day just how its finances are being conducted. Affairs are working smoothly and it is predicted that Mayor Harvat will have no opposition at the city elections next spring.

A NAME IN VAIN

by BEN AMES WILLIAMS

AUNT SARAH set the platter of finnan haddie before Old Davy Brewster's place, went into the hall and called: "Supper's ready, David." She was one of those women whom even the most casual acquaintances like to call "Aunt." But no one ever thought of calling her brother David "Uncle Dave." They called him "Old Davy" instead; and that is not the same thing at all. He was, when Aunt Sarah summoned him, in the sitting room; and he went to the window and rapped upon the pane to attract the eye of Ted Brewster, who was leaning across the fence talking to pretty Ann Howland in the garden next door. Ted came into the house. They sat down at the table, with its smoothly darned covering hiding the mahogany, and Aunt Sarah bowed a humble head and Ted dipped his eyes to the plate while Old Davy said grace before meat. That is to say, grace before finnan haddie.

Old Davy took a solid pleasure in prayer. He went to his knees beside his bed when he arose; when he had come downstairs he and Ted and Aunt Sarah gathered for family devotions in the sitting room; he pronounced a lengthy blessing upon each meal; he conducted family prayers again in the evening; and he dropped to his bony knees before getting into bed at night. The ceremony never lost its zest for him.

Old Davy lifted his head, tucked his napkin under his chin, and looked toward his sister. "You will have a little finnan haddie, Sarah?" he asked, spoon poised.

She shook her head, meekly. "No, thank you, David. Just a potato for me."

Ted asked, cheerfully: "Why don't you have fresh fish more, Aunt Sarah? You like that, and you can't eat these smoked things."

Old Davy looked at his son severely; and Aunt Sarah came as near rebuking him as was possible to her. "Your father prefers smoked fish, Ted," she replied.

If Ted had any impulse to say more than he had said, he stifled it.

The dining room was in the rear of the pleasant old house. The house in turn was one of a dozen or so which lined the deeply shaded street. Old Davy had been born in this house, and so had Sarah, and so had Ted. Ted's grandfather, who had followed the sea, built it; but Ted's father had stayed ashore and prospered.

His father, first pangs of hunger satisfied, said to the young man: "You were talking again with Cap'n Howland's child." His tone had accusation in it; but Ted smiled, pleasantly enough.

"Yes," he assented, and added: "She's not such a child, either, father. She's 22. Almost as old as I am. She says Josiah Drake is weaker," Ted went on.

"Aye," said Old Davy. "And will be weaker still. The Lord's hand is upon him for his sins."

"Cap'n Howland is also a man lost in his own sin." Ted laughed comfortably. "Well, you can't damn Ann for that," he protested.

Old Davy's eyes flashed fire. "Mind your tongue, Theodore. It spoke an evil word."

The young man seemed puzzled, then: "Oh, 'damn'?" he asked, and chuckled. "You ought to hear Cap'n Bill when he gets under way."

"Who touches pitch shall be defiled." Old Davy told him. "You have been too much in the company of that guilty man."

"But he doesn't mean anything by it," Ted insisted. "He's been a skipper so long. You've got to be able to scorch their hides, if you're going to handle sailors, father."

"A profane and dissolute man," said Old Davy insistently. "And he will suffer for his sins."

"But he's not really profane," Ted urged. "That is, he uses strong language; but he doesn't actually swear—much!"

"You bear false witness, Theodore," Old Davy replied. "I, myself, have heard. I met the man upon the street this day. We had some small speech together, and his was thickly interlarded with oaths. I reproached him; he made a jest of it. And in the end I said to that man, in all charity: 'You are in evil paths, Cap'n Howland. I shall pray for you.' I repeat his very words. He replied to me: "Why, Davy, you can just pray and be damned!' "

Ted laughed before he could check himself. Aunt Sarah looked at him, and then at his father, white with terror. But Old Davy only shook his head. "An ill moment for laughter, Theodore," he said.

The young man still sought to make a defense. "He's not bad, really, though," he told Old Davy. "He's got a good heart. I happen to know that he kept company with Josiah this afternoon, trying to cheer the old man. Cap'n Bill has as good cause to—hate Josiah as you have."

"Josiah Drake is a man accursed," said his father, sternly. "He betrayed his friends. He pilfered their savings. We trusted him, put our money into his traitorous enterprise, and he stole it, guilefully keeping within the law. He bears the brand upon him forever more."

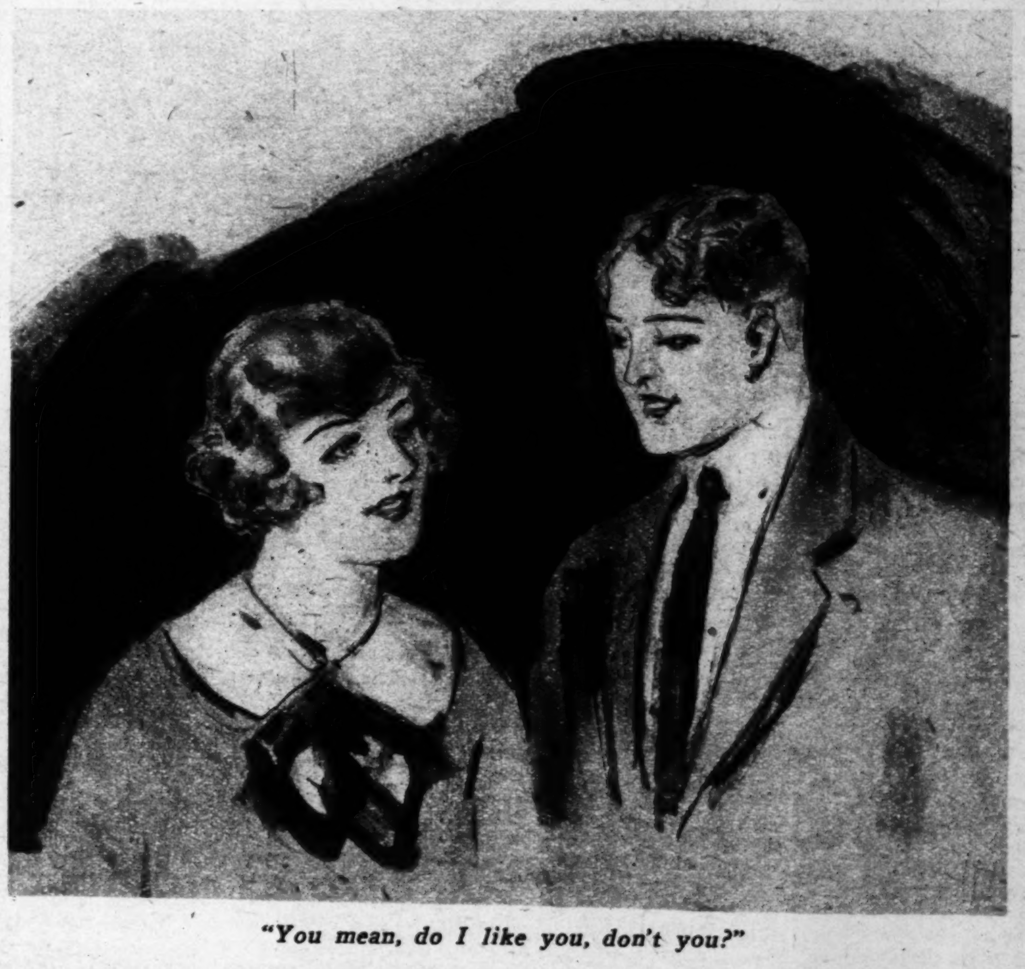
Aunt Sarah spoke, a faint warmth in her eyes that it was strange to see there. "He has sought all his life to make amends," she pleaded. "Oh, he has tried all these years to win his honor back again."

He silenced her. "You had always a weakness for him, Sarah."

Ted spoke: "But Cap'n Bill lost his money, too. I think it's decent of the captain to—try to do something for the old man. To forget his old grudge."

His father eyed him shrewdly. "You have been blinded, my son. Blinded by the bright eyes of his child."

The young man flushed a little, stubbornly. "No I haven't. Why, she talks to him like a Dutch uncle, father. About his swearing." He chuckled at some memory, went on: "She's trying to cure him. Says he's got to forget the sea, remember he's ashore. She has a little coin bank, and every time he swears, she makes him put a dime into it for the missions."



"You mean, do I like you, don't you?"

Ted was grinning.

"It is a sin before God to make a jest of holy things," said David Brewster, sternly.

"It's not a jest. She"——

Old Davy rose from the table. "I tell you, he is a profane and a godless man," he cried. "And, mark you this, Theodore, when you're tempted to joy in the child's pretty face again—mark you this: 'The way of the ungodly shall perish.' That is God's own immutable law."

Ted thrust back his chair, hot words on his lips; but Aunt Sarah said, softly: "Ted!" And his father was gone from the room.

Cap'n Howland had followed the sea for a good many years; he had his fill of it; and it was a matter of six months now since he had bought the house next door, and sent for Ann, just out of college, to come and take care of him. She and Ted had played together some years ago; they picked up their old acquaintance where it had been dropped. They walked downtown together this evening and went to the moving picture theater, and had ice cream afterward, and went homeward along the shadowed street side by side.

"You know," he explained, gravely, "I was getting pretty tired of this little old town, a while ago, before you came back here to live. I thought I'd go to Boston and get a job; but I'm mighty glad I didn't now."

She nodded, laughing at him. "I know. You want me to ask why you're glad, and then you'll say it's because I'm here."

"But it is because you're here, Ann," he interrupted. "It's a different place, somehow. Don't you feel that way at all?"

He could see, even in the starlight, the quizzical light in her eyes. "You mean, don't I think the town's nice because I'm in it?" she asked.

"Oh, you know what I mean," he told her. "I mean I like you, and what I asked—— Well"——

"You mean, do I like you, don't you?"

"Yes."

"That's not such a hard question to ask, is it?"

"Well, I asked it, didn't I?"

She shook her head. "No. I asked you if you meant to ask it; and you said you did, but that's not asking it at all."

"Oh"—— He shook his head in miserable confusion. There was a seat beside the lilac clump, and he sat down there and kicked with his heel upon the turf. She watched him for a moment, and then sat down beside him. He looked at her, a little surprised. "I thought you had to go in," he said.

"I do, pretty soon."

For a while after that neither of them said anything at all. Ted spoke at last, with an abrupt movement toward her. "I—think you're wonderful, Ann."

Her head was bent a little now; he could not see her face, till she turned toward him, and laughed, softly, and said: "I like you, too."

"Do you?" he cried.

She nodded vigorously.

He could think of nothing more to say. He put his arm across the bench behind her, and dropped it awkwardly about her shoulders. She looked at him then, and quickly looked away; and he leaned toward her and kissed her cheek. She said, "Oh!" He was frightened by what he had done. She was very still beside him, but after a long while they heard the gate click, and she whispered: "Dad's coming."

The emergency made him bold, and he put his hand against her cheek and turned her face toward him and kissed her again, this time on the lips. She laughed in a throaty little way, and then they got to their feet as Cap'n Bill came up the walk.

When he saw them standing together he cried:

"Why, what the hell"——

Ann said, sternly: "Dad!"

"You, Ann?" he asked. "I didn't know it was you. Who's that? Ted Brewster? Hello, Ted, you young swipe!"

"Where have you been, dad?" Ann demanded.

He said, easily: "Sitting with Josiah. He's low in his mind." And added: "Coming in, Ted?"

Ted looked at Ann, then he squared his shoulders. "Yes, sir," he replied. "Yes, sir, I'd like to. For a minute."

Her father nodded and swung up the path. Ann and Ted came behind; but when they were within doors, and she had lighted the lamp in the sitting room, she said at once: "It's mighty warm. I'll make you both some lemonade."

Ted looked at Cap'n Howland, and that big man was seating himself in an easy chair and laboriously pulling off his shoes. "Damned things too stiff," he said. "They rub my heels to beat blazes. Ann won't let me use tallow on 'em, either." He tossed the second one aside and looked across at Ted. "Sit down," he invited. There was mirth in his eyes. "You're quite a stranger. Ain't seen you since before supper."

Ted laughed and took courage. "Cap'n Bill," he said hurriedly, "I guess you saw there was something when you found us out there just now."

"Something?" Cap'n Bill glared, then chuckled. "Don't beat around the bush, you young whelp. A good deal of a something, I should say. Like Ann, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"She like you?"

"Yes, sir."

"What does that damned dad of yours think about it?" Cap'n Bill demanded.

"My father doesn't know," Ted replied. "But he's not a damned dad."

Cap'n Bill threw back his head and laughed aloud. "All right, young hop-o'-my-thumb, he's not, then," he agreed. "But if you don't call him worse names than that, you're too good to be abroad. How about you? Think you're a pretty good sort, do you?"

"Ann likes me," said Ted.

The old man banged his knee. "Good talk, by God!" he cried. "I'll back her pickings. But your old—that father of yours will have something to say. Mind my word."

Ann came back then with a pitcher and glasses and a tray. When she would have poured a glass for him he pulled her down upon his knee and jerked a thumb toward Ted. "Going to take French leave o' me, Ann?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"You like him, don't you? He says you do?"

"Yes, I do," she told him.

His arm tightened around her for a moment. "Lord," he cried. "I"——

She reached toward the table, picked up a little iron coin bank which stood there. "And one out by the lilacs," she reminded him. "And I heard at least one while I was in the kitchen. That's three."

"Damn it," he protested. "I'm telling you"——

"Four," she cried, inexorably.

He growled; but he surrendered. Pulled a dollar bill from his pocket and thrust it into her hand. "Now let me talk the way I want to for a minute. That'll pay the freight. I mean to say, I'll be damned if I want you to go hiking off and leave me alone, just when I've got time to enjoy you."

She kissed him swiftly on the cheek. "I'm not going to hike off," she assured him. "Ted wouldn't want me to."

Ann began at that, quite inexplicably, to cry. She buried her face in his great shoulders; and her father winked at Ted and waved a hand at him. "Go on home, young fellow," he commanded. "Ann and me have got things to talk about."

Ted nodded, moving toward the door. "Good night!" he said. "And—you've been pretty decent, sir."

Cap'n Bill pushed Ann from him. "Go out in the hall and tell him good night," he bade her. "Then come back here and sit on my knee."

While she was gone, the old man sagged in his chair, deep, lonely lines were graven on his face and there were shadows of sorrow in his eyes. But when Ann came back to him, her eyes dancing, there was no grief in his countenance to disturb his little girl

Ted found time at noon next day for a word with Ann. Old Davy never came home at noon; he took a bit of lunch to the office. But Ted came, and saw Ann in her garden, and went to speak with her. She perceived at once the trouble in his eyes, and waited for him to tell her about it; but when he did not, she asked at last:

"What is it, Ted? What's gone wrong?"

He hesitated. "It's father, Ann."

"Your father?"

"Yes."

"You mean you told him about us?"

"Yes, I told him this morning. On the way to the office. When we walked down together."

She nodded. "And he was angry? What did he say?"

Ted could not tell her. His recollection was confused and uncertain and vaguely terrifying. "I never saw him so stern," he said. Old Davy had been like one of the prophets of Israel in his denunciations, almost exalted in his wrath. "I know he's wrong," he told Ann. "But I couldn't make him see it. He's so sure. . . . Always so sure he's right about everything."

"Even the—ways of God," Ann murmured, softly, and Ted nodded.

"And he thinks we are outside the pale?"

"He didn't say anything against you. He couldn't. I wouldn't have let him, anyway. But it's your father. . . . He can't see. He just thinks Cap'n Howland is a sinner because he swears so."

Ann shook her head. "It isn't swearing. It's just Dad's way of talking."

Ted threw out his hands, hopelessly. "I know. I know."

"I suppose I ought to—resent very bitterly your father's assuming the right to—condemn mine. But I don't. Because I know he's wrong. Dad's nowhere near so bad as your father thinks he is. His bark is away so much worse than his bite."

Ted held her hand tightly, told her she was an angel; she laughed under her breath.

"Besides, your father's not so perfect himself," she declared. "He's—uncharitable in lots of ways, and that's lots worse than swearing a little bit. He's—I think he's awfully presumptuous telling people what God thinks, all the time."

"He'll see in time," Ted told her.

"He's bound to, some day."

She looked at him, mischief in her eyes. "Of course, if you just want to sit around and wait"——

"I argued with him, Ann," he assured her. "Everything I could think of."

She shook her head positively. "Men don't know how to argue," she told him. "They're too reasonable. Doesn't Aunt Sarah ever get after him?"

"No. Sometimes I think she's going to, and I egg her on; but she's so used to giving in to him. For so many years."

There was faint indignation in him. "Why, in some ways, she's just a slave to him."

"That's all very well," she replied. "But I'm sure Aunt Sarah sees through him. Any woman would." She cried: "Ted, I'm going to talk with Aunt Sarah. Find out some things. Ammunition. Doesn't he come home early in the afternoon?"

"This time of year, yes," he told her. "To work in his garden. Why? What are you"——

She laughed excitedly and pushed him toward the gate. "When he goes into his garden this afternoon," she declared, "he'll find me hidden behind a beanstalk with a gun in each hand. Run along to the office, Ted."

David Brewster came home about 3 o'clock that afternoon and went upstairs to his room to get ready for work in the garden. After a few minutes he called from the upper hall:

"Sarah! Sarah, where are my garden clothes?"

Sarah's voice did not answer; but a younger voice did. "She's gone out," this voice called to him from the sitting room. "She said when you asked to tell you they were in the closet under the stairs, where they always are."

Old Davy was surprised. Sarah had not, for years, failed to be at home when he returned, and to answer him whenever he called and from whatever part of the house. The incident shocked him; he said aloud: "Eh? Who's that?"

"It's Ann Howland," said the voice.

Davy shrank back out of sight. After a moment he asked uncertainly:

"Where'd you say Sarah was?"

"Out," Ann repeated. "But she told me your clothes were in the closet under the stairs."

His life had been routine for so long that this surprising situation startled the old man. He had a beleaguered feeling. This girl making herself at home, down there. . . . He got into his gardening clothes more or less automatically; and he went cautiously down the stairs, not quite sure what he would find waiting for him there. When Ann heard his step, she came out into the hall, and he stopped still, watching her, faintly shaken and uncertain.

She said, quietly, smiling at him: "I wanted to talk to you, Mr. Brewster. Just a few moments. Do you mind?"

"I got to hoe my garden," he told her. "I always hoe my garden in the afternoon." He was looking around the hall, as though expecting to see someone else.

She laughed softly. "Oh, let your garden grow," she urged. "Come in and sit down."

He shook his head, trying to reassure himself by being very stern. "It is not possible, Miss Howland," he told her. "My time is full. I require the exercise, and the garden requires my hoeing."

But when he would have passed he found himself turned aside; he was in the sitting room before quite realizing how it had happened. When he had swung back toward the door, she shook her head. "Don't take yourself and your little affairs so seriously, Mr. Brewster," she urged. "I've really something quite important to talk about with you."

He asked, groping for solid ground: "Where is Sarah?"

"Gone across the street with some junket for Josiah Drake," she told him. "She's going to sit with him a while. He's sick, you know."

The old man's eyes clouded; his brow furrowed "Into the house of that man whom God has laid his stern hand on?" he demanded. "It is impossible!"

"Why, he's just a sick old man," Ann reminded him. "I don't see anything impossible in her wanting to cheer and comfort him."

"He is suffering for his sins. Would she intervene between him and God?"

The girl said, quietly: "Sit down, sir. You pay so much attention to God's commands that I cannot understand why you have overlooked the one which says you shall love your neighbor as yourself. Aunt Sarah has not forgotten it, you see."

It seemed to Old Davy his world was shaking; nevertheless, the zest for controversy, awakened in him by the girl's words, took hold upon him. He did sit down, but when he spoke it was to ask: "What do you want of me?"

She took a chair that faced his, leaned a little forward, resting her elbows on the arms. "This," she said, steadily. "Ted told you this morning that he and I care for each other, and you warned him to have nothing to do with me. Because of my father. You said that my father was profane and a godless man." He lifted one hand in a gesture of protest. "Did you not?" she asked.

He said, slowly: "I said that, and perhaps more. But it was not meant for your ears."

"That doesn't matter," she replied. "It came to my ears, you see. You must have known it would." She challenged him. "Tell me. Why do you call my father an ungodly man?"

He hesitated. "I have no mind to—enter into any controversy with you, child," he said, mildly.

Ann smiled a little. "I know. You would not hurt me. But—I don't mind. Tell me. Why?"

The old man said, heavily: "He taketh the name of the Lord in vain."

"And for that you condemn him?"

"He condemns himself."

"But you say he is a sinner?" she cried; and he nodded, slowly.

"Yes," he said.

She asked: "Did you ever read that it is better to judge not, so that you may not be judged?"

His face twisted with faint mirth. "Something of that nature, perhaps. Your words are new to me."

Ann shook her head, impatiently. "I'm not sure of the words," she cried. "I've never paid much attention to the words in the Bible. Some people think the words are important, but I don't. It's what they mean. It's not the words; it's the spirit, the meaning. Don't you think so?"

"Oh, aye," he said, tolerantly. "No doubt you are right in that."

"Did you ever think that it is the same way with what you call profanity?" she asked. "Did you ever think that swearing is not so much what a person says as what a person means?"

He answered, steadily: "A man should mind his tongue, and command it, and say no more than he means. The light use of God's holy name is sin."

She leaned back a little in her chair, watching him. "The light use of God's name," she repeated, softly. "Mr. Brewster, you use His name a great deal. How can you always be sure you do not use it lightly; how can you always be so sure that you and He agree?"

He said, not arrogantly, but with a decent humility in his eyes: "I have lived a godly life; I believe that He is with His children."

She moved one hand in gesture of appeal. "Forgive me, but—was it not He who took your wife from you? Ted's mother!"

He did not answer for a moment. Then said: "Whom the Lord loveth, He chasteneth."

She caught at that. "But that isn't at all the same thing as 'Whom the Lord chasteneth, He loveth.' Aren't you arguing backward, sir?"

He moved an impatient hand. "You trifle." He would have risen. "I've no time for trifling."

Ann's eyes flamed. "Be still," she cried. "Anger is not an answer to me. Listen. You say my father is profane. Yet all your life you have prayed that God would punish Josiah Drake. You see in his illness now an answer to your prayer. You have asked God to curse him, and asked it in bitterness. 'Oh, God, I belay abed in his sleeping porch:

"He was conscious of life, and a little sad. * * * He beheld, and half-admitted that he beheld, his way of life as incredibly mechanical. Mechanical business—a brisk selling of badly built houses. Mechanical religion—a dry, hard church, shut off from the real life of the streets, inhumanly respectable as a top hat. Mechanical golf and dinner parties and bridge and conversation. Save with Paul Riesling, mechanical friendships—back-slapping and jocular, never daring to essay the test of quietness."

Vergil Gunch, one of the Boosters, sums up Zenith, and all the Gopher Prairies, thus: "Fact is, we're mighty lucky to be living among a bunch of city folks, that recognize artistic things and business-punch equally. We'd feel pretty glum if we got stuck in some Main street burg and tried to wise up the old codgers to the kind of life we're used to here. But, by golly, there's this you got to say for 'em: Every small American town is trying to get population and modern ideals. And darn if a lot of 'em don't put it across! Somebody starts panning a rube crossroads, telling how he was there in 1900 and it consisted of one muddy street, count 'em, one, and 900 human clams. Well, you go back there in 1920, and you find pavements and a swell little hotel and a first-class ladies' ready-to-wear shop—real perfection, in fact! You don't want to just look at what these small towns are, you want to look at what they're aiming to become, and they all got an ambition that in the long run is going to make 'em the finest spots on earth—they all want to be just like Zenith!"

She Was Russia's "Empress of Beauty"
—and her wonder-working beauty secret now is YOURS!

By Georges A. Breon.

IN PARIS they called her "Russia's Empress of Beauty," and well she deserved the title. I cannot say her figure was superb. And, in form and regularity of features, she was not superior to millions of other women—particularly American women. Surprising, too, she was no longer young, as years are counted. Yet, when she passed, men forgot not to stare and women admittedly beautiful failed to conceal their envy.

Such is the irresistible power of a beautiful complexion—and that was her charm. Her complexion was perfect! Neither the horrors of war nor the severities of varying climates had put upon it the slightest flaw. As a pale orchid her skin was tinted. As the rarest silk it was soft and smooth. Withal it had the glow of health and firmness—unmarred by line or flabbiness. And the secret of that wonderful complexion—which, I assure you any woman can possess—was nothing mysterious, although for years it had been guarded carefully by "the Empress." It was vacuum skin cleansing! No, not with any mechanical device, but by a simple method which you, Madame or Mademoiselle, can easily use in the privacy of your own room and with immediate success—a success so amazing you will say: "It is a miracle!"

I was introduced to this beautiful refugee by a friend who, like me, is a chemist. Not ordinarily would this meeting have come about, for she was of the Russian nobility. But, in the Great War and the revolution she had lost family and fortune. So, fleeing to Paris, she found herself, like many others of Russia's aristocracy, without means. Thus finally she was obliged to reveal for money the wonder-working secret to which her beauty was due. It was while she was so negotiating with my friend that I met her.

"How old is she?" he asked as we returned to his laboratories. When I guessed 24 years, he laughed; and since her identity is to remain always a secret, I may tell you with propriety his reply.

"By chance, I know," he said, "that she is thirty-nine. It was because I knew her age that I was willing to pay the large sum she demanded for her beauty method. It seems to be a veritable renewer of youth."

Such, indeed, we found it to be. In hundreds of cases I have seen a single treatment by this method virtually remake a complexion—lifting out blackheads, removing eruptive waste, diminishing wrinkles and enlarged pores, restoring to flabby tissues the delicate graces of youth and leaving the skin like beautifully tinted velvet. So impressed was I by the results of this quick vacuum cleansing treatment that I obtained from my friend the right to prepare for American women the wonderful plastique—for such it is and in this country is known as Breon's Vacuum Plastique.

But I beg you not to confuse this Vacuum Plastique with any cold cream or the so-called "beauty muds" or "clays." It is in every detail a high-grade, refined laboratory product, composed of most expensive ingredients, and contains nothing which can stain, scratch, roughen or otherwise injure the most delicate skin. On the contrary, it is, without exception, the most remarkably soothing of skin treatments—a healer and a cleanser combined. In texture, my Vacuum Plastique is as smooth as cream; in odor, like the flowers; in effect, delightful as well as beneficial, causing a pleasant, pulling sensation—a little tingle so that you actually feel the impurities being drawn from your skin and the fallen or saggy parts lifted back to their proper contour, for the Plastique has a true vacuum action, the greatest of all tissue builders. Apply it just as you would a cold cream, let the vacuum process go on for 20 minutes, or longer if you wish, then remove the Plastique with damp cloths and—behold! you will find the skin as soft, lively and rosy as a child's!

Regardless of the condition of your skin, a single treatment with my Vacuum Plastique will produce results at which you will marvel most happily—a single treatment, which you can complete in 20 to 30 minutes. I am so sure of this that I will bargain with you to send you a large $2 tube of the Plastique on condition that, if satisfactory, it costs you only $1 and that if it fails or disappoints you, it costs you nothing.

Send me no money—merely your name and address on the coupon below, putting a little cross before the name of any conditions you find most troublesome. (This will enable me to fit a treatment to your exact needs.) Your supply of the Plastique—the regular $2 size—enough for several months—will come to you fresh and potent, as I make the Plastique up as needed—fresh every day. When the Vacuum Plastique is delivered, please pay the postman only $1 and postage. Then give this delightful vacuum cleansing method a trial. If the first treatment—the very first treatment—fails to do all I say and to more than delight you—if it is not equal or superior to beauty shop treatments costing $5 to $10 each—simply write me and I will refund your dollar by the first mail.

This special guaranteed, half-price offer is in effect solely to hasten the introduction of the Vacuum Plastique to American women. It may be withdrawn at any time. Therefore I urge you to send the coupon today—not only because you will get a bargain by so doing, but because, if you act now, you can have virtually a new complexion one week from today! Is that not sufficient reason why you should put the coupon into the very next mail? Please address me at my nearest laboratory.

I accept your offer of a guaranteed trial of Breon's Vacuum Plastique. You may send me a regular $2 tube, for which I will pay the postman $1 and postage on delivery, with the understanding that you will refund my money if I find the Vacuum Plastique not as represented. "TOM LAUGHS AT STRIKES"

"For two years, Jane and I had been engaged. However, we held off, 'the happy day' until I received my expected promotion and increased salary at the works."

"Just then business became poor, and it became necessary to close the factory and instead of a promotion, I was LAID OFF."

"I then determined to get a permanent well paid position. So I learned a trade. Jane and I then started to prepare for the wedding, when suddenly I was called out on strike."

"For four months, I had been idle and my bank account had again become practically exhausted, when one day, I read a very interesting advertisement of the Franklin Institute, telling how easy it was to get U. S. Government positions. I immediately took up their system of training and last week received my appointment as Railway Mail Clerk."

"This is a steady job, at last. Strikes or layoffs are unknown in this service. I get $1600 the first year, and steady, sure raise until within five years I will draw $2300 a year."

"The day after getting my appointment, Jane and I, decided on the 12th of next month, as we will now have nothing more to upset our plans. We have the Franklin Institute to thank."

What Tom did, you also can do. Hundreds of young men have taken up the Franklin Institute courses and have been successful. You cannot afford to go on without knowing fully regarding these courses. Just fill in the coupon and mail it today—at once.

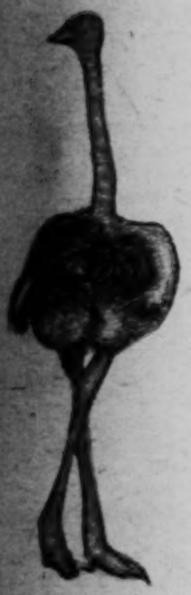
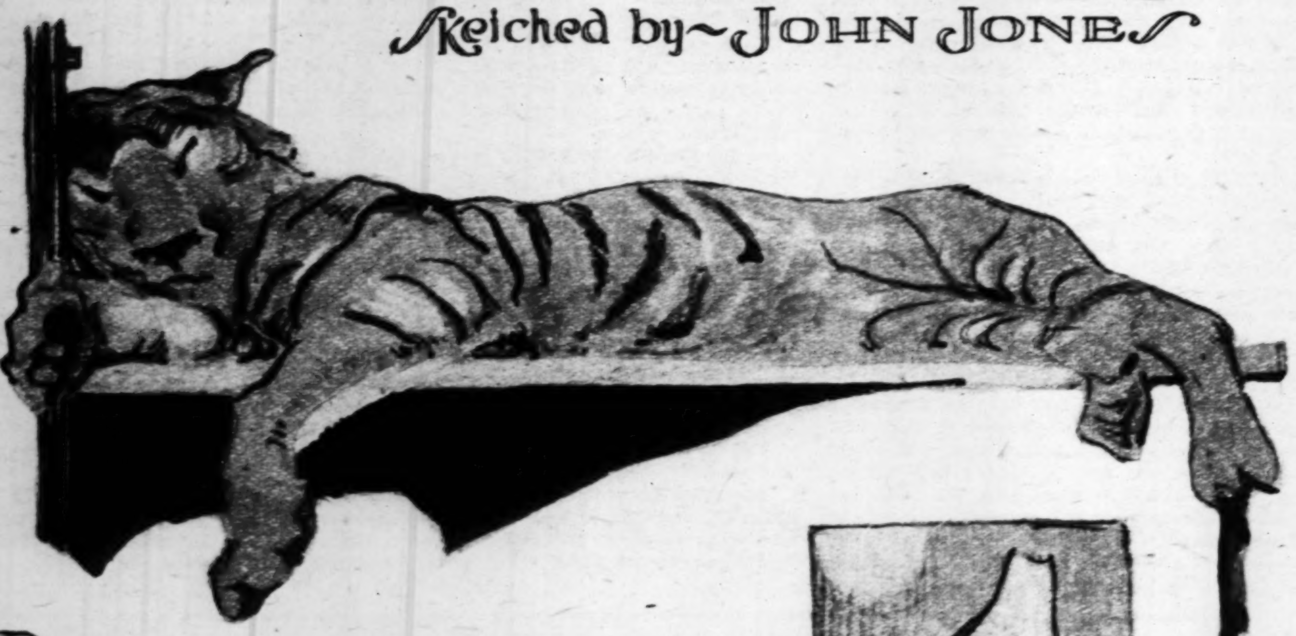
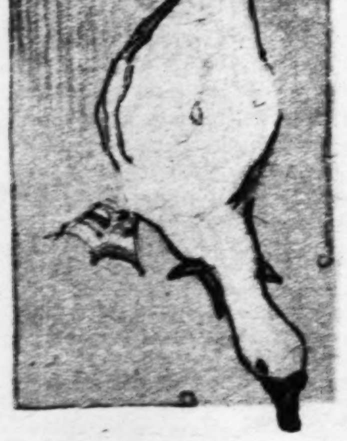
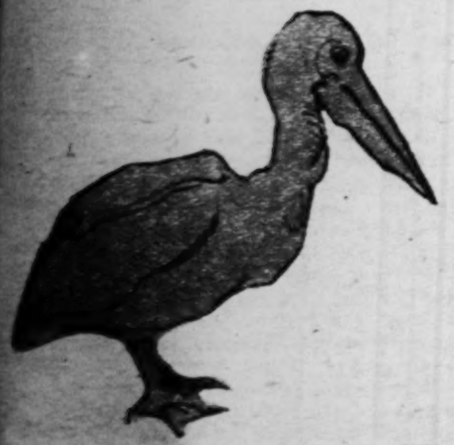
WHO'S WHO AT THE ZOO

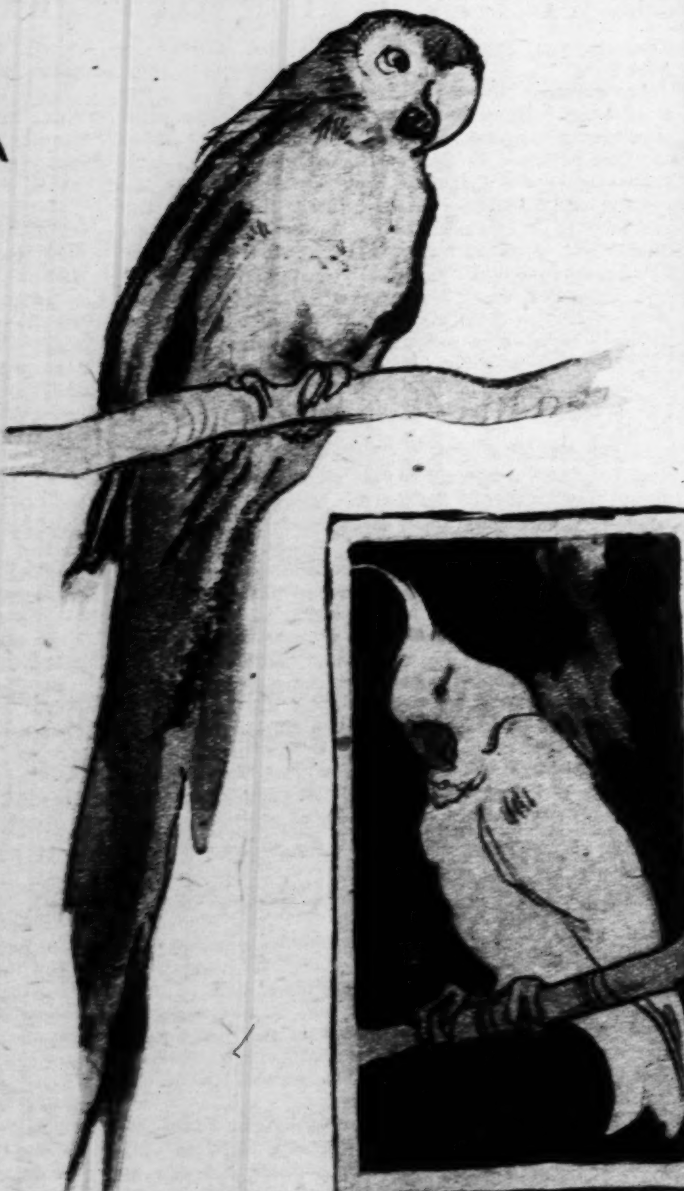
Sketched by—JOHN JONES

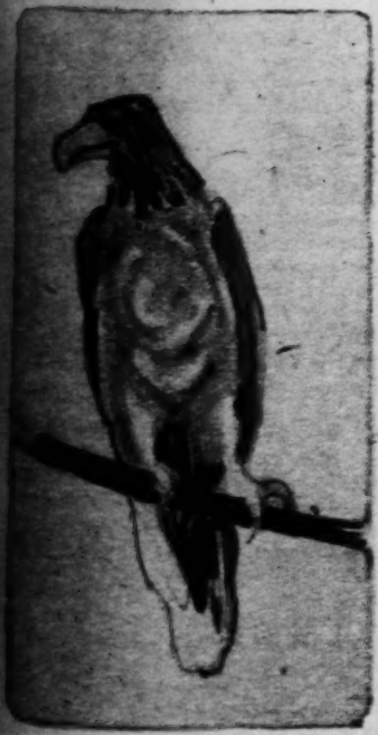


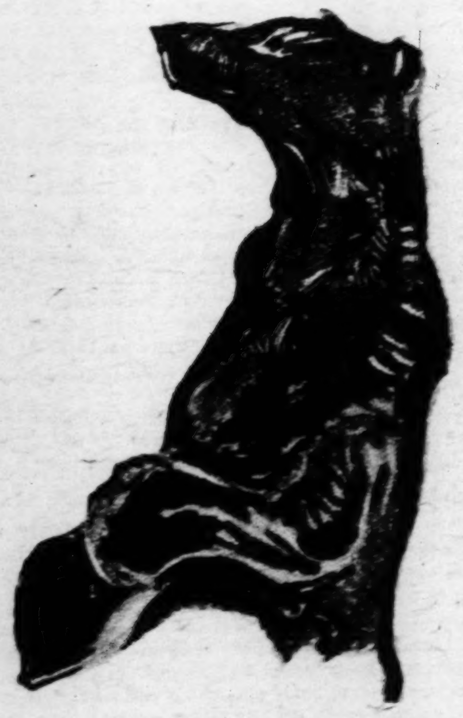












A NAME IN VAIN - -

seech you, damn Josiah Drake,' has been your prayer. Is that not worse than my father's careless word, now and then?"

His anger was quickening; he seemed to tower above her. "Child, you blaspheme," he exclaimed.

"What right have you to say so?" she challenged. "It is God's right to judge blasphemy. I tell you, His name is too much in your mouth, Mr. Brewster. You do use it lightly. When you say, 'God bless you,' it is as truly profane as any word my father says. To take His name in vain is to use it lightly, thoughtlessly, meaninglessly; to use it as a mere manner of speech. And that is what you do, Mr. Brewster."

The old man looked down at her for a moment; and his eyes were very hard and cold. After an instant he turned away, moved toward the door. And at first Ann's heart gave way; she thought that she had lost. Then something like fury seized her, swept her across the room. She blocked his way with outspread arms.

"You shall listen!" she cried.

He stared at her; and words came to her lips in a rushing flood. "You have no right to say my father is a godless man," she told him hotly. "It is true that he is profane. When he is astonished he does say: 'What the hell?' and when he is surprised, he does say: 'I'll be damned!' And when he is provoked, he does say: 'Hell's fire!' And when he is disgusted, he does say: 'Oh, hell!' And when he is determined, he does say: 'By God!' I am not defending him. He doesn't need defending. His words are light, but inside he is clear, and gentle, and friendly, and he does not hate, and he is kind. Why, he has gone to see old Josiah Drake every day for weeks, and cheered him, and comforted him, and yet he has as much right to hate Josiah as you. You call him godless and you call yourself godly. Are you sure you're as godly as you think you are?"

He lifted his hand as though to break in upon her; but she would not be still.

"You're terribly selfish," she accused. "You've made your sister a slave. She doesn't dare have fresh fish because you don't like it; she has to cook your food in the particular way you choose; she must sugar your coffee and your tea just so; she must yield to you in the smallest matters, tending you like a child, giving up her life and everything she wishes to do. Is that a godly manner of life?

"You hate Josiah Drake. You say God's hand is upon him. You take a certain pleasure in that fact. Before he was taken sick you prayed that God would punish him because, long ago, he took a little money from you. You will not comfort him now, will not forgive him. Yet there is a commandment about loving our neighbors, and there is another about forgiving our enemies, and there is another about turning the other cheek. Have you not forgotten them, Mr. Brewster?

"You're a prayerful man!" The words were rushing from her; and the old man had moved a little backward, and had sat down again in his stiff chair, and his eyes were lowered. "You pray five or six times a day. But your prayers are not good prayers. You pray for your own material good; you ask God to make your business succeed. You ask Him to punish your enemies; you give Him a free hand to punish everyone else, but you beg Him not to let suffering or unhappiness come upon you. Is that a godly prayer? You are the just and my father is the unjust. That's what is in your mind. I tell you, Mr. Brewster, you'd be a great deal better playing cribbage with my father than sitting here at home and calling him a sinner. Suppose he is a sinner; shouldn't you labor with him? Give him at least the benefit of such an example of godliness as you think you are. . . ."

She was still for a moment, but he made no move to speak. Her tone had been scorching; she said now, more gently: "I'm not—trying to condemn you, sir. I know you mean to do right. I know you think you live as you should live. You're not a—Pharisee, not a hypocrite. You believe you are right. . . . But please see that you may be wrong. Perhaps God doesn't like you deciding things for Him.

"You use His name so constantly. You sometimes say 'God bless you,' when you simply mean 'Good luck.' You say 'Thank God for that,' when you simply mean 'I'm glad to hear it.' May it not be that God thinks your using His name so is as profane as when my father says: 'By God,' or 'Oh, hell,' or anything?"

Silence again. Old Davy Brewster sat very still. She laughed in a pleading little fashion. "Isn't it as wrong in you to pray for the punishment of Josiah Drake, as for my father, when his feet hurt, to say: "Oh, damn the shoe'?"

He did not lift his eyes. "Please think about it a little, Mr. Brewster," she begged.

But Old Davy seemed not to hear her at all; and Ann, her courage swiftly ebbing now, slipped quietly away.

Her eyes were wet; and she was trembling, and as she crossed over to her own home she whispered:

"He didn't see. He's just—angry. I couldn't make him see it at all. . . ."

Ted had gone to Ann after supper in the evening; he said that Old Davy had been very silent at the table, speaking little; that he had retired, afterward, to his room.

"Did he seem angry?" Ann asked, and Ted shook his head.

"No. No, he seemed—dazed. Somehow unsure of himself." The boy's eyes clouded unhappily. "He's usually so sure. It hurt me to see him that way."

She touched his hand. "I'm sorry, Ted," she whispered.

They were in the sitting room; and Cap'n Howland came in just then from the side porch where he had been smoking. Ted rose at his entrance; Ann said: "Through with your pipe, dad?"

He left the door open behind him as he crossed to the table. "Yes." And he grinned affectionately down at her. "Now I suppose you'll be too busy entertaining this young swab to play cribbage with your old dad, eh?"

She shook her head, smiling with soft eyes. "Never too busy. I'll get the board. . . ."

As she laid it, with the cards, upon the table, Ted asked diffidently: "Can't we—play a three-handed game?"

Then they heard steps upon the porch and a knock upon the screen; and they saw Old Davy standing outside, in the lamplight that flowed through the door.

Cap'n Howland cried out:

"Why, Dave, old man! Come in and set." And he crossed to throw wide the screen.

Old Davy came in, faintly humble and uncertain. What he said was only:

"Let's you and I play this game of cribbage, Cap'n Howland. And—let the children have their hour . . ."

Ted and Ann came back from the bench by the lilacs an hour later, and found the two old men finishing their third game, which Cap'n Howland won triumphantly. "Three in a row, Dave," he cried. "You've lost your cunning, man."

"I'll get it back again," Ted's father promised; and they saw that all was well between him and Cap'n Bill. Ann's arm slid around her father's neck; and Cap'n Bill reached up and caught her hand.

"A da—— A fine thing, Dave, to see your boy and my girl taking to each other. I'm mighty glad, I'll say."

David Brewster nodded soberly. "I've called down God's blessing on them both this night," he replied.

They were all very sober for a moment; and then Ann laughed, in a gay little way, quickly fetched her iron bank from the mantel, and stopped by Old Davy's chair. "We have a penalty in this house, sir," she told him mischievously, "for taking that Name in vain. You'll find it hard to break the habit, though. I'll let you start by paying only a penny for each time. . . ."

They thought he would rise and stalk away, so black his eyes became.

But his countenance softened, he mustered something like a grin, fished a few coins from the pocket of his vest, chose a penny, and dropped it in the slot. Ann abruptly hugged him, stooped to kiss the top of his gray head. And Old Davy's arm slid around her waist. . . .

Domestic Tragedy of Sir Henry Irving Revealed

world Henry Irving was one of the most successful men who ever trod the stage, his finances in 1891 did not permit him to make the monetary settlement which was deemed the minimum for the would-be diplomat. He was drawing huge sums from the public, but spending the greater part upon his theater (the Lyceum, in London)."

Laurence, who was 21, took to the stage to earn money for himself. His brother, H. B., followed suit presently. Laurence Irving appeared as Snug in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," H. B. as Lord Beaufoy in a play called "School." Laurence stuck to the stage, but H. B. vacillated between the boards and the bar. Had he remained a barrister his father's name would have helped him. As an actor, it was a handicap. Everybody was comparing father and son, to son's disadvantage.

H. B. looked so much like his father that nobody could help making the comparison, and plenty of persons expected the youth to do brilliant things forthwith, just because he was Henry's son and looked like Henry. Walter R. Linn of Philadelphia is quoted as defining the situation:

"It was just like interviewing an ancient portrait of Sir Henry Irving. The resemblance between the great English tragedian and his son is startling, in voice and mannerisms, as well as in features. * * * Sons of great men are under a serious handicap in this world. When they are still in knee breeches they are expected to be as smart as their fathers were in their prime. If Ulysses S. Grant Jr. wasn't qualified to thrash Lee before he quit riding velocipedes, he was a failure in the public's estimation. If Robert Lincoln does not make all his legal briefs as thrilling as the Emancipation Proclamation, he is not worthy of Abraham."

The curse of heredity was conquered by H. B., after a struggle. He won almost immediate recognition as a highly talented actor on his own account. However, he returned to the law for a time, after a brief engagement as a tragedian. Also he returned to the writing of his famous "Life of Lord Jeffreys." But presently he was behind the footlights again, making a false start for the second time. He persevered, and at 25 was a pronounced success. He married quite happily, Dorothea Baird, the original "Trilby," being his wife. From role to role, essaying each time more difficult parts, he rose. His creation of Crichton in "The Admirable Crichton" is held to have been his greatest triumph. Many other triumphs followed in the years ahead, both before and after his father's death.

In the spring of 1918 the health of H. B. began to decline. For five months he served in the intelligence department of the British Admiralty, drudging by day and playing at a theater every night. Mr. Brereton, who met him now and then at lunch, writes:

"It was apparent that disease had marked him for its own. Usually abstemious in the pleasures of the table, he ate and drank ravenously and, to my astonishment, smoked a large cigar at each meal with a feverish enjoyment. He was just wasting away."

When the biographer saw him the next summer he was "aged terribly, he was stooping and dejected in appearance, a shocking change from his old, alert self." He died that October. Nervous breakdown, some called it. Physicians were not puzzled, however. H. B. Irving had died of the uncommon complaint known as Hodgkin's disease, a species of anemia of the glands. It was brought on, the doctors said, by overwork—doubling up as a war worker and as an actor.

So H. B., it may be said, was a casualty of the World War. There was a strange thing about his death. Doctors pronounced him dead at 11 o'clock in the morning. His heart continued to beat until 6 that evening, when gradually it stopped.

He was the last of the Irvings. Laurence had perished five years earlier. When the Empress of Ireland was rammed by a Norwegian collier, going down with a loss of 800 lives, Laurence Irving, brilliant actor and dramatist, suddenly ended his career of which far greater things were expected in coming years. Writes Mr. Brereton:

"Husband and wife were clasped in each other's arms and Laurence was kissing his faithful friend and helpmate as the waters of the St. Lawrence closed over his dream."

The death of the elder Irving, the great Sir Henry, was a dramatic thing as described by Mr. Brereton in his life of the actor published some years ago. Irving had just finished playing "Becket," the last words spoken by that character being, "Into Thy hands, O Lord—into Thy hands!" With a member of his company he drove to his hotel in Sheffield, speaking not a word on the way. Arriving at the hotel, he said to his companion: "Give me a chair." He was placed on a cot and died just before midnight.

Sir Henry was buried in Westminster Abbey, in the Poets' Corner. Meanwhile, his wife, the lonely Lady Florence, as for so many years already she had been, was in retirement. She knew about the world-wide grief at her husband's death, but she had no part in the public mourning.

To her, Henry Irving had been dead since 1872.

A Prison School Run by a Convict - -

for which there are no question books and for them problems must be prepared. In addition, there are among the remaining 1600 or more convicts in the penitentiary not enrolled in the school, several hundred who read regularly and the library circulation had to be maintained at a pace now increased by the replenished shelves.

Chaplain Reed's convict assistant answers all these demands. He is "dean of all things" in the school. Like other prisoners, he is out of his cell and at work from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. At the latter hour he joins the lockstep procession with Second D Company to the mess hall, and back to his cell. There the one light is extinguished at 8:45, but the 30-watt bulbs scattered here and there through the corridor burn all night. One of these is near the assistant librarian's cell.

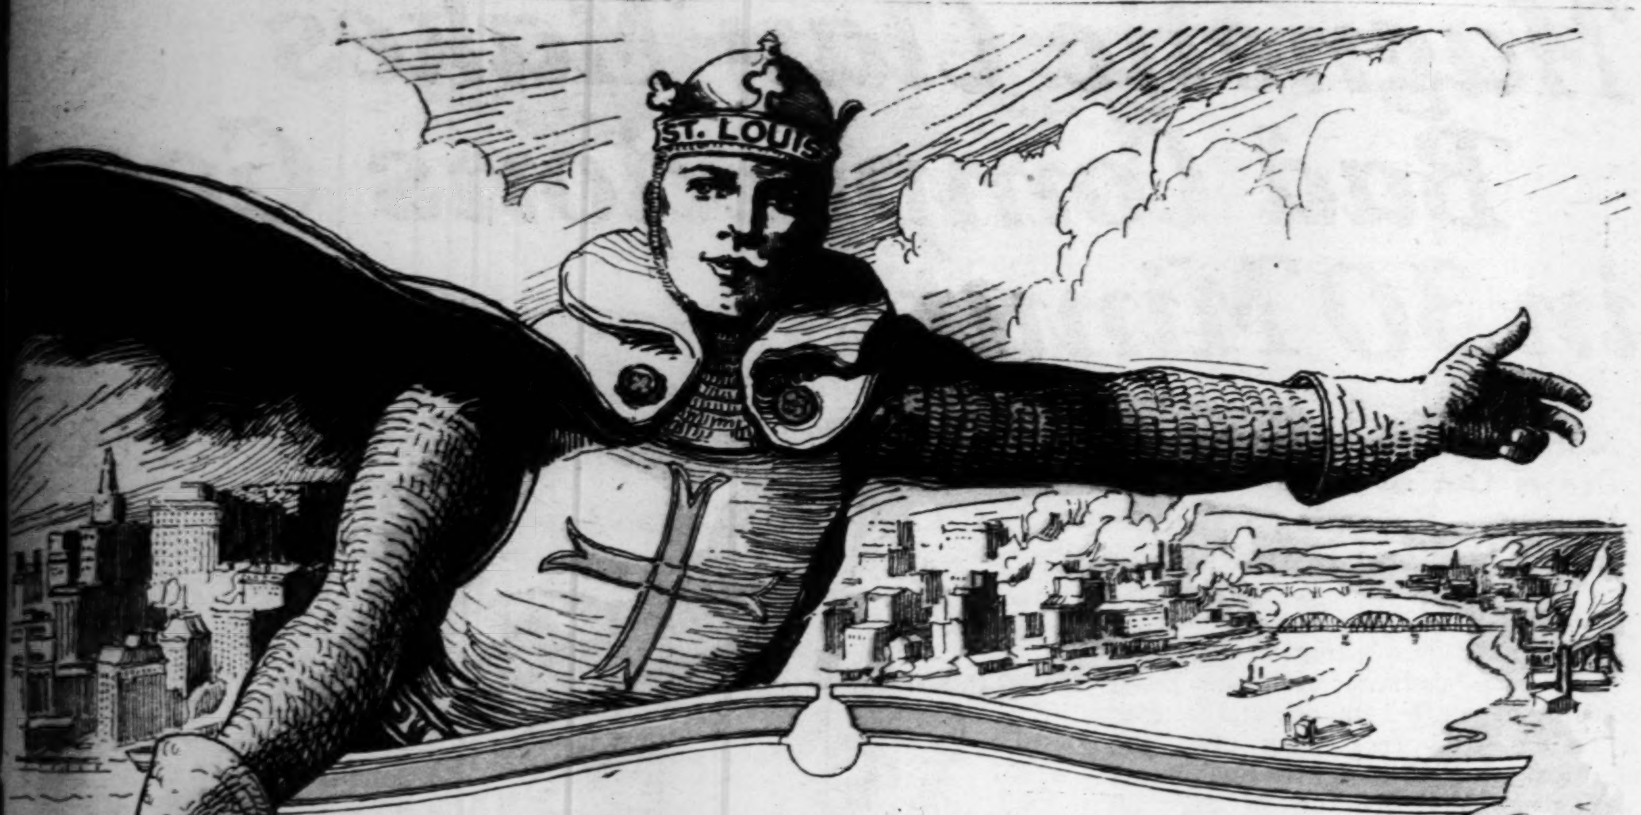
Until his cell light is turned out, Stork passes the evening in grading papers, recording the grades, outlining the next lesson and deciding whether Convict No. 70,900 shows enough "stuff" to continue the course, or, if not, is a basic course needed.

After the cell light no longer burns, he shifts the papers back and forth on the top of a backless chair so the rays of the corridor light shining between the cell bars falls upon the figures and data before him. Usually he retires about 2 a. m.

"The Intra-Wall Correspondence School," as it has been named, according to Warden P. E. Thomas, brings more than one kind of benefit. Since it was started there have been days when no prisoners were brought before him for violation of prison rules. This, he asserts, is unprecedented in the history of the penitentiary, since he became Warden 10 years ago.

The idea has attracted nation-wide attention among prison officials and those interested in prison reforms. Twenty penitentiary and state prison wardens in the United States have written to Warden Thomas for details of the prison school plan.

Stork's sentence is an indeterminate one of from 18 months to 15 years. He is now serving his sixth month.



ST. LOUIS FINANCIAL SERVICE

ST. LOUIS is the natural market place of the Mississippi Valley, South and Southwest. It is the logical financial center of the great St. Louis trade territory. It serves the smaller centers just as these smaller districts serve the local producers. It extends its financial service to relieve the strain on smaller communities due to seasonal demands.

Under modern trade conditions, wherever buyers and sellers meet in numbers to exchange their products, financial facilities are essential unless all transactions are carried on by barter. The powerful force of financial service must be the connecting medium in the exchange of products of the soil for products of industry.

The village, town and city are necessary links in the economic fabric of the country. Without the proper financial facilities the raw materials could not be gathered from the producers in the smaller communities and placed at the disposal of the consumers in the larger centers.

St. Louis financial institutions are always ready to render financial service to the entire St. Louis trade zone during periods of seasonal demands, and offer to the smaller centers facilities for putting to use temporarily idle funds.

During the year 1921 the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis, and the Louisville, Memphis and Little Rock branches, cleared items for out-of-town banks totaling five and one-half billions of dollars. The parent bank in St. Louis cleared items aggregating three and one-half billions. The Louisville branch cleared about one billion dollars for the trade territory of that district. The Memphis and Little Rock branches cleared about one-half billion dollars each.

This tremendous volume of business shows concretely the close relationship that exists between St. Louis as a financial center and the great trade territory in the South and Southwest. This wholesome co-operation between the financial institutions in St. Louis and its trade zone is one of the forces underlying the enormous purchasing power and commercial and industrial success of this vast food-producing area.

We invite you to become better acquainted with St. Louis and its resources. Write for our free illustrated booklet "St. Louis—The Home City." It will interest you.

Marvelous Discovery Instantly Draws Out Every Blemish and Impurity—Revealing a Wonderfully Clear and Beautiful Skin.

HOW would you like an entirely new complexion—a complexion radiant with the fresh coloring of youth—smooth and firm as a child's—and free from even the slightest trace of unsightly blemishes?

You can have it—and in only 30 minutes! Yes, in one short half hour you can have a brand-new, beautiful complexion!

It seems almost unbelievable. Yet in just 30 minutes by your watch, tired lines, enlarged pores, sallowness—all vanish. Blackheads and pimpleheads are lifted right away. Hidden beauty that you never dreamed you possessed is brought to the surface.

How Are These "Miracles" Performed?

The explanation is really very simple. The face contains millions of tiny pores. It is through these pores that impurities are expelled. But when dust, bits of dead skin, and other accumulations clog up these tiny openings, the impurities cannot escape. They remain in the skin—and soon pimples, blackheads, and other embarrassing blemishes make their appearance.

But once you remove the dead scales on the surface—once you remove the blemishes beneath the surface—your complexion is left soft and smooth, tingling with the freshness of youth and beauty. For under the poorest complexion—under the most unsightly skin—there is exquisite beauty!

Up to now it was almost impossible to completely remove these harmful accumulations beneath the skin. Soap and water cleaned only the surface. Massage offered only temporary help, and caused wrinkles.

Now, however, after years of research and experiment, Science has found the one, positive, natural way of relieving clogged pores at once.

Watch the Results!

Certain elements, when scientifically compounded, have been found to possess a wonderful magnetic action. These elements have been blended into a cream-like clay of delicate fragrance. It is applied to the face with the finger tips.

This new discovery is known as Domino Complexion Clay. The minute it is applied, every one of the millions of tiny pores is stirred to life. In a few minutes the clay dries and hardens and there is a cool, tingling sensation as the clay draws out every skin impurity. You will actually feel the tiny pores breathing, relaxing, freeing themselves with relief from the poisons that clogged and stifled them.

Allow Domino Complexion Clay to remain for 30 minutes. You may read or sew, or go about your household duties. All the while you feel the wonderful clay gently absorbing the blemishes. Then soften the clay with a warm towel. As it rolls off every scale of dead skin, every harmful impurity, every blemish, comes with it. A hidden beauty will be revealed. Beneath the old complexion will be disclosed an entirely new one—soft, clear, fresh, with a new smooth texture and glowing youthful bloom.

Reveals the Skin's True Beauty

Domino Complexion Clay is not a cosmetic. It does not cover up blemishes and impurities—but removes them instantly. It cannot harm the most sensitive skin. There is a wonderfully pleasing sensation as the facial pores are relieved of their accumulated poisons and impurities. Not only your friends, but you, yourself, will be amazed when you see the results of the very first treatment. The true beauty of your skin will be brought to the surface, and your face will appear completely rejuvenated.

Not a Test—Read These Letters

Although Domino Complexion Clay is a new discovery, it has already been used successfully by thousands, and the following excerpts from letters are only a few of those we have on file:

I received my jar of Domino Complexion Clay, and I am very much pleased with it. My face was full of blackheads, wrinkles and large pores, and there is a great improvement already. I cannot say enough for it; every woman who has facial troubles ought to give it a trial. It's wonderful.

Mrs. A. B. Scott,
Geneva, New York.

I am perfectly satisfied with your Domino Complexion Clay. It is just wonderful. I wish to be a regular customer; also my friends, as they are so surprised with the results.

Miss Rose Dunaway,
Box 484, Vinton, Va.

Your Domino Complexion Clay is just what I was looking for. My husband has also tried it. We both think it a most wonderful discovery. My friends have been noticing my complexion, and I told them they could have the same.

Mrs. R. Wilson,
542A Hancock St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This most wonderful of icebergs, like a medieval castle, with keep, bastions, crenellated parapet and all, was photographed in the neighborhood of the South Pole by Herbert G. Ponting, F. R. G. Java will make you look younger!

IF the texture of your skin has been affected by constant exposure to wind and sun; if your complexion begins to show tiny unobtrusive lines, suggestions of what may one day be wrinkles, use Bourjois' [pronounced Bourge-wah] Java* Face Powder. When Java is used your skin becomes smooth and soft. There is no sign of enlarged pores or tell-tale lines. Your face has a new, and added beauty, because of the softer, deeper tone in your complexion. Java has made you look younger, naturally, by enhancing the beauty of your face.

ASHES OF ROSES* ROUGE

No woman rouges so successfully as the Parisienne who uses Bourjois' hand-made rouge, Ashes of Roses. It is as exquisite as Java Face Powder, and, when rightly used, as difficult to detect. Both these products are included in the twelve leading preparations found in the Bourjois Cabinet Assortment at progressive dealers. For the woman who prefers a lighter rouge, we suggest Rouge Mandarine.*

Blackheads indicate your cleansing method is wrong

BLACKHEADS indicate that you are not using the right method of cleansing for your type of skin.

A skin specialist would tell you that blackheads are caused by excessive oil collecting dirt in the pores of your skin.

To free your skin from this disfiguring trouble, use this simple treatment:

APPLY hot cloths to the face until the skin is reddened.

Then with a rough washcloth work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly, always with an upward and outward motion.

Rinse with clear, hot water, then with cold—the colder the better. If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice. Dry carefully.

To remove blackheads already formed, substitute a flesh brush for the washcloth. Then protect the fingers with a handkerchief and press out the blackheads.

GET a cake of Woodbury's today and begin this treatment tonight. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks.

Wind and dust coarsen your skin—
how you can protect it

Wind is a great enemy of an unprotected skin. Yet who is going to stay indoors on that account!

Constant exposure makes the skin coarse and reddened—weather beaten and tough. The wind whips the natural moisture out of the skin leaving it rough and dry and its soft natural bloom is entirely lost. If the wind is accompanied by sun or cold or dust—so much the worse.

Do this before you go out: The best possible protection is a cream that your skin absorbs instantly and that acts as an invisible shield against wind and sun or cold. This cream is Pond's Vanishing Cream. Always smooth it on your face before you go out.

This delicate cream gives your skin a smooth velvety surface that makes it look its best at a moment's notice. It holds the powder on wonderfully.

Buy a tube or a jar of this cream at any drug or department store. It cannot clog the pores or promote the growth of hair. The Pond's Extract Co., 131 Hudson Street, New York.

She found again the glow and sparkle of perfect health

Sparkling eyes—vivid coloring—that charm of personality which fairly radiates from a superbly healthy body—

Why do so many women who could possess these natural powers let them slip by?

Health and vigor are normal, not exceptional. Thousands lose them because they neglect the body's two most vital needs:

—Building up the worn-down tissues from day to day.

—Removing daily the poisonous waste.

The fresh, living yeast plant in Fleischmann's Yeast cake contains a natural food—with the very elements which help the body perform these two vital functions.

Like any other plant or vegetable, yeast produces the best results when fresh and "green"—not dried or "killed." Fleischmann's Yeast is the highest grade living yeast—always fresh. It is not a medicine, it is a natural food. It helps to "tone" up the whole system and assures regular daily elimination. Results cannot be expected unless it is eaten regularly.

Everywhere physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast to correct constipation, skin disorders and to restore appetite and digestion.

"And now I never need laxatives"

A business girl writes that the extra work of a busy summer had exhausted her. "I was run down and badly constipated" she says, "and had one boil after another."

For several months she added 2 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to her diet every day, "the boils disappeared after the first week and now I never need laxatives."

EAT FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST FOR HEALTH

Eat two or three cakes a day regularly—plain, or spread on crackers, or mixed with water or milk. If you prefer, get six cakes at a time. They will keep in a cool, dry place for two or three days. Begin at once to know what real health means. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast.

Boys and Girls

"How I earned money"

remember Tom Sawyer?

TOM "had an eye to business," if you'll recall. He made whitewashing a fence look so good that the kids paid him for the privilege of doing his work.

That isn't always the best course, but it showed even at this early age that Tom was a smart lad.

To encourage the basic habits of success, especially earning and saving, this bank will reward the boys and girls of St. Louis for the best article sent in to this bank on "How I Earned Money." Perhaps it was one of the many little duties pictured in this advertisement.

Your story will be judged, first: on the way you earned money; secondly: on what you did with the money; thirdly: on neatness and grammar.

The prizes are as follows:

First Prize	$50.00	Fifth Prize	$10.00
Second Prize	$35.00	Sixth Prize	$ 5.00
Third Prize	$25.00	Seventh Prize	$ 3.00
Fourth Prize	$15.00	Eighth Prize	$ 2.00

Ten Prizes of $1.00 Each

Any child between the ages of 7 and 15 years, in St. Louis and St. Louis County, may enter this contest. Don't write more than 300 words. Write name and address plainly.

The winning ideas will be issued in booklet form. For every story included in this booklet not awarded a prize we will pay $1.00. We'll send you one of these booklets, and we want to send your little friends one. In order to get their names, it is required that you send in with your article the complete names and correct addresses of 25 boys and girls about your own age. No stories accepted without these 25 names. Write names plainly.

Each entry limited to one story. Contest closes October 31st, 1922, at 12 noon.
